Smith's Falls, Ont., Oct. 12—Held for questioning in connection with the death in Almonte yesterday of Cecil Wilson, 27, Ross McGillivray, 28, was remanded a week when he appeared in court here on a trespassing charge. Gillis died in hospital here as result of injuries received when he fell from a Canadian Pacific Railway box car.

McGillivray told police they boarded the box car at Arnprior and as the train neared Almonte an argument developed during which they fell to the ground. McGillivray was not injured, but suffered head injuries and a fractured hip.

"Very Interesting" Photographs of German Positions Brought Back for Study

By JOHN MARTIN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Paris, Oct. 12 (AP)—German patrols battered French outposts from the Moselle to the Rhine today, continuing a series of thrusts reported to have cost the Nazis "hundreds" of casualties in the last three days without gaining "an inch of ground".

French airmen, while told of very hot' action in one unidentified sector during the night, said the latest assaults had been repulsed despite heavy preparation by German artillery.

At no point had the Germans been successful in attempts to take prisoners, according to these reports. The French described their own losses as "slight".

As the fighting increased in scope, with artillery thundering along the 100-mile front, the weather—which has been foggy and rainy—suddenly turned cold.

The French reported their reconnaissance planes had taken some "very interesting" photographs of German positions but said no Nazi planes had attempted to cross the lines since Oct. 10, when one was shot down.

LEVI COURNEYEA TWEED, KILLED

Fell From Scaffold While Working on Construction of Separate School

Tweed, Oct. 12 (Special)—Plunging sixteen feet to a rock pile while working on construction of the new separate school in this town, Levi Courneyea, fifty-year-old carpenter of that village met instant death when he fell to the ground this morning.

Courneyea was assisting in the placing of a beam when it slipped and fell from the scaffold, crashing head first on a pile of rock sixteen feet below.

Drs. George and Doyle were summoned immediately but death was instantaneous from multiple fractures of the skull.

The deceased had been a lifelong resident of Tweed and was a bachelor. Chief of Police Clare Hayes conducted the official investigation of the accident.

ZONING OF APPLE MARKET HELPS ONTARIO GROWERS

Ontario to Supply Quebec Market; N. S. Apples to be Processed

CROP IS NORMAL

With the obtaining of the large Quebec market for Ontario grown apples, prospects for growers of this province are looming much brighter than they did a few weeks ago, Dominion Fruit Inspector C. H. Stevenson stated this morning.

Declaration of zones and an effective quietus on the British market, main outlet for Canadian fruit, the inspector explained, throwing back thousands of barrels of apple on the home market.

Districts of the Dominion are divided into three zones, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick on the east, Quebec and Ontario in the centre and British Columbia in the west as far as the Ontario Boundary. By the ruling, Maritime apples are not allowed to be sold in Ontario and Quebec markets nor is British Columbia fruit allowed to be sold east of the Ontario- Manitoba boundary.

Nova Scotia's great crop, that is usually diverted to the British market, will be canned and dried for war purposes. Ontario's harvest will supply the Quebec market and insofar as that province does not grow sufficient quantity for her own supply.

Referring to the yield locally, Inspector Stevenson stated that the crop is a good one, not as heavy as that of last year, but substantial in the light weather and other conditions affecting the fruit during the growing season.

CONSCRIPTION IS BIG QUESTION IN QUEBEC ELECTION

Duplessis Says Vote for Him is Vote Against Conscription for War

Montreal, Oct. 12—(CP)— Conscription, a predominant question with voters in participation in the Quebec election, lowered today above other campaign issues.

Paul Gouin, the young leader of L'Action Liberale Nationale, warned last night that if his party is victorious in the Oct. 25 elections and any Dominion Government imposes conscription it will mean the end of Confederation so far as Quebec is concerned.

Britain to Co-operate In Keeping War From American Waters

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London Oct. 12 (CP Cable)—The Government introduced legislation in the House of Commons today to stamp out war profiteering in food and every-day commodities.

The main object of the legislation is to control the price of goods which enter the cost of living is not raised more than is justified by the increase in various costs due to the war. It does not apply to exports.

The Board of Trade will be empowered to set prices beyond which no person may sell goods. In general the set prices will be controlled at the prices paid Aug. 1, 1939, plus normal increases due to the war.

Enforcement of the Act will be placed in the hands of a central price regulation committee. Any person guilty to selling goods regulated goods at more than the permitted price will be liable on summary conviction to three months in jail or a fine not exceeding £100 ($435), or both.

Persistent violators could be sent to jail for two years, fined £500, or prevented from carrying on business.

Proverb Expresses German Reaction

Berlin, Oct. 12 (AP)—The first sketch of informed German circles to Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement to the House of Commons today was epitomized in the words:

"Empty statement is neither fish nor flesh."

This German proverb previously had been applied to the reply Premier Daladier of France made earlier this week to the "Peace Speech" delivered by Chancellor Adolf Hitler the Reichstag last Friday.

Mother of Colored Children Provides Funds for Their Keep

By HAROLD FAIR
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 12 (CP)—In vain the billeting officer went from house to house in normally respectable Rickmansworth, Herts, seeking a home for two colored children. But nobody seemed to want them.

"This colored line is unfair," he told himself. "Dashed if I won't take them home myself."

His wife was presented with her little charges. And as she undressed the girl of the pair that night she found an envelope pinned to her petticoat. It was addressed "To the woman who undresses my children tonight, with thanks for looking after them. Mother." Enclosed was £50 (about $240).

The money will be used for the children's food, clothes and schooling.

Just One of Stories.

It is just one of the stories beginning to reach London after the greatest mass migration of women and children in Britain's history—this trek of evacuees from a city that authorities waniped emptied of youngsters because of the fear of air raids.

To grasp the immensity of London's problem, think of taking all the children in Halifax, Saint John, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver to the country.

The solution is a story of humor and pathos. It is a story of how in the great country houses and pleasant cottages Englishmen are really beginning to learn how the "other half" lives.

The story is told of three little Cockney evacuees billeted recently in a Yorkshire House, when their hostess went upstairs to see them safely tucked in bed, there was no sign of them. They were found downstairs surreptitiously eating.

"We always do," they told her, "mum and dad have the bed at home."

Use Masks To Catch Shrimps.

Such are the problems which are protesting that evacuees are using their gas masks to catch shrimps.

Social schemes to keep evacuated mothers from boredom in their strange surroundings are necessary if evacuation is to be a success, declares a report issued today by the Northumberland Education Committee. It suggests gossip centres as one remedy.

The report said children accepted their new surroundings but many of the mothers proved difficult. When they met slight difficulties in the early stages of their country life they took the easiest course and returned home.

"Other reasons for the return of evacuees were that many of the mothers expected full board, lodgings and service and when they found that they had to work a little, they refused and left," the report said.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Weather and ancient warfare! At the present time, scientific knowledge of climate and means for forecasting the weather, enables military leaders to make reliable provision for climatic types and allowances for weather vagaries. In ancient times this was not matters of choice. In the Greco-Persian wars, there were several such instances, as when the Persian fleet at the battle of Salamis, after forcing the Greeks to retire, became confused by their own great numbers which was made worse when a stiff breeze arose accompanied by a heavy rainfall from the Aegean Sea. Thus this much larger by a bear rawell from the Aegean Sea. Thus this much larger by a bear rawell from the Aegean Sea. Thus this much larger by a bear rawell

MOTORIST SUSTAINS FRACTURED ARM

When the automobile in which he was riding turned over into the ditch, James Churchill, Foxboro, sustained a fractured arm early last evening. Churchill was taken to the Belleville General Hospital by friends, where the fracture was subsequently reduced by Dr. A. Walters. Churchill was returning home from employment at the Bata Shoe Company, Frankford, when the accident happened. No other injuries resulted and little damage resulted to the vehicle as it rolled over into the grass-covered ditch, police were today informed.

BARRELS OF APPLES TAKEN FROM ORCHARD

Night raiders continue to terrify farmers in all directions out of Belleville, several robberies have been reported to Provincial Police this week, the latest being the theft of three barrels of choice apples, taken from the orchard of W. G. Maguire, Murray Township, last night. Provincial Constable Wm. McBrien investigated the theft today and was informed that two barrels of Northern Spies and one barrel of McIntosh Reds had been taken. The apples were freshly picked yesterday and the barrels stood left in the orchard for shipment today. Farmers throughout the district surrounding Belleville have reported the wholesale theft of fruit and other farm products of late as night marauders have been pilfering such articles with regularity. The night raiders do not operate in the same section of the countryside on successive-nights, police stated after several reports have been received this week.

BETRAYED BY RENEGADE

Brave Nurse Attended German and Allied Wounded Aiding Latter to Escape to Holland, American Intervention Failed to Save Her Life

Dawn, October 12, 1939. On the Western Front great armies have engaged themselves for a titanic struggle. Once again the German hordes have overrun Belgium in those memorable days a quarter of a century ago, threaten the home country that held them at bay until the British and French forces were regrouped and rushed to its assistance.

Dawn, October 12, 1915, twenty-four years ago this very day, the same sun that is shining down on a war-girded world shone down on another drama, one that sent the civilized world reeling in horror at the callous cruelty of German Kultur.

Belgium was over-run by the Hun hordes that swept in from the west in an effort to cripple and capture the Channel ports. Its beautiful churches lay in ruins. Villages and towns were demolished. The forts at Liege, were masses of smoking debris. Louvain and Namur were shambles. Everywhere the fiendishness of the invader was in evidence.

In Brussels, another grey color was the central circle in a drama that robbed civilization to its very foundations. Even as the sun sent pink shafts over the eastern horizon the tramp of marching feet echoed in a corridor of a German prison in the Belgian capital. A squad of booted helmeted German Infantrymen halted outside a cell. A minute later, a brave heroic figure clad in the uniform of the nurse emerged from the door.

"I Die With No Bitterness"—

On her face there was a smile of peace. Bravely erect she marched between a file of soldiers, her hands crossed in front of her. The sun rising over the prison square. Steady, unflinching, she faced the firing party. "I die with no bitterness in my heart," the nurse murmured. Nearby a booted spurred German conducted the mock with arrogant. A sharp command. The sword flashed down. A volley crashed. And as the first rays of a cold October sun rested in the sky Nurse Edith Cavell, one of Britain's most famous martyrs, crumpled to the ground.

Friends gently picked up the bullet torn body and lay with its hands stretched toward the west. On Nurse Cavell's face remained the beautiful smile that Belgium could not erase.

Will Live Forever.

The story of the brave nurse's martyrdom will live forever on the blazing pages of British heroism.

Born in Norwich in 1866, the daughter of the Rev. F. Cavell, vicar of Swardston, Norfolk, for forty years, Miss Cavell upon graduating from a London hospital, accepted a position as head of a Brussels, Belgium, hospital. Caught in the maelstrom of war during the early days, she refused to leave her post after the German occupation of the Belgian capital.

Following the stand made by the British and French forces in 1915, Baron von Bissing, newly-appointed Governor of Belgium, ordered the evacuation of civilian hospitals in Brussels to make room for the stream of German wounded that flowed in from the World Front.

Nurse Cavell heroically gave of her services to the enemy's wounded. Previous to that she had formed an organization that centered in herself, the Prince Reginald de Croy, Madame Louise Thuillet, M. Baucq, Madame Beckx, Philippe Bon, an adolescent, wounded allied soldiers out of Belgium into Holland.

Betrayed By Renegade.

But like all martyrs, she fell a victim to the treachery of a renegade. One Queien, who became acquainted with the organization's system of assisting the allied wounded out of Brussels to safety as a wounded. French polis, denounced her and the organization.

She was arrested and imprisoned. For weeks she languished in a German prison while the civilized world gasped at the audacity of Hun effrontery. Then came the trial. On October 7, 1915, she was found guilty of espionage, and sentenced to death.

In vain, the world pleaded for her life. The American Ambassador to Brussels, Whitlock, personally asked that her sentence be commuted.

But in the cold grey dawn of Oct. 12, 1915, twenty-four years ago today, volley fire shocked civilization to its very depths, blasted the life from the frail heroic figure that walked its service to mankind in one of the noblest professions in the world, above even life itself.

Britain's Tributes.

Britain did not forget. After the signing of the Armistice on Nov. 11, 1918, the body of Nurse Cavell was exhumed from its grave in Belgium and brought to England.

In historic Westminster Abbey, in one of the most beautiful memorial services ever held in that memorable pile, England paid tribute to its heroine nurse and martyr. Later, the remains of Nurse Cavell were interred in the precincts of Norwich Cathedral, in the city of her birth.

If you should be passing along St. Martin's Lane in London and should notice a war-veteran of the 1914-18 era stop and bring his hand to his forehead in reverent salute, follow his gaz, and you will see the beautiful monument that Britain erected to the sacred memory of a brave girl and heroic nurse who died "with no bitterness in my heart", for the cause of humanity.

FLO NICKERSON COMING TO BELLEVILLE IN PERSON

It's years since an orchestra played in the Capitol Theatre's pit, but the dressing rooms back-stage were filled with giggles, cosmetics and feminine costumes. In short—it's years' since a real first-class musical revue has made use of our stage—or any stage in Belleville, for that matter.

The management is very pleased to announce that it was able to book "Flo Nickerson's" glamorous musical stage presentation, "Hooray for Life" for this coming Sunday midnight week.

Twenty topnotch artists will hold you spellbound in the stitches for a solid hour—not to mention the orchestra with its seven dynamic bands that are radio and dance favorites today—fascinating bubble and fan dancers—comedians—songs—music. It really will be like old times again.

This is a musical revue that you will want to see more than once and which you will urge your friends to see for sure.

COLUMBUS DAY COMMEMORATED BY LOCAL KNIGHTS

MUSICAL PROGRAM

Commemorating Columbus Day, a very successful banquet was held last evening in their rooms by Belleville Council, Knights of Columbus, for members and friends. A large crowd was in attendance and thoroughly enjoyed the excellent entertainment arranged.

Following Grace, a prayer for His Holiness the Pope, and the singing of "God Save the King," a delicious banquet was served. Sodality girls being the very efficient waitresses. The members and their guests were extended a cordial welcome on behalf of the Knights by Grand Knight George A. Lee.

The interesting evening's program included sing songs in which all took part under the leadership of Mr. Harold Barrett.

Delightful Solos

An interesting feature was the presence through the courtesy of the McCarthy Theatre, of Rev. Edward Charles, whose feats of delight of hand and "magic" amazed and delighted his audience.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholsen, V.G., who spoke eloquently on the life of Christopher Columbus.

Vote of Thanks Moved

Mr. A. B. Collins, K.C., moved a vote of thanks to Monsignor for his splendid address.

Mr. Frank Dolan thanked all those who had assisted in making the evening a success. Rev. O. T. Martin, Deseronto, expressed greetings from Very Rev. E. M. Leacy, Napanee, and himself and spoke of the pleasure it gave them to be present at the meeting.

The evening's entertainment was brought to a close by a brief address by Grand Knight Lee and the singing of "O Canada."

ENTHUSIASM SEEN IN 'Y' CAMPAIGN

Enthusiasm was exemplified by the canvassing workers of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. financial campaign when they met for noon-day luncheon at the "Y" today to make their initial report on the results of the first day's canvassing of their five-day effort to raise nearly $5,000.00 to meet the current expenses of the Association. It was taken care of in the general revenue of the "Y".

"The citizens and business men of the community seem to realize the importance of the Y.M.C.A. plays in our city and there has been a ready response, but what is needed are new subscribers towards the project, ones who have never been canvassed before and who today more earnestly than ever realize the great work of the "Y". These are the people who are going to make our campaign a success," assured General Secretary J. R. Shortt in a short luncheon address today.

General Chairman Bert Boyce again outlined the results and also accepted the increased number of subscriptions which are needed in order to "go over the top" with the campaign. "It is up to our campaign workers to interpret to the public just what work the "Y" is doing in this community. There are but a comparative few who know of the immense free service, which the Y.M.C.A. tenders in Belleville. Bring these points out and the public will do the rest," assured General Chairman J. B. Boyce.

Offered Facilities

Nelson Hamilton, Provincial Secretary of Boys' Work Council of the Y.M.C.A., in Canada, announced that the National Council of the "Y" had offered its facilities and trained instructors for the disposal of the Federal Government last September which was accepted by the Government in whatever phase deemed most essential in the present crisis.

"It was only since my recent connection with the Y.M.C.A. that I learned of the splendid work the Y.M.C.A. does, especially among the youth of our community.

The Y.M.C.A. is doing, especially Better Boys For Belleville" is being carried out extensively through our local Association and you can help by subscribing to the campaign without fear of contradiction," added Fred Douglas, who is heading one of the campaign units. Other speakers were H. W. Ackerman, W. Ray, Deacon and C. A. Cameron, M.P.

Supreme Watchman of Shrine Pays Official Visit to City

Officers and Members of Local Shrine Tender Banquet to Distinguished Visitor

TOASTS PROPOSED

The officers and members of Bethlehem Shrine, No. 11, tendered a banquet last evening in the Oddfellows Hall on the occasion of the visit of Mr. R. E. Richmond, Supreme Watchman of the Shepherds, of the Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, the first Canadian to occupy this high office. Mr. Richmond was warmly welcomed by the Shrine, the members expressing glowing tribute to his ability which had won for him this outstanding privilege and brought honor to the Shrine in Canada.

Tables Decorated

The tables were brilliantly decorated, Spanish baskets containing varied fruit, maple leaf favors and orange tapers lent a delightful atmosphere. An excellent menu was served by the Energetic Club of Holloway Street Church.

Many visitors were present from Toronto, Kingston and Oshawa.

Mr. Frank Wessels, presided as toastmaster for the evening in the absence of Mr. J. N. Findlay, Watchman of the Shepherds.

The toast to the King was proposed by Mr. George Adams, P.W.O.S., and all joined in singing the National Anthem.

The Toast to the Supreme Shrine was proposed by Mrs. Irene Black, Worthy High Priestess, response being made by Mr. Richmond.

Toast to Guests

The Toast to the guests was proposed by Mrs. Flossie Smith, P.W.H.P., and it was responded to by Mrs. Mary Holdsworth, presiding Worthy High Priestess of Maple Leaf Shrine, Toronto, and Mr. Archie Sinclair, Deputy of the Supreme Watchman of the Shepherd, Toronto.

The banquet was followed by the regular meeting of the Shrine, during which Mr. Richmond gave an excellent address on the Order. Light refreshments and dancing followed the meeting, Mrs. Jimmy Large presiding at the piano.

Small Potatoes Found Growing On the Vines

The vines are those that were thrown into a heap of ones after the potatoes were dug a short time ago.

Potatoes growing in the garden of George Hall, College Street resident, apparently believe in super-production as not only did they grow plenty of tubers at their roots in the ordinary, but they sprouted tiny potatoes on the vines.

The freak growths have appeared on the stalks approximately six inches above the level of the ground. They are of sizes that range between those of a large pea and a small cherry, are firm and of the white meaty texture of the potato.

From two to six of the strange growths have appeared on each.

TRENTON STATION

The original plan was an elastic, long-range project and has been enlarged without difficulty to meet war needs. Aviation authorities in the capital say it stands to the foresight of the department and the R.C.A.F.

This basic setup, established by the R.C.A.F. after the fashion of the air training plan used by Great Britain, will be the nucleus of the empire training project, it was learned, under which the military pilots from Britain, Australia and New Zealand will receive their intermediate and advanced training in Canada.

Some Training At Home.

The elementary training, such as given Canadian pilots in 23 flying schools scattered over Canada, will be provided in the other empire countries before the airmen come to this country.

The Canadian and Empire schemes has almost limitless possibilities concerning the number of pilots which could be turned out each year, it was stated.

The plan could be geared to produce 4,000 pilots annually without difficulty and could also be extended to place 20,000 or 23,000 pilots in the air forces of the empire every twelve months if they are needed.

The whole training campaign for R.C.A.F. pilots is in full swing at the twenty-two airports where flying club instructors, delegated by the air force, are giving elementary training to young Canadian birdmen during an eight-week period.

Ground training is then provided in which the recruits learn the basic knowledge of handling armaments and then the flyers move to Camp Borden, Ont., for intermediate training. The advanced instruction is given at the Trenton, Ont., air station where after more training, the fliers graduate as full-fledged flying airmen after a total of 22 weeks under R.C.A.F. training.

Vast Expansion.

When the air force delegations from the other empire countries arrive in Canada, the question of locations of the additional airports will be discussed and details settled. It is probable that a vast expansion in air fields and training bases will take place in many parts of the Dominion.

The elementary training at the flying schools will be extended by the R.C.A.F. and then the intermediate and advanced schooling facilities will be increased for the other pilots.

The present quarters at Camp Borden and Trenton will not be able to accommodate the influx of empire pilots expected and the locations of Canada -adaptable to air training will almost excessive and to be considered for setting up additional air stations.

Many sections of Western Ontario are admirably located for such bases as well as the prairies. In fact there are good stretches of flat land in the eastern townships and around Quebec while in New Brunswick the eastern part of the province is believed potential ground for some of the air training bases.

Millions Involved.

This preparation for making Canada the air arsenal of the empire will entail the expenditure of millions of dollars in the Dominion in salaries, land purchase, airport construction, buildings and barracks.

Financial arrangements for the training scheme now are under discussion among the four governments concerned and the division of cost is being debated.

It is expected student airmen coming to Canada from the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand for their intermediate and advanced training will remain on the pay-rolls of their respective governments.

While it is expected the majority of the men trained will serve in the British (Royal) Air Force, Canada will derive indirect economic and other benefits from the scheme. The influence of the scheme on Canadian aviation and Canadian industry probably will project for the near future and endure long after the war ends.

Many Machines Required.

For one thing the Canadian aircraft manufacturing industry is certain to expand to an even greater degree than would be the case under ordinary wartime demand.

Hundreds of aircraft will be required for training purposes. The presence in Canada of large training schools will offer an excellent opportunity for testing new machines and new types of aircraft.

Even if amendments of the United States neutrality law make it possible for Canada and the other governments of the empire to purchase aircraft in the United States conveniences probably will lead additional United States aircraft contracts to open branch factories in Canada. Some Canadian factories are already producing American type aircraft.

The wartime development of the aircraft industry in Canada may well place the Dominion in a position to enter world markets for aircraft on a large scale after the end of hostilities. The plants and the technicians trained for war purposes will remain.

CONSCRIPTION IS

Liberal Leader Adelard Godbout said the Quebec Members of the Dominion Cabinet constituted the strongest body to maintain a united possible resort to conscription.

Mr. Gouin outlined his stand in the Legislature during the debate on the A.L.N. at Montreal. He told the Assembly that he had declared that "we do not intend to resign as Mr. Lapointe (Justice Minister Ernest Lacoste) and Mr. Godbout if the Liberals are defeated."

May End Confederation

"But, once elected, if Ottawa forces Quebec to participate against participation, we shall block the wheels of the State," the Premier asserted, "And, I'll go even further. I am not a separatist. But if conscription is imposed upon us, by whatever government is in power, as well as the Liberal interests will compel us to put an end to the present confederation."

He told his audience "it is your cause we are fighting." He added: "It is not Canada alone that or those who are fighting with me. It is the cause of your children and those that come after them. It is the cause for you to get out of the doldrums."

Mr. Gouin accused the Dominion Government of "contradicting themselves in their declarations on conscription" and Premier Duplessis charged them with the "most shameful hypocrisy" in their attempt to save the party by threatening to send your sons to war if you do not vote for the party."

Threat to Autonomy

Premier Duplessis continued his campaign at St. Johns, a Richelieu county town of 6,000 people, 20 miles southeast of Montreal, where he told a rally that elections had been called "because the province faced a "grave hour" with a threat to its autonomy.

The Union Nationale Leader agreed that delegations representing at Ottawa had expressed opposition to conscription, "but only a few days after the Liberals elected they were opposed to Canada's autonomy and to defending territorial war."

He accused Ottawa of refusing to contribute to Quebec's relief expenditures while at the same time providing other Provinces with the war.

Premier Duplessis said the election is a "fight by a party for Provincial autonomy against a party of ruin and destruction. Quebec was being "starved" for the benefit of other provinces, he claimed.

"The western provinces do not care about us," the Premier said. he said. "Ottawa taxes Quebec in favor of the western provinces which are ready to secede."

Visits Quebec

Liberal Leader Godbout paid his first campaign visit to Quebec City, where he spoke at a rally in favor of Cesar Gagnon, elected in 1936 as a Union Nationale Member but running now as a Liberal.

Declaring that the Province's best rampart against conscription is the Quebec group of Ministers at Ottawa, Mr. Godbout said Mr. Lapointe, Youth Minister J. A. Cardin and Postmaster General C. G. Power had staked their political all on their stand against conscription.

He assured his audience the Province could place full confidence in Prime Minister Mackenzie King's promise that there should be no conscription under the present government, Mr. Godbout remarked that Mr. King had stood with Sir Wilfrid Laurier "so firmly against conscription in the first Great War."

Recent Not Supportable

He said Premier Duplessis' assertion that conscription was a live issue in the provincial campaign and that provincial autonomy was threatened, was insupportable as a reason for calling the election.

There will be no letup today in the campaign. Premier Duplessis will address a rally this afternoon at Ormstown, Mr. Godbout is due to speak at a meeting tonight at Drummondville, a textile centre 80 miles east of Montreal. Mr. Gouin will deliver a broadcast address tonight from Montreal (CBF) over a French network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Gleadow, 39-year-old native of Bristol, was killed by hammer blows on the head earlier yesterday in a small shack after overtaking Flook on a charge of robbing a Bredenbury service station.

On Aug. 27, Constable W. E. Rhodenser died in a southern Saskatchewan gunfight between R.C.M.P. and an Indian, Nelson Sammy, who later was captured as Mr. Crerar's trial for murder. Sammy is alleged to have shot to death three persons at Moose Mountain Indian Reserve near Arcola.

Saw Men Enter Shed

Miss Patricia Flook, sister of Ernest, told police she saw her brother and Constable Gleadow enter a shack behind the Flook house yesterday morning. She said Ernest came out alone a little while later, jumped into the owner's automobile and sped away. In the car were his constable's dog, his rifle and service revolver.

Groups of R.C.M.P. officers patrolled prairie roads in organized search for the fugitive until he was cornered in a bluff near Langenburg, 30 miles north of Esterhazy, Child on to surrender, Flook fired a bullet into his head.

An inquest into Flook's death was held last night. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict that Flook died of a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Inquest Adjourned

An inquest into Gleadow's death opened here yesterday and the coroner's jury decided the constable died from two blows from a hammer which was found in the shack behind the Flook home. Either one of the blows was sufficient to cause death, the jury decided, as both bones were fractured to the brain.

Police said they had found a signed confession by Flook in Gleadow's car, admitting thefts for which Flook was arrested.

Attempt Made to Rob Gourdier Store in Kingston Foiled by Employee

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 12 (CP) — Frightened off by an employee, an armed man fled from the Gourdier Fur Store here in a stolen automobile last night leaving behind a bundle of furs valued at approximately $2,000.

J. R. Marcoux told police he found the door open as he was about to enter the premises and that at the same time a youth carrying a revolver came out of the store and told him it was a hold-up.

"You wouldn't be fooling me," Marcoux said, as the armed man advanced. Marcoux backed up to the street and the man jumped into a car in which sat another youth, also armed with a revolver.

Marcoux found the furs stacked in a bundle inside the store. The bandits entered the store through a rear door.

GERMAN

The capture of the Cap Norte had been hinted in yesterday's remarks by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, in the British House of Commons.

Mr. Churchill related that during the last period from Sept. 24 to Oct. 9, Great Britain had a favorable balance of 7,206 tons of shipping in comparison with the losses with her losses from German submarine attacks.

He explained that Britain had lost 1,890 tons to German submarines and had taken 13,615 tons—the exact figure of the Cap Norte's gross tonnage.

Beyond saying the capture occurred in the South Atlantic, the Press Associations naval correspondents had no details.

The Cape Norte was built at Hamburg in 1922 and was believed to be the first German ship of foodstuffs and petroleum products

May Have Been Raider

Shipping circles at Buenos Aires speculated on the identity of the German raider which sank the 5,561-ton British freighter Clement in the South Atlantic early this month, considered the Cap Norte a possibility.

It was one of half-a-dozen German merchantmen which had left Brazilian and Argentine ports since the end of the time still of were unreported.

Shipping men said the speedy Cap Norte would have served well as a raider if she possessed or obtained armament. The Cap Norte is one of the fastest liners in the South Atlantic today.

When she sailed from Recife, port of Pernambuco, she was heavily laden with fuel and automobiles for the German freighters, both of them also carrying fuel and foodstuffs.

MEMBERS REPORT ON CONVENTION

Delegates to Kiwanis District Meet Speak in High-est Terms of Convention

Belleville Kiwanians received another pleasant surprise when Herb Muir, chairman of the agricultural committee announced to the members at the weekly luncheon on Tuesday that $200 had been cleared from the chicken bingo held previous to Thanksgiving. This amount added to the $100 raised from the carnival will be sufficient to meet the demands of the club for the time being and allow the club to proceed with objectives already mapped out. Mr. Muir in his report will be spent to further the cause of war but other projects of the club will also be taken care of. Herb Muir was voted the thanks of the club for his keen interest in the handling of the bingo project. The member thanked the members for their co-operation and asked all to be on hand on Tuesday night next when the junior farmers will be entertained by the club.

Splendid Report.

Of great interest to the club was the splendid report brought back by the three delegates, Ross Sliver, Ivan Scott and Bruce Lattimer from the district convention at Ottawa. Each member spoke in glowing terms of the great aid it was to attend one of these conventions and from the reports submitted it could be seen the members were strictly on the job during convention hours. Ross Silver was the first delegate to report stating that Bennett Knudsen, International president, was the friendliest of the long great democracies in North America and stated the loyal feeling was first cher cemented by the many peace plaques that had been erected along the border. Ivan Scott told the convention that he had never known a delegate from the west coast until he had seen the Queen of England and Winston Churchill. Silver gave a detailed description of the program on Sunday when the guests were taken to services and later a musicale was held by the Ottawa Kiwanis club which thoroughly enjoyed. He also told of the humorous address given by Dr. D. W. Daniels. Speaking seriously Dr. Daniels said: "If it is necessary to put democracy our boys will have to shoulder to shoulder with yours before the end of the world can start this war, but by the grace of God we'll win this year.

Discussions Disclosed.

Bruce Lattimer spoke on the discussion on "how to raise money for club work" and advanced a number of schemes that may be seriously considered by the Belleville club. Ivan Scott discussed the resolutions passed at the convention agreeing with some and opposing others. He was in full accord with the resolution that members enlisting be kept in good standing both locally and internationally during their term of service but was absolutely opposed to the one dropping boys' and girls' work for the duration of the war. "If we disregard this work we lose our utility especially in this club" said Ivan. "You forget the boy and girl in this country and what will you have to start over again to build another generation." It does not cost much and I am going to fight this resolution with all at my command. Mr. Lattimer praised Kiwanis for its ideal of citizenship and its fellowship and the will of members to work together for the cause of humanity in general. He cited an instance of Cass Loma in Toronto, where the Kiwanis Club took the little elephant and made it a paying proposition. "It is work like that that shows the strength of Kiwanis," said the speaker.

Thomasburg

Thomasburg, Oct. 12.—The October meeting of Christ Church Woman's Auxiliary was held on Friday evening at the home of the president, Miss E. Porter, with a large attendance.

After the business period Mrs. W. C. Meaney gave a very interesting report of the annual meeting of Hastings Deanery held at Bancroft recently. Mrs. J. D. Pearson and Mrs. E. Coulter were in charge of the program.

The meeting was brought to a close with singing of a hymn and general thanksgiving in unison after which the rector led in prayer.

The regular monthly meeting of the Sun Beam Mission Band was held on Saturday afternoon in the Sunday school room. A number of mothers were present and spent the afternoon sewing.

The anniversary services of Thomasburg Methodist church on Sunday, Oct. 8, were a wonderful success. There were about 115 out for the morning service and 180 for the evening. The church was beautifully decorated with fall flowers, vegetables, plants and flowers, as well as fruit, loaned by Mr. Wm. Mc-Clintock, pastor of Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, was the speaker, speaking both morning and evening. The choir rendered special music for the occasion. Rev. H. B. Herringshaw took charge of the service in the Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, on Sunday morning and in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, on Sunday evening. Rev. F. C. Bearer delivered a very impressive Thanksgiving sermon at Christ Church Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Russell Bateman of Queen's University, Kingston, was a holiday week-end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bateman.

FIRE WEEK OBSERVANCE

Canadians this week observe fire prevention.

At no time has prevention been more necessary than today when no nation can afford heavy losses of life and property wealth in fires. It is a time when every citizen must do his bit to reduce the fire menace, for every fire is a loss to the wealth of this nation.

Canada's fire loss is heavy. Last year nearly twenty-six millions of dollars worth of property was damaged or destroyed, which is an increase of three million dollars over the previous year. Of the 44,000 fires in 1938, no fewer than 33,044 were in dwelling houses, the loss being six million dollars. Most lamentable of course is the loss of lives of infinite value, for last year 263 men, women and children died through fires. In some cases entire families were wiped out.

Carelessness accounts for much of the loss in fires. It is criminal. The cigarette is blamed for heavy loss for discarded cigarettes are placed in so many places, on the arms of furniture, on pianos and tables and sometimes they fall on the floor. Attention is called to carelessness in the use of gasoline and other inflammable liquids, which is a source of great loss of property and very often of life.

Loss of property in fire is something which cannot be repaired. At least that much wealth is gone, that much labor is wasted and work to that amount must be replaced.

With the approach of colder weather in the autumn and winter, every care should be taken to have pipes and chimneys cleaned to prevent any possible outbreak.

Firemen are guardians of property and life but are not expected to undertake the whole task of these safeguards. Every citizen is morally required to co-operate with the fire department in making possible the reduction of losses. Cleanliness of premises particularly in sheds and other places where waste materials may be thrown is necessary.

SUPERIORITY OF ROYAL AIR FORCE

It was a little over a year ago that Adolf Hitler told the world that Germany had been constructing a mighty defensive system along the west boundary and on the Rhine.

Today the most intimate facts about this Siegfried line of Germany are known to Britain and France for British airmen have carefully photographed the defences in most intimate detail. Something has been heretofore done to shake the confidence of Germany in her aviators, and to shake her belief in that of defences which have been hewed to the eye of the camera. This composite picture of the entire German front even where it is behind the neutral countries of Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and Switzerland exposes any German attack and defence to the foreknowledge of the Allies.

The strength of the Royal Air Force has been demonstrated in these reconnaissance flights, the superiority of the machines and fliers clearly shown, according to the statement of Air Minister Sir Kingsley Wood. Behind this present strength of Britain in the air is Britain's vast power in gearing up production of planes and training of fliers to make an air navy of overwhelming strength, and of constantly increasing effectiveness.

There has been deep-rooted confidence that Britain's prowess and skill in the air and British workmanship, backed by the support of France, are bound to win by giving that superiority which spells ultimate victory. Wednesday's announcement by the Air Minister increased Britain's confidence and must have been a shock to the Nazis for it was a clear demonstration that Britain is planning for a war to the end of Hitlerism if it takes three years or more. It is proof to Nazis that they have picked a quarrel with a mighty foe, whose strength will for years, if need be, be crescent, not waning as German forces must be.

Germany boasted her air forces in the trying days of 1938 and early 1939, when the world had to listen to Adolf Hitler but nothing has been heard, of that fleet to any extensive degree in the war front actions. True it was used in Poland against the poorly mechanized Poles.

Britain's mighty air fleet in the first four weeks of war covered scores of miles on reconnaissance duty against U-boats and provided escorts for more than 100 convoys. The U-boats immediately dive when they sight an Allied plane and avoid convoys, it is said.

Those leaflet flights over Germany have not been in vain. The R.A.F. in distributing pamphlets scored effect because these sheets have been found on German prisoners despite penalties for possession.

The Air Minister declared the great superiority of British airmen and planes over the German fliers and craft, for by night and day British aviators are vigilant in their surveys over all parts of Germany, even over the defences of the Germans. Almost daily there have been clashes with German aircraft but not the interfority of the German air force personnel and equipment.

SIZING UP HITLER

The fact that Mussolini, a partner in the Rome-Berlin axis, does not think the Hitler peace offer "had substance enough even to be worth offering to Hitler's enemies" in the face of Hitler's statement last week that he had no claims against France, only colonial aims unsupported by force against Britain, no aggressive intentions in the Balkans and a willingness to reconstitute a Polish state and to accept disarmament, leads the Providence Journal to remark, "we must conclude that it is realistic of a statesman who wants peace as no other man in the world wants it, has concluded that what Hitler has said has not been worth the paper it was written on or the air it took to broadcast it."

Hitler's policy may fool Hitler but it cannot deceive Mussolini and other statesmen.

Another American paper, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, says "Hitler is encircled. Germany is at bay. And in this tragic moment of history, the leader of the German people, frightened as he is, so badly misinterprets the temper of the enemies that he shouts his demands from a speaking platform. He drives towards peace with as brutal a touch as he makes war. Yet, on the whole, there is an inner weakness in the Nazi system. The system of a deadly inner incertitude, the germ of a crack-up that may yet avert the horrors of war."

The world must take Hitler as Hitler has demonstrated himself in the past. That is the real Hitler.

Perhaps never has a man who has had such power given into the hands of one man been so suddenly disillusioned as Hitler must be over the march of Russia into the Baltic and the Baltic conquests. Events which followed the war on Poland may well give him reason for pause and possible change of his plans to adjust himself to the results of the situation which has been brought upon Europe.

RELIGION AT STAKE

Individuals are suffering for religion in Europe, but religion cannot be crushed. It is the hope of man, the only hope. All else is but Nazism and Bolshevism. A blow has fallen on Poland, where Catholic Poles fall under the sway of the Nazi Reich and where seven million Roman Catholics and three Million Greek Church Catholics fall under the Soviet.

His Holiness Pope Pius, whose reign as the successor of St. Peter has begun in a time of great adversity and struggle against the forces of irreligion has declared that Poland will rise again and that religion will not be crushed.

NO FAIRER SPOT

I strolled today by the silent shore
Where the autumn leaves were gay,
Their hues subdued by the mellow sun
Of a calm October day;
The lake reflected the perfect blue
Of the over-arching sky,
And on its surface, so firm and true,
A white-winged ship sailed by.

I thought the birds to the South had flown
But lo! in the towering trees
Robins and warblers were met in and out
Through the painted autumn leaves;
But no song was heard from their feathered throats,
The silence reigned supreme,
And in the hush of the golden day
My heart was stirred to dream.

And I thought of the autumn long ago
When we chose this spot as home,
Its beauty and peace thrilled our very souls
No longer we wished to roam;
And the words you spoke came to my mind
As the trees their flags unfurled,
"No fairer spot than this," you said
"In all the whole wide world."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

OCT. 12TH, 1919

It seems almost too good to be true nevertheless it is a fact, Belleville is the home town of the champions of the Ontario Baseball Association. In the final game here before a great crowd of spectators, on a half holiday declared by the Mayor especially for the occasion, the O.V.T.R. team defeated the Harvesters of Hamilton by a score of 5 to 0, a week ago they defeated the same team in Hamilton by a score of 5 to 3. The Harvesters are the champions of Western Ontario. L. Burke of Hamilton was unable to pitch and J. Soloman of Peterboro was put on to pitch in his place. Burke and Soloman and Congratulations are due not only to the team but also to Thomas Fegg, manager of the team, who is a live wire. The music furnished by the band under the direction of Bandmaster Hinchey was much enjoyed.

Bird Life Abundant In Canadian Rockies

Ottawa—The widespread opinion that bird life is negligible in the Rocky Mountains of Canada has no foundation in fact. A field survey made in Banff National Park, Alberta, during the past summer discloses the presence of more than 100 species. Of these, about thirty varieties are typical western birds, and the remainder are found in most part of Canada. Included are song-birds, game birds, birds of brilliant plumage, a few species of waterfowl and birds of prey.

Several bird species found mainly at high altitudes are quite interesting to visitors from other parts of the Dominion, for although in migration they occur at lower levels it is only on the high slopes of the mountains that they are seen in their native haunts. This group, the Golden-crowned Sparrow, Brewer's Sparrow and Townsend's Solitaire are first class songsters, and during the day their musical notes enliven the stillness of alpine forests. Other high-level residents include the American Pipit, Gray-crowned Rosy Finch, and the White-tailed Ptarmigan, as well as the Golden Eagle, monarch of Canadian skies. As he soars at 10,000 foot levels, high over snow-capped peaks and deep canyons, his majestic flight presents an unforgettable sight.

Visitors to the park from the east have the opportunity of making the acquaintance of such well known western birds as the Rufous Hummingbird, which is attracted by bright flowers; Audubon's Warbler, and the American Dipper or Water Ouzel. Barrow's Golden-eye, Swainson's Hawk, and the Harlequin Duck are rarely seen in Eastern Canada, but are a green background of spruce, lodgepole pine, and fir forms an admirable setting for many birds of brilliant plumage. Reading like a Western Hansard, a study in family ties will be found in the Bluebird also are the American and Western Robin, the Mountain and Pine Grosbeak, whose highly coloured feathers vary in shade from pink to deep crimson.

Visitors to the outlying sections of the park may also enjoy the unique experience of hearing the early morning bird chorus broken by the songs of four distinct varieties of Thrush—the Varied, Hermit, Alaska-backed and Gray-cheeked species. Around camp-grounds, particularly at meal time, feathered visitors most often observed are Clark's Crow, three species of Jays, Magpie, Mountain Black capped Gambel's, and Rudsonian — and bold but attractive Canada Jay and "Whisky-jack" of the Canadian woods. Here the observant camper will trail traveller through the woods, and even the bear-cub learns to steal bacon hot out of a frying pan.

Species of game birds also common include the Dusky or Blue Grouse and Franklin's Grouse. The latter, among other kinds often called the "fool hen" on account of its apparent lack of fear, which may be seen along the roads and trails, quite oblivious to the approach of motor car or saddle-pony. Ptarmigan in the park, but native to other parts of Canada, are the Robin, Chipping Sparrow, Junco, Eagle, Mountain Chickadee, Golden-Crowned Kinglet, Water Pipit and many Flycatchers.

Most of these birds are now on their southern migration, bound for warmer climes where they will spend the winter. Early next spring, however, they will make their way northwards once more to their breeding haunts and in these magnificent surroundings again provide a field of entertainment and study for naturalists and lovers of the outdoors.—Canadian Resources Bulletin.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Strenuous Exercise by Trained Athletes Prolongs Life Span.

When an athlete dies at an early age or even before the average span of life the question arises as to whether his athletic life may have affected his heart and caused death.

The records of the life span of the users of Oxford and Cambridge Universities in England for a one hundred year period, 1826 to 1926 were investigated by Drs. P. H. S. Hartley and C. F. Llewellyn. These findings were reported in the British Medical Journal.

The actual deaths during the several periods (from 1829 to 1862, 1863 to 1896 and 1897 to 1926, and 1924 to 1928) are compared with the standard tables (the general average of healthy men of similar ages). In each of the age groups the oarsmen lived longer than the standard groups. Over the whole period (100 years) the life span of the oarsmen was about 20 per cent longer than life expectancy. The non-oarsmen were all healthy men accepted for life insurance.

Of course, there is the point that oarsmen would need to be strong—or physically than the average men to be selected for crews. They need fresh air, and exercise. However, there was one gratifying fact learned from the investigation and that is that while the life span of the oarsmen was longer, the life span of the standard group (not oarsmen) during the same years has been gradually growing longer, so that it now nearly equals that of the oarsmen. This shows that there is now more known about how to keep men with the life span of their fellow students and that is being put into effect. Commenting it with those who would not have the same advantages as the oarsmen, the report says that the Yale oarsmen as compared with their fellow students and the results showed that the life span of the oarsmen was the longer.

The investigators conclude that "strenuous rowing by healthy subjects when combined with adequate training, places no strain on heart or blood-vessels or other organs and does not shorten the life span".

Commemorate Indian Treaties at Orillia

Orillia—Events connected with treaties concluded with the Indians in 1781, 1815, and 1818, which led to the settlement of what is now the Province of Ontario, will be commemorated by the unveiling of a memorial at Couchiching Beach Park, Orillia, on October 15. The memorial, which will take the form of a limestone monument bearing a bronze tablet, has been designed by the Department of Mines and Resources on the recommendation of the Historic Sites and Monuments Boards of Canada. Arrangements for the unveiling ceremony will be in charge of the Parks Board of Orillia, and the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada will be represented by Lieut.-Colonel Colin Gibson, the Ontario member of the Board.

The surrender of the Huron Indians north and west of Lake Simcoe opened the way for the cession of the portion of Ontario. By the treaty of May 22, 1781, the Mississauga Indians relinquished their title and were made available at Lake Huron and a tract of approximately 250,000 acres between Lake Ontario and Lake Simcoe was obtained for a military high road. The settlement purposes in the treaty of November 17, 1815. The third and final treaty, of September 17, 1818, was designed particularly to provide lands for children of U.E.L. loyalists. Many members of the militia who fought in the war of 1812-14 were also entitled officers and discharged soldiers and sailors of the army and navy who desired to settle in the province.

HIGH SCHOOL NAMED

NEW SKYSCRAPER OF ARC

New York's new skyscraper school building is for the Joan of Arc High School for Girls. Nothing is too good to carry the name of Joan of Arc, but a high school named after her old. The peasant girl of Domremy never went to school. She could not read nor write. Any good modern school psychiatrist would have found the Maid of Orleans emotionally unstable and maladjusted. Altogether she would have been a most unconvincing proof that it is quite possible to be a saint, a leader of valor and become a shining figure in history without any book learning.

But no doubt the teachers in the new junior high school will hasten to point out to their children that there are Joan of Arcs in every class, that they are potential saints, martyrs of peace as well as of war and that they, too, are the humblest places.—New York Times.

QUEEN'S BOOK OF RED CROSS

London, Oct. 11—(CP)—A Royal Red Cross book to be sold during the war, was opened by Queen Elizabeth at the Mansion House this afternoon.

As on the occasion of the Golden Jubilee of the Lord Mayor's Red Cross Fund, the Queen's name heads the "Book of the Red Cross," it was announced today.

Nazi War Taxes

By VINCENT HONAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The financial burden of the war hangs more heavily on the German wage-earner than it does on the Canadian and the citizen of Great Britain.

In Germany, before special war taxes were piled on, 20 to 35 per cent of the worker's gross earnings flowed into the Reich treasury for income tax, social insurance, disability fund payments, sick benefit and fees for 'Labor Front' membership.

Since the outbreak of the war a surtax of 50 per cent of the regular income tax has been imposed.

Basic rates of the German income tax schedule have not been published but a revision of two categories, made public last February, shows that at that time a bachelor paid taxes at first rate as 55 per cent of his salary. A married couple, childless after five years, was taxed up to a maximum of 40 per cent on joint income over 1,800 marks (about $750.)

In Canada, where there is an exemption of $660 for single men and $2,000 for childless married couples, a decent war increase has been the last 50c from 40c to 90 per cent surtax on the normal tax payable. The tax is also levied upward from three per cent on income above the exemption. Under this, the unmarried Canadian earning $3,000 a year pays $84 tax. His first $1,000 is exempt. He pays three per cent on the next $1,000 and the exemption and four per cent on the second $1,000, a total of $70. The 20 per cent surtax would raise this to $84.

Great Britain's wartime basic income tax bilkes but in that, is 35 per cent for the remainder of the current fiscal year with exemptions of £100 ($464) for single and £170 ($790) for childless married persons. Next year the tax will be 37 1-2 per cent. Prewar income tax in the United Kingdom was 27 1-2 per cent.

Germany's Extra Taxes

Income taxes are only one of the German's worries. In addition he pays Eigy Mary's Tax, 20 per cent special tax on beer and tobacco, a mark a bottle tax on champagne, and for a sliding tax of from four to 35 per cent of income tax for single-bodied men up to 26 who have not been drafted into the army.

Special war taxes in Great Britain which bilkes but in that, is the street include a two-cent levy on a pint of beer, three cents on a glass of whiskey, about 60 cents on a gallon of wine, two cents a pound on sugar and three cents on each ounce of tobacco.

The general war taxes have increased the price of "hard" liquor by about 40 cents a bottle. Prewar tobacco prices were boosted five cents a pound and cigarette prices 10 cents a package. There is a negligible tax on soft drinks and ice cream. Taxes are levied on materials for manufacturing the products while tea and coffee are taxed a pound apiece, duty of up to 10 cents a pound. Electricity and gas bills are increased by 10 per cent and sales tax, as are canned fish and salted and smoked meats.

Mr. Churchill's Future

In the event of Prime Minister Chamberlain relinquishing office during wartime, Winston S. Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, would be the logical successor. Even those in positions of influence in Canada who have thought his Cabinet could do without him in peace time are coming around to the view that he is the ideal type of war statesman.

Possessed of a dynamic will, he, that Mr. Chamberlain will step out. The resignation of Lord Hoare from the Cabinet in 1916 paved the way for the militant leadership of Mr. Lloyd George. It is quite possible that some similar situation might arise should the present conflict be protracted.

If any changes were made, Mr. Churchill would be the man to succeed Mr. Chamberlain. He has great characteristics in common with present Prime Minister lacks. No one doubts Mr. Chamberlain's ability, sincerity or firmness of purpose. No one can justly criticize his patriotism. At present, it is often been found, however, that Churchill possesses some of these characteristics in abundance.

In the first place, "Winnie" is a master of rhetoric. Probably no man in public life has a better command of the English language than the present Lord of the Admiralty. It is not a cold, objective manner of speech but wherein life and colorful in nature. He can appeal to emotions, as well as to reason. He has a dynamic personality, a rugged determination and a great deal of energy.

If Mr. Chamberlain typifies the solid Victorian virtues that made the British with dogged perseverance and tenacity of purpose, Churchill resembles the British bulldog ground and a fighting spirit. He can hit from the shoulder and often, with a rapidity and force unequalled by any statesman of the day, in the manner in which, as head of the Admiralty, he directed the submarine warfare under convoy, has pleased the people of Britain. He is still strong in him their next Prime Minister.—Windsor Star.

"A King" is Deposed

Lost in the news of more important affairs was the deposition on the other day of Canada's own "king" of the United States. He is Frederick Sloss, said to be a modest and unassuming fellow, and he and his former subjects are not bothered about their former eminence, otherwise known as hobozo.

It all happened at the annual convention of the Rambling Hobo Kings, which met in Regina. The delegates assembled at a place not revealed to consider their common affairs. They passed resolutions reaffirming their conviction that good men should live without the inconvenience of daily labor and that hobos should be entitled to pie, handouts and free transportation. Then they went out and deposed the case of their late and informal monarch King Jeff of First, fast fatty.

Jeff, it seems, was accused of grave transgressions of the code of the Hyperborean Hoboes. He accumulated the others, but when it was charged, and admitted that he had left train four miles from Cincinnati to Dayton his subjects were stupid enough to hobo who paid for a ride was no sovereign for the humble order of the hoboes, barbarians, and the delegates unanimously ousted him from his throne.

Then came a great triumph for Canada's hobo king. Jeff was banished. one J. Leon Lazarowits was chosen the first president of the new republic and all was serene again. A king who reigned but did not govern and who, as pres-ident who, they say, will rule even less than he reigned. He was a firm hand as the first among equals, but he wants to keep his job he will not have railroad tickets.—Ottawa Journal.

That Inner Compass

Some scientists have suspected that birds follow the magnetic currents of the earth, and this theory is borne by these because, despite all obstacles, their flights are almost unerringly from the south to the north. It would seem to be beyond the power of human beings to mark and chart their courses by sight alone and return to the same nests, year after year, season following season. Perhaps birds have some special apparatus for such long distances, as bees seem to have for shorter flights. But it is a fact that they find for their flights. As with the migratory habits of the Canadian, their calendars are almost immutable. Birds have learned to fly faster than the birds, but we are a long way from possessing all the knowledge of navigation.—New York Times.

Says What He Thinks—Pays for it

It needed to be said and a native of Canada now a citizen of the United States said it in a paid advertisement in a California paper. It was a declaration of faith and it read like this:

"For 12 months past we have called Great Britain coward, traitor, dolt, because she didn't declare war. Then she chalked her down a thirdrate power, we pitied her ignorance and we spat her with lavish scorn—too old and dead to fight, too rotten to stand and draws the sword we turn our backs....."

As we said, thought needed to be expressed. If Britain hadn't declared war against Germany when she would have been classed as a coward, as delinquent in her responsibilities to the small nations of the world. Possibly that is why there isn't the same eagerness to give her a helping hand, at least, for many fault finders though the back patters are in-sincere.

The Canadian-born citizen of the United States was right though, to say what he thought was wanted. Individuals were not wanted. Individuals were not wanted Presbyterian minister in Toronto, Sunday afternoon, declared that the people of Britain and Canada were not fighting for individuals but for principles and ideals. Individuals are not wanted. Individuals were not wanted in Poland. Individuals are not wanted in Finland. Individuals are not wanted in the Baltic States. Individuals are not wanted in Germany. Individuals are not wanted in Russia. Individuals are not wanted in Italy. Individuals are not wanted in Japan. Individuals are not wanted in the United States. Individuals are not wanted in Canada. Individuals are not wanted in Britain. Individuals are not wanted in France. Individuals are not wanted in Belgium. Individuals are not wanted in Holland. Individuals are not wanted in Switzerland. Individuals are not wanted in Spain. Individuals are not wanted in Portugal. Individuals are not wanted in Greece. Individuals are not wanted in Turkey. Individuals are not wanted in Egypt. Individuals are not wanted in Australia. Individuals are not wanted in New Zealand. Individuals are not wanted in South Africa. Individuals are not wanted in India. MORE LOAVES— BETTER BREAD— And so Easy to Bake!

WHEN a large gang of men troop in for meals three times a day with big farm appetites...and do this for several weeks, it means a lot of extra baking.

Out on the prairie at Carberry, Manitoba, where this happened, Mrs. Fred Gamble and her daughter proved the wisdom and economy of baking with Robin Hood Flour. "We used a bag of Robin Hood Flour every two weeks," says Mrs. Gamble, "and it made our work much easier besides giving us better bread and more loaves to the bag. The men certainly appreciated the nutritious quality and flavor of our bread for we had a hard time filling them up."

"Robin Hood Flour is so much easier and has much more dependable to work with," confided Mrs. Gamble. "Why, when using Robin Hood Flour, I can mix my dough until it's almost sticky but other flours need that extra sprinkle of flour to get your dough so soft it wouldn't rise properly. Robin Hood just takes up the extra water and expands into more loaves."

Scores of other women agree with Mrs. Gamble on this point and the reason is this: Robin Hood Flour is richer in that bread-making substance called gluten. Because Robin Hood is superior in its quality and quantity of gluten, it absorbs more liquid—bakes more loaves. And, of course, the lightness and flavor of the bread is improved too!

Give Robin Hood a trial in your own baking of bread, cakes and pies and you will be as enthusiastic about it as Mrs. Gamble.

Sincerely,
Evangeline

"REDHEADS ARE LUCKY"

By VERA BROWN

"Oh, Mr. Downey, maybe I shouldn't have talked to them!" "Why not? Don't be silly! Of course, you should. It is nothing. Forget it. Now we'll get back to work. He's probably wild."

Mike went back to work, but the bunkhouse kept up about the counter. Everybody had to come over to wish her happiness. She was weary her head ached. But it was not until two hours later, when she saw her picture staring out at her from the afternoon newspapers that she realized what she had done.

There was Handsome's telegram, stories about her and Handsome. "I've got to get away from here!" she gasped. "I've got to see Mr. Downey."

He came hurrying, surprised at the state in which he found her. "It's awful," she gasped. "I didn't realize—"

Downey tried to quiet her. "Listen, kid, you can't get engaged to a chap like Handsome without all this."

"I didn't realize——"

"You've got to get used to it. It's going on a long time, if he clicks."

"But maybe the club won't like it!" she gasped. "What shall I do?"

"DO?" Downey was beginning to do but wear your ring when Handsome wins two straight games."

"But how did Calliope find out about it? Why did he say such about the two games? I never said any such thing!" Mr. Downey, honestly, I didn't."

"Newspapers have a way of finding out things," Downey answered her speculatively. He wondered if Winn had anything to do with that item in the Calliope column. The old fox! Downey grinned at Mike's distress but he did not mention Winn's probable part in the plot.

During the afternoon hours the people came in just to see the girl Handsome was going to marry. The place was in a turmoil. Later in the day Winn himself dropped in to see Mike. He was quite hysterical.

"Listen, now. Keep you chin up. What is there to be so upset about?"

Mike's eyes were black with tragedy. "It's terrible, Winn. I'm just frantic. What will Mr. Comiskey think?" Wish did not explain that Mr. Comiskey cared even if Handsome won his two games.

"I came in here to invite you to dinner. Don't you worry about a thing."

With took Mike off to Bessimer's when she was through work. She was too tearful to be with him, to ask to him about Handsome. They sat at the same table which she and Handsome always occupied. Winn talked to her quietly.

"We must investigate tonight. Here, what do you want to say?" he asked, pushing a pad of paper blanks out of his pocket.

"I don't know." Mike said wildly. "Why should I write to him at all this?"

But by being in love with Handsome. Come on. Let's say something like this. We want to be friends right away." Wish scribbled for a little.

"How's this?" He passed the blank over to her: "Know you'll win two games. Best of luck and love."

As Mike was reading, three photographers from the morning newspapers arrived. Wish seemed pleased to see them. He had expected them by name when he introduced them to Mike.

"Now get a picture....you having dinner with Wish? Keep a right on holding that telegram. Miss Shannon. Take a pencil in your hand." Thus came instructions from the candid camera pros.

More photographs were taken. The pictures were taken, people began coming to their table. Suddenly Mike was aware Wernell, their manager, was in the crowd.

Wernell set-up," Wish thought with pride. Handsome could not have made a better choice. Mike, Wish patted himself on the back for his part in the whole matter. It would be good for Mike if everything went well. If Handsome did win those two games! It was a natural.

So Mike suddenly found herself the center of considerable interesting romance. It was the June bachelor season. Handsome had apparently caught the imagination of the baseball loving public, and to all that was added to make him news.

There would be pictures of Mike listening to the radio broadcast of Handsome's games. Wish toyed with the idea of flying Mike out to Detroit if Handsome pitched the second game there. Plans that might be dangerous. The excitement might have Handsome off. Mike, of course, could not eat her dinner.

"I'll drive you home," he said promptly. He had wanted to meet her family, and they, to see him, like. This would be a fine opportunity.

They took a cab over to Wish's garage and were soon driving along by through the warm June night. Mike had lapsed into a moody silence.

"Take a little advice from an old fellow, Mike. Don't take all this too seriously. You're going to live from now on in a three ring circus. Make up your mind to it."

"But look at today! I let them think I was engaged to Handsome. I read what was happening!" She burst into tears. "It's horrible, being spread all over the country as sex like that. I'm ashamed to meet people."

"Think how the President must feel? Or the Duke of Windsor? You'll get used to it." But Mike did not believe him.

When they got to the old apartment house in Brooklyn, Mike asked Wish to come in. It was a more or less perfunctory invitation, but to Mike's surprise and consternation, he accepted. Mike led the way. Together the two walked into the common apartment, straight into the arms of more newspaper people and two startled family.

Mike stopped short in the doorway of the crowded apartment. Between them, flash light bulbs were piled around the room. There were heaps of "dead" bulbs over in the corner. The furniture was pushed about. They'd been taking pictures.

She hurried on through into the bedroom. Mumsie.

"Mike, Mike! They took my picture! I look a fright. Mumsie, I'm some and how he buys me chocolate ice cream and sends me postal cards when he's away."

Mike sat down abruptly on the bed. Wish followed them. He was introduced to Mr. and Mrs. Shannon and to Mike's family. Mike's father was in talk to Mike.

"You've got to be a good soldier, Mike. Don't whimper. Don't turn those boys down. You let the Handsome boy take advantage. Remember, it is Handsome's career."

"But I hate it! Oh, Wish, if I could only undo it all!"

"Now go and wash your face, fix your hair. Forward, march. Wish felt sorry for the girl but she had to learn. He would do his part to help Handsome's wife.

Neighbors had begun to arrive in the apartment. Until 1:00 there was no more room. The newspaper boys and girls wanted to see Mike's ring, but at that she rebelled.

"No. Not until the two games are won," she begged. "Not for his approval. He nodded. Then Mike went to bed.

That day left a lasting impression on Mike. She was never to forget it. Handsome's career was a long time before everybody was out of the apartment and her family was there with Wish. The latter thought it was time to speak a word of warning.

"Mike, you must always be kind to Mr. Handsome. You have made Handsome. They can unmake him. He is not a private citizen any longer. He's on his way to being a national hero. Just as he would be careful, remember from now on you're living in the spotlight. You're going to help make Handsome and his career."

"I see that," she said. She said "All this is new. There will come a time when it won't be so pleasant. Handsome is a fine person which you must face. But always remember that you have a duty to being a national hero. Just as he would be careful, remember from now on you're living in the spotlight. You're going to help make Handsome and his career."

"I see that," she said. She said "All this is new. There will come a time when it won't be so pleasant. Handsome is a fine person which you must face. But always remember that you have a duty to being a national hero. Just as he must ever say 'no,' say it firmly but with regret. Handsome's career has to make his living a baseball and all this is part of it. You can make him or break him. Mike—later."

CHAPTER XV

Mike waited most anxiously for Handsome's first letter after the ball season. She was not at all amazed at his nonchalance. It never occurred to him to be upset. She knew that he did not believe that he would pitch the next day. She had the ring on a chain and put it away. And again she made the acquaintance of Wernell, the manager what happened, she would never fail him.

Mike listened to Handsome's first games at the radio in the hotel lobby. The crowd there was dense. She had a chair pulled close and people packed in behind and around her. New York was playing Chicago.

Through the long, hot afternoon, Mike listened, the palms of her hands moist, her nerves seemed in excellent form. His story was fatirly easy. Not like that day at the ballpark.

And her Larry—Handsome himself...had one up on the two games he had to win. Mike heard sports fans the country over. A cheer went up from the crowd around the radio. Mike was smiling as the crowd pressed around her, trying to shake her hand. Then everything stilled about, photographers took pictures of the jubilation, the congratulations. Wish finally rescued Mike and they went up to Mr. Downey's suite to avoid the crowds.

"You better get a wire off to Handsome," Wish said.

Downey could quite get accustomed to such free spending for wires, telephone calls, etc. In a vague way she knew the club was paying for them. But even so, it was a constant surprise.

Mike had written her wire, and Wish had called a boy to send it, when the telephone rang. It was Handsome, calling from Chicago. Her cousin had all been prearranged. When she heard his voice, she could hardly speak, her throat was so choked with emotion.

"Larry, it was splendid today. I'm so proud of you, Larry."

"Good girl! I liked your picture." As Mike started to talk, newspaper people began arriving in the suite. When she realized that, she could think of no words.

"Are you going to insist on two games, or is one enough?"

"Make it two," Mike managed. She held out her hand toward Wish. He took it and held it hard.

"Do you miss me, Skipper?"

"Terribly!" There were so many things she wanted to say, but here before this room full of people she was tongue-tied.

"What do we care?" Handsome laughed. "The rooms full here, too. I'll be home just as soon as I win that second game. If I don't make it, I won't come."

Mike could think of nothing more to say before that interested group of listeners. Finally, Handsome blurted, "Hey, Mike, call me back collect at the hotel at 11 o'clock, New York time. I'll be waiting." So that famous telephone call ended.

Four days later, Handsome won his second ball game with an even more masterly shutout, and sports fans were served with their famous baseball romance, sizzling hot. They loved it. There was Mike's photographs of Mike wearing her famous diamond. Handsome talking to her on the telephone, ad naseum and a Kieran of the Times might have noted.

When the team got into town at 8:00 there was a waiting crowds in Grand Central Station, ready to cheer. The returning hero. His two brilliant victories which helped the New York club along to first place. Handsome had a lawgame margin. But it was not yet paid-season, and fans were "sitting pretty" as Wish put it.

Wish had engaged Crisp to have Mike at the station when the team came in. And he kept his word. There was a crowd early the morning, but the two were waiting. So were some couple of thousand sports fans.

WOOD—STOUT

A quiet, but very pretty wedding was solemnized at Christ's Anglican Church, Gananoque, at 11.30 a.m. on Wednesday, when Miss Kathleen Stout of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Stout and the late Mr. John Stout of County Cork, Ireland, became the bride of Robert Boyd Wood, son of Mrs. Wood and the late Mr. Robert Wood of Halloway. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. N. R. Stout, cousin of the bride.

The church was very nicely decorated with flowers.

The bride looked charming in a white suite of herringbone serge, with blue accessories and a corsage of pink Briarcliffe roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Beulah Stout, who was attired in a yellow tailorskin suit with matching accessories and a corsage of pink Briarcliffe roses.

Mr. Finley McCallum acted as groomsman.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold locket and to the groomsman a gold cigarette case and lighter.

WOODS—SNIDER

A pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock daylight when Miss Marjorie Alma Snider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell, Thurlow, became the bride of Mr. Norton Stanley Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Beatty Woods of Stirling. Rev. D. T. McClintock officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked charming in a gown of Elizabeth blue crepe with silver trimming. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, father and mother of the bride, and Miss Leola Woods, sister of the groom, were witnesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Woods left on a wedding trip to Northern Ontario, the bride travelling in a black wool tailored suit, with matching accessories and red fox fur.

Upon their return they will reside in Fourth Concession of Sidney.

Text of Statement Given by Chamberlain In House of Commons

London, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The text of Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement to the House of Commons today follows:

Last week, in speaking of the announcement about the Russo-German Pact, I observed that it contained a suggestion that some peace proposals were likely to be put forward and I said that if such prove to be the case we should examine them in consultation with the governments of the Dominions and of the French Republic in the light of certain relevant considerations.

Since then the German Chancellor has made his speech and the consultations I referred to have taken place. I must now state the position to His Majesty's Government. Before, however, I inform the House of the results of our examination of the speech I must ask the honorable members to recall for a few moments the background against which his proposals appear.

Actively Engaged

At the end of August His Majesty's Government were actively engaged in correspondence with the German Government on the subject of Poland.

It was evident that the situation was described but we were agreed that it should be possible to arrive at a peaceful solution if all members were not deliberately stimulated and we felt quite certain that the German Government would, if they desired, influence their friends in Danzig in such a way as to lead to about a relaxation of tension and so create conditions favorable to calm and reasonable discussion.

It will be remembered, that in the course of that correspondence the German Chancellor expressed his wish for improved relations between our two countries as soon as the Polish question was settled, to which His Majesty's Government replied that they fully shared the wish but that some further light on the nature and method of settlement with Poland.

We pointed out that a forcible solution would inevitably involve the fulfilment of our obligations to Poland and we begged the German Chancellor to enter into direct discussion with the Polish Government, in which the latter Government would have expressed its willingness to take part.

Efforts in Vain

As we proved above, these efforts on the part of His Majesty's Government to avoid war and the use of force were in vain. In August last the President of the United States made an appeal to Hitler to settle his differences with Poland by pacific means in order to prevent war breaking out in Europe. At about the same time the King of the Belgians, the Queen of the Netherlands, His Holiness the Pope, and Signor Mussolini all tendered their good offices, but equally in vain.

It is evident now that Herr Hitler was determined to make war on Poland and whatever sincerity there may have been in his wish to come to an understanding with Great Britain it was not strong enough to induce him to postpone an attack upon his neighbor.

Violated Polish Frontier.

On Sept. 1 Herr Hitler violated the Polish frontier and invaded Poland, beating down by force of arms and machinery the resistance of the Polish nation and army.

As attested by neutral observers, Polish towns and villages were bombed and shelled into ruins and civilians were slaughtered wholesale in contravention, at any rate in the later stages, of all the understandings of which Herr Hitler now speaks with pride, as though he had fulfilled them.

It is after this wanton act of aggression which has cost so many Polish and German lives, sacrificed to satisfy his own fanaticism on the use of force, that the German Chancellor now puts forward his proposals. If there existed any expectation that in these proposals would be included some attempt to make amend for this grievous crime against humanity, following so soon upon the violation of the rights of the Czecho-Slovak nation, it has been doomed to disappointment.

Covered With Abuse.

The Polish state and its leaders are covered with abuse. What the fate of that part of Poland which Herr Hitler described as the German sphere of interest is to be does not clearly emerge from his speech, but it is evident that he regards it as a matter for the consideration of Germany alone, to be settled solely in accordance with German interests.

The final shaping of his territory and the question of the restoration of a Polish state are, in Herr Hitler's views, problems which cannot be settled by war in the West but exclusively by Russia on the one side and Germany on the other.

We must take it, then, that the proposals which the German Chancellor puts forward for the establishment of what he calls "the certainty of European security" are to be based on recognition of his conquest, and his right to do what he pleases with the conquered.

It would be impossible for Great Britain to accept any such basis without forfeiting her honor and abandoning her claim that international disputes should be settled by discussion and not by force.

Passages Passed Over

The passages in the speech designed to give fresh assurances to Herr Hitler's neighbours I pass over since they will know what value should be attached to them by reference to the similar assurances he has given in the past.

It would be easy to quote sentences from his speeches in 1925, 1926 and 1938 stating in the most definite terms his determination not to annex Austria or conclude an Anschluss with her, not to call upon Czecho-Slovakia and not to make any further territorial claims in Europe after the Sudetenland question had been settled in September 1938.

Nor can we pass over Herr Hitler's radical departure from the long professed principles of his policy and creed, as instanced by the inclusion in the German Reich of many millions of Poles and Czechs despite his repeated professions to the contrary and by the fact that the Soviet Union concluded after his repeated and violent denunciation of Bolshevism.

This repeated disregard of his word and these sudden reversals of policy bring me to the fundamental difficulty in dealing with the wider proposals in the German Chancellor's speech. The plain truth is that, after our past experience, it is no longer possible to rely upon the unsupported word of the present German Government.

Not Trying to Exclude Germany

It is no part of our policy to exclude from her rightful place in Europe a Germany which will live in amity and confidence with other nations. On the contrary, we believe that no effective remedy can be found for the world's ills that does not take account of the just claims and needs of all countries, and whenever the time may come to draw the lines of a new peace settlement, His Majesty's Government would feel that the future would hold little hope unless such a settlement could be reached through the method of discussion and agreement.

It was not therefore with any vindictive purpose that we embarked on war, but simply in defence of freedom. It is not alone the freedom of the small nations that is at stake; there is also the jeopardy the peaceful existence of Great Britain, the Dominions, India, the rest of the British Empire, France, and indeed of all freedom-loving countries.

Whatever may be the issue of the present struggle and in what ever way it may be brought to a conclusion, the world will not be the same world that we have known before.

Looking to the future we can see that deep changes will inevitably have their effect on every field of men's thought and action, and if humanity is to guide aright the new forces that will be in operation all nations will have their part to play.

Must Suffer Loss

His Majesty's Government know all too well that in modern war between great powers the victor and vanquished must alike suffer a cruel loss. But surrender to wrong doing would spell the extinction of all hope and the annihilation of all those values of life which have through centuries been at once the mark and the inspiration of human progress.

We seek no material advantage for ourselves; we desire nothing from the German people which should offend their self-respect. We are not aiming only at victory, but rather looking beyond it to the laying of a foundation of a better international system which will mean that war is not to be the inevitable lot of every succeeding generation.

All Long for Peace

I am certain that all the peoples of Europe, including the people of Germany, long for peace—a peace which will enable them to live their lives without fear and to devote their energies and their gifts to the development of their culture, the pursuit of their ideals and the improvement of their material prosperity.

The peace which we are determined to secure, however, must be a real and settled peace, not an uneasy truce interrupted by constant alarms and repeated threats.

What stands in the way of such a peace? It is the German Government, and the German Government alone, for it is they who by repeated acts of aggression have robbed all Europe of tranquillity and implanted in the hearts of all their neighbors an ever-present sepse of insecurity and fear.

Complete Agreement

I am glad to think that there is complete agreement between the views of His Majesty's government and those of the French Government. Honorable members will have read the speech which was broadcast by M. Daladier last Tuesday. "We have," he said, "taken up arms against aggression; we shall not lay them down until we have sure guarantees of security—a security which cannot be called in question every six months."

Advantage has also been taken of my visit to Paris by the Polish Foreign Minister—whom we have been glad to welcome to this country—to consult with the Polish Government and I am happy to say that we have found entire identity of view to exist between us.

Some Up Attitude

Herr Hitler rejected all suggestions for peace until he had overwhelmed Poland, as he had previously overthrown Czecho-Slovakia. Peace conditions cannot be accepted which begin by condoning aggression.

The proposals in the German Chancellor's speech are vague and uncertain and contain no suggestion for righting the wrongs done to Czecho-Slovakia and to Poland.

Even if Herr Hitler's proposals were more closely defined and contained suggestions to right these wrongs it would still be necessary to be sure what practical means the German Government intend to convince the world that aggression will cease and that the pledge will be kept.

Past experience has shown that no reliance can be placed upon the promises of the present German Government. Accordingly, action—not words alone—must be forthcoming before we, the British peoples, and France, our gallant and trusted ally, would be justified in ceasing to wage war to the utmost of our strength.

Only Germany to Choose

Only when world confidence is restored will it be possible to find—as we would wish to do with the aid of all who show goodwill—solutions of those questions which disturb the world, which stand in the way of disarmament, retard the restoration of trade and prevent the improvement of the well-being of the peoples.

There is thus a primary condition to be satisfied. Only the German Government can fulfil it. If they will not there can as yet be no new or better world order of the kind for which all nations yearn.

The issue is therefore plain. Either the German Government must give convincing proof of the sincerity of their desire for peace by definite acts and by the provision of effective guarantees of their intention to fulfil their undertakings or we must persevere in our duty to the end.

Then disaster fell. On the horizon loomed the figure of City Poundkeeper Thomas Thorne. Now the little fellow, who is a male and wears a black spot on his intelligent white face is in durance vile and if he is not claimed within 24 hours will meet the inevitable fate of all orphan puppies.

New Westminster Adanacs Defeat St. Catharines 11-5 To Win Senior Lacrosse Title

Coast Team Avenges Defeat Suffered Last Year by the Athletics

THREE STRAIGHT

Tied at End of Third Quarter Adanacs Pop in Five Without Reply

New Westminster, B.C. Oct. 12—(CP)—New Westminster Adanacs nailed a year to avenge the trimming they received from St. Catharines Athletics in the 1938 Canadian lacrosse final and when the time came Adanacs took their second of finals in full.

Athletics whipped the New Westminster youngsters in three straight games at Toronto last year and the beating rankled. Adanacs survived the gruelling Pacific Coast schedule again this season, won the British Columbia title and, last night, beat St. Catharines 15-11 to complete a three-game sweep of the Mann Cup final and reverse the 1938 result.

Bringing back to New Westminster the "world series" lacrosse title their intra-city rival, Salmonbellies, won in 1937 and which the Adanacs failed to retain last year against St. Catharines Adanacs fought up from a 1-3 deficit in the first quarter to win with a last-quarter attack that had the easterners baffled.

Still down 4-5, at the end of half-time the Adanacs battled on even terms with the heavier Athletics at 8-8 by the end of the third period. In the final 18 minutes they literally ran St. Catharines into their own goal crease as they popped in five straight goals in the first four minutes without a reply.

A Close Series

Adanacs' victory drive was the climax to the best-of-five series, one of the closest ever seen at the coast, in which Adanacs took the lead when they nosed out 12-10 and 8-8 triumphs in the first games.

If there were individual stars in the final game they were Bill Whittaker and Ed. Johnson in the Athletics' and Adanacs' goals, respectively.

Whittaker, particularly, was brilliant, handling a total of 52 shots and stopped 37 of the whipping drives Adanacs poured at him. An indication of how the overworked goalie performed was seen in the third quarter when Whittaker handled 14 shots to Johnson's four and let only three past him.

St. Catherines scoring was distributed evenly with Frank Madsen, Roy Barnard, Punk Morton, Gus Madsen and Billy Fitzgerald collecting a pair each. Georgie Upthis piste and has never been removed by an opponent, he boastfully stated. The "bemasked gent" is a former world's champion wrestler and last week won the only fall he has suffered in years when Joe Maich, former Canadian amateur champion. Epps wrestled Maich to a draw in Belleville some weeks ago and earned the right to meet "The Mask" here on Friday night.

Rabid wrestling fans are outwardly wishing for the defeat of one Tiger Daniels, of Regina, who is Belleville's hope in the wrestling patrons upon his head in Belleville by his continued toughness and illegal tactics in the ring. Daniels meets a rugged opponent in the local athlete, Mario Tiseo, the Mexican terror. This is a best-of-three bout also.

The preliminary scrap sees two other faces in action, Delaney of Detroit, 170 versus Ernie Sobie, the Italian adonis.

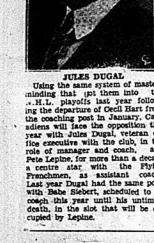
Continuing to meet with the popular favor of the sporting fans of Belleville and environs, three bouts of professional wrestling will be featured at the Hurst Arena on Friday night headed by two main attractions of the best-in-three fall variety.

In the second main bout Rudy Epps, the 210-pound Canadian mat grappler meets "The Mask", a mysterious person who keeps his identity hidden by the use of a mask over his head and face, which is laced

PETE LEPINE



JULES DUGAL

Using the same system of masterminding that got them into the N.H.L. playoffs last year following the departure of Cecil Hart from the coaching post in January, Canadiens will face the opposition this year with Jules Dugal, veteran of nice executive with the club, in the role of manager and coach, and Pete Lepine, for more than a decade a centre star with the Flying Frenchmen, as assistant coach. Last year Dugal had the same post, with Babe Siebert, scheduled to be coach this year until his untimely death, in the slot that will be occupied by Lepine.

Napanee Hockey Players Try Out With Red Wings

Two well-known hockey players, one a native of Belleville and the other who played for the Belleville Bridgens team, are in Detroit today trying out with the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League. They are Wes Walter Geroe Jr. who was born in Belleville, and Ken Murphy who played for the Redmen when Belleville won the first intermediate O.H.A. championship. Both lads are today natives of Napanee, but well known in Belleville for their hockey and baseball efforts.

Last season Murphy was with the McIntyre Hockey Club while Geroe was connected with the Napanee team in the N.O.H.A. Murphy is 22 years of age, while Geroe is 21. Ken Murphy played hockey for Napanee and later for Belleville where he developed into a sterling defenceman. The

Toronto Leafs' "Week-end Hockey Player" Turned Pro For Sake of Ailing Father

By W. M. GLADISH

(Central Press Canadian Writer)

Toronto, Oct. 12.—The story is now out as to why Kenneth McAdam turned professional with Toronto Maple Leafs. You may remember seeing McAdam's name in the papers last January when he signed a "week-end" contract with the Leafs. A defence star with McMaster University at the time, his contract stipulated that he would play week-end games with Syracuse Stars, then the Leafs' farm team in the International league.

His was in his graduation year at McMaster when it became known that he intended to turn to the amateur ranks, much to the surprise of his legion of friends and admirers in Ottawa, his birthplace, Hamilton, Toronto, London, Guelph, Montreal and Kingston where he had competed in amateur hockey, football, basketball and track and field athletics.

But there was a reason behind the scene. His father, Cliff McAdam, an official of the civil service in Ottawa for many years, was lying desperately ill and there was one last chance for his recovery, it was thought. The long illness had proved costly and money was needed for further treatment—hence the decision of Ken to abandon his amateur status. It was a precaution of unselfishness for the young man to make because he was standing at the top of his athletic and academic career but he took the plunge for the sake of his father.

Ken McAdam received a cheque for a substantial amount but he did not get one cent for himself. The whole price for signing the professional contract was forwarded to his Ottawa home as payment for medical services. Money was useless, however, and his father passed away.

Young McAdam carried out his part of the agreement by turning out with the Syracuse Stars. With the death of his parent in spite of all efforts and the sacrifice of the youth, Ken McAdam may not have had the same heart and spirit—thus it is hardly surprising that he has taken a position in Northern Ontario, and plans to remain there. Incidentally, the roster of 28 players available to Coach Dick Irvin for the coming N.H.L. season does not contain the name of Ken McAdam, a recent announcement reveals.

PONTIACS' LINE TO GET BERTH

Three Forwards from M.O. Loop Likely to Perform in Indianapolis

Detroit, Oct. 12 (CP)—Three brilliant products of the Michigan-Ontario Amateur Hockey League likely will see professional hockey this season. Joe Carveth, Les Douglas and Archie Wilder, ace line last year of the Pontiac Phantiacs, are performing brilliantly at the Detroit Red Wings' hockey school.

This line and all-star honors last year in the M-O League, accounting for 60 goals, more than half the team's total. Douglas, top scorer in the league, is from Perth, Ontario. Carveth is from Regina and Wilder is another Saskatchewan boy, coming from Melville.

Adams has pleased with their workmanlike performance last year and this year they probably will work as a unit with one of the Detroit farm clubs, perhaps Indianapolis, a new entry in the International American League.

SUCCESSFUL CLIMAX

While the Yankees were annihilating Cincinnati Reds in the world series, their American League compatriots, Chicago White Sox, were spotting the Cubs a 3-1 lead in games in their city series and then whipping them in seven games, with the veteran Ted Lyons ABOVE, winding up a successful season by posting two of his team's four wins, including the decisive one. Close to his 39th birthday and a hurler for the Sox since 1923, Ted showed the way to his fellow pitchers with 15 victories during the regular season.

FRANKIE FRISCH MAY NOT TRADE MANY PIRATES

Honus Wagner Signs as Coach Under New Manager

WANER MAY GO

325 Batting Average Held as Bait for a Good Trade

Pittsburgh, Oct. 12 (CP)—The punchless Pirates who wandered from second down to sixth place in the National League this year may be in for an overhauling—but their new boss won't admit it.

Frankie Frisch, the erstwhile Fordham flash who succeeds Harold (Pie) Traynor in the driver's seat, came to Pittsburgh yesterday for a three-day discussion with President Bill Benswanger. But all they accomplished the first day was signing the old "Flying Dutchman" Honus Wagner as coach for another year.

He'll keep an eye out for good deals, Frisch admitted, but beyond that statement he's mum on his budge. Rumors that Paul Waner might go to Larry MacPhail's nest on dizzy Brooklyn Dodgers were greeted with a broad smile and the comment "there are no deals" by Benswanger echoed the remark.

Waner, with his brother Lloyd composes the Pirates' perennial brother act in the outfield was a holdout last spring in a salary dispute, finally got his trade blessed them, but "Big Poison" signed up. He got a slow start then ended the season as the National League's fourth ranking hitter, threatening for a time to take over the leadership.

Despite Frisch's denial of any plans for either of the Waners, gossip persisted around the steel city that next year would be the last among the missing at Forbes' field.

The Pirates have taken toll of the throwing arm and at 36 he doesn't cover as much ground as a younger man might. Offsetting that is Paul's power at the plate—the .325 he turned in last season while batting home 43 runs.

His batting might make Waner a high card for the Pirates in any trading deal. They would get better offers now than a year hence.

One thing we never quite could understand about rugby football was the rule governing kickoffs after a touchdown. The rules distinctly say—"The ball will be kicked off at centre by the team against which the try was scored." Actually this always seemed to us to favor the winning team, as it gives the squad to score maximum points possession of the ball again advance on the offensive. Vern DeGeer, sports editor of the Globe and Mail, contends that the rule should make it optional for the team scored against to decide whether they kick off or receive, which we hold would give the less fortunate squad a better chance in case they wish to go on the offensive and receive, instead of kicking off. We have spoken to O.R.F.U. Convener Bill Fry on several occasions regarding the matter and Bill says it has its merits.

Vern DeGeer goes on to say—"As matters now stand under our Canadian rules, the team scored against gets possession of the ball after a touch, and after a fumble in the case of a field goal fully, but has been scored against has the option of kicking off from its 45-yard line.....and, in the case also of a touchdown play, the team scored against is required to kick off the ball right back to the opposition, a rule that is certainly not conducive to sharp procedure on other scoring plays.

Pat Blaker, who learned his place-kicking while playing senior football for the old B.C.I., whooped a perfect 30-yard placement for the winning point after the touchdown in the Toronto Cornwalls Monday. Blaker's meeting aim is pigeon-toed kicking only recently came into prominence, but the kid was always fairly apt at the art. Blaker hitch-hiked to Cobourg, worked out with the "Red Raiders" and is now their regular snap and placement kicker.

First time Johnny McCarthy, Giants' fancy-fielding first-baseman, ever appeared in the league camp he was trying for a first-base job without ever having played that position in a ball game. On the Chicago sandlots, John was a southpaw pitcher. A Brooklyn scout saw him practicing at first base during a pick-up game and, he decided he was a "natural" and thus John got his start.

Manager Norm Barriage, of the Home Arena, informed us that the kid was all right. Montreal wrestling promoters were continuing to bring new and better wrestlers to Belleville was simply because they had been helping in raising the status of the mat game to the highest level ever attained in this city. "If we continue to introduce new faces and these new grapplers continue to please the wrestling patrons the popularity of wrestling will steadily boomed to increase as each card shows an increase over the last one, which is the only way we can be assured that the new circuit is proving successful," said Mr. Barriage. Looking over Friday night's wrestling card we find no less than three new faces and one old favorite returning. The favorite is Joe Malmaison, a Montreal grappler, meets the rough Tiger Daniels, of Regina, who has never been beaten in a Belleville ring. Of course of greatest interest will be the main bout between Rudy Epps, the 218-pound Columbus lad, and "The Mask", ring tactics.

Who says there is no sentiment in sport? Yesterday Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York, appointed Lou Gehrig, former New York baseball first baseman, incapacitated by a form of paralysis, a parole commissioner. The appointment, for a term of slightly more than 10 years, carries a salary of $6,000, less 4 percent five-per cent pay cut. Gehrig leaves a fine player, now being recognized by his native city in a responsible appointment. The commission is a five-man board headed by, the police and correction commissioners, ex officio, who three members appointed by the mayor. "The matter has been under advisement for over four months," the mayor said in making the announcement of appointment.

After the Yankees had handily licked the National League representatives in the current world series, the Cincinnati Reds went on to add insult to injury by taking the Chicago city series from their fellow-townsmen, the Cubs. The series went seven games before a 35-year-old Red Lyons humbled the Cubs in the 7th. Under the new setup, Lyons, Lyons was the only pitcher to either start or win two games in the 1939 Chicago city series, which has been played annually since the Cubs and the White Sox and Chisox fail to make the grade, which they usually do, won the series in 1936. During the years in which the Fake Hose American Leaguers have won 16 times to the Cubs' five victories.

SPORT CHIPS—P. K. Wrigley is having shaking up of the Cubs for 1940 and may even go so far as to replace Gabby Harnett..... Wrigley and his Dizzy Dean can't, but with a salary cut, but we'd imagine he needs to plug up some of those big field holes first and foremost..... Leo Gopor's name was mentioned as a possible when working out with the Guelph Juniors, but nothing came of it..... Arnold (Sluh) Ehlber being on hand when the Guelphites worked out under coach Normie Himes yesterday..... Bonarlaw Bonarlaw—Mr. M. S. Neal was again admitted to Belleville General Hospital on Friday evening last for further treatment and operation. His many friends wish Mr. Neal a speedy recovery.

Visitors to this community over the Thanksgiving holiday included Mrs. Emma McKee of Tyrconle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reid of Windsor, and Miss Leola Pollock of Fenelon Falls.

Car loading has increased considerably at this point during the past few weeks. In addition to livestock, some apples and forty foot pilings have been being loaded.

A pot luck dinner held on Thursday, Oct. 5th in the Sunday School room of St. Mark's Church by the Women's Auxiliary was very successful. There was a splendid attendance and after dinner a quilt was quilted and other work done.

The week night services held in St. Mark's Church on Monday evening since the war was declared are being well attended.

The Argonauts Tuxis Square held their regular meeting on Friday evening in the S. S. room. Carol Heath acted as Pretor. A new member was added and usual routine business attended to.

The candidate, Mr. Jack Haggerty, in a few well chosen words thanked the square for the honor conferred upon him and expressed his pleasure with the work done. Chester Wood acted as pleaist.

Picton

Picton—Three hundred members of "A" Company and Headquarters Company from Trenton arrived here last night. This brought the entire personnel of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment together here. They total over 700, it is understood.

The companies occupy billets in the former Collegiate Institute which has been greatly improved. The semi-commissioned officers occupy a house while Headquarters Company are billeted in the armouries. The officers with occupy Rickarton Castle at a later date.

The men are now ready to begin a period of intense training. Expert marksmanship with rifles on a range near the town.

Training is already being prepared in the Legion Hall and in the upstairs portion of the market building.

The Prince Edward branch of the Canadian Red Cross was organized here last week end. Committees will be organized in Picton, Wellington, Bloomfield and in each of the townships.

Officers elected for the county organization were: President, Angus E. H. McLean; Vice Pres. Reeve H. B. Purtell; Secretary, C. G. Porter; Treasurer, E. L. Brunskill; Hon. President, Senator H. H.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, don't neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. For quick relief from the painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be started at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hemmex and use as directed This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemmex is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and is sold on the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

Three-Car Accident.

Believed to have fallen asleep at the wheel while driving along the highway on the eastern outskirts of Trenton, Robert Broomfield of Lakefront was in charge of a car that crashed head on with a motor vehicle operated by Ira Burd of Wellington, a third car driven by Wilfred Lamoire of Trenton smashed into the rear of the Broomfield machine and both cars were put in the ditch. Result was that the cars were badly damaged while the occupants escaped. Police said the accident occurred when the Broomfield car locked wheels with the approaching vehicles coming from the east. The Lamoire car became involved when it couldn't stop behind the Broomfield car. Traffic Officer Harry Caldwell investigated.

Delayed Reaction Causes Concern To German Press

Informed Germans Find Prospect for Early Peace Less Bright

By ALVIN STEINKOPF
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Berlin, Oct. 11 (AP)—Informed Germans acknowledged today that prospects for an early end to hostilities "would not be so bright" if Prime Minister Chamberlain supports Premier Daladier's rejection of Adolf Hitler's conditional peace proposals.

Mr. Chamberlain speaks before the House of Commons tomorrow. Daladier broadcast his message yesterday and summarizations of it were printed in the morning newspapers.

(Daladier declared France and Great Britain would "continue to fight" until Germany gave definite guarantees of security for a "lasting peace in Europe.")

Many Germans regarded the speech, as "something less than satisfactory" but hastily added that there had been no official comment.

A clear watch was being kept on British political developments prior to Mr. Chamberlain's speech and in some quarters it was thought the Dominions were playing an important part in the formulation of policies. The German press remphasized the continued conferences with representatives of the Dominions, expressing belief they were not enthusiastic about the war.

Delayed reaction to Hitler's proposals apparently was causing concern. One editor wrote that "four days ought to be enough" for some sign of "appreciation for Hitler's efforts to establish a lasting peace."

German impatience, observers said, was attributable partly to false hopes aroused by rumors which flew through Germany yesterday that the western powers were seeking an armistice.

New Stainless Steel Processes Make it Proof to Corrosion

New York, Oct. 11—(AP)—Steel that will fàxt forever in all kinds of weather, a major goal of science, became a possibility with the announcement by the Chemical Foundation of discovery of five new processes for making stainless steel impervious to all known natural corrosion.

These discoveries change not only the surface but the depths of the metal. One of them renders the steel as lustrous as precious metals so that it can be made into jewelry.

All discoveries were made at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology by four men—Herbert Henry Uhlig, John C. Wulff, Albert L. Kaye and Robert S. Williams. They assigned their patents to the Chemical Foundation, a non-profit corporation organized by the late Francis Patrick Garvan to take over German Great War patents.

Stainless steel has been vulnerable to two kinds of corrosion. In one, pit corrosion, rust forms in scattered spots and digs little isolated wells. It can honeycomb and ruin the metal. It occurs mainly in contact with salt water. The other, intercrystalline corrosion, has not caused much trouble.

The technology metallurgists discovered the source of the pits in microscopic points, cracks and other imperfections on the surface of apparently smooth steel. These rough places were particularly apparent after stainless was cold-worked.

They discovered two healing methods, a chemical bath and a rolling treatment which would smooth this surface to almost mathematical perfection and stop pit corrosion. They also discovered that alloying stainless steel with molybdenum or silver would stop corrosion. The "silver steel" discovery was announced several months ago. Most of these methods can be used on steel at any stage of its fabrication, and in some cases on steel already in use.

TRENTON

Trenton Company of Regiment Moves to Picton Armouries

TRAIN AT PICTON

Trenton, Oct. 11 (Special) — A special train made up of seven coaches and headed for Picton pulled out of Trenton last night carrying close to 350 volunteers of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, who have been in training at the Armoury here for the past six weeks. The announcement of the move came following the O.C.'s visit to Trenton last Friday. Four or five hundred people were at the downtown C.N.R. station to see the soldier boys off and the large crowd waited for over an hour before the troops headed by the Royal Canadian Air Force band marched to the station and took their places beside the train. The parade had left the Armory and progressed through the centre of the town to the station. Wives, babes in arms and relatives, some weeping, most of them decidedly solemn, were given a chance to say good-bye to their men before the train pulled away. The farewell ceremony had all the ear-marks of a nation at war and even the toughest newspaperman felt a lump come up in his throat when a life-long associate mounted the steps to a coach and disappeared inside. The feeling couldn't have been much worse had the train actually been headed straight for the battle front. Among those on hand when the troops departed were Major and Mrs. H. R. Cory, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ireland, Mrs. H. D. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. James Redden, Chief Constable William Bain and many other townspeople. As the train moved slowly away from the platform a rousing cheer went up and the soldiers replied again and again until the last coach was swallowed up by the darkness.

Hastings and Prince Edward News.

The Trenton branch of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment—Headquarters Company and "A" Company—has been moved to Picton for the remainder of training before embarking with the first division for overseas duty. An official count showed that recruiting here had brought nearly 250 volunteers to the colors. Reg. Montgomery, a veteran of the last world war and a member of the Trenton branch of the Canadian Legion has rejoined the militia to become a Quartermaster Sergeant of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Sergt. Montgomery has been employed as ticket taker and janitor of the Trent Theatre for the past ten years. He leaves at home in Trenton a wife and two children. Sergt. John Reid has been moved from "A" Company Stores to duty on the desk. Instructors Clapp, Duffy and Towns have returned from Kingston where they have been tutored in physical train-

Weight steers ranged from $6-$7.25 and butcher steers and heifers sold mostly at $7.35-$8.75. Butcher cows sold from $3.75-$5.50 and canners and cutters from $2-$3.50. Bulls were $4.25-$5.25 and fed steers traded at $6-$8.50. Stockers sold generally at $5-$6.50.

Choice veal calves were $10-$10.50. Common calves were sold downward to $6 and grassers brought $5.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY OF HOSPITAL TO HOLD TAG DAY SATURDAY

Saturday will be Tag Day for the Belleville General Hospital when the members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary hope to add to the funds derived from the domestic hospital needs. In the eighteen months of organization, this enthusiastic group has already furnished a waiting room, completely equipped, a semi-private composition in-laid floor. Bedside lamps and footstools have been supplied, utility rooms and indigent patients given Christmas gifts. Six hundred dollars was expended in all, and three hundred dollars has been set aside for furnishing a room in the new wing under construction.

The appointment of the Tag Day will be devoted to the present project of the Auxiliary, the purchase of a $1,500 movable X-ray machine, greatly needed at the Hospital.

Citizens are asked to give generously during Saturday's appeal and by their support encourage the work of the Hospital Auxiliary whose activities fill an urgent need, with even greater demands being expected during war time conditions.

Light Offerings Aid Butter Prices

Toronto, Oct. 12. — Revived demand and light offerings combined to impart a firmer undertone to the Toronto butter market. There was no buying rush, but a healthy flow of orders kept prices clearing steadily without difficulty. The report from Ottawa, Tuesday, showing a drop of 7.8 million pounds in stocks and 1.9 million pounds in Canadian production served as a bullish background to the market. Yesterday, first grade creamery and large grade churning cream ranged at 28c to 29c, country truck prices.

Good demand prevailed for the small volume of receipts on the egg market and prices on top grades worked to per dozen higher in all quarters, while grade C advanced a similar figure in the ungraded and small dividend of the market. The volume of pullet eggs is showing an increase now, it was reported.

MOSCOW

Russia's virtual "protectorate" over Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania and Germany's domination of Poland put her in strong position to resist any possible British-German advance on the Soviet's Baltic flank—strengthening the belief in Moscow foreign circles that Germany had paid a high price for her non-aggression pact with Russia, Reuters said.

A Latvian trade delegation was expected in Moscow today to supplement the recent mutual assistance pact with an economic agreement. Soviet trade experts continued commercial negotiations with German representatives.

Delegation Leaves.

The Lithuanian delegation, having concluded a pact calling for mutual military assistance and returning to Lithuania Vilna's region of Memel to Lithuania, left for home last night.

Negotiations with a Turkish delegation (apparently connected with Russian desires for a hand in control of the Dardanelles) were still at a standstill.

Tass, Russian News Agency, announced that Russia's industrial output for the first nine months of this year amounted to $7,947,600,000 rubles (about $15,500,000,000)—a 12 per cent increase over the corresponding period last year.

The output of the machine-building and defence industries was announced as 20,554,400,000 rubles (about $4,100,000,000)—an increase of 39 per cent. The defence industries include aviation, armament, munitions and shipbuilding.

ELDERLY TRENTON MAN CYCLES INTO BELLEVILLE

Mr. Stuart Hoover, perennial cyclist of Trenton, who has been "sitting down and talking" on a bike for a large portion of his 70 years, celebrated his eighty-third birthday yesterday by pedalling his way from his native town to this city.

Mr. Hoover, who considers riding from his farm-side jaunt on his favorite mode of transportation, is in good health, he says, and expects to live a number of years enjoying life aboard his metal steed.

Born in Cobourg, he has cycled his way around the district, practically all his life and still derives great enjoyment from the exercise.

PRIME MINSTER

there's no reason why we cannot be friends."

There was "complete agreement" between Britain and France on the unacceptability of Hitler's armistice terms, the Prime Minister emphasized. Augusto Zaleski, the Polish Foreign Minister now in London, had been consulted, he said, "and I am happy to say we have found an entire identity of view to exist between us."

Mr. Chamberlain's reference to Czecho-Slovakia and Poland in the same category as Poland was because "it was the German argument because it was the first time Britain had hinted that the Czech Republic was to be considered in any peace terms.

It was Mr. Chamberlain's first speech since Hitler's address last Friday in which the peace overtures were made.

Thoroughly Examined

He stressed that Britain's proposals were examined by Britain "in consultation with the Governments of the Dominions and of the French Republic."

The plain truth is that, after our past experience, it is no longer possible to rely upon the unsupported word of the present German Government," Mr. Chamberlain declared.

He told the Commons that "Acts not words alone—must be forthcoming before we and France would be justified in ceasing the war" to the "utmost of our strength."

"Either the German Government must give convincing proof of the sincerity of their desire for peace by definite acts and by the provision of effective guarantees of their intention to fulfil their undertakings or we must persevere in our duty to the end. It is for Germany to make her choice.

Entitles Summed Up.

Mr. Chamberlain summed up the attitude of the British government in these words:

"Herr Hitler rejected all suggestions for peace until he had overwhelmed Poland, as he had previously overthrown Czecho-Slovakia. Peace conditions cannot be acceptable which begin by condoning aggression."

The prime minister added the proposals in Hitler's Reichstag speech last Friday were vague and uncertain, and contained no suggestion about righting the wrong done to Czecho-Slovakia and Poland."

But, the prime minister added, it is not alone the freedom of the small nations that is at stake.

All In Jeopardy,

There is also in jeopardy, he went on, the peaceful existence of Great Britain, the Dominions, the British Empire, the British Empire, France and all freedom loving countries.

"Even if Herr Hitler's proposals were more closely defined and contained no suggestion of the old evil wrongs," he continued, "it would still be necessary to ask by what practical means he proposed his government intend to convince the world that aggression will cease and that pledges will be kept. Past experience has shown that no reliance can be placed upon the promises of the present government.

"Accordingly, acts — not words alone—must be forthcoming before we, the British people, and France, our gallant and trusted ally, could be justified in ceasing to wage war to the utmost of our strength."

"Only when world confidence is restored will it be possible for us—as we would wish to do with the aid of all who share good will—to solutions of those questions which disturb the world, which stand in the way of disarmament, retard the restoration of trade and prevent improvement of the well-being of peoples.

"Where is thus a primary condition to be satisfied. That is the German government can fulfil it. If they will not, there can be yet be no new or better world order of the kind for which all nations yearn.

Issue Is Plain

"The issue is plain. Either the German government will give convincing proof of the sincerity of their desire for peace by definite acts and by the provision of effective guarantees of their intention to fulfil their undertakings or we must preserve in our duty to the end. It is for Germany to make her choice."

The Prime Minister spoke only 15 minutes but in that interval his speech he ever delivered was punctuated as freely with applause as cheering. For once his usual icy cold delivery gave way to indignation and verbal emphasis seldom employed by him.

The 70-year-old Prime Minister literally brought the House to its feet by his declaration Britain could not accept peace at the price of honor.

Sentiments Approved

These sentiments were approved and echoed by Clement Attlee, leader of the Opposition, and others who said Sinclair, Liberal leader, who said these terms were unacceptable peace unless it could be used to build a better world.

Mr. Chamberlain repeated his conviction it would be impossible for Britain to abandon Poland or to accept peace terms which recognized the German conquest of Poland without forfeiting her honor and abandoning her claim that International disputes should be settled by discussion and not by force."

Britain was seeking no material advantage from the war, nor was she attempting to exclude Germany from her rightful place, he said. Britain was fighting in the defence of world freedom, not for some vindictive purpose.

"We are not aiming only at victory," he declared, "but instead looking beyond it to the laying of the foundation of a better international system which will mean that it is not to be the lot of every succeeding generation.

"The peace which we determined to secure, however, must be a real and settled peace, not one which will ever be interrupted by constant alarms and repeated threats."

Reich In Way.

"What is standing in the way of such a peace?

"It is the German government and the German government alone.

"Whatever may be the issue of the present struggle, I feel sure that ever way it may be brought to a conclusion there will never be in the new world that we have known before.

"It is no part of our policy to exclude from her rightful place in Europe a Germany which will live in amity and confidence with other nations.

"On the contrary we believe that no effective remedy can be found for the evils of the day if we do not take account of the just claims and needs of all countries.

"Whenever the time may come to draw the lines of a new peace settlement, Britain, France and Germany would feel that the future would hold little hope unless a settlement could be reached through the method of negotiation and agreement.

Simply Defending Freedom.

"We have no feeling of hate and vindictive purpose that we embark on this war. We are simply in defence of freedom.

"It is not alone within their own small areas that is at stake; there is also in jeopardy the peaceful existence of Great Britain, the Dominions, India, the rest of the British Empire, France and all freedom loving countries."

When the prime minister finished, Arthur Greenwood, deputy leader of the Labor opposition, praised his statement, declaring that Britain's peace terms were unacceptable.

THRUSTS COSTING

Attacks Steadily Increase.

Describing the German attacks as steadily increasing in scope and intensity, Sir Archibald said that the Nazis had definitely abandoned the "phoney war" tactics which they had been pursuing until recently on the Western Front.

The extent of the operations was indicated by the general staff's morning communique, which reported "activity of first-line elements during the night, particularly on the front between the Moselle and the Rhine rivers."

The admiralty declared the Germans now were employing their most seasoned troops in the area, the elite visits who slowly retreated before the French during the first weeks of the war.

Bitter Fighting.

The heaviest ground assaults, it was indicated, have occurred in the vicinity of Sarreguemines and Forbach, where the French have driven closest to the outer fortifications of the Siegfried. Bitter fighting also was reported in the area between Saarbrucken and Saarlautern on the French left wing.

At some points in these sectors there is a mere 10 ten to fourteen miles between the French advance positions and the second line of the Maginot Line.

French troops erected in front of the French positions was said to have been effective at most points in halting German hand grenade throwers, who have played a prominent part in the ground thrusts.

British Batteries Co-operate.

French artillery reported to have crippled the mineral industry in the Saar by constant shelling of the mines, the communique said. It confirmed reports said British batteries were participating in the action.

Some French military experts estimated that to attack the Maginot Line with any hope of success Germany would have to throw fifty divisions (about 750,000 men) into the assault, with the prospect of losing 500,000 men.

The French announced officially their blockading fleet had intercepted to date 100,000 tons of Scandinavand consigned to Germany. This included 40,000 tons of iron ore, minerals, 40,000 tons of food and 30,000 tons of gasoline and oil.

Amsterdam, Oct. 12 (AP) — A Netherlands seaman on the German liner Bremen declared today the vessel set sail from Murmansk, Russian port, after a thrilling voyage during which she flew the Soviet flag instead of effective guarantees of their intention to fulfil their undertakings or we must persevere in our duty to the end.

"It is for Germany to make her choice.

"We are not aiming only at victory," he declared, "but instead looking beyond it to the laying of the foundation of a better international system which will mean that it is not to be the lot of every succeeding generation.

New Appointments Announced

J. T. Stirrett

J. E. Walsh

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association announces that J. E. Walsh, General Manager since 1918, has been appointed Assistant to the President, and J. T. Stirrett, General Secretary since 1919 and more recently Assistant General Manager, has been appointed General Manager.

Mr. Walsh's connection with the Association dates back to 1907 when he was appointed Manager of the Transportation Department. Prior to he was appointed Manager of the Transportation Department. Prior to that he had been for 26 years in the employ of the Canada Atlantic Railway and Transit Co., Ottawa, and for a short time assistant to the general manager of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co., Montreal. When he became to the Association, the Dominion Railway Board was just commencing to function and many problems affecting the welfare of shippers were coming up for solution. During the succeeding years he played an important part in working out these problems and the smooth operation of Canada's transportation system today is attributable to the foundation he helped to lay in that formative period.

On the reorganization of the Association in 1919, when the office of manager was changed to that of general manager was created, he was selected for this position and the general manager was created, he was selected for this position and the progress of the Association dates even more much to his executive ability and capacity for dealing effectively with Association problems.

Mr. Stirrett entered the service of the Association in 1913 on receiving the appointment of Editor of Industrial Canada. He had graduated from University College, University of Toronto, in 1908 with honours and had spent over eight years in newspaper work, with experience in the Parliamentary Press Gallery at Ottawa. He enlisted in the Canadian militia in the ranks in the First Contingent, Canadian Expeditionary Force in 1914, the fall of 1914 and joined the Canadian Expeditionary Force in 1915, serving in Canada, England and France. On his return to civil life in January, 1919, he took over the duties of General Secretary of the Association and in November, 1938, was appointed Assistant General Manager.

AT THE BELLE

"NURSE EDITH CAVELL"

A poignant, dramatic story based on one of the most stirring episodes of the World War, a brilliant star in her finest role, and a cast of forty distinguished players briefly sums up the entertainment ingredients of "Nurse Edith Cavell," which is now on the Belle screen.

Anna Neagle, foremost British star, makes her debut in her first American made film in Herbert Wilcox's production for RKO Radio—and contributes a performance that tops even her superb portrayals in "Victoria The Great" and "Queen of Destiny." As for the title role, Miss Neagle breathes life into the re-creation of the famous English nurse whose martyrdom has made an indelible impress on the pages of world history.

The fate that befell this great humanitarian is known to all, but the events leading up to that fateful dawn of October 12, 1915, when eight shots from a firing squad echoed around the world, have been chiefly hurled in official war archives. The factual plotization of these memorable incidents, however, makes a human moving film document that for sheer drama and suspense ranks among the screen's most memorable achievements.

The story opens at the Berckendael Institute, which Edith Cavell managed prior to the World War. When the soldier son of an old friend is captured by the Germans, escapes and takes refuge in Cavell's hospital, he pleads with the nurse to aid him flee to neutral Holland—and she does.

From this human gesture the idea is born, fostered by the intrepid nurse and three close women friends. Before long hundreds of fugitive civilians and convalescent soldiers are spirited across the Dutch border, much to the consternation of counter-espionage operatives. But the day of reckoning is inevitable, and when it comes Edith Cavell and her faithful accomplices are arrested, brought to trial before a Prussian military court. The barbaric decision of that august tribunal is history, as well as its terrific repercussions among all nations.

Anna Neagle's brilliant portrayal is complemented by outstanding characterizations from the strong supporting cast. Especially noteworthy is the work of Edna May Oliver, as a British Consul; May Robson, as a pastry cook whose son is interned; Mary Maguire nurse; Zasu Pitts, as a bargewoman who helps to smuggle the fugitives out of the country; George Sanders, as head of the German espionage service, and H. B. Warner as Secretary of the American Legation. Other fine players in the cast of forty are Gustav von Seyffertitz, Lucien Littlefield, Donald Meek, Robert Coote and Mary Howard.

Herbert Wilcox, producer-director of "Nurse Edith Cavell", has injected suspense and poignancy into the dramatic story, giving each player unusual opportunity for outstanding performances.

"Autograph Hounds" is the title of the new and funny Walt Disney Silly Symphony cartoon to be exhibited on the same program with a host of entertainers in "Arcade Varieties" a clever musical comedy revue.

WAR GLEANINGS

London, Oct. 12 (CP)—A German attack on Belgium shortly was predicted in a pamphlet smuggled out of Germany by the secret underground German Socialist organization. The pamphlet added: "The moment for real anti-war activity will be the time after the first military defeats."

London, Oct. 12 (CP)—Great Britain today denied a German report she had supplied gas to Poland for the against German soldiers. An authoritative British statement contradicted what it called "a report circulated from Berlin" that Polish troops used British gas in an extermination that killed four soldiers at Jaslo.

Hastings, England, Oct. 12 (CP)—Marquette Brocklehurst has solved the war-time problem of carrying her gas mask box. Her Alsatian dog wears a special harness with the container attached.

London, Oct. 12 (CP)—Harry Pollitt, general secretary of the Communist party of Great Britain and author of a recent pamphlet on "Stalin and Peace," has been removed from his post. The party also ordered the pamphlet withdrawn.

Rome, Oct. 12 (AP) — Giuseppe Bastianini, new Italian ambassador to London, left today to assume his post.

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch said Bastianini was understood to be bearing a communication of Italy's views on proposals for ending the war.)

Riga, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Latvian government announced today it would speed up emigration of Latvians of German blood. The German legation had requested they be given until next March 31 to choose citizenship.

Bucharest, Oct. 12 (AP)—Rumania today sent thousands of her reserve soldiers home to do the fall ploughing. The government at the same time took steps to keep Rumania's minority problems. Among them was a law for relief of poverty in Bessarabia.

Paris, Oct. 12 (AP)—Measures to push the economic war against Germany "to the limit" were drawn up in London yesterday by Georges Pernot, French blockade minister, and the British minister of economic warfare, Ronald Cross, it was announced today. The two nations are in "complete accord."

Plymouth, Oct. 12 (CP)—The city of Plymouth today was ordered to pay a fine of £2 (£8.20) to itself for failure to blackout the Guildhall clock. The magistrate who imposed the fine said it merely was taking the money out of one pocket and putting it in another, but the conviction would be on record in any case.

Budapest, Oct. 12 (AP) — The Hungarian press today published a survey of future trade between Germany and Russia. The press concluded that it is a "false idea that Russia can take the place of the nations from which Germany no longer is able to obtain needed war supplies."

FUNNY AMERICAN LAWS

Uncle Sam has some very queer laws, states the Commentator magazine, all the laws state are still valid, and all who violate them are technically liable to imprisonment. Here are a few: In Ohio all cats going out on the streets at night must have a red light tied to their tails. In Boston it is forbidden to play the ukulele and to use more than a foot high. In South Carolina it is forbidden for a go to church with a prayer in your pocket. In Virginia baths on Sunday are banned. People must bathe only in the yards of their houses.—Windsor Star.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

A few figures given by War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha on the British Expeditionary Force now in France give an insight into the make-up of a modern army. The new expeditionary force is a rapid-moving organization which bears little resemblance to the foot-slogging armies of previous wars.

With it went 25,000 vehicles for 158,000 men, almost one vehicle for every six men. That shows the extent to which the forces moves on wheels. While many of the 25,000 vehicles will be tanks the number of transport trucks for men and materials is large and the number used in the last war.

The great transport capacity is needed first to move the huge stores of fuel, repairing equipment and munitions required for an army with more machine guns and artillery in relation to man-power than formerly and employing such a large number of vehicles.

Only 20 per cent of the 158,000 men are in infantry formations. This ratio, how- ever, may not prevail throughout the war. The force in France is only the first instalment of an army which will grow in numbers as the months go on.

Naturally it is made up almost wholly of units of the regular army who were trained and equipped at the outbreak of war. Mechanization, the process by which modern armies acquire wheels, is more advanced in the British regular army than in the territorial army, the equivalent of the Canadian non-permanent active militia.

The territorial army will be drawn upon for further troops for the expeditionary force and a greater proportion of the territorial units will be infantry batallions. Moreover the servicing establishments already disbanded in France probably sufficient to meet the needs of a much larger body of soldiers than 158,000. The proportion of vehicles to men may go down as more troops land in France if any appreciable number of the 25,000 vehicles there already are used to serve units arriving later.

Germany Able to Get Limited Supplies of Rumanian Oil

Main Problem One of Transportation and of Payment

SHIP BY BARGE

By LLOYD LEHRBAS

Associated Press Staff Writer

Ploesti, Rumania, Oct. 12 (AP) —Germany is still able to obtain vitally needed Rumanian oil, but production, sales and shipment statistics compiled here in the centre of the Rumanian oil field indicate the amounts supplied her have been reduced.

Production has continued normal in this area with no incidents to halt the flow of about 500,000 tons monthly.

But oil company officials emphasized that Germany's problem of obtaining oil and gasoline for her planes and mechanized army units was not a question of Rumania producing but rather one of payment and transportation.

Rumanian oil companies are demanding cash and Germany is still paying cash, according to a survey of interested foreign agents, although some barter deals have been made.

With the normal Black Sea-Hamburg route closed to German trade by the British Navy, Germany now is depending on river and rail transportation which is inadequate under expanded war requirements.

Shipments of oil by way of the Danube River have amounted to only 80 tons since the outbreak of the war with half of that quality destined for Yugoslavia and Hungary.

Germany was reported here to be trans-shipping barges from the Rhine to the Danube in an effort to increase shipments.

Oil shipments by rail through Hungary are continuing and oil shipments to Italy have been resumed, but were reported less than normal because of clearing arrangements.

Italy herself was said to be short of oil and it was considered doubtful by some oil men here whether the extensive shipments have been made to Germany by way of Italy.

Toronto, Oct. 12—R. T. Mohan has been elected president and chief executive officer of General Foods, Limited, it was announced here today. For the past year, he has served as vice president and general manager.

General Foods, Limited is the manufacturer of a number of widely-known food products, with factories in Windsor, Cobourg and Grand Bend, and a large sales force throughout Canada.

In addition to his new responsibilities, Mr. Mohan is managing director of Douglas-Pectin, Limited, at Cobourg, and is also a director of Douglas - Pectin, Limited, and Grape-Nuts Company, Limited, both of London, England.

GERMANY SHAPES

Germans described as "vague" the broadcast address Tuesday by Premier Daladier of France.

Hitler's Volkischer Beobachter, commenting on Daladier's address, called it too general to be regarded as a final answer to the Fuehrer.

The newspaper agreed with Daladier, however, that Europe "needs a well protected peace" although it declared "the dark era of Versailles was no peace but a continuation of war."

DNB, German news agency, published a commentary by experts asserting that German warships are masters of the North Sea.

This followed an order for the air force to attack British naval units.

Agency Expands Boast

DNB, expanding on a boast by naval authorities, unsubstantiated elsewhere, that several British warships had been damaged in the North Sea battle Monday between British surface craft and German airplanes, declared the east and north coasts of the British Isles were within range of German bombers.

The account of the sea engagement said four German planes had not returned to their bases but claimed that German pilots have credited themselves with six direct hits on battleships and cruisers weighing more than 1,000 pounds and four by lighter bombs.

(The British officially announced that none of the German bomb fell near enough to report damage or casualties resulted from the engagement.)

German authorities said the battle resulted from a call for help sent out by German warships when a flotilla of British heavy cruisers was sighted, apparently heading for the German ships.

(The British report on the incident today said a German naval squadron was sighted off the south coast of Norway Sunday but "darkness enabled the enemy to escape.")

Recorder & Times Pays Tribute To Late A. G. Davie

The Recorder and Times of Brockville, Ontario, pays tribute to the memory of Andrew G. Davie in the following words:

"Brockville friends, and they are many, will learn with sincere regret of the death of Andrew Davie for wherever he was located Brockville was always his home and his acquaintances here always held the warmest place in his affections. He learned the trade of composition in the office of the former Brockville Times, and he also was employed on different occasions in the Brockville Recorder. Leaving the composing room he engaged in editorial work, and his last position here was as assistant editor in A. T. Wilgress shortly before the latter disposed of his Brockville interests. Graham and Davie were the two papers were amalgamated. He then went to the Toronto Telegram, but a short while later an opening presented itself in the Belleville Intelligencer and he had been attached to the newspaper in that city since the close of the Great War.

"Possessing a ready wit coupled with a store of knowledge of men and events he was a fluent writer and helped with popularity throughout the field of newspaperdom."

U-BOATS AGAIN ACTIVE IN ATLANTIC WATERS

S. S. Heronspool Attacked But Crew Safe on U. S. Ship

Admiralty Gives No Details When or Where 5,202-Ton Vessel Encounters Raider

FRENCH TANKER SUNK

Liner President Harding Unable to Find Crew of Tanker in Flames but Rescues Crew of 36 on Heronspool

London, Oct. 13 (CP)—The Admiralty announced today the S.S. Heronspool had been attacked by a U-boat and that the crew was safe on an American ship.

The Admiralty statement gave no details as to when or where the 5,202-ton British vessel encountered the raider.

(Wireless messages received in New York said the crew was picked up by the United States liner President Harding, of the Irish Coast.)

New York, Oct. 13 (AP)—The American liner President Harding radioed today that she had rescued the crew of 36 of the British freighter Heronspool while proceeding to aid the attacked French tanker W. Emile Miquet. The Heronspool was sunk off the Irish Coast. The Harding said it found the tanker ablaze. The crew apparently had drowned.

"At 2.10 p.m., EST (Thursday) responded to SOS from French tanker W. Emile Miquet in latitude 50.06 north, longitude 14 west. At 1:50 a.m. sighted and rescued crew of 36 from British steamer Heronspool. None missing. Reached W. Emile Miquet after. No sign of crew. Proceeded at 9:37 a.m."

THREE KINGS OF SCANDINAVIA MEET OCT. 18

MEET AT STOCKHOLM

Stockholm, Sweden, Oct. 13 — (AP)—King Gustaf today invited and received acceptances from the Kings of Denmark and Norway and the President of Finland to meet him in Stockholm October 18, presumably to discuss the Finnish-Russian question. Foreign Ministers of the Scandinavian nations will accompany their rulers.

Berne, Switzerland, Oct. 13. (CP-Havas) — Reports from Stockholm received here said it had been decided to evacuate the 20 largest cities of Sweden at the first threat of an air raid.

The newspaper Neue Zuercher Zeitung said instructions for evacuating a part of the population of these cities at the first threat had been issued by the Inspector-General in charge of Swedish defence.

Concern centred on the Finnish-Soviet talks at a time when Germany made her one of the largest oil tankers afloat. She was presumably bound for Le Havre.

GERMAN PATROLS BEATEN BACK BY FRENCH CORPS

Fail to Take Any French Prisoners in Five Days of Fighting

BRITISH CONCENTRATE

30,000 Troops Reported on Northeastern Front Line and Offensive Near

By JOHN MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Paris, Oct. 13 (AP)—German patrols were reported today suddenly to have abandoned attacks in which they had failed in five days to capture any French prisoners.

Military advices said the French army was keeping close watch on the front, wondering why on a "magnificently clear night" the calm except in the Warndt Forest region where a communique said small enemy patrols were repulsed.

Military observers said a reported concentration of 30,000 British troops on the northeastern front indicated either an early Allied offensive or a continuance of the effort to prevent a Nazi big scale assault on heavily fortified positions.

The abandoning of the German raids was ascribed to the possibility that they were too costly.

President Kallio Orders Finnish Civilians to Assist in Any Capacity

Must Aid Government In Non-Military Pursuits

Helsingfors, Oct. 13 (AP)—President Kyoesti Kallio issued a decree today ordering all Finnish civilians to hold themselves in readiness to aid the government in non-military pursuits if required by the present emergency.

The decree was issued as Finnish leaders continued to express optimism concerning their chances of receiving acceptable terms from Soviet Russia as the second day of Finnish-Russian talks began in Moscow. They hoped their country would fare better than their neighbor which have become virtual Russian protectorates as a result of Kremlin parleys.

The nation stepped up preparations to fight, if necessary, for its independence in keeping with the Foreign Ministry's declaration that Finland would resist dictation.

Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko made his statement in a broadcast after Finland had learned of representations by the United States, Sweden, Denmark and Norway to the Soviet government in her behalf.

Turkey and Soviet Near Point of Signing Pact Is Report

By WITT HANCOCK
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, Oct. 13 (AP)—Amid reports that some form of agreement would be signed by Russia and Turkey within the next day or two, the Turkish Foreign Minister, Sukru Saracoglu, received in the Kremlin at 5 p.m. (9 a.m. EST) today.

In the absence of any official comment from either side, observers believed the prospective pact would settle questions in relation to the Black Sea and the Dardanelles and would define the attitude of each nation toward the other in the war-torn Balkans while Finland continued.

The United States, Sweden, Denmark and Norway in effect urged Russia not to make demands upon Finland which might endanger Russo-Finnish relations.

The representations were made yesterday about the time Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi arrived in Sweden, and his aides—here in response to a Soviet invitation to talk about "outstanding matters"—had made their first session with Soviet leaders.

11,968,905 Tourists From U. S. Enter Canada to August 31

Ottawa, Oct. 13—Tourists entering Canada from the United States during the first eight months of 1939 totalled 11,968,905 compared with 11,838,779 in the same period last year, the Mines and Resources Department reported today.

While declines were registered during the first five months of the year, there were more than offset by the increased movement in June, July and August. The tourist traffic reached its peak in July and August when 6,062,257 tourists from the United States entered Canada compared with 5,740,512 in the same two months last year.

POLES STIRRED BY LECTURER

Attack on Polish Leaders Resented by Shouts of Disapproval

Toronto, Oct. 13 (CP) — Criticism of General Smigly-Rydz and other Polish leaders by Harrison Thompson, lecturer, author and newsman, led to a disturbance in Dale Presbyterian Church here last night. When Forman addressed what the vice Poland would still be fighting "except for the stupidity and treachery" of her leaders, shouts of disapproval started.

Three members of the audience, all of them of Polish people, strode to the front of the church to register their protests, but were shouted disapproval while others aided with Forman.

After about 15 minutes of turmoil, Forman continued showing pictures of the defeat of the Polish invasion in silence but at the request of many in the audience ceased speaking. There was no further disorder until after the lecture ended when about fifty men rushed toward him. He was not molested, however, and after Rev. John Dey had spoken to them the crowd dispersed and went home.

A Pekarz, leader of the Polish Aid Committee here, said today he has appealed to Polish consuls in Ottawa and Montreal in an effort to have Forman stop lecturing in Canada.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 13—(CP)—Light snowfalls or flurries have occurred in the Prairie Provinces and in northern districts of Ontario and Quebec where the weather has been moderately cold while mild in the Lower Lake Region eastward to the Maritimes. It has been cool with scattered showers.

Why The Weather?

By MAJOR A. H. THIESEN
Science Service Meteorologist

"The old moon in the arms of the new
Is a sign of fine weather."

The moon with her changing phases has been associated with weather from the earliest times. The aborigines of this continent were "great observers of the weather by the moon." She was the goddess of the water, and her influence on the rains. The aborigines thought the moon to her appearance not only foretold rains and fogs, but was the actual cause of these phenomena.

Festivals were held at full moon to propitiate the deities of the water. Now we look upon the phases of the moon as simply a result of its position in relation to the earth and sun. The appearance indicated in the above proverb is the earth-shine dimly lighting the dark part of the moon as the sunshine does the light part.

U.S. Papers See in Premier's Speech Appeal Made to German People

New York, Oct. 13 (CP)—New York newspapers today saw in Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech to the House of Commons yesterday an appeal to the people of Germany.

The New York Times said the prime minister "was on more solid ground in between-the German government and the German people and went even further than he has gone before in appealing to the self-interest of the latter."

Mr. Chamberlain told the German people that Britain is united out, that Britain is not fighting for a dictated peace but "a settlement to be reached through the method of negotiation and agreement."

"In view of the swift march of Imperial Bolshevism there must be many Germans who see the future clearly as a choice between extinction of war culminating in a revolution of the left, or an early peace, to be achieved through an amalgamation of forces opposed to war and Communism."

The Herald-Tribune said Mr. Chamberlain was in a strong position in turning down "Herr Hitler's proposals for a dictated "peace'."

The term Herr Hitler launched war upon the world he guaranteed that it should not end that is whether the system would have to be erected on the ruins. There is only one question now and that is whether the rebuilding shall be in general guided by the hand of Herr Hitler or by the hand of the western democracies. For the people of the western democracies that alone is a question worth fighting for. Nor for others is it a matter of complete indifference."

President Tells Newsmen He Has Received No Official Word from Germany on Peace Bid

Washington, Oct. 13 (AP) — President Roosevelt said today United States representations to the Soviet Russia were merely an expression of interest and hope that nothing would be done to disturb peaceful relations in the Baltic or the independence of Finland.

The president told a press conference that the diplomatic action was not to be construed in any way as a pressure move by the United States government.

For that reason—because he did not want any misunderstanding, the president said, he was withholding for the time being the text of the representation made at Moscow yesterday by Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt.

Asked about latest informal peace bids from Germany, the president said he had nothing to say on that. He added in response to another question that he had received no official words from the German government.

Capt. Von Rintelen, Once Master Spy, Would Serve Britain

London, Oct. 13—(AP)—Captain Franz von Rintelen—master spy of Imperial Germany who directed German espionage in the United States at the start of the last war—urged in aliens' court today that he be allowed unrestricted freedom in wartime Britain.

The former German agent has been living in London and lecturing on "secret service." One subject on which once put him in American prisons for four years for sabotage of munitions plants.

He was accompanied in his appearance before Judge Bernard Reginald Hall who was responsible for his capture off Ramsgate Aug. 5, 1915.

Von Rintelen had expected to become a British subject before then. He said he was anti-Nazi and had offered to Britain "all my experience, energy and ability" in the ensuing struggle for the defence of her liberties.

The decision of the court on his plea for permission to travel and lecture freely was not immediately made known.

GEN. FREYBERG IS APPOINTED

British Censor Deletes Name of Office Australian V. C. Receives

London, (By Mail)—(CP)— Appointment of Major-General Bernard C. Freyberg (the position to which he was appointed was here deleted by censor) the daring exploit which won for the tall New Zealander the Victoria Cross during the last war.

Sir James Barrie described the exploit in his rectorial address as he presented Freyberg in 1922 to illustrate his completion that courage is the highest existing gift of the immortality.

General Freyberg was the first man in the army to land at Gallipoli. He was dropped overboard with a warning to wade ashore on the shore to deceive the Turks as to where the landing was to be made.

His Heroic Deed

He pushed a raft bearing the decoys in front of him. Freyberg was naked and painted black.

Pring and ships was going on around him during the two hours' swim in pitch darkness. Reaching the beach, he crept along the beach, safely lit his decoys and then swam back to the ship.

Germany Loser on Land, Sea, in Air And Diplomatic Front in First Round

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 13 (CP Cable)—Military authorities surveyed round one of the second great war today and came to the definite conclusion that Germany had been the loser on land, on sea, in the air and on the diplomatic front in the first round of the conflict.

Here are some of their verdicts:

1. Britain and France's armament has been beaten off by the British and French navies!

2. Germany has yet to prove the ability of bombing planes to destroy warships.

3. The Baltic, which Germany used to regard as her own particular property, is now dominated by Russia, while the North Sea is in the control of Britain.

4. Russia has cut off Germany from predatory raids on southeast Europe.

5. French troops are fighting on German soil, which has a bad effect on the general morale of the German people;

6. British troops to the number of 158,000 have been landed in France without casualty.

It is true that Germany, with the help of Russia, has shattered the Polish republic, but even her success there has its limitations. Everything it immobilizes 20 to 25 divisions of first-line troops, which are needed to watch the Russians and try to extirpate the Poles.

In addition it was an expensive campaign on gasoline, vitally important to the mechanized army.

The biggest handicap Germany is facing, however, is the British control of the weather. Every day Adolf Hitler delays his big push makes it surer that General Maurice Gamelin's army will be able to stop it when it comes. In the first great war very few major operations were conducted so late in the year. Canadian being one.

In Poland Germany depended on lowflying bombers to blast away at troop concentrations but every day makes it more difficult to adopt these tactics successfully in the west. Winter weather interferes with big movements of troops, particularly mechanized troops such as Germany relies on.

Expect Neutral Intervention to Dissuade France and Britain Fighting for Restoration of Poland

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Berlin, Oct. 13 (AP)—Authorized Nazi spokesmen today said Germany has given up hope of achieving peace with Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Daladier but still was waiting for a neutral response to Adolf Hitler's Reichstag speech of last Friday.

Any such action by neutral nations through whom Hitler said they regarded the United States as the only powerful enough to do something effective—however, must come from such countries and not as a result of any diplomatic action or request by Germany, they reiterated.

(In Washington, President Roosevelt said he had nothing to say about informal peace bids from Berlin.)

Interpretations of German Position

These interpretations of Germany's position were made after two developments:—

1. Dr. Otto Dietrich, Germany's press chief and one of Hitler's closest advisers, told foreign correspondents he thought that even the United States could intervene to prevent "the most gruesome blood bath in history."

Montreal, Oct. 13 (CP)—Leaders of the Union Nationale and Action Liberale Nationale concentrated their Quebec election campaign attacks on Premier Maurice Duplessis and the Dominion Government.

Adelard Godbout, the Liberal chief, repeated in his address that there would be no conscription under the Liberal rule and renewed his attack on Premier Duplessis.

Berlin, Oct. 13 (AP) — The German government took the stand today that British Prime Minister Chamberlain's rejection of Adolf Hitler's peace overtures means "war against the German people, war against the German Reich unto annihilation."

The statement was issued in the form of press release on Mr. Chamberlain's speech before the House of Commons yesterday. It was handed to foreign correspondents during the daily press conference.

It says:

"Chamberlain's speech is an unheard-of insult to Germany. Indulging in unbelievably insolent aspersions on the German Reich and its policy, Chamberlain's speech rejected the hand of peace contradicted to him by the Fuehrer.

"Chamberlain evidently did not want to understand the Fuehrer's great action, springing from his responsibility before history.

"While Germany wants peace, the Fuehrer made constructive, live proposals for building up a peaceful, secure Europe, Chamberlain and his clique desired war.

"Reprehensible Small Minds"

"In his speech, he did not represent the cause of the people but the cause of a small clique which seeks its task in war. This (Thursday) afternoon, Chamberlain not only before the Lower House (Commons), but before the entire world, rejected Germany's hand of peace and thereby gave its answer to the appeal which the Fuehrer made in his speech October 6 to the world.

Arrangements for Registration Of Women Are Completed

CONCLUDES OCT. 21st

Plans have been completed to begin the work of voluntary registration of the women of Belleville and vicinity, with five booths being conveniently located, at any one of which women may register regardless of the part of the city in which they reside. Registration will commence at the Chamber of Commerce booth this Saturday and at all other booths on Monday, concluding Saturday, October 21.

The purpose of the plan is to register, in connection with a nation wide movement, the women of Canada, detailing their special abilities, training, services proffered and training desired so that in national emergency the women can be counted on to do their part, in an efficiently organized manner. Those wishing to register will be given questionnaires which will outline the aim and scope of the plan.

Booths have been arranged for, in four different parts of the city, and downtown so that women may not later near their homes or when they are shopping. These booths which will be open continuously from nine to five o'clock will be in charge of the following women:

Chamber of Commerce—Mrs. H. Truscott and Mrs. C. E. Argue, assisted by Mrs. G. McEldinny, Mrs. A. B. Cameron, Mrs. Roger Porter, Mrs. F. S. Lazier, Mrs. A. B. Collins, Mrs. R. A. Flynn, Mrs. Martin McCreery and Miss Frances Lazier.

Booth No. 1 (at Belleville General Hospital)—Mrs. H. E. Ketchenson and Mrs. T. R. Dolan, assisted by Mrs. K. G. Kennedy, Mrs. R. H. Martin, Mrs. E. L. Shapiro, Mrs. Walter Reeves and Mrs. Roy Gibson.

Booth No. 2 (at Engineers' Hall, corner Pine and Chatham streets)—Mrs. R. L. S. Muirhead and Mrs. Gordon Miller, assisted by Mrs. Percy Alford, Mrs. J. W. Imlah, Mrs. J. E. Shortt, Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, Mrs. C. J. Fisher.

Booth No. 3 (at the home of Mrs. B. Reeves, 58 Charlotte street)—Mrs. H. J. Graham and Mrs. Ralph Morden, assisted by Mrs. Allen Spencer, Miss Lenore Station, Mrs. A. E. Purdy, Mrs. B. Reeves, Howard, Mrs. J. Fraser, Mrs. J. A. Goyer.

"Y" CANVASSERS QUITE ENTHUSED

Having reached a figure well over fifty per cent of their objective, the canvassers in the current Y.M.C.A. financial drive are throwing their forceful efforts behind a final day's drive tomorrow in an effort to go over the top with subscriptions amounting to nearly $5,000.00, needed to meet the current expenses of the association not otherwise received as revenue through the general channels.

When first reports were received at a noon luncheon today in the Auditorium, General Chairman Bert Boyce voiced approval of the fine response which afforded the campaign canvassers at the hands of the public. During the first day's canvassing about 25 per cent of the quota subscribed was reported when subscriptions amounting to $1,802.50 were reported.

Howard Clarke's team submitted the most subscribers' cards, qualifying for the largest cash amount, while Russ Wotten received several awards in the individual collector for the initial two days, while Joe Imlah secured the largest number of new subscriptions and Norm Edwards the largest number of renewals, which totalled 44.

A comparison of the progress of the 1939 campaign, after the first two days, as against that of the 1938 campaign, was given by Secretary J. E. Shortt. "The first two days in 1938 we obtained 120 subscriptions for a total of $1,862.50, while this year our canvassers have brought in 134 subscriptions for a total of $1,802.50, a slight increase for this campaign," the secretary revealed Mr. Shortt.

The campaign workers were urged to seek as many new subscriptions and donations as possible, as the success of the financial drive lies in this channel. "In the Y.M.C.A. we have a civic institution that is doing a great work, especially among the youth of our city. Acquaint the general public with the immense free work the "Y" does and this campaign will be a success," urged General Chairman Bert Boyce.

Holloway St. Church Will Observe 66th Anniversary

Holloway Street United Church will hold special services on Sunday, October 15th, to mark the sixty-sixth anniversary of the organization of the congregation. For this occasion there will be as guest preacher one of the outstanding men in the church life of Ontario, Rev. J. J. MacKay, Superintendent of the Province of All Nations, Toronto. He is a fine speaker and will bring messages to the congregation in morning and evening.

3 MEMBERS OF FAMILY CONVICTED IN COUNTY COURT

Samuel and Elmer Woodcock Convicted of Assaulting a Police Officer, Luke Woodcock for Escaping Custody

GIRL DISCHARGED

Mother Remanded for Sentence, While Three Convicted Will be Sentenced on Monday

Five members of one family, a father, mother, two sons and a teenaged daughter all appeared in the County Police Court before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in Belleville yesterday on multiple charges, including the assaulting of a police officer, obstructing police officers in the pursuit of their duty and escaping from lawful custody. The persons charged were Luke Woodcock, 61, his wife, two sons, Donald, 27 and Elmer, 23 and a daughter Bessie, aged 16 years, all of Bancroft.

The quintette was charged with assaulting Provincial Constable Stan Palmateer and obstructing Constables Palmateer and Wells on September 30 last when the two officers went to the Woodcock farm to conduct an investigation looking into the recovery of the theft of an outboard motor and a water cooler.

Three Convicted.

Samuel and Elmer Woodcock were convicted of the assault yesterday, while the father, Luke Woodcock, was convicted of escaping from lawful custody. The charge against Mrs. Woodcock of assaulting the police officer was remanded until called upon which in her words means indefinitely enlarged, while Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., refrained from pressing charges against Bessie Woodcock and she was dismissed from custody. Counsel for the family were remanded in custody until Monday when sentence will be handed down on the three charges bearing convictions yesterday. Other charges are pending against the three men, however.

Convicted of Charge.

Samuel Woodcock was the first called and charged with assaulting Constable Palmateer. He pleaded not guilty, but was convicted after the complaint, Constable Wells and Mr. Wm. Gehle, testified that it was Samuel Woodcock had struck the officer and later threatened him. Charges of escaping from custody, obstructing a police officer and theft are pending against Elmer Woodcock, Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan informed the court before sentence the father, he pleaded guilty to a charge of escaping from lawful custody after Mr. McCulloch had advised his client so. Charges of resisting and assaulting an officer are also pending against this accused man, Mr. Donnan stated. All of the charges will be disposed of in Monday's court.

The two Woodcock women were dismissed from custody pending the hearing on Monday. During the course of the evidence submitted by the Crown it was stated that an outboard motor stolen from Mr. Wm. Gehle in 1933, some stovepipe and a copper cooling kettle had all been recovered on the Woodcock property on the day in which the assault upon the officers took place.

Magistrate Butler stated the evidence was "overwhelming" for a conviction as there was no question as to the guilt of the parties concerned on the evidence submitted," sentence will be passed upon the three Woodcock men on Monday.

Father Pleads Guilty.

In the case of Luke Woodcock, charged with escaping from lawful custody, he pleaded guilty to a charge of escaping from lawful custody after Mr. McCulloch had advised his client so. Charges of resisting and assaulting an officer are also pending against this accused man, Mr. Donnan stated. All of the charges will be disposed of in Monday's court.

Members Will Hold Tag-Day on Saturday to Raise Funds to Purchase Unit

A WORTHY CAUSE

With the desire to provide for the public of the city and district, the best hospital equipment medical science has devised, members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Belleville General Hospital will tomorrow launch a Tag-day to raise funds for the purchase of a mobile X-Ray unit.

The proposed purchase of the unit will fill a long-felt want at the local institution. It can be readily moved to any of the wards or rooms of the hospital where X-Ray films are to be taken, and where moving of patients is considered inadvisable.

It is especially designed for the purposes of X-raying hip-fractures which have been treated with the new method of retaining bone-fragments by means of a plate. X-ray films or fluoroscopic examination are necessary in these cases, to check the position of the pin, while the patient is in the operating room.

Other important uses are in cases of pneumonia, and heart conditions where movement of the patient is out of the question.

With former generous responses to humanitarian causes, given by the public of this city, and to their minds, members of the Auxiliary feel confident that towards the same spirit of appreciative generosity that has marked former appeals, will be raised a sufficient amount of money being raised for this purpose.

By purchasing a tag from the sellers "you will not only be aiding a worthy cause, but will in a tangible way be helping others to help you."

SPECIAL POLICE NAMED GUARDS

Special Provincial Police officers will be appointed for the guarding of all hydro power plants in the district and supervise the recently appointed special guards that were placed under the Air Measures Act against possible sabotage. Inspector Frank Gardner of the O.P.P. announced from his Belleville office today.

"There will be fifteen special Provincial constables throughout this district, mainly at the power plants along the Trent River. At each plant a special officer will supervise the guarding of the plants, the Provincial Policemen guarding during the day and supervising the night watchmen," explained Inspector Gardner as he added that other special Provincial Constables were scheduled to report to his office over the week-end, bringing the strength of special O.P.P. constables to fifteen in the Belleville district.

As these special O.P.P. men will replace fifteen guards now on duty, the number of night guards to be employed in the Belleville area will be diminished from 66 to 51, the O.P.P. headquarters revealed. Those guards to be placed on duty will serve by the new orders received from the Attorney-General's Department will be first in line to fill vacancies and new posts that may be necessary from time to time, the authorities added.

OBITUARY

ROBERT D. McCAMON (Hungerford Township).

After an illness of three weeks' duration, Robert Daniel McCamon, late resident in the 5th concession of Hungerford Township, passed away in the Belleville General Hospital this Friday morning.

The late Mr. McCamon, who was in his 82nd year, was born on the McCamon homestead in Hungerford Township, between Thomasburg and Tweed, and resided there all his life. During his active years he followed farming. Throughout his long life, Mr. McCamon was held in high esteem in the community. In religion he was a faithful member of the Methodist Church, later the United Church, and when age and health permitted he took an active part in church work.

Surviving him are three sons, Mr. Milton McCamon of Trenton, Mr. Herbert McCamon of Thomasburg, Mr. Damon McCamon of Thomasburg; two daughters, Mrs. Charles Lankford, Sidney Town Hall, and Mrs. Claud Wager, Lost Channel; one sister, Mrs. Andrew Wilson, Smith's Falls, Ont.

The late Mr. McCamon was twice married, the first wife died in February, 1934, and his second wife passed away in September.

The funeral will take place to Bethel United Church next Sunday afternoon.

BRITISH PREMIER IS VERY CLEAR

As the world expected Great Britain has rejected the peace proposal of Adolf Hitler.

Mr. Chamberlain has thrown the onus on the German Government to make the peace which the Allied nations could accept, consonant with their honor and their pledges.

Again Mr. Chamberlain told the German government that proof in actions, not in words only, would be required. "Either the German Government must give convincing proof of the sincerity of their desire for peace by definite acts and by their provision of effective guarantees of their intention to fulfil their undertakings or we must persevere in our duty to the end. It is for Germany to make her choice."

He went to considerable length in defining the purpose of Britain's war effort. The Allied aims are not victory alone, he said, but a real and settled peace and not an uneasy truce interrupted by constant alarms and repeated threats.

There is one obstacle to peace—"the German Government stands in the way of peace," he made clear.

Mr. Chamberlain referred to the underlying object of the struggle from the Allied standpoint. "It is not part of our policy to exclude from her rightful place in Europe a Germany which will live in amity and confidence with other nations. On the contrary we believe that no effective remedy can be found for the world's ills that does not take account of the just claims and needs of all countries. Whenever the time may come to draw the lines of new peace settlements His Majesty's Government would feel that the future would hold little hope unless such a settlement could be reached through the method of negotiation and agreement."

He declared there is no vindictive purpose behind Britain's entry into the war which was simply in defence of freedom, for not alone the freedom of small nations is at stake but the peaceful existence of Great Britain, the Dominions, India, the rest of the British Empire, France and all freedom-loving countries.

The British Premier was plain in his references to slaughter. Poland was the mental state of Hitler in making the offer of peace. "We must take it, then," said Mr. Chamberlain, "that the proposals which the German Chancellor puts forward for the establishment of what he calls the certainty of European security are to be based on recognition of his conquest and his right to do what he pleases with the conquered." Then came the question—"It would be impossible for Great Britain to accept any such basis without forfeiting her honor and abandoning her claim that international disputes should be settled by discussion and not by force."

In another place he said, "the plain truth is that, after our past experience, it is no longer possible to rely upon the unsupported word of the present German Government." The Premier was referring to Hitler's "repeated disregard of his word and these sudden reversals of policy."

Mr Chamberlain sees that whatever the results of the war, "the world will not be the same world that we have known before." He declared that surrender to wrongdoing would spell the extinction of all hope and a annihilation of all that is values of life which have through centuries been at once the mark and the inspiration of human progress.

He pointed to the British standpoint:— "We seek no material advantage for ourselves; we desire nothing from the German people which should offend their self respect. We are aiming not only at victory, but rather looking beyond it to the laying of a foundation for a better international system, which will mean that war is not to be the inevitable lot of every succeeding generation."

"I am certain that all the peoples of Europe, including the people of Germany, long for peace—a peace which will enable them to live their lives without fear and to devote their energies and their gifts to the development of their culture, the profit of their lands and to the improvement of their material prosperity."

It is a settled peace that Great Britain aims at, he said. "Only when world confidence is restored will it be possible to find—as we would wish to do with the aid of all who show goodwill—solutions of those questions which disturb the world, which stand in the way of disarmament, retard the restoration of trade and prevent the improvement of the well-being of the peoples."

FINLAND

The modern Republic of Finland is in the world news as the Baltic encroachments of Russia, which held it as a vassal duchy from 1721 to 1917, have attracted attention. This state, which threw off the yoke when the Russian revolution upset the czarist regime, has made fine progress under its independence. It is not a large country, being 700 miles long by 400 miles at its greatest width. It is between Russia and the Scandinavian peninsula. In size it is slightly larger than New Mexico, its area being 145,686 square miles and its population in 1928 3,600,000. Almost all of the people are Finns and adherents of the Lutheran Church. There are some Swedes in the country and a few Lapps and Russians.

It is a low flat country, except in the mountainous north. Its coasts are deeply indented. It has large lakes and swamps and a small area of land is agricultural land. The products of the soil are rye, wheat, oats and potatoes. In the south dairying is important. The country has deposits of iron, copper and granite, but little attempt has been made to develop these. There are great possibilities for utilization of water power and the forests are very valuable.

The Finns are of Uralo-Altaic race and were an independent tribe in the twelfth century. Gradually Sweden began to dominate them and a century later it came into control of Finland. Russia fought many wars to take Finland but only in 1721 did she succeed in making a foothold when it annexed considerable territory. In 1809 it finally wrested the entire province from the Swedes. Russia set up a duchy with the czar as grand duke and for many years his governors kept the pledge to the Finns that their old laws and liberties should be preserved. But in 1897 a severer regime was established and the duchy felt the iron hand of autocracy. Home rule was reestablished after uprisings, but in 1917 the Russian Duma took control of all matters affecting Russia and Finland together. The grand duchy has its diet or parliament which passed local laws. The chief executive officer was a governor-general of the czar. Woman suffrage prevailed.

During the Great War after the czarist revolution and the rise of Kerensky and just before he was driven from power the socialists won 92 out of 200 seats in the diet. In November 1916 the diet voted for independence and civil war broke out between the White Guards, conservative in tendency, and the Red Guards, who inclined to Bolshevism. In January 1918 the Red Guards declared a republic of Finnish workers. Two months later a German army landed, formed a junction with the Whites and cleared the country of the Bolsheviki. An attempt was made to set up a monarchy with a German prince as ruler, but the collapse of Germany in 1918 brought an end to this plan. In 1919 Finland became a republic.

The language of the Finnish people belongs to the northern division of the Turanian family of languages and is most nearly allied to the language of the Lapps and that of the Hungarians. It is soft to the ear, rich in vowels and dipthongs, copious and uncommonly flexible. Its literature is rich in its stores of national poetry and its most famous work is the folk epic "Kalevala". Education is highly advanced. Helsingfors is the centre of the literary life. The "Kalevala" is a poem of ancient origin, handed down from mouth to mouth for centuries but in 1835 Elias Lonnrot, a physician, gathered the parts together and reduced the poem to what is known as "Kalevala."

Finland is also known in music, one of its greatest composers being Sibelius author of the most famous work "Finlandia," and of many other compositions which are marked with national characteristics.

Democracy is the very lifeblood of Finland and no people are more loyal to their principles than her people. It is a land of happy people, who have been progressing in the development of a nation along advanced lines.

Today the gallant Finns put on their war accoutrements, have ordered blackouts and evacuation of the capital as the pressure on their line border. The Finnish people who in their twenty years of national independence have made remarkable progress have the sympathy of the democratic world as they seek to guard its total independence in the face of the huge conglomerate empire of the Russians, which once dominated it.

The Finns in 1918 halted the march of the Russians towards Sweden and Sweden naturally is concerned over the possibility of the fate of the little republic which has been so good a neighbor.

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 12th., 1919

Mrs. R. Clarke has returned home from Millbrook and Peterboro where she visited friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mackie and young son of Toronto are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mackie, Church Street.

Miss Phyllis Wood has left here to reside in Toronto.

Messrs. Reginald Thompson, H. Watson and Orlen Joyce of Desoronto were in the city last evening.

The dance given by the members of the Emeralds Club in Johnstone's Academy last evening was a great success.

30 YEARS AGO

Mrs. M. A. Kemp has returned to the city after a year's absence visiting her son and friends in Western Canada.

Mrs. A. Matthews, College Hill, has sent to the Intelligencer office two peaches, part of a half bushel yield from a tree in her garden. The peaches are over eight inches in circumference and of fine flavor.

At the Armouries last night an interesting indoor baseball match was played between teams representing H. and P. Companies of the 49th Regiment. The former team won by the small margin of one run, the score was 20 to 19. Battery for the winners was Sharpe and Curtis and for the losers McMaster and Allen. The umpire was J. Bateman.

Mrs. J. S. Robertson, formerly of this city, left today for her home in San Francisco, after visiting friends here for the past three months.

Mr. Harry Johnston, formerly of this city, has been appointed lecturer on Elocution at the Law at the Hamilton Business College.

Mr. Thomas Ellis has had a handsome addition made to his residence on Church street.

Mr. William Field Wood, son of Mr. J. F. Wood, M. P., Hastings, has returned home from Germany, where for two years he has been a student at the University of Berlin.

The Rev. Andrew's Presbyterian Church new Cathedral glass windows are being put in place. These will add much to the appearance of the edifice. Mr. John Bell, R. C. A., and Mrs. Robertson will soon have placed in the church memorial windows of artistic design.

A new sidewalk is being put down on a portion of the west side of Front Street. The work is being done none too soon.

The Barbarians

Ever since the Christian era began, there has been pressure from the northeastern part of Europe. Wild tribes have come tumbling down out of those regions to seek more room to live, and to try and wrest by conquest the territory already settled by other tribes or nations.

The Greek civilization had given way before the Roman. Then followed other tribes after them. The Britains until Europe gradually took their present form.

Now, the dictionary tells us that a barbarian is a wild, uncultured person, who is not a Christian. When you think of that description and realize the threat of more tribes coming tumbling down, it is easy to see how history threatens to repeat itself.

There were the Huns, the Goths, the Vandals, the Visigoths, the Franks, the Angles, and the others. The Angles went to England to England and they settled there with the Saxons to form the kindred of what is now Great Britain The Franks were shoved across Europe The Huns went into Central Europe. Steadily the pressure came from the North and East. That is where the pressure is coming from which not only set the stage for the last war, but which is the real cause of this war.

In 1914 the Germans wanted to expand into France and they invaded French territory. Through the long years to drive them back. In 1939 Germans still kept up the pressure only this time they stepped into Poland as a preliminary to making a running start into France and Rumania.

The shove of Russia into Poland has brought the historic facts into the limelight for those who are an attempt to write new history on pages similar to those that have been written to Europe since Christianity came to the Western World.

Russia has moved her soldiers into Poland with orders that they are to occupy all the land they can snatch without any fuss with Germany. Russia has tried to crush Christianity and Hitler and his Nazis may be calling on God to help them and Germany now, but before the era the Nazi leaders were belittling the Christian faith. That puts both the Russians and Germans in the barbarian class, which includes the wild, uncultured people.

With the Russians and Germans massed in the Northeastern and Central Europe there is once more the barbarian tribes threatening to overrun the countries of the West and North to engulf Europe.

The question is what Russia plans to do next. Even Hitler must get a headache trying to figure out what Stalin has in his mind. The Nazi leader can be sure of one fact. That is that Russia will pounce whenever and wherever the bear thinks there is a chance to gain something without too much fighting.

The German High Command must realize by this time that it would be foolish to leave the new Russo-Germanic frontier in Poland unguarded. If Nazi divisions were withdrawn from there in large numbers there would always be the temptation to waltz his own right into the new German area which would mean even a Hun and Goths took over territory in the Rhine area.

In the old days the Caesars in Rome had to leave the defending lines to go to the frontiers to lead the legions when the barbarian chiefs were down and conquered Rome. Attila, the leader of the Huns, was called the "Scourge of God."

The parallel of today carries right along. A few years ago Mussolini was the original modern Caesar leader. The Duce blustered and stormed and was going to fight any nation that Hitler overwhelmed. Mussolini in a bloodless battle, when he put the pressure on the Duce and compelled him to accept the Anschluss in the Germanization of Austria. After that, Mussolini knew that he had been shoved aside as the Number 1 Fascist leader. Italy took her orders from Berlin not from Rome.

But, when Hitler wanted Poland, and by a fake deal with Russia to which the Russians entered an agreement with the Germans, Hitler gave his place to Stalin, just as effectively as Mussolini had stepped aside for Hitler.

Now we have Hitler faced with Russian troops on his Northeastern frontier. True enough, those Russian soldiers are supposed to be friendly with Germany, but the Nazis know they cannot be too sure about that.

The British and the French wish to continue to live in democracy in Western Europe. The rest of the world wants to live in security, and to crush the threat of the Russian and German barbarians from rolling out of the North to spread their barbarism throughout other nations.

Britain and France understand the extent of the threat the barbarians are to civilization. Other nations are actually appreciating what is going on. The United States realizes that Hitlerism must be crushed, or America will be threatened some day. The new "Scourge of God" must be put in his range and have to be checked.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

The Sick Child Should Be Treated Naturally

One of the excuses made for a boy or girl of teen age who is selfish, spoiled, ill behaved, lacking courage, or demands his own way, is that he was a weak child or had had many illnesses.

It is only natural that when a youngster is ailing, the family, particularly the mother, is likely to be over careful of him. He finds gradually almost every whim gratified, pillows, shading the sun or lights, asking him his wishes, and the various ways making him feel how important he is to her. It is only a wonder that more children should be delicate or be attacked by a number of childhood diseases. There are advantage of the mistaken kindness of the household. Even between attacks of illness they are the same "kind" treatment.

Some very sensible advice is given to parents and others by Elizabeth Cotten, Hamilton, Texas, in Hygeia, Health Magazine.

"Even though special care is necessary, a child should be treated as naturally as possible during an illness and particularly during the time he is just recovering from the illness."

The surroundings of the child during illness should be such that he does not become unduly conscious of himself. The sick child as well as the sick adult needs to be let alone. He should not be asked many questioned concerning what he wants or how he feels. Neither should he be allowed to get the idea that being ill is a privilege because of the outside attention it brings.

From the physical standpoint, when the child is getting better it is important not to let him damage his heart by being up on his feet too soon. He may be very restless to be up and play.

Many children are injured permanently because they are allowed to run about before they should be well. No child should be out of bed following such illness as rheumatic fever, scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria, or whooping cough until his temperature has been normal for twenty-four to forty-eight hours."

Treating the sick child naturally until he gets well, and then is recovering, and not letting him get up too soon, and not allowing him to first gets up, are the lessons we learn from the above advice.

IF NEIGHBORS NEED GUNS

Kansas City Star.

In connection with the events in Europe, as the days go by, there is a growing rush over into another part of town to help the others there defend themselves against a mad dog that is running wild. It's got to the neighbors in the block who allowed the dog to get loose to look out for them.

Still, if the neighbors want to buy a gun from us to help defend their homes, we would soon profess to sell it to them. Then there would be much less chance for the mad dog's getting down our way later on.

Rats and Poliomyelitis

One of the most interesting of recent developments in the research directed to finding a cure or a preventive for infantile paralysis is the revelation that rats may be the source of the infection that has played such havoc in recent years. Scientists now seem to suggest that this is one of the most promising discoveries in connection with the effort to solve the problem of poliomyelitis that has baffled medical science thus far.

Experiments have shown that the rat is one of two members of the lower animal kingdom that can be infected by the germ that causes infantile paralysis. It is suggested that rats may be the "reservoir" from which this destructive germ emerges naturally to strike down human beings. This supposition is based on more vigorous processes of rat extermination, which would be a splendid objective, for many reasons.

The rat is found in almost every country in the world. It is notoriously destructive in its habits and loathsome in the habits of its people. It is impossible to estimate the extent of the damage done by rats throughout the world, in a year, but it could be reckoned only by billions. And yet humanity seems to tolerate the existence of this destructive animal with a sort of resignation that is somewhat pathetic in view of its capacity for damage. Certain types of rats are known to be carriers of the dread bubonic plague and it does not require a great stretch of the imagination to bring one to the realization that here might be found the origin of infantile.

The rat is to be found in many localities where children play during the summer. It is just possible that it is the carrier of the fatal bacteria, since science has pointed the finger of suspicion at this rodent, it would be an excellent precaution to adopt active steps to effect extermination of rats on an organized basis. Provincial governments or municipal councils might take the lead. It is doubtful whether he should be destroyed because of the tremendous capacity to ruin valuable commercial resources.—Woodstock Sentinel Review.

Well-Advetised Most Called for Analysis Showed

Canadians seem to have pretty much the same food likes and dislikes whether they live in Maritime Provinces or British Columbia.

The Bureau of Advertising of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association finds that in canned goods, for instance, well-advertised brands hold a dominating position in the markets.

The bureau conducted the most comprehensive analysis of the market for consumer products ever undertaken in Canada. Seventy-two Canadian daily newspapers from coast to coast co-operated in making the survey, which covered 53 kinds of commodities was published in each city every day for 28 days and thousands of the forms were filled out by housewives.

The 292-page report, just issued under the title "Canada's Consumer Survey" deals particularly with food products and includes beverages, cereals, flour and baked goods shortening, soaps, cleansers, dyes, paints, oils, tooth washes, drugs, cosmetics, cars, tires, radios, refrigerators, furnaces, tobacco products, housing and rentals.

One feature of the analysis was the multiplicity of the canned goods reported. In the case of brands of bean soup reported, two competed over the whole area, every case five or six brands accounted for from 75 to 90 per cent of the business done.

In many cases the percentage of those reporting the use of specific products varied widely from city to city and the type of product was used the uniformity of consumption levels was apparent.

Survey Objectives

The primary objectives of the survey were to obtain detailed information on (1) percentage of Canadian families using various commodities, (2) average consumption of these commodities per household, and (3) brand use.

The survey questionnaire was developed with the co-operation of the Association of Canadian Advertisers, the Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies, and market research, sales and advertising executives in Canada and the United States.

Before tabulation, 20,000 questionnaires were selected from those received. Distribution of the questionnaires was balanced according to population, with each city census group based on reported rentals and value of homes.

Adequacy of the sample and the statistical compensations for its distribution were discussed in detail with Dr. Robert H. Coats, Dominion Statistician, and members of the staff of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics before tabulation was begun.—(C.P.)

EXPECTING TOO MUCH

The official German news agency avers that of 54 Polish planes that have been shot down on the Western Front, including 22 on one day and eight on another.

The communique says nothing about German aircraft casualties. Are the West propagandists going to think that anyone will believe their airmen have shot down 54 planes without losing any German losses? This type of "news" from Germany does not go much, or how little, confidence can be placed in the statement that emanates from Berlin.—Windsor Star.

Two Professors Make World Trip For 3 Cents a Mile

Round the world at the modest rate of three cents a mile, including both travelling and living expenses, is the achievement of two McGill University professors who are now back in their classrooms with memories of their travelling nearly 40,000 miles during the summer months.

The round-the-world jaunt consumed three months and a summer's research for Dr. R. D. Gibbs, of the department of botany, and Dr. J. Phillips of the department of chemistry. Dr. Gibbs did his share of travelling in one month in the Philippines and Dr. Phillips spent his time with a small library of scientific books.

The journey began as the two professors were rounding the Cape of Good Hope. From then on the travellers were never out of touch forming the appearance of the boat which is to take them to the next available possible enemy raiders.

They left Montreal in the middle of May for New York, where they boarded a freighter carrying scrap steel piles and other goods bound for Japan. The freighter entered the Pacific by the Panama Canal and after going up the coast as far as San Pedro struck across the ocean, stopping at Manilla in the Philippines, where Dr. Gibbs remained while the boat went on to Shanghai and then to Japan. Dr. Phillips left the boat when it came back to Manilla. The course then lay through the Dutch Settlements, and Dutch East Indies, through the Suez Canal and down then back to New York.—Montreal Star.

3 SOVIET GROUPS HOLD VIEWS ON ISSUE WITH FINLAND

Paris, Oct. 13 (CP Havas)—General opinion among authoritative foreign affairs writer, said today in the newspaper L'Oeuvre that conversations between Russia are urging "energetic action" against Finland on the Soviet frontier. They say Stalin holds that establishment of Russian bases on the Aaland Islands would be enough to ensure Russian domination over that country.

Foreign observers in Moscow, Mme. Tabouli said, think that the latter opinion will prevail.

A third group headed by President Mikhail Kalinin, is against all new adventures and would be content with simple development of economic relations between Moscow and Helsingfors, she stated.

Have You Swallowed A WILDCAT?

Sometimes it seems like that, when stomach pains attack you after eating. They are a warning of worse trouble to come if you neglect them. Many who have failed to find relief in any other way have benefited from Mother Seed Stomach Powder. It contains a balanced proportion four separate alkalies which are effective in neutralizing the excess acid from which most of such pain and distress arises. These alkalies sweeten the stomach, stop pain, and eliminate of the fermenting waste, and protect the delicate stomach lining. Be sure to ask for Mother Seed Stomach Powder, which is only genuine if the signature "Mother Seed" appears on bottle and carton. Not sold loose, but only in bottles in cartons, of powder or tablets—at druggists—75c; family size, $1.75. 22c

HELD ON ENTERING CHARGE

Owen Sound, Ont., Oct. 13.—(CP)—Arrested near Dundalk yesterday in connection with the firing of several shots into the door of a Proton township schoolhouse, earlier in the day, 25-year-old Patrick Byrne, of Woodbridge, Ont., was remanded for a week when he appeared in court here today on a breaking and entering charge.

He was charged with breaking and entering a Dundalk hardware store, October 1, but was not asked to plead. Police said other charges would be laid.

PAINTING BY MURILLO FOUND IN PILE OF JUNK

Mexico City, Oct. 13 (AP)—The National Gallery of Fine Arts said today a painting which it attributed to Murillo, 17th century Spanish master, had been discovered in a pile of junk. The picture, entitled "A Rest in the Flight to Egypt," will be added to the National Gallery's collection.

MOVE ON U.S. WORK RELIEF

Washington, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Work Projects Administration reported today that there were 1,832,302 persons on work relief rolls in the United States as of Oct. 4, an increase of 43,588 over the previous week.

The new total was an increase of 173,202 from the 1939 low of 1,560,000 reached last month.

HIMMLER AS PEACE-MAKER

London, Oct. 13 (CP)—The Daily Sketch said today the current visit to Italy of Heinrich Himmler, Chief of German Police, is for the purpose of patching up a quarrel between the Fascist Party over Italy's policy toward Russia.

Alf Marshal Italo Balbo, governor of Libya, is at odds with Achille Starace, Fascist party secretary, "who wished to give Stalin recognition now that Russia is linked with the Nazis", the newspaper said.

Marshal Balbo's newspaper, Corriere Padano, started an anti-communist campaign in the Italian Press this week.

BOY IS WHIRLED ABOUT SHAFT

Banging of Feet Against Ceiling Brings Cheese Factory Helpers to Rescue

Shannonville, Ont., Oct. 12 (CP) —Four year old Douglas Kemp, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kemp of Shannonville here, was climbing over the roof of a low shed in the cheese factory in this Eastern Ontario town when his clothing caught in a coupling of the line shaft. He was whirled around at a speed of 60 revolutions a minute and it was only the banging of his feet on the ceiling at each revolution that brought factory employees to his rescue.

The child was badly bruised and his sweater was choking him, but he was conscious when the shaft was stopped.

POTATO GROWERS WARNED TO ORDER CERTIFIED SEED

Ottawa, Oct. 13 (CP)—Potato growers were warned today to order their certified seed potatoes for next year without delay, to guarantee filling their needs and for the present price levels.

The Department of Agriculture announced there were 2,000,000 bushels of certified seed potatoes now available, but growers in other countries were increasingly appreciative of the quality of Canadian certified seed.

Of the 1938 crop, 1,717,00 bushels were purchased by growers in 17 foreign countries, although only 466,000 bushels of certified seed potatoes were sold in Canada. This meant only one bushel of every 20 planted in Canada was of certified standard and partially explains why Canadian growers are not producing more bumper crops of fine mealy potatoes of top grade, according to the Department.

ARMED MEN ROB 2 SERVICE STATIONS

Toronto, Oct. 13 (CP)—Armed robbers held up two service stations in North York townships within one hour on Thursday afternoon.

C. Armstrong's service station was visited first when four men drove up and asked for gas. After Armstrong had served them, one of the men jumped out of the car and felled the proprietor with a blow to the face. Armstrong's pockets were rifled.

Forty-five minutes later, Leonard Mumford fell a revolver thrust into his back and a masked gunman relieved him of his pouch containing some $30.

Police believe the same gang responsible for both holdups.

HEADS FUNERAL DIRECTORS

Toronto, Oct. 13 (CP)—T. Eldon Yelich, Ottawa, will head the Ontario Funeral Directors' Association as president this year. Other officers elected yesterday were Vice-Presidents, Lorne Doolittle, Orillia, and E. F. Meadows, Woodstock; Secretary, W. M. Morse, Niagara Falls; Treasurer, N. J. Boyd, Mitchell.

New Plan Would Assign Hazardous Jobs to Men Without Families

Budapest, Oct. 13 (AP)—The more children a man has, the less risk he would be asked to take in wartime under a plan the Hungarian Government was disclosed today to be studying.

The plan drawn up by Stefan Gyorffy, University of Budapest professor and president of the Hungarian Ethnographic Society who, just before his death last week, offered it to Premier Count Paul Teleky.

It was proposed that bachelors, childless husbands and fathers of one child be assigned to front lines and other hazardous posts; fathers of two and three children to second lines; fathers of four and five to third lines and fathers of six or more to be exempt.

U. S. Hopes Relations Russia and Finland Remain Peaceful

Washington, Oct. 13 (AP)—The United States' Government, it was learned authoritatively today, is expressing to Soviet Russia its "earnest hope" that nothing may occur calculated "to affect injuriously" peaceful relations between Russia and Finland.

It was also learned that the U.S. has an entirely independent section of the United States' Government.

PARTRIDGE HUNTERS RETURN TO HOMES

Sudbury, Ont., Oct. 13 (CP)—Aurel Brennan, 24, and Aime Chartier, 29, Sudbury partridge hunters believed lost in the bush in the Markstay district, 20 miles east of here, returned home Thursday. They had hunted just a little longer than they had planned at first, they said.

The two men went into the bush Tuesday and last night when they had not returned their wives, fearing they had become lost, went to Markstay to organize a search. The women returned to Sudbury today with their husbands.

MOTOR IS RECOVERED

Toronto Oct. 12 (CP)—Police reported today that a motor boat, longing to Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews, stolen Tuesday night, had been found. The machine was taken from an unlocked garage at the Lieutenant-Governor's residence and was located parked on a street not far away.

GERMAN TANKS FAIL IN PURPOSE

Nature of Terrain, Fortifications Prevent Wide Scale Operation

By AXEL DE HOLSTEIN
Havas Staff Writer

Paris, Oct. 13 (CP-Havas)—The nature of the terrain, the fortifications of the French and their powerful defensive artillery are making it impossible for the Germans to use their tanks on the Western front on the scale employed in Poland, French army officials claim.

At best, the tank can be used in the Maginot-Westwall zone only as an auxiliary to the infantry, cleaning out opposing trenches and artillery posts with foot soldiers to support the attack.

It is in this capacity, and in a limited way, that the French have thus far sent their tanks into action but officials said results have been highly satisfactory. The French armored war-machines have proved themselves impenetrable to the shells of the Nazi anti-tank guns.

The Germans, on the other hand, have been on the defensive, and thus far have not used their tanks at all, it was said. When they do, however, they will find a situation totally different from that which prevailed in Poland.

The tank along the Western front must be relegated for the time being to its traditional but important function of limited thrusts and short engagements, as during the first Great War, with no scope for the wide manoeuvres used by the Germans in Poland and the Italians in Spain.

Long War Ahead, Will Break Germany Says Lord Marley

New York, Oct. 13 (AP)—Lord Marley, Deputy Speaker in the British House of Lords, expressed belief today the war would be a long one with the British "determined to fight to the end".

Describing the current hostilities as a "war of machines and not of men", Lord Marley, arriving on the United States Liner Washington, declared:

"Broadly speaking, the war on the Western Front is a modern defensive operation. We are not going to break our backs against a steel barrier, but that is what Hitler has to do.

"I think it will be a long war, but it will break Germany and not us."

Canada's Navy Wants Hitler To Come and Play

Halifax, Oct. 13 (CP)—A broadcast appeal to Adolf Hitler was delivered here today by the men of His Majesty's Canadian navy. It was:

"Won't you come over and play?"

It happened during the program "The Navy Sings", broadcast from the coast to coast Canadian Broadcasting Corporation net work from the naval dockyard here. Singsong leader George Young had the idea for a parody on a well-known song. The tars took it up enthusiastically.

It opened:

"Little Herr Hitler, how do you do?"

And finished:

"You're a nice little fellow, I know by your voice

"But you're always so far away."

H. & P. E. Regiment Now 700 Strong

Bringing the strength of the regiment to approximately seven hundred men, the personnel of "A" and Headquarters Companies of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, formerly located in Trenton, arrived in Picton on Tuesday night. Some three hundred strong the men are now quartered with other companies of the regiment in the Armouries and other buildings made ready for the accomodation of the troops.

Companies from the outlying district have been quartered in the buildings of the Miller Canning Company where accommodations are said to be first-class. Large and well-ventilated, the new quarters are furnished with iron cots and other comforts.

Non-commissioned officers of the regiment are billeted in a house connected with the factory, while Headquarters Company is quartered in the basement of the Armouries. Officers of the unit will be stationed in "Rickerton" home of the late Brigadier General B. R. Rickerton.

Preparations are under way for more extensive training and it's present a squad of marksmen and gunsmiths are checking and aligning gunsights at the shooting range near town. Scores of rifles have been checked by sharpshooters of the unit and already something in excess of 2,000 test rounds have been fired.

Beeton Approves Sale of Beer

Beeton, Ont., Oct. 13 (CP)—Citizens of this village in Simcoe County yesterday voted to repeal Local Option, thus approving sale of beer here. The vote was 203 to 118, five in excess of the required majority for repeal. In a similar vote three years ago, Local Option was approved by a majority of 71.

Mrs. Wm. Hawkins who has spent the past year with her daughter, Mrs. B. E. Monroe, Ashley, has returned to her home in Saskatchewan.

Miss Mae Wallis was hostess at a tea and handkerchief shower yesterday afternoon for Miss Margaret Lally, bride-elect. Last evening Mrs. W. Rogers entertained in honor of Miss Lally, the guests being members of the Reading Club with which Miss Lally has been associated.

Donald A. McKinney of the Marlin Funeral Home Staff has received notice from the Ontario Department of Examiners that he has successfully passed his examinations with honours for his Embalmer, and Funeral Directors Licenses enabling him to practice embalming and conduct funeral directing in the Province of Ontario.

Wednesday evening a surprise shower was given by the staff of the Modern Cleaners and friends of Mr. and Mrs. E. Brunton in honour of their recent marriage, at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. R. Gordon, College Street. About forty guests were present. The staff presented Mrs. Clement with a scented Mr. and Mrs. Brunton with a clock. They also received many other lovely and useful gifts for which they made suitable replies. Dainty refreshments were served and played during the evening. Lunch was served and an enjoyable evening was spent by everyone.

The weekly meeting of the Christ Church A.Y.P.A. held in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening took the form of a surprise party in honor of Mr. A. Bleakney, who is leaving shortly for Toronto. The main entertainment of the evening was a theatre contest most skilfully managed by Miss Annabel Kempston and won by Dick Burns and Edward Griffin. Dancing followed and during lunch Mr. Bleakney was presented with a leather wallet and a small token of appreciation for his able support of the Young People's Committee, singing and "God Save the King" closed the evening.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. C. J. Bateman, Hyman Road, was hostess at a "Daisy" kitchen shower in honour of Miss Donald A. Macpherson, Stirling, a bride-to-be of this month.

Messrs. Wyatt Lent of Chicago, Milton Lent of Michigan, Eli Lent of Toronto attended the funeral of their sister Mrs. B. O. Frederick on Monday. Messrs. Floyd Lent of Toronto and Lambert Lent of Port Hope, nephews of Mrs. Frederick, were present at the funeral. Mrs. Lent is home on Tuesday afternoon after visiting Messrs. C. P. Lent, Cecil Lent and G. I. Frederick.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Mrs. F. E. Wotten, 53 Catharine Street, welcomed the members of the W.C.T.U. at the parlor meeting on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs (Dr.) Moore presided and after the singing of a hymn "Sound the Battle Cry", called on Mrs. Doolittle, who represented the Victoria Avenue Baptist church to read the Scripture and the prayer read by Mrs. Shannon as pianist. Mrs. Hagerman sang an appropriate solo "You Can Smile".

Mrs. Mulholland, the speaker, was introduced by Secretary Mrs. Lee as the W.C.T.U. was then introduced. She spoke on the "Alcohol Education" with all its ramifications which were very instructive and which should prove very effective where teachers and parents use these methods in instructing the youth of our land. How will you answer the girl who says "But Mother it is the smart thing to do to smoke?" Can we have money for dry goods if we spend it on wet goods? Then the Scripture Society leader original enough to substitute a "milk bar" for a "drink-ing bar" in his up-to-date lesson. Break down that double standard in practice that idea of one moral standard for the minister another standard for the pew. "Never weaken the line". One could run through the prose quote all the good things. Mrs. Mulholland's was the one fell that the thirty or forty persons who heard her would be among those to strengthen the lines against the liquor evil. Mrs. J. Wright read the current events.

A county life membership was presented to Mrs. Wilbur Sharpe by Mrs. Reeves.

A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Watson for the happy hour spent in her home and Mrs. O. Sharpe's group consisting of Mrs. Hall, Mrs. W. Sharpe, Mrs. Brain, and Miss Reeves served tea. Mrs. (Dr.) Merwish and Mrs. (Dr.) Cronk assisted at the tea table. The National Anthem closed the meeting.

By VERA BROWN

When the team came hurrying down from the waiting meeting the police could not hold them. They stormed forward, cheering and trying to get autographs. Two big officers took Mike's arms to restrain them and they rushed the mob.

"Dangway!" called the officer who came first. "Give the kid a chance. Look out for his arm!"

Handsome came to meet Mike. He bent and kissed her, just the tip of her nose, as the crowd pressed in close to see. Mike's hat fell off. Handsome picked it up and returned it. Breathless, they landed finally in a taxi. Then it had to wait for Handsome's pass. By that time, the crowd had found them, surrounded the cab again. At last they got away.

"Whew! What a home-coming!" He was grinning. He said ah, "How does the ring look, Mike?" He held her hand to look at it.

"Wish, can't Mike and I get away for today? Get Downey's car? Do we? Will sneak out on Long Island and go for a swim. Whee! I forgot my bet. New York can't win. I'm just a small town boy at heart. You can have your choice."

It sounded wonderful to Mike. To see green trees and the ocean.

"Just a minute," said Handsome's on the radio at 6 o'clock. Mike's a'ccustomed to appear at sports goods store on Broadway from 4 to 4," said Wish regretfully.

"The deuce with that" Handsome declared. "As if Mike's Presbyterian Church, Foxboro. After Hymn 26, Psalm 24, at the responsively, with Bible readings by Mrs. F. Pinkle, at the piano. The thank offering of $3.30 was dedicated. Mrs. Hamblin, group leader, took charge of the following. Allprogram: Hymn 252; reading, Our Mission Study, Mrs. Hamblin; solo by Mrs. G. Frederick. "Trusting in God" by Mrs. Hagerman; for Mrs. J. Lough and Mrs. F. Pinkle. Collection was 53c. After Hymn 240, Mrs. Hamblin closed the meeting with prayer.

"Wish is the way it ended. Even at that breakfast there was no time to eat. The gang at the office mobbed Handsome, insisted on congratulating him at once. Again Wish's arrival prevented the reporters kept them until after 11 o'clock. They managed to get away in an hour's swim, but even that was not quite a success. There were crowds and scores of kids hung around Handsome in and out of the water.

Mike was confounded by all the fanfare. Luncheon was no better. They hardly had ten minutes to themselves before Handsome had to go downtown.

"You go home and rest and meet me for dinner. They'll get tired of this," Handsome told Mike.

It was then Mike and Mike dreaded going back to the apartment. But at least, it would be quiet. She reckoned, however, without the new found fame of the Shannons. Children hung around the street door. She found the flat full of visitors. Even Jimmie's room was crowded. Finally, in self-defense, Mike locked herself in her bedroom and refused to come out. It was her first display of temper. Her nerves were at the snapping point.

As she lay on her bed during the long, hot afternoon she had one comfort. She could wear her ring now. And she liked to see the light catch in its blazing facets.

She had a new silk frock to wear, and that pleased her as she dressed with meticulous care, for dinner.

She could hear the radio squawking from Jimmie's room. It was turned on so he would not miss Handsome's broadcast at 6. Mike was determined not to listen. She was to meet Handsome at Benshaw's at 7 o'clock. But when Handsome's voice sounded through the flat, even Mike could not help listen with a score of visitors.

The white suit was a success Everybody agreed to that. It accented the redness of her hair, and she felt fresh and cool. When she got into the street, a group of waiting boys asked her whether Handsome would come to call that night. She was glad of the subway with its heat, just to shut off inquiring, curious voices and eyes.

News Times Square, Mike walked slowly up to the chop house. She did not want to get there ahead of Handsome. Besides she liked walking up Broadway this hot, summer night. She felt peaceful in the midst of the Broadway din and the swollen crowd. That is not until a newsboy yelled:

"Extra! Handsome's girl!"

People stopped to stare. They recognized her from her photographs. In desperation, Mike got into a cab, her face crimson with embarrassment. But she remembered Wish's warning. She smiled at the newsboy, nodded to the people who put their faces in the cab window as she drove away.

Oh!" Sam Mack against the hot leather. The top of the cab was open to the deepening blue of the sky. The lights were coming out, flashing pale in the late twilight. She was on her way to Handsome, and she was happy.

She was a bit nervous when she came. Several people were there talking to him. He was glad, obviously, to see her, proud of her pretty freshness.

It was after nine when the two made their escape. Out on the street in the warm night, they halted.

"What shall we do, go over to your house? Anything for a little peace?" Handsome said.

"Darling, the house has been full of people since this happened." I suppose so. I hadn't thought of that."

"Half the kids in the block are in front of our apartment waiting for you to bring me home," she added.

"All right. Let's go over and get on a Fifth Avenue bus."

"Not in the dark, honey."

Five minutes later, they climbed up on a bus, took a vacant seat in front. Mike let Handsome order and eat to be a baseball fan, and study they were the centre of all eyes. Handsome's tall frame, his broad shoulders just could not pass unnoticed.

Two girls in the seat across sat for her autograph. Then a crowd in the rush. Finally they gave up.

Handsome put his arm around Mike's ear: "Still want to marry me?"

"Yes!" Mike answered.

Retiring School Inspector, H. J. Clarke, Presented With Watch at 'Farewell' Banquet

Active in South Hastings School Affairs for Period of 32 Years

MRS. CLARKE HONORED

Teachers Present Gracious Lady With Bouquet of 32 Roses

Beautifully symbolic of the watch, and what he has kept over his inspectorate for the past thirty-two years; emblematic of the faith and efficiency with which he carried out his duties, and a tangible proof of the love, esteem and regard which thousands of public school students, their teachers, and representatives of every walk of life with whom he has come in contact before, during and after his tenure of office, hold for him, a handsome gold watch was presented to retiring Public School Inspector H. J. Clarke, at a "farewell" banquet held in the Trenton Legion night at the Hotel Quinte by members of the South Hastings Inspectorate Teachers Association.

And representing the deep love and affection which Mrs. Clarke had instilled by her lovely personality and charm by the side of her husband's teachers, was the lovely bouquet of thirty-two Johnny Jump Up Beauty roses one for each year of "active service" in the inspectorate, presented to her by representatives of the association.

One hundred and forty-three teachers, ex-teachers, municipal officials, educationists, personal friends and intimately connected with Inspector Clarke, paid personal tribute to the long and faithful service of unselfish service to the public schools and the pupils of the inspectorate.

Many Guests

There was laughter, gaiety and color in the banquet hall of the Trenton Legion, as the guests impermeated the whole. Gaiety in the carefree conversation, and the spontaneous singing, and color in the beautifully - gowned women guests, resplendent in their fall and winter finery, and that color was set by the conventional black-and-white of the men.

Prominent among the guests were Russell Wotten, Chairman of the Belleville Board of Education, and Mrs. Wotten, Inspector J. Pickering, Inspector Clarke's successor to retiring Inspector Clarke, the Rev. Dr. Semple, Mr. F. Pettely and Dr. Locke, members of the Board of Education, Reeve Ross Hubbs, Deputy Reeve and Mrs. Robson, Reeve George Bush of Sidney, Mrs. Clarke and Miss Rickard, who did a splendid job in leading the community singing, Mr. Harry Sager, chairman of the Trenton Board of Education, and others.

Members of the association who took prominent parts were Principal A. C. Wilkin, of Queen Victoria School, Belleville, Principal M. Cox, Trenton, Principal G. W. Anderson, of Queen Alexandria School, Belleville, Miss Everett Fairman, Miss Black, Mr. Ross Thompson, Mr. Ross Bowerman to the King, and last but not least Mr. Milton Fowler and Miss Helen Fowler, who rendered the beautiful part of the function.

Chairman Wilkin's opening remarks were brief. He humorously referred to Inspector Clarke's popularity during his association with Inspector Clarke making special reference to his affectionate "Doomsday Book", a clear concise record of the school inspected afterward, of every teacher and the school in which they were teaching, during his supervision during his thirty-two years of service.

Hosh Marks Presentation

A delightful musical hour hosh fell over the assemblage as Principal G. W. Anderson arose to read the address and make the presentation. Forgotten was the inspector, but with genial camaraderie that bespoke the happy association that existed between the teachers of this inspectorate.

Deep sincerity, tinged with a feeling of regret at losing a beloved friend and Inspector was plainly evident in his address. In a sudden silence that fell as Mr. Anderson started his address. It followed:

"Dear Mr. Clarke:

"We, the teachers of the Inspectorate of South Hastings, have gathered here this evening with but a single purpose in our hearts, and that is to pay tribute to a man whom we all have respect and admire: a man who has been the official representative of the department of Education in this Inspectoral Division for over thirty years.

"It is with a sense of the inadequacy of words that we attempt to express our thoughts on this occasion. Whatever appreciation for particular pursuits nature may bestow upon her children, she conducts none but the laborious to distinction. That you possessed the special aptitudes for your chosen profession has been manifestly shown through the years, until today, on your retirement, you are regarded by all as a man who has filled his office with the greatest efficiency.

"Those attributes of character and those abilities which brought such outstanding success have left their mark not only on the teaching body under your supervision but upon the children of this inspectorate, whom you love, and who love you. How many of them you have inspired with your own ideals of life, thus enabling them to climb the ladders of success and distinction, you will never know."

"It has been said that:If we sow good services, sweet remembrances will grow from them. The good services have been many, and our kindest thoughts and remembrances will always be a hovering around you."

"In your sympathetic understanding, your kindly guidance, your wise counsel, your unfaltering interest and your inspiring personal touch, we can only thank you."

"Accept, then, this token of appreciation, as a mark of our esteem, we ask you to accept this watch."

"He gives no gift who gives to thee
Unless within the gift he give
Of self some share.

"He gives best-gifts who giving
Gives
Of worldly store.
Gives free his friendship, love and trust,
We give no more."

"As you have so graciously and kindly referred to us, may I say that ever remind you of our pleasant association, especially the kindly and never effece from our memories.

That your future may have:
Hours—filled with joy and heart's desire
Days—glad and bright clear through.
And Years—that bring each in its turn
No happiness to you.
Is our dearest wish."
(Signed) Mary A. Cowan, President.
C. I. Frederick,
Secretary.

Miss Mary Cowan, president of the Association, then graciously presented the handsome watch to Mr. Clarke.

Visibly Affected

The banquet hall reverberated with a round of applause, as he arose, visibly affected by the gift and its import. Again that reverent hush, as the idol of the South Hastings Inspectorate arose to his feet.

He was visibly affected. His head was bowed as he began. "It is not often that I am speechless, as you all know," he said, "but at the present moment I am totally unable to express adequately my appreciation of this demonstration of your feelings toward me. I am surprised and touched as much beyond what I expected, that it leaves me practically without a word to say from the bottom of my heart, I thank you. It is something I shall never forget."

Referring to his associations with the teachers, Inspector Clarke said, "I have tried to treat you all fairly, and I have had your support you gave me," and turning to Mr. Pickering seated at his side Mr. Clarke said, "If you get that support, you will have nothing to worry about. They are a splendid, loyal group of teachers." Turning to the teachers he closed with, "Again, from the bottom of my heart, I thank you".

Dr. Semple Tribute.

The Rev. Dr. James Semple in brief but simple tribute, said, "As Mr. Clarke's minister I have found him exceedingly kind. In my travels across the country I have met a great many inspectors, but I have never lived in any inspectorate where anyone was so universally loved by teachers and pupils. According to Mr. Pickering, the speaker assured him that the loyalty and esteem given Mr. Clarke would be given him.

Interspersed among the presentations and addresses were vocal solos by Miss Phyllis James, James Bankier, and clever readings by Miss Mildred Lloyd. Accompaniments were played by Miss Mayhee and Mr. Leo Riggs. All numbers were cleverly given and greatly appreciated.

The Rev. R. Rickard, son-in-law of Mrs. Clarke, conducted community singing that was greatly enjoyed by the assemblage.

Another feature of the evening was the handsome programs, products of the ingenuity of design and workmanship of teachers of Queen Alexandra and Queen Victoria schools.

Mr. V. K. Greer, chief inspector of public and separate schools, officially attended through pressure of work, sent his regrets at being unable to be present. A wire tribute to Mr. Clarke was conveyed in a telegram sent by Secretary C. I. Frederick, who was also unable to be present through illness, but sent regrets. The letter says in part:

"Dear Mr. Clarke was at one time my Public School inspector when I was Principal of Tweed Public and Continuation School and I have regarded him over the years as one of the outstanding men in the profession and I have appreciated on many occasions his warm expressions of friendship."

"We officials are very sorry that because of age limitations in the Public Service, Mr. Clarke is no longer with us for our inspectorate's group."

Yours very sincerely,
V. K. GREER.
Chief Inspector of Public and Separate Schools.

FARMER ADMITS

He moved out at midnight and next day the house, but a half hour after he was away it was struck by lightning and burned to the ground during the storm. Neighbors searched the ruins, thinking Cesser dead, and he was able to watch them form his hay-stack where he constructed a cosy hideaway with tree branches.

In Stack Two Weeks

He stayed there for two weeks, stealing out at night to get apples from a nearby orchard. This was his only food. Tiring of this life, however, he showed up at the home of his brother, Harry Ceaser, yesterday and announced he wasn't dead at all, published reports to the contrary.

He told relatives he had been kidnapped by two thugs who whisked him away to Southampton in an automobile and held him in a shack for two weeks and gave him only apples to eat. He said they kept him bound all that time.

No Charge Laid

Provincial Police questioned Cesser, broke down his story by pointing out that his shoes showed no sign of his supposed hike along paved roads from Southampton to Owen Sound, that his body showed no sign of his having been bound and that he was in good physical shape.

Admitting the kidnap story a hoax, Ceaser then told how he hid out in the hay-stack on Reginald Atkinson's farm. Sure enough, the lower rungs there as he described it. Police said they do not think Ceaser set fire to his house, but that it actually was struck by lightning. They have laid no charge.

Held for questioning in connection with the death in Almonte Wednesday of Donald Gillis, 36, Francis McGillivray, 28, was remanded a week when he appeared in court here on a trespassing charge. Gillis died in hospital here as result of injuries received when he fell from a Canadian Pacific Railway box car.

McGillivray told police they boarded the box car at Arnprior and as the train neared Almonte an argument developed during which they fell to the ground. McGillivray was not injured, but Gillis suffered head injuries and a fractured hip.

JIM DONAHUE M.M. ENLISTS AT PICTON

Member of Ontario Intelligencer Editorial Staff Joins R. & P. E. Regt.—Served in Last War in Russia and France—Won Military Medal

This morning when the editorial staff of this newspaper settled down for the daily grind, a familiar face was missing.

There was a vacant chair in front of the "Royal". The roll-top desk was closed. The familiar staccato of swiftly-moving typewriter keys was not audible. Querying eyes of reporters gazed about them.

Then came the word, "Jimmy has enlisted." It was true. The former artilleryman who saw service on the steppes of Siberia with the Canadian gunners during the last war, had answered the call of King and Country for the second time in his colorful career, and is now a private in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, stationed in Picton.

And there is not the slightest doubt that Private James Donahue, late of the reportorial staff of The Ontario Intelligencer will uphold the traditions made by himself and gallant comrades in the last war.

Will Be Missed

Jimmy will be missed. His clever writings, born in the recesses of a skilled newspaper brain, his uncanny ability to unearth news, that is one of the prime requisites of a good newspaperman, and his keen power of observation, were some of the factors that made him one of the most colorful members of the fourth estate in this district.

He was born in a hard school of journalism. In the swiftly moving newsrooms of American metropolitan dailies, Jim got his baptism of newspaper fire. He came through unscathed with an experience in the melting pot of various newspapers that welded him into a clever whole. In Detroit, in Chicago he became a cog in the wheels of newspaper machinery.

Had Splendid Record

He had a splendid record in the last war. For three and one-half years he served with the Canadian Artillery. He emerged a veteran, but on his breast gleamed the ribbon of the Military Medal.

He had been on the staff of this newspaper for seven years and during that time had made a host of friends, in addition to those boyhood pals with whom he attended school and with whom he enjoyed his youth. He is a son of Ex-Alderman William Donahue of this city.

A splendid soldier overseas, Jim will easily fall back into the old familiar routine, and his experience in things military, and ability to impart his knowledge should make him a valuable asset to Lieut.-Col. Sherman Young and his officers of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Best of luck, Pal.

R. M. C. CADETS BIDDEN FAREWELL

Forty - Three Graduates Wished God Speed and Safe Return by Defence Minister

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 13 (CP)—The words "God speed and safe return" still ringing in their ears, 43 gentlemen cadets, now full-fledged army men, of Royal Military College proceeded today to active posts in Canada's fighting forces.

Defence Minister Rogers bade goodbye to the cadets last night at a graduation dinner. Under peacetime conditions the youths, about 20 years of age or under, would graduate in June, 1940. Due to war, graduation has been speeded up. The class which would graduate in 1941 will leave at Christmas.

Mr. Rogers said the decision to enter the war was the only possible decision when Canada had to choose between war and the surrender of principles vital to free institutions and the chosen way of life. He was confident the cadets would uphold the best traditions of the College and of the Canadian Corps in the last war.

Prior to the dinner, the Minister made a tour of the old and new military quarters in one of the oldest military centres in the Dominion. Kingston's military history dates back to the French regime when Count Frontenac built his first fort here in 1673.

Mr. Rogers inspected a score or more huts being built to house the signal corps for the Canadian Active Service Corps and on the site of old Fort Frontenac he noted the quarters of artillery units and the stores for most of Military District No. 2.

Sober judgment and a firm resolve preceded Canada's decision to enter the war, Mr. Rogers told the graduates. "We were compelled at the last to choose between war and the surrender of principles which are vital to our free institutions and our chosen way of life," he said. "With the issue thus joined only one answer was possible.

"We have given that answer in clear and ringing tones that have echoed around the world. Canada has entered this war with a deep conviction that her cause is just, and an abiding faith that whatever trials may be in store for us, that cause must prevail to the end."

IN CANADA
It's Apple-Time
RIGHT NOW!

A MESSAGE TO EVERY CANADIAN

We have been notified that as a result of conditions brought about by the war, the largest shipments of apples from Canada this year will be those of approximately 15,000,000 bushels shipped to Great Britain in 1917-18. It is never possible to dispose annually of the total apple crop in Canada as part of the crop is used up by the home consumption and a considerable quantity is allowed to dry and can be disposed of in the following year.

The Department of Canada has already announced its plans of purchase and preparations are now being made through the Dominion Department of Agriculture to carry on a similar purchasing, grading and inspecting service for the purpose of buying and inspecting the fruit and storing it for shipment to Great Britain. The grading of standards of this country, and not only the public buying here as contemplated, but also the grading of apples that will be available for export, will be carried on in accordance with the high quality apples call for particularly. Fruit growers in this district are requested to bring their fruit in to the packing houses as soon as possible and will be willing to co-operate in the handling, packing and shipping of apples. Consult your local representative of the Dominion Fruit Branch for further particulars and for more details. This would be a good time for new marks. This would help the problem.

JAMES G. GARDINER, Minister.
Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa

The PERFECT Fruit
at the Peak of PERFECTION . . .

JUICY, perfectly-ripened Canadian apples are in . . . fresh from Canada's finest orchards! Plenty of them, too — those that normally would be exported overseas, as well as our own usual, generous supply. And — thanks to the higher minimum grade requirements — there are greater-than-average qualities of the finer, fancier, higher-grade eating apples.

So, all through this year's apple season, order liberal quantities of Canadian apples . . . for eating, cooking, entertaining . . . and for jellying and preserving. You'll enjoy them immensely — and you'll be doing your country a SERVICE at the same time.

And remember, Canadian apples are Government Graded. Ask to see the grade-mark on the container when you buy!

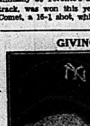
OUTSIDER WINS CANADA'S RICHEST TWO-YEAR-OLD EVENT

Richest of Canadian races for juveniles, the $6,000 added Mrs. Orpen's Cup and Hamper race, run annually at Toronto's Long Branch track, was won this year by Dark Comet, a 16-1 shot, which had ventured once in six previous starts. Second place went to Whistler Park, Wm. Hipping Stock Farm's Burning Stick; as all the favorites, such as they were, finished out of the money.

Rose Mountain was third. It was the third annual renewal of the race, inaugurated by Mrs. Abe Orpen, wife of the late racing magnate and builder of the Long Branch track. The picture shows the first two horses finishing.

GIVING THE HOT STOVE FANS SOMETHING TO WORK ON



BABE DAHLGREN

HANK GREENBERG

GEORGE McQUINN

Sustenance of baseball during the fall and winter months, the justly famed hot stove league is swinging into its 1939-40 verbal sessions now that the world series has been duly recorded in the minutes. Among the chief topics are shifts around the first base in the American League, involving, possibly, Babe Dahlgren of the Yankees, Hank Greenberg of Detroit and George McQuinn of St. Louis. The Yanks, never a team to miss a bet that will add strength to the line-up, are said to be after either Greenberg or McQuinn to replace Dahlgren, a fancy fielder but weak hitter despite his showing as the first two world series games. Greenberg might leave Detroit with the Tigers counting on using Rudy York, their heavy-hitting problem, first baseman who was originally in the Yankee chain until sold to the hopeless Browns, where he has languished and failed in high-class style for the past two years. It's all pretty much guesswork but it keeps the baseball anxiety glowing. Imagine pitching to Dahlgren, Greenberg and Ivan Rodriguez one after the other!!!

Varsity-Western Grid Battle May Be Most Important Test Of Intercollegiate Schedule

Western Team Has Never Won a Game in Toronto Since 1931

ARGOS MEET TIGERS

Tricolor at Kingston Have Chance for First Win Against Old McGill

JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Affable Bill Stevens ushers his greatest University of Western Ontario football team into Varsity Stadium tomorrow for what may be the most important test of the Intercollegiate union schedule.

That Western brings a more dazzling backfield than ever, plus something he lacked sometimes in the past—a sturdy line to give the backfielders leverage. The Musingas, about three deep in power in the half-line and two deep up front, are out to upset the Varsity Stadium jinx that has haunted Sherwin Title dreams all these years.

Not since 1931, when Joe Breen coached Western's only championship football team, have the purples triumphed in Toronto. Any time Toronto wasn't just too good, the breaks interfered or Western's linemen couldn't make way for the flashiest backs in the league.

Toronto's Dominion champion Argonauts, winners over Montreal Royals in their interprovincial union curtain-raiser last week, journey to Hamilton to renew their long feud with the Tigers. Ottawa Rough Riders, who swamped Manitoban last week, will try to do the same thing to Ted Reeve's Royals in the other big four game.

Orfims Go To Sarnia

Peterborough Orfims will seek something like the sanding they ship pelled against Sarnia last week when they meet the Imperials at Sarnia in an Ontario union contest. Toronto Balmy Beach, after a bye week, plays Hamilton Tigers Day, will step into Montreal to play the Westmounts, who lead the league after their first start against Peterborough.

The biggest crowd — perhaps 18,000 if the weather is right—and the most exciting display will be at Toronto. Whether Western's ballcarriers do everything they should do or not, the London school still has the best hand to throw since the war, will count about 1,000 of the noisiest fans.

Only Cec Gulliman, formerly of Balmy Beach, will be missing from the Western line through injuries. Wally Hillion and Claude Moore will rejoin the big backfield which the coaches players can do it, several things well than any interfraternity team ever had before.

For this battle, which some farsighted observers say might determine whether Western is to go through the season unbeaten, Toronto will have to play without quarterback Murray Scott, snapback Turner and pounding halfback Jim MacDonald. Injuries to those three have made the home side a decided underdog.

But there still are memories of others years to convince Bill Stevens they can win this time. Then, too, there's a glowing review and the health of Jack Plaxton in their backfield, one of the best young passers to come up in the East in three or four years.

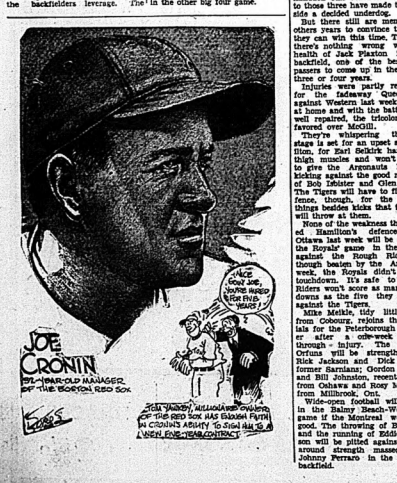
Injuries were partly responsible for the fadeaway Queen's did against Western last year. Playing at home and with the battered line well repaired, the tricolor will be favored over McGill.

They're whispering that the stage is set for an upset at Hamilton, for Earl Selkirk has twisted high muscles and won't be able to give the Argonauts his best kicking against the good right foot of Bob Trimbee, veteran Tiger flash. The Tigers will have to find a defence, however, for the 40 other things besides kicks that the Argos will throw at them.

None of the weakness that marked Hamilton's defence against Ottawa last week will be a part of the Royals' game in their stand against the Rough Riders. Although beaten by the Argos last week, the Royals didn't allow a touchdown. It's safe to say the Riders won't score as many touchdowns as the five they made against the Tigers.

Mike Latki, fifty little kicker from Cobourg, rejoins the Imperials for the Peterborough encounter after a one-week lapsing through injury. The desperate Orfims will be strengthened by Rick Jackson and Dick Oulmet, former Sarnian; Gresham Robinson and Bill Johnston, recent arrivals from Oshawa and Rory McPherson from Millbrook, Ont.

Wide-open football will prevail in the Balmy Beach-Westmounts game if the Montreal weather is good. The throwing of Bus Young and the running of Eddie Thompson will be pitted against the all-around strength massed around Johnny Ferraro in the Montreal backfield.



TONIGHT HUME ARENA WRESTLING 8.30 P.M.

BLOCK THAT KICK ! ! !

From the American gridiron and ice traveling nobody you have probably ever heard of. This picture still packs plenty of punch. The kicker for the University of California team (named Smith, incidentally) has just booted in time, as a St. Mary's opponent flies through the air towards his feet in a vain effort to block the kick. Blocking kicks is not much fun for the blocker and it's easy to see what might have happened had this one got in there a few seconds sooner. That shoulder at the right belongs to the secondary blocking the blocker.

HAWKS PUT IN WEEK OF TRAINING

Chicago Will Play Series of Exhibition Games Before Opening of Season

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 13.—(AP)—One week of training out of the way, Chicago Black Hawks' National League Hockey Club was preparing today for a series of exhibition games, in Hibbing and St. Paul, before start of the regular campaign at Chicago, November 2.

The squad in training camp numbers 24 and includes 14 Rookies, a half dozen of whom are just out of Canadian amateur ranks and the others from minor professional leagues.

Looking best among the freshmen are Lee Cunningham, George Allen, Phil Hergenhahner, Bill Sarne and Des Smith, all of whom were in minor leagues last year.

Coach Paul Thompson, who received the coaching appointment to succeed Bill Stewart, near the close of last year's campaign, faces a big task in moulding his club.

Due to the large number of players in camp he has found it necessary to hold practices twice daily, dividing the men into two squads.

In addition to the large number of Rookie forwards and defencemen the Hawks have two freshmen goalies in camp, Frank McCool, Seattle, and Paul Goodman, last year with Tulsa of the American Hockey Association.

Presence of the two Rookie netminders indicates the Hawks may not be satisfied with the work of Veteran Mike Karakas who hails from Enderly, located about 30 miles from Hibbing in the Minnesota iron ranges.

'Killer' Keller Did Not Reckon On Home Folks

Frederick, Md., Oct. 12 (AP)—Old Man Keller didn't like it very much, but he's a hero to a lot of people who want to shake his hand and have him autograph two home runs in a World Series game.

Frederick, Maryland's Mid-Atlantic City—Bobby Green, 134, dletown High School team, came home Wednesday with only a little of what his public rough idea of what his public welcomed planned for him. If he had any hope for a vote for the Yankees' anti-Cincinnati campaign, he found he had reckoned without his hosts—the ones who wanted to give him dinners.

The home bands planned a parade to escort him from his new house to the ballpark at the fair, but he would have none of it. He drove to the hotel like a king in lodge and got some dinner after a lot of handshaking. There were speeches by Dr. C. H. Byrd, University of Maryland coach, Burton Shipley, University president and Al Heagy, Keller didn't talk very much, but he said he was grateful for the automatic shotgun the home folks presented him and he'll use it like a hunter—in the days when he had some leisure.

Last night he was Exhibit "A" at the state-wide Conservation Exhibition in Frederick's armories—they called him "Future Farmer No. 1." He was a guest of the Kiwanis booster organization when he lived in Middletown and left for the big time back to farming sometime. After his first year with the Newark Bears in International League he went back to the University and took his degree in agriculture.

Tonight he will be made an honorary member of the Baltimore Y.M.C.A. Boys' Club. Next Thursday is Charlie Keller Day at the University of Maryland at College Park. He will be guest of honor at a military review and of undergraduate rally.

He has a brother, Hugh; a junior at the University now. An inch shorter, Hugh is nicky like Charlie who led the World Series batting with a .438. Hugh bats better than .400.

Sports Roundup

(Eddie Brietz)
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, Oct. 13—(AP)— Forget these reports that the Yanks gave Charley Heller—beg pardon—Keller, a new contract and a fat raise during the train trip from N.Y. to Cincinnati . . . Yankee contracts won't go out until February.

All the New York papers are howling because Gehrig's appointment as parole commissioner . . . is the reason Pittsburgh University medalists are not interesting the watch this year is that Bowser has been playing a more open game . . . once they were caught passing on fourth down, shelp us . . .

Mike Jacobs suddenly lost all interest in Lou Nova and is whistling Max Baer back into the boxing boneyard . . . . Football men say Ky Aldrich, former Texas Christian coach, and Ernie Childs, Cards, will be the best centre in pro ball when Bulldog Turner . . . .

McCarty's gone a-hunting . . . But not to bag a bunting . . . He's looking for a white rabbit . . . To wrap his series dollars in.

Today marks the introduction of six-man rugby into the senior intermediate series of the Belleville Collegiate clashing with Frank Cunningham's C.B.I.S. squad. Six-man football was first introduced into this country by George Laughlin, physical director of the R.C.I. over two years ago, but the game has developed considerably since that and is now accepted as part of the C. E. S. and C. O. S. U. setups. When the rules of the game were compiled those in charge tried to make them elastic enough to suit the occasion and simple in their application. The principal rules and regulations read as follows:—

SIX-MAN RUGBY teams consist of six players with four alternates. In the event of a player being ruled off for the game, the team may replace him with a substitute, but must suffer a penalty of five yards from the place where the offense was committed. The object being that six men are playing on each side continuously throughout the game. While substitutes are allowed at any period of the game, no player may take part more than once in any one quarter. There are, of course, the usual major penalties for unbecoming conduct. No team penalty can exceed five yards or one down and five yards for the failure to have the necessary yards to gain or waiting for a catch on a kicked ball or for each play.

The playing field for the six-man game shall be approximately 80 yards long from goal line to goal line and 40 yards wide from touchline to touchline, with end zones extending 15 yards back of the goal to deadball lines. In addition, the field should be marked at 10-yard intervals extending from touch line to touch line, 30 yards from each goal line and at the centre of the field. Playing time is divided into four periods of ten minutes each. By mutual agreement, however, the game can be played in four periods of either eight minutes as a minimum or a maximum of 12 minutes. There should be a reasonable rest period at half-time of not more than ten minutes.

SCORING RULES for the six-man game include one point for a safety touch, rouge and goal. Three points for placement kick and field kick and five points for a try. No score shall be made by forcing a player in possession over his own goal line. At the end of each quarter, teams change ends, and the ball played in same relative position as when time out was called. This eliminates the kick-off at half-time.

With the elimination of the safety touch, a play of this kind will be scored as a rouge for one point. After a score of any kind has been scored against them a kick off from their thirty-yard line, as at the commencement of the game. Change of each side too, for choice, winner to kick off from his 30-yard line. Right to decline which end his side will defend. If ball goes out of bounds on kick-off, the ball must be kicked off again by the same team but be penalized five yards back of their 30-yard line. For second offense, the penalty is the loss of ball and the none-offending side given possession and for third ball scrimmage the ball as first down at centre field, the for no circumstances may a side be permitted to kick off more than twice.

Concerning scrimmage, at least three players of the side in possession must be within one yard on their own side of the scrimmage, at the time the ball is scrimmaged. The ball must advance five yards on three consecutive downs. On a scrimmage play interference is allowed by the attacking side up to five yards in advance of the line of scrimmage. Opponents must stand at least three feet away until the ball is in play. The snap must pass back so that the ball travels through the air to another player before passing the line of scrimmage. The rule is intended to curb mass play. There are no hudgings, except at the scrimmage, and no more than 20 seconds is allowed to put the ball in play. The forward pass is allowed, but not on the third down. This is to encourage kicking. Players must wear canvas softball shoes with rubber cleats, and it is suggested that helmets be used. In the forward passing ends of the game the players are eligible as receivers, the passer's side must not be interfered with while attempting to catch the ball. In other words, the passer's side have the right-of-way.

We received an anonymous letter today informing us that Pat Blaker had scored four points for Cobourg against the Toronto Cornell Meds Monday and "anonymous" wants to know if we were acquainted with the fact that Blaker hails from Cobourg. We were well aware of the fact, as we thoroughly chronicled upon Blaker's migration to Cobourg in this column fully a month ago, but thanking our reader that Pat had cinched the snapback position at that line. His ability as a basement kicker needed no eulogizing, however, from the Cobourg squad being called the "tanners", it's purely commercial, "anonymous."

All roads lead to the Hume Arena tonight where three main event wrestling bouts are scheduled. The feature bout-night will be between Rudy Eppe, the little 210-pound grappler from Cobourg, versus The Mask; a be-hooded wrestler whose identity remains a mystery to us. Incidentally "The Mask", has never been beaten since he entered the wrestling tour in Canada. He is advertised as a former world's champion and looked the part when he won over Joe Malch, the former Canadian amateur champ, last week. A second feature bout is carded and brings Sailor Tiger Daniels, a rough and ready grappler from Regina, in against one Pedro Valdez, an equally as tough a Mexican gentleman. Daniels has never tasted the bitter pill of defeat in Belleville and boasts he has won 24 out of 26 bouts, the two terminating in a draw. With the exception of a professional wrestling to the Hume Arena, increased crowds are soon expecting the indoor sport each Friday night.

Rumors are flying around to the effect that if the Brooklyn club buys the Montreal franchise outright in the International league Rogers Hornsby, deposed manager of the Baltimore Birds, will replace Burleigh Grimes as manager of the Montreal club.

Our operator No. 9 1-2 informs us the B. C. I. senior grid squad hasn't held a single practice, and Coach Eddie Schrieder is most unhappy about the whole thing. Schrieder should not let their initial win over Albert go too far to their heads, as an Albert fumble materially helped the B. C. I. squad to victory. Football is one game that demands much practice, primarily because of the short compact season and we therefore hope operator No. 9 1-2 brings in no more distracting information regarding the tardiness of the 'collegians,' relative to indifference to regular practising, as practice makes perfect, they do say.

AT THE BELLE

"THE WIZARD OF OZ"
Twenty years ago this week, L. Frank Baum died in Hollywood a gray frame house he had built as the place to write his Oz books. It was he found to be a sleepy little California village. Twenty years after Baum's death Oz and its characters are still selling at the rate of several hundred a year from his first book, "The Wizard of Oz", written in 1900 and which has sold a million copies. A Technicolor masterpiece has been created by Metro Goldwyn Mayer.

His widow still lives in that house. In the front yard is a lemon palm tree he planted. Although his sign, "Ozcot" was taken down when he died in 1919, people still hunt out the house where the Oz stories were written.

The palm Baum planted in 1911 when he built his home is now huge and growing. In that year, Hollywood Boulevard was just a country street. Today it stands a block from the house, a bustling thoroughfare. The little Baum house is surrounded by great apartments.

In 1911, "movie" folks would timidly ask permission to make scenes around the Baum house. Today, like the palm, the industry has grown. Baum never realized his own "Wizard of Oz" would one day take a year to make, use 9,000 actors, 450 workers on the film, 6,375 work-; representing 185 arts and crafts in the production, employ 3,310 costumes, 4,942 properties, 1,200 settings, 2,312,190 individual sound effects, 85 trick effects, including wind machines, 65 color film and, a quarter million feet of sound track. The fantastic Wizard of the delightful land of Oz never imagined a greater miracle.

Belleville is to welcome the sensational singing star of radio to the Belle Theatre, this week end. Reports of her recent New York concerts were that thousands of people surrounded the block in the rain for hours on end to await the opening. The line began at 4.30 p.m. and at 8.30 p.m. when the theatre was filled to capacity there still remained an aching desire to see and hear the second performance. It has been years since such a picture aroused such enthusiasm.

AT THE McCARTHY

"FOUR FEATHERS"
With the unreeling of Alexander Korda's gripping Technicolor film "Four Feathers", now at the McCarthy Theatre, Belleville, motion pictures are assured of one of the most stirring and finest films they have ever known. The picture was filmed in the Sudan and all the scenes of splendour, colour and tropic hinterland have been caught by the camera in their natural color. Zoltan Korda directed the production and the fine cast has Ralph Richardson in the son, June Dupree, John Clements and C. Aubrey Smith.

"Four Feathers" is the story of the young English officer who will sign his commission because he knows that he is a coward, that he could not stand war. He is branded a coward by his friends in the regiment—by white feathers—and is rebuffed by his fiancee. To retrieve his honor he sets out for Egypt, where Kitchener is embarking on the Sudan campaign. There he undertakes the horrible disguise of a branded dervish, poses as a dumb native and undertakes adventures of heroism and daredevilry which lead to the glorious battle of Omdurman and which save his friends from great peril at the hands of the Mahdi's soldiers.

It is a stirring, more spectacular and brilliant offering than "Four Feathers" has yet been presented by Mr. Korda. The picture includes a stirring story of heroism against tremendous odds, a background superbly photographed in brilliant Technicolor, a cast of actors, Dervishes and Fuzzy-Wuzzies, not to mention the English regiment, numbering all told nearly 4,000 —were handled remarkably by Director Zoltan Korda. The film is further notable for outstanding debuts of the Nile cataracts over which are hauled Kitchener's gunboats just as they were 40 years ago.

Outstanding performances are turned in by the cast of principals as the hero who redeems himself, by June Dupree, Mr. Korda's latest discovery, and Ralph Richardson who is still remembered for his fine characterization as Denny in "The Citadel." The supporting cast headed by Clifford Evans, C. Aubrey Smith, C. Aubrey Smith, Includes Donald Gray, Jack Allen and Clive Baxter whose excellent portrayals add immeasurably to the acting strength of "Four Feathers." This new Korda offering, with its glorious natural settings, its fast-moving action scenes, its thrilling romantic moments, its light suspense, must naturally head any list of pictures which can be said to provide social, sure-fire entertainment.

AUCTION SALE

Automatic Finland has announced its determination to conduct an Olympic program next August, legitimation has been made by the Canadian Union officials that they will have no part of it. First Japan and then Germany had been awarded the Winter Olympics but now the United States has made a bid for the ice and snow sports, to be held at Lake Placid next February. At its meeting in Hamilton, the Canadian Union is expected to support the move to stage the winter features in the U.S.A. This will be followed by the Canadian Olympic association, of which P. J. Molqueen of Montreal is chairman.

The A.A.U.C. will also give further thought to plans for the holding of the next British Empire games in Montreal, scheduled for 1942, providing there are no changes out for the construction of suitable facilities, the lack of which might compel the transfer of the games to some other Canadian city. It is the present intent that the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto would like to sponsor the meet, even considerable disappointment was felt by General Manager E. A. Hughes when it was awarded to Montreal. If the war continues, the Exhibition would probably insist on a decided military tinge in keeping with the times.

The Canadian Union itself may regain some of its old prestige before the end of 1939. Its interlock itself with the patriotic organizations in the sponsorship of recreational features for Canada's Active Service Force and actively cooperates in the promotion of military sports. This co-operation is one of the proposals which will come before the Hamilton convention and will undoubtedly be accepted with appropriate flag-waving.

This year's A.A.U.C. meeting is being held within the borders of the southwestern branch of the organization, the formation of which brought about the eventual collapse of the union, as compared with its former proud position. The creation of this branch, which was obviously devised to satisfy officers who could not see eye to eye with amateur mogulg at Toronto, caused a disruption which finally led to the withdrawal of hockey, baseball, lacrosse, basketball and other associations.

Shed a Tear

A result of this movement will be seen at the Hamilton convention when the reports are received of A.A.U. activities for the past 12 months. These were admittedly a: the lowest, ebb in the history of the union. The A.A.U. was not even able to stage its 1939 Canadian track and field championship meets amateur card registration have declined but a mere few hundred for the year as compared with a total of approximately 22,000 which was the peak of the years ago.

The Central Ontario branch, which once was the most permanent office in Toronto to handle its business, contributed more than 12,000 registrations in the union's days of affluence but the total for the current year will not exceed the 100 mark. It is understood that many, if not all, of the branches strong in numbers are ready to arrears with their annual fees to the central body.

The Canadian Union retains its international affiliations and is in close relation to the Olympiads and competitions in track and field events, but its foreign country take part. These connections may mean increasing interest in the union in the light of international political developments because of the war. The A.A.U.C. will not shy away over all sports, with the exception of swimming, rowing and cycling, because of the application of the theory that the union's international affiliations were all encouraging, but this influence has been discounted by considerable decline in the securing of separate affiliations by the team sports.

Once Mighty A.A.U. of C. Holds Session in November

By W. M. Gladish
Central Press Canadian Writer
Toronto, Oct. 13— Strange as it may seem the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, a shadow of its former self, is preparing to hold an annual general meeting, if the announcement being forthcoming that the convocation will be held at Hamilton on the three days of November 17-18-19, Sydney Hallier, president of the once - powerful union, will be in the chair to guide the delegates through the usual channel.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, Oct. 13—(AP)— The stock market experienced a few war-buying tremors in the early part of today's proceedings, but these quickly faded in most cases.

Gains, running to 2 points or so at a fairly lively spurt, were cut down substantially or cancelled and near the fourth hour, moderate losses were well distributed.

Late shoes and U.P.R. got a little higher in the Canadian group while Dome fell back. Dominion as were under mild pressure in the bond market.

Stocks in favor at one time or another were Bethlehem Steel, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Radio, Southern Railway, International Harvester, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and Johns-Manville.

Backers were U.S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, International Nickel, American Smelting, Standard Oil of N.J., Air Reduction and Phelps Dodge.

TORONTO STOCKS

The market opened with a cheerful note and turned soft in the second hour ,dropping most of the gains and while a margin was maintained on the up side by the industrials and Co. Western Oils. Turnover was heavier in the first hour than in the two succeeding hours combined.

Buyers continue to show preference for the war groups, especially the Steels and fractional gains were recorded by a half dozen issues of the group. Aircrafts, Senior Oils, Pools and Utilities also displayed fair strength.

Interest in the Golds flattened and prices turned a bit heavy and Base Metal shares slipped back narrowly excepting only Noranda, Central Cadillac and Noranda, Western Oils, including Calgary-Edmonton, Anglo-Canadian and Home, were up slightly at early afternoon.

Egg Prices Advance

Toronto, Oct. 13—Further improvement occurred in egg prices at Toronto yesterday, while butter maintained its firm tone.

Arrivals of fresh supplies continued light and the egg market and offerings cleared well under good demand. Lower grades showed better reception and prices of these grades in the graded section advanced 1 to 2c a dozen. Extra large rose to 34c in the ungraded division and to 30c in the graded. The two top grades firmed 1c in grades section.

Trading tapered in the afternoon session of the butter market, but offerings were light and only a no accumulation was evident. Dryness of pastures has cut production remained firm at 26c, and an odd sale of strictly fresh make was reported at 1c above this level.

Montreal Produce

Butter— First grade creamery prints, job price, 26c; first grade solids 25½c.

Eggs—Graded shipments in used fibre cases: A large 37c; A medium 35c; A pullets 28c; B large 26c; C inc. To arrive; A large offered at 36c and A medium at 35c. Re-cetpts—306 cases.

Prison Guards Admit Whipping Prisoners

San Francisco, Oct. 13—(AP) Prison guards admitted a copyrighted story today, said that four San Quentin prison guards had admitted participating in a mass whipping with lead-tipped leather straps of 11 young prisoners who had refused to take "torture" punishment from their part in a hunger strike last February and March.

Three members of the State Prison Board have been asked to read the paper said, but declared last night they would not quit their posts while a thorough investigation had failed to produce proof of the alleged beatings.

Nine guards have signed statements in connection with the episode, the paper said, four admitting taking part in the actual whipping and five others describing what they saw as eye-witnesses.

The Prison Board meets today at San Quentin to investigate the charges, the paper said.

POLICE COURT

Friday the 13th proved unlucky to several motorists who were arrested in local police court before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., today charged with minor infractions of the traffic laws. Fines for driving cars without proper driving licences and speeding were the principal charges and saw all fines paid promptly.

Albert Aikens, Belleville, appeared on the charge and, four months old Beatrice Baker, a neighbour of the defendant's wife and child joined the Canadian army and had to report at Picton tomorrow.

"Would you enlist if I let you?" asked Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., at this point in the case.

"Seventeen," replied Aikens.

"Would you enlist if this case until 7 o'clock on the credence of this man's statement, sir?" asked the magistrate, when Aikens' case was enlarged.

Crown Attorney Donnan also asked for the issuance of bench warrants for the apprehension of John Wilfred Wilson, McMahon of Frankford who failed to answer to their names on charges of violations of the Liquor Control Act.

HUNTERS NEED TO BE QUICK TO GET QUOTA OF PARTRIDGE

"Don't let them tell you that partridge are scarce", George Smith, Wellington hunter said last night, on his return from the opening day's slaughter of the birds." The only difficulty is, you have to be able to fire quick snap-shots if you want to bring down your bird. I fired at least forty rounds before I managed to get my quota."

Smith with a party of three hunters brought back a bag of sixteen from the vicinity of Millbridge.

BRANTFORD MAN CHARGED

Guelph, Ont., Oct. 13 (CP)— Magistrate P. Watt today reserved judgment in the case of George Borger, 31, of Brantford, charged with spreading reports or making statements intended or likely to cause dissatisfaction to the King.

Borger denied that he made statements derogatory to Great Britain while listening to a speech by Adolf Hitler with workers on the Shand Dam at Fergus.

Cheese Board

A total of 2831 cheese were offered for sale on the Belleville Cheese Board last evening, of which 238 sold at the top ranging price of 13 1-4 cents, the remainder being disposed of at 13 3-16 cents.

During the progress of the board meeting, Mr. Alfred Tremblay and Mr. H. Rochette of Chicoutimi were introduced to the board members.

Mr. Tremblay stated the cheesemen in Quebec were vitally interested in the introduction of a cheese board in their centres as a medium of selling cheese. "The Belleville Board was recommended to us as being one of the best boards of its kind and therefore we are here to learn what we can regarding the establishment of a cheese board at Chicoutimi," explained Mr. Tremblay.

The buyers present last night were: Messrs. Hunter, McCreary, Murphy, Cook, Morton, Hart, Fraleigh and Taylor.

DR. SEMPLE TO SPEAK AT GANANOQUE

The Rev. Dr. James Semple, minister of Bridge street United Church will be the guest speaker at the Harvest Home service to be held in Gananoque Grace Church on Sunday.

CHAMBERLAIN'S

"May those peoples and their leaders now speak up who are of a different mind, that may those reject my hand who believe they must put war as a better solution."

Chamberlain and his followers have decided in favor of the latter. Their answer to the English Premier, Prime Minister, there can no longer exist any doubt, was the Conservative people that no matter what we do, what we say, what we offer, Chamberlain and his followers of Great Britain are determined at this present time that they utter hypocritical phrases—to annihilate the German people.

Real Meaning Revealed

"Chamberlain's speech reveals the real meaning of England's war aims and this meaning is: War against the German people, war against the German Reich unto annihilation. The speech of the English premier is built upon lies and distorted facts.

"And while charging German policy with breaking (Germany's) word, he (Chamberlain) must know that England's world empire is built upon broken word. For England wanted the war. To be sure, its Prime Minister has attempted all attempts in recent times to bring about peace.

"Although he knows better, he claims that, for instance, Germany declined Roosevelt's offer of mediation. It is certain that after France succumbed to the military which brought Mussolini's broadminded action to nothing, after the fall and thereby inclined the French people into the most senseless war of all time.

"After Chamberlain's speech, the German people know what his enemies want. From the experience of Versailles, the German people knows what England's will to annihilation can do and it therefore knows that it must fight with all in order to foil this will of its enemies."

GERMAN PATROLS

Sowing Woods with Mines

The Germans, French reports said, were sowing woods and lines of the front with mines and traps in the Saarbrucken region, while the French to advance only "step by step" with utmost caution.

Meanwhile, German forces gave added emphasis to Premier Daladier's speech today rejecting peace on Adolf Hitler's terms. The president (Daladier) of the senate "expressing so clearly and firmly the unanimous feeling and will of the French people."

He delivered the thanks at a secret session of the senate, the place where Daladier spoke at length on the Polish campaign and the invasion. A communique issued later, however, gave no details of what he said.

Military advices said German artillery fire at many points against the 100-mile front between the Moselle and the Rhine was high and repulsed.

There are now 154,000 British soldiers in France with more probably coming, the reports said, despite attacks weigh into the millions of tons. Tanks are hidden in the woods, the reports said, and the flaged planes are ready for battle.

A general staff communique today declared "the situation on the whole front." It added that "enemy patrols were repulsed in the Warndt Forest."

(Reports from Basel said French troops were in the Saar Basin strategics at Kemhs, near Basel, last night, and that they had high on the shoals opposite Germany's Rhine fortifications. The French action followed reports that the Germans might be preparing to flood the Rhine by the use of the Maginot line.)

Meanwhile, navies tended to overshadow the fighting.

The British and French Russian tension caused anxiety here despite the expressed conviction that Russia would not openly seize Finland, or even expanding Russian power in the Baltic.

Paris newspapers gave prominence to Premier Daladier's and Chamberlain's rejection of Adolf Hitler's peace proposals. Nearly every newspaper printed a photograph or sketch of the British Prime Minister on its front page.

TURKEY

Farley Lasts Hour.

The Prime was received for an hour at the Kremlin with Joseph Stalin, Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff and Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff Palemkin and Vladimir Dekanozoff, Russian Minister to Turkey, up to the time of the Russo-German northern invasion of that nation.

This conference was in the nature of a preliminary for conversations to come.

While it seemed obvious the Finns were willing to make "fair" peace proposals with a promise of relaying them to the Finnish government, it was indicated at the same time that Finland would not surrender to any "unreasonable and extreme" demands.

Proposals Outlined.

(A Soviet publication of each of the opinions expressed in Moscow political circles was that Russia's proposals to Finland called for: 1, surrender of small islands on the route to the Russian navy through the Gulf of Finland into the Baltic; 2, military assistance pact not involving Russian occupation of any part of the Finnish mainland; 3, Finnish cession of territory on the east and 4, expulsion of Germans.

It was reliably but unofficially reported that some form of agreement between Russia and Turkey was expected to be signed within the next day or so.

Although nothing was obtainable from either side on the nature of the impending pact, it was believed it would settle questions in relation to the Black Sea and the Dardanelles and would define the Soviet and Turkish positions toward each other in the current situation.

Refused To Relay Message.

The brief speech was diverted from the United States at the last moment when Premier Mackenzie King had refused to relay it allegedly on the ground that it was "political".

It was broadcast, however, to Finland's Scandinavian neighbors.

Nazi intelligence to them Finland's will to peace but, he said, they would commit no country with the dictates of an outside factor which would result in her international and political activity being dependent on something other than her own free will.

Without mentioning Russia, he declared that Britain would fight to expect other nations to respect her integrity and not to threaten her safety.

Cabinet members, meanwhile, were to make a statement tonight last night from Dr. John Peasivkit, former premier of Finland of the Finnish mission to Russia.

GERMANY

2. An official press release on Mr. Chamberlain's speech yesterday, in which the Premier declared he rejected the hand of peace stretched out to him by the Fuehrer.

Hitler's appeal last Friday for peace, the Premier said, was that the leaders now speak up who are of a similar (peaceful) mind. He said that Hitler's "official document" addressed alike to neutrals and belligerents.

Say Neutrals Should Speak Out

Chamberlain declared that it is up to neutrals to make their voices heard in their own behalf and that they must assume their responsibility—and not because Hitler says so—but because they would ask them.

Hitler, in talking informally with correspondents after he had been with Hitler for several hours on the 8th inst., declared he risked what he called "her inconquerable" army, navy and air force, plus all he could upon the United States to support her.

Berlin, Oct. 13 (CP)—Germany threatened today a war "of unheard-of severity" unless Britain's "provocation quickly dissuades Great Britain from her insane determination" for the restoration of Poland.

Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Nazi press chief officer, emerged from a conference of Fuehrer Hitler and his military, foreign policy and political aides, and gave foreign correspondents a statement that he appeared to be the result of the conference.

While threatening "unparalleled" warfare the Nazi press chief told the correspondents he would hold back for a period of grace to see if some "reasonable" solution could come forward and successfully prevent such war.

Dietrich declared Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech in House of Commons yesterday had shattered all other hope of an armistice in the "foreseeable future."

Come to End

Informed sources said Hitler's conference with his general staff and high officials last night "Mr. Chamberlain's speech meant he had come to the end of his effort to get the world come to end the retention of conquered Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Dietrich declared Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech in House of Commons yesterday had shattered all other hope of an armistice in the "foreseeable future."

Come to End

Informed sources said Hitler's conference with his general staff and high officials last night "Mr. Chamberlain's speech meant he had come to the end of his effort to get the world come to end the retention of conquered Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Dietrich declared Prime Ministerchamberlain's speech in House of Commons yesterday had shattered all other hope of an armistice in the "foreseeable future."

"That, in short, was the communique of an anti-peoplecapitalistic policy, a policy Mr. Lapointe himself could call a traditional policy," Mr. Gouin said. "Never in such a short time has a politician's declaration of war against Hitler's race; never has a statesman blackened the German people with such such a sweeping lie."

Mr. Gouin had taken the same stand in by-election speeches. Mr. Gouin declared that the Prime Minister said in one address that "if bound myself personally against all the horrors and miseries." Mr. Gouin went even further. He affirmed that the King government had no mandate to launch Canada into war.

"I deplore it as much as you do," Mr. Lapointe chief said, "but it is the sad truth; we no longer can have confidence in our federal leaders."

Dictatorships must be abolished at once. What guarantees have we that they shall not do it a second time?"

Premier Duplessis told a rally at Ormstown, a farming centre forty miles southwest of Montreal, that the hour had come for Quebec people to demand what he described as an assault on provincial autonomy.

Tazard Electricity

He asserted Ottawa has "taxed our natural resources under the pretext of war" and that the "taxed electricity in violation of the rights of the provinces."

Mr. Duplessis said the election issue was provincial autonomy and he described the government campaign as a battle "not against anybody but for the province of Quebec."

He claimed the question was whether Quebec belonged to the people of Quebec. "We have a province to live," he said. "We want to let live but we also want to live our own lives."

In the fight for respect of its rights, Quebec sought nothing more than "justice," the Premier said. The Confederation pact had guaranteed the province "educational and religious rights, the right to legislate in social questions and control of its natural resources."

Conscious of Obligations

"We belong in Confederation and we are conscious of our duties and obligations. We are willing to co-operate and collaborate in every measure of fair play," he said in an address to the Ottawa which heads the rights of the province," Mr. Duplessis declared. "Assimilation or centralization, however, we have never sought after."

Mr. Godbout spoke at Drummondville, Quebec, and Montreal, where he told a rally the Union Nationale leader was "a dictator" and "a menace to civilization and infringements of provincial rights at election time because he did not wish to be deprived of the three-year term of his government.

"He is face to face with bankruptcy. He speaks of autonomy, or participation, and asks another administration to help him solve these problems. He has been in office three years and during his present mandate does not expire for another year. Has he not the courage to carry the responsibility of his mandate."

Charges Graft Claim

Mr. Godbout charged the government with "graft" in the provincial debt from $130,000,000 to "more than $160,000,000." The Liberal leader said the electors must judge the Duplessis government had accomplished with the money.

Mr. Godbout accused the Duplessis government of leaving agriculture "to fend for itself." He said it had removed many of the benefits the Liberal government had established for farmers. These benefits would be restored when the Liberals returned to power, Mr. Godbout promised. Added to this would be the establishment of aid to dairying farm products.

The Liberal leader reiterated that there would be no conscription in Canada if a Liberal government at Ottawa. He said that every Conservative and Liberal in Quebec was aware that they have not had conscription today it is due to Premier Duplessis' chief Minister, Justice Minister Lapointe, Postmaster General Power and Munitions Minister Cardin at Ottawa."

Mr. Godbout said the provincial campaign last night was M. J. Coldwell, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member of the House of Commons for Rosetown-Biggar, Sask., speaking last night in favor of R. L. Calder, C.C.F. candidate in Cartier division.

He returned to United States Congress to-day after addressing meetings of thrusting the unity of Canada.

"Politicians like these are forerunners of dictatorships and eventually breed revolt and revolution," Coldwell declared. Canadians and his government have tried to prevent the growth of heavy fruit and usually write 'finish' to plant and vegetable crops at this time of the year.

"The tomato crops of the district are almost prevented with canning factories still working in an effort to operate as much stock as possible," he said.

Girl Guide Council Reviews Year's Work At Annual Meeting

At the home of the District Commissioner, Mrs. Leo B. Riggs, the annual meeting of the Girl Guide Council was held yesterday afternoon and members, heard, with interest reports of Guide and Council activities of the past year. A session of work of Brownies, Guides, Rangers, at home and at Camp showed the wide scope of Guide training and the many fine achievements of members during the past year.

In opening the meeting, Mrs. Riggs thanked the Council members for their co-operation and support during the past year and paid tribute to the accomplishments of the girls in the various branches of Guide work.

Mrs. A. E. MacColl, secretary-treasurer, gave the report of the last annual meeting and the financial statement for the past term.

Varied Activities

Representatives of Brownies, Guides and Rangers were present to submit reports and these revealed the many sides of Guide life that contribute to the building of character and personality of the individual member. The badge work alone showed the value of Guiding and how the girls in practical arts while the list of completed projects seemed endless. These included, in part, hikes, banquets, packing of baked, Christmas parcels for the overseas, planting of trees in commemoration the Royal visit, church parades, First Class Home Nursing classes and library work at Belleville General Hospital.

Officers' Report

Miss Barbara Turvey, Tawny Owl of 3rd Belleville Brownie Pack, reported a membership of 30. The report of Jean Bygrave, first Belleville Brownie showed a very active branch, with 28 girls on the roster of Company No. 1 was submitted by Miss Jean R. Thompson. Here seven members received their colors and certificates at a recent meeting held. Company No. 2 report was submitted by Mrs. Dorothy Douglas, acting lieutenant. Thirty-six Guides are enrolled in Company. Miss Jean Dickens, captain of Company No. 3 reported that all of the 24 meetings held. Miss Peggy Webster, acting lieutenant of Company No. 4, Michael's in her report said that 30 Guides were enrolled, the company having been formed in February.

191 Badges Earned

The amount of work accomplished by the Guides was revealed by the report of Miss Dorothy Boyle, chairman of the Badge Committee, which showed that 191 badges had been earned, and that 80 per cent must be obtained to pass the right standard is maintained. Tests of the Guide Council and others had assisted in this work as examiners.

Miss Jean Dickens, treasurer of the Rangers, read the report of the Captain, Miss Mary Roberts. All the reports were splendidly prepared and gave in detail the year's program of each company.

As Quartermaster of the Camp held at Glenwood, Miss Dickens also reported for this activity in the absence of Miss Mary Roberts, Camp Commandant. Eighty girls attended the camp at Millenbeck for the first two weeks of July of this year. All were under the direction of Miss Mary Roberts, Camp Commandant, Senior Officers Audrey Licence, and Jean Dickens, and Junior officers, Rita Webster, Rita Thompson, Bernice Boyle, Margaret and Mary Annan, Nancy Webster, Helen Boyle, etc., Dorothy Douglas, Phyllis Barlow, Mary Lahey, Beverley Lamont and Isabel Sharpe. Mrs. Shore acted as cook and Miss Dorothy Osborne (Reg.N.), as camp nurse. A full program of camp activities was enjoyed consistently, and the camp concluded the reports of the afternoon.

New School Inspector Will Get Different Greeting Next Time

Schoolteachers of the South Hastings inspectorate were gathering in the lobby of the Hotel Quinte quarter after seven-thirty last night. There, to pay tribute to retiring Inspector E. J. Clarke, they stood in small knots, conversing in low tones.

Near the door, an attractive member of the assembly—the Teachers' Association welcomed the guests as they arrived ——

Her greeting held a puzzled expression as a gentleman, immaculately attired in dinner jacket, entered the door, the one-girl reception committee advanced to the new arrival with a warm smile of welcome on her face. "How do you do?" she smiled, "the gentleman nodded his head and smiled in return.

"I don't believe I know your name", she said.

A smile flashed momentarily across the face of the guest.

"Pickering," is the name", he said, as he moved away toward a group of teachers.

E. J. Pickering is the new public school Inspector, appointed to succeed Mr. Clarke.

And as the attractive "reception committee" turned away, a slight pinkish tinge suffused her cheeks.

Veteran of Spanish Civil War Helps Kinsmen in Drive

With tomorrow being the last day to complete their "mile of coppers" for the Red Cross, members of the Belleville Kinsmen club are marshalling their forces for a final drive in an effort to reach their objective.

To date the response has been good, Jimmy Hurst, chief field today, "and we have realized a substantial amount. There are, however, still a number of persons who have not yet been contacted. Before the end of the mile, and the drive, we hope to have these set forth tomorrow to add to the amount so generously given.

Assistance to members of the club on "collection duty" due to the large territory to be inspected source. A uniformed member of the Kinsmen club will be accompanied one of the collectors with a government car.

"I fought in the Spanish Civil War against Franco," he told the Intelligencer last night, "and I know what it is to be a member of hostilities I managed to escape. I grew to know with the Red Cross and its officials gave me sufficient money to pay my way to Spain and get back to the way to Canada. I would like to do something for Canada."

And without more ado, the soldier of fortune, to divide the name, went "on duty" with the collectors and stayed with them for upwards of two hours, working through his efforts a substantial amount of money for the Red Cross coffers.

U. S. Demonstrates Electrically-Aimed Anti-Aircraft Guns

(CP)

Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The United States Army has demonstrated publicly for the first time its new electrically electrically-aimed anti-aircraft guns, which are said to function over their effectiveness against bombing planes at extreme altitudes.

Targets towed by bombers at 10,000 feet and 15,000 feet, composed of army ordnance association members, entered now and then in bursting three-inch shells yesterday, but a large proportion of the projectiles trailed the targets by several hundred feet.

Army officers consistently practice on targets from altitudes of 15,000 feet and above. What accuracy the guns, operated in batteries of four and firing en masse at 700 shots a minute would be up to attain at that height, army officers at the proving ground declined to estimate. The maximum range of the guns is about 30,000 feet.

Less question met the performance of the batteries dropping 2,000-pound projectiles from 10,000 feet. Army planes simulated the bombs and other planted their bombs at almost the same spot on the target range.

RHINE BRIDGES ARE DYNAMITED

French Destroy Communication Lines Leading from Alsace-Lorraine into Germany

Berlin, Oct. 13 (AP)—The German High Command announced today that French forces had dynamited the Rhine river bridges at Wyhlen and Breisach and Nuremburg.

A communique said the bridges, leading from the Alsace-Lorraine sector into southern Germany, were destroyed yesterday.

Otherwise, there was little war activity in the west—while in the east, movements toward the new German-Soviet Russian borderline in Poland were reported nearing completion.

F. W. D. WIGGINS HEADS VETERANS

Customary Memorial Parade on Armistice Day Will be Held November 11th. Veterans Decide at Annual Meeting

Fred W. D. Wiggins was elected President of the Army and Navy Veterans Branch No. 202, at the annual meeting and election of officers held in Memorial Hall last evening when a goodly number of ex-service men were at hand to discuss not only the election of their future officers, but important general business.

Owing to the present state of hostilities, the conventional mode celebration of war veterans on Armistice Day (Nov. 11th) were dispensed with in the present year. However, the Belleville Army and Navy Veterans will hold their customary memorial parade to the city cenotaph, at which time a short service will be held, and the time-honored placing of memorial wreaths will coincide as short a service as possible in keeping with the present hostilities, which will be held throughout the entire British Commonwealth.

Last evening the Belleville Army and Navy Veterans met in small district fraternal societies to the number of 100 men in the commemoration of this year's Armistice Day service, which, despite the fact falls on Saturday, will be held at the usual hour in the city. The veterans voted to dispense with all Armistice Day social activities, this year.

Held Poppy Day

As has been the annual custom for nearly 20 years, however, the Army and Navy Veterans and the Navy Veterans will hold their annual Poppy Day on Saturday, Nov. 11th, when the nation finding itself in conflict on this occasion, will be asked to give as much as possible next for finances is necessary, and the Poppy Day collection next year than perhaps in the past," prophesied President Wiggins, "as we are again on active service, but there will be considerable activity in the city and Canada, and therefore our annual Poppy Day will be a very important source. A uniformed member of the Veterans will be accompanied one of the collectors with a government car.

"I fought in the Spanish Civil War against France," he told the Intelligencer last night, "and I know what it is to be a member of hostilities I managed to escape. I grew to know with the Red Cross and its officials gave me sufficient money to pay my way to Spain and get back to the way to Canada. I would like to do something for Canada."

And without more ado, the soldier of fortune, to divide the name, went "on duty" with the collectors and stayed with them for upwards of two hours, working through his efforts a substantial amount of money for the Red Cross coffers.

The following the election of officers a social evening was spent among the veterans.

MAY FOOTPRINT CANADIAN TROOPS

Department Considers Question of New Lasts for Army's Footwear

Ottawa, Oct. 13 (CP)—The Defence Department is considering a proposal to change the footwear of troops so that their shoe requirements may be known as to the Canadian rather than the British. The Dominion Council of Health was told today by Colonel Frederick Nolle of Canada's war effort.

The proposal, when Mrs. Helen D. Smith, M.L.A., Vancouver, asked if delivering new lasts would consider having new lasts made for army footwear. She had received complaints about ill-fitting boots.

Colonel Nolle, Department representative said many of the foot troubles were due to inexperienced by recruits as well as civilians, in breaking in new footwear.

Dr. Jean Gregoire, Quebec, arriving for the previous meeting, delepleting the representation of the provinces.

Smith's suggestion with Mrs. Smith's suggestion with Mrs. Smith's large-scale recruiting be undertaken in Canada, special badges or other insignia be given to prevented from enlisting by reason of the unsuitable nature of the work they were doing at home.

Dr. F. N. G. Starr, director of Emissions and Health Department's Medical Investigation Division, urged that a study be made of recruiting medical disabilities of troops, so that persons rejected on application for enlistment, be started at once. Council agreed that some such system was necessary.

AIR CASUALTY LIST

London, Oct. 13 (CP Cable)—The Air Ministry tonight announced a casualty list issued in Ottawa by Wing Commander E. D. Godfrey of Saskatoon and Flying Officer R. M. Coste of Calgary, both killed on active service.

The list issued today raised Air Force losses since the start of the war to 40 killed or fatally wounded and 71 missing.

Local Electrician Hailed into Court

Convicted of installing electric wiring without a permit, a local electrician was fined $10.00 and costs in the town's local police court held before Magistrate E. J. Butler K. C. Government Hydro officials from the Toronto were present to press the charge, that was preferred by Hydro Inspector Cavanaugh of this city.

"I am advised by the Provincial Hydro Commission authorities that this is not the first time that this kind as similar infractions have been reported," revealed Crown Attorney B. D. Donovan when addressing the court upon the subject.

"The inspection of electric wiring is very important and necessary, as well as inspection, are compulsory according to Provincial laws. There is to be a thorough check up on this matter in the future, I am told by Hydro officials from Toronto, as reports have been received that, incompetent workmen have been installing electric wiring in Belleville and without inspection, however, I am not saying that the accused man is incompetent, such is not the case, but he did install wiring without a permit or the customary inspection, which is necessary must be terminated promptly," further said Mr. Donovan. The fine assessed was paid.

34TH BATTERY TO START COURSES

Crack Artillery Unit to Recruit to Peace-Footing

With authorization practically assured, officers of the 34th Battery (Belleville) Canadian Artillery announced today the opening of recruiting for men between the ages between 50 and 70, for whom in attendance will be available.

Preference will be given to recruits who are mathematically inclined.

Instruction will be given in military law, gunnery, hygiene, organization, tactics, topography and other important phases of artillery work.

The courses which are as yet in their infancy will start on Tuesday night of next week, and will continue indefinitely.

It must be understood that recruits will not be enlisting for overseas service, but merely for training on a peace-time footing. The number recruited will bring the unit up to its peace-time footing.

S. NIGHSWANDER CASE IS CLOSED

Jury Will be Charged by Judge and Counsel Late This Afternoon

Welland, Ont., Oct. 13 (CP)—The defence rested shortly before noon today in the trial of Steven Nighswander, 27-year-old Buffalo mechanic, charged with the murder of Hiram Dyer, a lake of Buffalo.

J. D. S. Cromarty, counsel for the accused, had been speaking for three hours, at least three more witnesses and the announcement that his defence was completed came as a surprise to prior.

Mr. Justice R. R. K. Ghervier ordered a recess before the addresses by counsel and the charge to the jury.

Nighswander, accused of slaying the boy on the fringe of Fort Erie, Ont., last June 22, was described by one witness as having a "playful, gentle personality of the sexual type".

MUSICAL SHOW COMING TO McCARTHY

ACTION NOT TO BE

a result of any diplomatic action or request from Germany.)

Mr. Roosevelt's remark that he had nothing to say on German peace talk came after a reporter said Hitler would like to see the United States "lose the European hash" and asked whether the president intended to "do" anything about it.

Following the chronology of the Russian matter the president said that on Monday of this week he had told Ambassador Bullitt in Paris to inform the Baltic because it looked as if it might be heading toward an extension of war.

On Tuesday, he continued, diplomatic representatives of several Scandinavian nations called at the State Department and the White House and said they were very much disturbed. There was no suggestion, however, of joint action.

Personal Message

On Wednesday, the president drafted a personal message to President Stalin of the U.S.S.R. The message, Mr. Roosevelt said, expressed the hope that nothing would occur to disturb Baltic peace or Finland's independence.

Mr. Roosevelt said that afternoon. It was not given to the press at that time, however, because it was not ready for publication. Not until yesterday was the message finally delivered to Ambassador Steinhardt.

Mr. Roosevelt said the government had received unverified rumors that Italian tankers had been sunk by Russian submarines in the South Atlantic, but the story had not been confirmed. It could not be emphasized, because it was not so verified by them.

Two immediate obstacles had been placed in the way of Hitler's indirect suggestion that President Roosevelt advise Great Britain to meet Germany in conference.

No Request Made

1. No formal request has been made to the president for mediation or intervention in the air.

2. Feeling exists in many quarters in Britain that any government would want the advance assurance that Hitler was ready to say such proposal.

Authoritative sources pointed out that the United States always has taken the position that it is willing to help in arranging a general understanding but not concerning itself with specific questions, but that it had no intention of getting into the middle of disputes in Europe.

Roosevelt's peace appeals to Hitler prior to the beginning of the war followed that line of thought.

Genelvon Hitler was different in the wisdom of Mr. Roosevelt's acting as mediator, in connection with charges against actual American involvement in the European conflict had been voiced repeatedly by both sides in the Senate's embargo fight.

CANADA BORROWS

Mr. Ralston said the notes will be dated and bear interest from Oct. 16, 1939, maturing Nov. 15, 1940, and will be subject to redemption in whole or in part as par at the time of issue. Interest payable on or after October 16, 1940, on 30 days' notice.

Issuance of the loan followed the policy announced in the budget speech of April 6 last year and approved of parliament in September session, to meet the Canadian market "until the initial effects of war expenditures and purchase by that market have run their course and a broad base to stimulate production and expand the volume of public savings."

Must Pay in Canada

Three domestic issues mature in the near future and must be paid off in Canada, or New York funds. Nov. 15, 1939, 2 1-2 per cent refunding loan of $50,000,000; Dec. 1, 1939, 3 per cent refunding loan $17,168,000 and Nov. 15, 1940, two-per cent loan of $23,454,000.

In addition the proceeds of the loan will be used to pay off the redeem an issue, held in the United Kingdom of 4 1-2 per cent dollars 775 fallightly more than $125,000,000 sterling. The latter is a single fund of approximately $7,733,000.

The stock is subject to redemption at the option of the government at par at any time after July 1, 1940, on 30 months' notice. The government intends to give notice of call at once.

THREE KINGS

Newspaper reports of opinions in the British political circles say the proposals Russia was laying before the Finnish delegation outlined them as follows:

1—That Finland hand over small islands on the route of the Russian navy through the Gulf of Finland into the Baltic.

2—That Finland enter a military assistance act involving no other commitments than Russia's.

3—That Finland agree to tighter economic and political bonds with Russia.

4—That Finland expel Germans, Czechoslovaks and Poles who have presented identical notes to the Moscow government yesterday, expressing confidence that nothing will occur which would prevent Finland continuing independently to maintain her neutral position, which she maintains with other northern countries and we wish the negotiations to succeed, friendly relations between Finland and Soviet Russia."

ITALY REGARDS SITUATION AS QUITE UNCHANGED

Italy's New Ambassador to Britain Message

BRITAIN AND RUSSIA

Italians Say Italy Will Not Consult With Soviet Russia

By RICHARD MASSOCK

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 13 (AP)—Authoritative sources said today Prime Minister Chamberlain's message to Italy's Premier Mussolini was "quite unchanged" in substance from that sent to Hitler.

Dismissing the report that the government had received unverified rumors that Italian tankers had been sunk by Russian submarines in the South Atlantic, but the story had not been confirmed. It could not be emphasized, because it was not so verified by them.

Two immediate obstacles had been placed in the way of Hitler's indirect suggestion that President Roosevelt advise Great Britain to meet Germany in conference.

Italians expected the German governments friendship with Italy and Russia, since Berlin has consultative pacts with each, but Italy, it was said, would not be consulted when Russia since no such agreement exists between Moscow and Rome.

Britain and Russia.

Mussolini was known to be reluctant to involve Italy too closely with Soviet Russia. Italians have always held that Britain's rejection of her attitude toward the Russian pact, but Italy remained silent whether the absence of mention of the U.S.S.R. in Chamberlain's speech was a deliberate Italian omission at the action of the Moscow government.

There was a feeling in Rome, it said Mr. Chamberlain's speech a "cat-and-mouse game" on the base of German proposals."

But, it said, when Mr. Chamberlain declared that Britain no longer could have faith in the president of the United States engaged in a bloc by those who take part".

ARMED JAPANESE TAKE BUILDING

Building Situated in British Defence Sector of International Settlement

Shanghai, Oct. 13 (AP)—Twenty armed Japanese plainclothesmen today occupied the building of the Bank of Communications in China's six government bank—in the British defence sector of the International Settlement.

British forces took no immediate action.

The plainclothesmen, apparently attached to the Japanese consulate force for occupied portions of Shanghai, were reported to have removed bank officials from the top of the building's furnishings, to have smashed doors and to have made other damage.

The building, situated on the Bund, had been used as living quarters for the staff ailing banking operations were transferred to the French concession in November, 1937.

The Japanese were said to have overpowered a small group of watchand other attendants.

Occupation of the building crea- tion of the Japanese attempt at ejection might broaden the crisis into another British-Japanese dispute.

SENATOR TAFT BACKS REPEAL

Says U. S. Sells Arms to Russia, Japan and Italy and None to "Good Neighbor, Canada'

By C. R. BLACKBURN

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Oct. 13 (CP)—While the United States is selling arms to Russia, Japan and Italy, Senator Robert A. Taft (Rep.-Ohio), declared today in the Senate.

Supporting President Roosevelt's plan to substitute a cash and carry system for the embargo on arms sales to belligerents, Taft said "everything sold to Russia is finally confiscated our property."

Taft, who is well-known to Canada because of his regular visits to the family summer home in Murray Bay, Que., said he would propose an amendment which would limit operation of the proposed shipping restrictions to within the Western Hemisphere if it were adopted by the house.

This would keep United States shipping away from Europe, Taft said, and Mediterranean, and the waters and coast lines near.

All other restrictions on shipping should be removed from the Neutrality Act unless it is proved to the satisfaction of the Administration that they are needed, he said. This would relax the proposed restrictions on the movement of American ocean vessels going to Canada or to British or French possessions in the Pacific.

Prohibit Ships Going to Europe

"We should prohibit our ships from going to Europe," he said. "That would be more consistent than it is to keep people out of a burning house. It is simply giving Japan that we prevent American citizens not only from risking their lives, but from putting their ships into a war which may involve millions of men and ships."

Taft, whose friends are backing him for the 1940 Republican presidential nomination, said the Senate repeatedly that he believed the United States should keep out of the war.

"The president of the United States," Taft said, "would make a tremendous mistake if he regarded the opposition to the war as in any way a symbol of popular approval of the administration."

"The popular opposition to this war is based on the feeling that the interests of the President's tendency to interfere in the European war. We definitely pledged the determination to keep America at peace. That was the strongest campaign pledge."

Taft expressed belief that repeal of the embargo would not result in any great demand for American manufactures, and that the South American republics, providing commissioned entry into our army, navy and air forces, and the formation of a corps of engineers.

"It seems proper that we should be among the first to be full effect of the war.

"There are not the slightest misgivings as to the manner in which the college will succeed in carrying out the duties," Commandant Hiles."

LINER REPAINTED AND RENAMED

German Liner Cap Norte Camouflaged With Swedish Flag on Side

London, Oct. 13 (CP)—The Admiralty announced today that when the 13,615-ton German liner Cap Norte was captured in the South Atlantic it had been completely repainted.

The name "Ancona" had been substituted for its own name on the hull. A Swedish flag had been painted on its side.

The Ancona had a cargo of 5,641 tons, the main items of which were 2,863 tons of wheat, 1,761 tons of barley, 1,107 tons of skins, 936 tons of packing material, six tons of rock crystal, 397 tons of bone, 73 tons of horsehair, 72 tons of tallow, two tons of wax, five tons of clothes. There were also 60 tons of tobacco, 175 tons of cocoa, 18 tons of honey, 175 tons of fruit juice, a refrigerator was found 640 barrels of boracresal, 1,000 bushels of caviar and 500 cases of lemons.

SABOTAGE PLOT FEAR UNFOUNDED

Man on 'Last' Sender Figures in Startling Escapades at Kitchener

Kitchener, Ont., Oct. 13 (CP)—A Toronto man pleaded guilty in police court today to a charge of perjury and was given suspended sentence—setting at rest fears of Kitchener residents that a sabotage plot had been uncovered or that an escaped enemy agent had been caught.

The court was told that the man, apparently on a last "bender," frightened several persons with a display of his intense patriotism. Police said he was under the influence of liquor and listed the following escapades:

At St. Jacobs the man entered a factory and questioned workers, posing as a government investigator. Among questions asked were the worker's views of Adolf Hitler and the war and their place of birth. The man claimed to have a gun in his pocket and was said to have threatened to "blow the heads off" if the workers did not answer.

Later, on the highway between Elmira and St. Jacobs the man stopped a bus and went through the passengers' baggage unceremoniously. Several post-hole diggers on the highway became accused of planting dynamite.

The entire episode cost the man $10.00 in court costs.

CADETS IN BLUE RECEIVE RANK

Leave R. M. C., Kingston, Shortly to Join Canadian Active Service Corps

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 13—(CP)—In uniforms of blue and carrying rifles and marching swiftly, reflecting the sombre atmosphere created by the war, cadets of the Royal Military College who ordinarily would be graduated in June today received their diplomas. They are leaving the College shortly to join the Canadian Active Service Force.

In a brief address he referred to the part of the President's tendency to interfere in the European war. The country pledged the determination to keep America at peace. That was the strongest campaign pledge."

Taft expressed belief that repeal of the embargo would not result in any great demand for American manufactures, and that the South American republics, providing commissioned entry into our army, navy and air forces, and the formation of a corps of engineers.

"It seems proper that we should be among the first to be full effect of the war.

'Astounding Proposal' Says New York Sun, To Ask Roosevelt

New York, Oct. 13—(CP)—In an editorial captioned "Germany's astounding proposal", the New York Sun today said the United States "could only feel amazement" at the suggestion that President Roosevelt intervene between Great Britain and Germany.

The suggestion, made after Chamberlain's speech yesterday rejecting Hitler's peace offer, follows:

Dietrich, German Press Chief, said, the "most generous terms" would be offered if Britain avoided only if Mr. Roosevelt prevailed on Mr. Chamberlain to send a representative of the Reich at the Conference table.

"Even if Mr. Roosevelt had every right and desire to carry any message to the Prime Minister, to whom could he turn but to Mr. Chamberlain?" The Sun (Republican) asked.

"Is he to ask about the status quo in Poland? To solemn rites over the dead Polish Constitution? To a discourse on the best and quickest means of peace to Germany its lost colonies? To the kind of talk that emissaries to Austria, Czechoslovakia and Danzig heard when they went to Germany or the kind that emissaries to Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and Finland have heard in Moscow? It is a little hard to believe that Mr. Roosevelt in any such role."

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO SATURDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1939

BRITISH WARSHIP ROYAL OAK SINK IN ATLANTIC; CANADIAN TROOPS LEAVE SHORTLY FOR ENGLAND

29,150-Ton Ship Completed in 1916 Taking Part in Battle of Jutland; 370 Survivors Now Officially Known

Carried Crew of 1000; Men and Cost $12,500,000—Belonged to Royal Sovereign Class of British Navy

3 U-BOATS SUNK

British Navy Active on Friday the 13th Sinking Three Subs With Two Being Largest of Enemy's Undersea Craft

London, Oct. 14 (CP)—The Admiralty announced this afternoon that approximately 370 men thus far had been saved from the sunken battleship Royal Oak. The warship's complement, it said, was approximately 1,200 men.

This left 830 still to be accounted for. When the aircraft carrier Courageous was torpedoed by a German submarine Sept. 15, 815 men were lost.

Believed U-Boat Victim.

Final announcement of the disaster by the admiralty expressed belief the heavily-armored warship was the victim of "U-boat action".

A second admiralty communique issued this afternoon said:

"The Secretary of the Admiralty announces that as far as is at present known the number of survivors from H.M.S. Royal Oak is approximately 370.

"As already stated, lists of survivors will be published as soon as the names have been received. The complement of the ship was approximately 1,200, so the above figure includes both officers and men."

During the first six weeks of the last war no battleship was sunk, although the navy lost three cruisers, two destroyers and a mine-sweeping gunboat.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Earth's early atmosphere! When the earth was pulled away from the sun many millions of years ago, there came along with it all the elements which now compose the atmosphere, but not in the same proportion or form as are now found. The early atmosphere was composed largely of carbon dioxide and water vapor, with some nitrogen and very little oxygen. The atmosphere as we now know it was gradually formed by changes in the early atmosphere supplemented by products from volcanoes and geysers and by other gases expelled from the earth. Oxygen was freed from carbon dioxide by the action of plants, and decomposition of compounds composing the earth's crust was always going on, supplying all the gases that are now found in the present atmosphere.

Hitler Rages and Hopes to Wiggle Out Say British Papers

Some Observers Predict German Push—Britain May Play Waiting Game — Correspondents Say Britain and France 'Have Hitler on the Run' in Military and Diplomatic Phases of War

London, Oct. 14 (CP)—Newspapers today published first dispatches from their correspondents with the British forces in France, and speculated at length on Germany's probable next move.

Some observers predicted a German push soon on the western front. A war office spokesman said yesterday the allies would sit tight and wait but that it was "very late" now for an attack by land because of the approach of winter.

With the landing of 158,000 British soldiers in France accomplished without a casualty, the press generally agreed that Britain could play a waiting game and ultimately crush the German military machine at the "strategic" moment.

Say "Hitler on Run".

Observers declared Britain and France had "Hitler on the run" in both the military and diplomatic phases of the war. The Nazi leaders, they said, were faced with combining the war against insuperable odds or making another peace offer that might in itself mean the overthrow of the Nazi regime.

1st Royal Oak Burned in 1667 By Dutch Fleet

Battleship Sunk Today Eleventh of Line—Sailors Attach Ill-Omen to Name

London, Oct. 14 (CP) — British sailors have attached an ill omen to the name Royal Oak ever since the Dutch sailed up the Medway in 1667 and burned the first of the line.

The battleship sunk today was the eleventh Royal Oak in the Royal Navy—a commemoration of the Oak tree at Boscobel, Shropshire, in which the fugitive King Charles II had after the battle of Worcester in 1651.

Within a month of being commissioned in 1916, the vessel was in action at Jutland, next in line after the Iron Duke, flagship of the British fleet in that battle.

Other Royal Oaks have been unfortunate in war.

Struck By Shell Off Valencia.

The recent Spanish civil war brought misfortune to the battleship just sunk. Five of her crew were injured when an anti-aircraft shell fell on the deck during the Spanish Nationalist bombardment of Valencia Feb. 24, 1937.

Eleven years ago the Royal Oak was the scene of a social scandal which resulted in the conviction of two senior officers by court martial and retirement on half pay of Rear-Admiral Bernard St. George Collard. The officers were punished for violating naval regulations in protesting the conduct of the admiral, who was accused of "unconscionable delay, ill temper" and of insulting members of the ship's company who were not in a position to reply.

Failure of an electric system caused a short circuit. A sail pin two-eighth of an inch in diameter had pierced a two-inch cable connecting the control tower of the battleship and the dockyard station.

TRAINS IN WRECK IN BLACKOUT, RAIN

At Least Four Lives Lost as First Serious Train Wreck Occurs Near London

London, Oct. 14 (CP)—The first serious train wreck during Great Britain's war time "blackout" sent rain and precaution forces into action today.

At least four persons were killed and 24 others injured in the accident last night when the second section of the Scottish Express from London ran into the rear at Bleichley Station, 45 miles north of here, in "blackout" darkness deepened by a heavy rain.

Rescuers worked in the rain, smoke and steam, aided only by dim blue lights, until authorities lifted the blackout restrictions in the vicinity of the wreck.

GIRL SAVED BY DARING FIREMAN

Threatening Jump from 3 Storey Window Girl Pushed to Safety

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—A 16-year-old runaway New Jersey girl who had threatened to leap from a window ledge to certain death above a concrete hotel courtyard was saved early today by a daring fireman.

The girl, who identified herself as Helen Kawalek of Bayonne, N.J., had stood for half an hour on a rear window ledge of the Hotel Martini while police and firemen sought to dissuade her from jumping.

FIRST DIVISION TO SPEND WINTER IN BRITISH ISLES

Canadian Corps Likely to Move Out of Dominion Within Two Months

16,000 TROOPS

Will Complete Training and Receive Service Equipment in England

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 14 (CP)—Canada's first overseas Division probably will proceed to England within the next two months to complete its training there and receive service equipment.

Like the first contingent in the first Great War, the probability is the Division of about 16,000 men will form the nucleus or a large part of it in England.

Lack of facilities for concentrating a force of troops in Canada under winter conditions makes the final training of the Division impracticable in Canada.

Although there are a number of large military training grounds in Canada none of them has sufficient all-weather buildings to house a Division although they can accommodate considerable numbers of troops during the summer, when tents may be used.

Petawawa, Ont., Valcartier, Niagara on the Lake and Camp Borden in Ontario and Dundurn, Sask., would be suitable for summer training. Before another year passes it is expected one or more of these camps will be made into all-weather buildings to take the task of erecting huts, installing sewage systems and heating plants for upwards of 15,000 men requires time.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

Persistent reports of engagements between German aircraft and British warships in the North Sea attract wide attention among air and naval authorities. These engagements may settle once and for all the disputed question of the relative roles of air and naval power in war.

Information from official sources is conflicting. The British Admiralty says no British vessel has been sunk or injured by a bomb from the air. On the other hand reports from Berlin say the Germans achieved a victory and British craft are responsible for an order to the German air force to intensify its operations against the North Sea fleet.

Some aviation enthusiasts in the past have gone so far as to predict air forces in the future would drive navies from the seas. So far no country has acted on the idea of the supposed supremacy of air over sea power. All have maintained their navies but taken the precaution to add anti-aircraft guns to the armament of their fighting ships.

Demonstrate Effectiveness

Aircraft have demonstrated their effectiveness against submarines but the submarine is at a disadvantage as compared to a surface vessel. It can maneuver under the surface and has much less speed than a destroyer or a cruiser. It cannot use guns when submerged so must force attacking aircraft to remain at a high altitude.

Recent British air attacks on German warships in the Kiel Canal are scarcely conclusive because the ships were tied up.

So if the German attacks persist and large numbers of aircraft are used the final result of the operations will be awaited with intense interest.

HUNGARY EXPECTS A SOVIET PUSH OVER RUTHENIA

Russian Troops Already Stand on Hungarian Border a Few Hours from Budapest

SOVIET WANTS RUTHENIA

In No Country is There More Apparent Hatred of Sovietism Than in Hungary

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Budapest Oct. 14 (AP) — The belief apparently is increasing among Hungarians that events may soon marry to stand against a Soviet push into Eastern Europe as she stood against the Turkish advance on the Occident in the 16th. Century.

While Russia's attention is diverted for the moment on the Baltic and the Dardanelles, Hungarians are fearful that her expansionist momentum soon may be diverted in their direction.

Soviet troops, including Mongols from Siberia already stand on the Hungarian frontier only a few hours from Budapest—a result of the Russian march into Poland last month.

NOTED AVIATOR'S SPEECH DESCRIBED AS "ASININE"

Lindbergh Asserts 'This Western Hemisphere Is Our Domain" in Radio Address

SPEAKS FOR SELF

Washington, Oct. 14, (CP)—Political observers predicted today that a scarcely veiled suggestion by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh that "the United States should leave with Canada's allegiance to the crown might arouse such resentment as to bring Canada into the war in favor of the embargo on American arms to the belligerents.

Lindbergh broadcast address, which described the idea of offensive weapons to warring nations, was a bombshell comment as the Senate met in an unusual Saturday session to hear Senator Borah (Idaho) appeal the present all-inclusive embargo—a measure which is expressly agreed, would make the United States an arms reservoir for the Allies.

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ, Jr.
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Helsinki, Oct. 14 (AP)—Diplomatic sources expressed doubt today that Soviet Russia could make herself impregnable in the Baltic without control of the Aaland Islands.

Such belief was shared both by foreign legations in Berne and delegates to the League of Nations Council at Geneva, still has the job of seeing that the Finnish-owned Aalands, the potential "Gibraltar of the Baltic", remain unfortified.

Russia's demand for bases on Gulf of Finland and the route to and from Leningrad, are believed in League circles to be the main bone of contention between Russia and Finland.

(The Aalands were united with Finland under Czarist Russia but when the Finns declared their independence n 1917 the islanders declared their right of self-determination and in unofficial plebiscites favored reunion with Sweden. Finland would agree only to autonomy. With Finnish and Swedish consent, the Council of the League of Nations suggested maintenance of Finnish sovereignty, took over supervision of five guarantees which were written into Finnish law.

(A convention, signed by all the Baltic powers, agreed to neutralization and demilitarization of the islands.)

Last May a Finnish-Swedish plan to fortify the islands was obstructed by Soviet Russia at a council of the League.

Essentially, Russia's argument was that the islands, if fortified, might fall into the hands of Germany through a British naval invasion in the Finnish army.

The islands now are virtually defenceless as far as big guns and permanent forts are concerned and it is generally believed here that they would be an easy prey for Russian warships.

A Russian source here said that the Soviet "for the present" was interested only in that the Aalands not be used as a base for operations against her.

Observation Planes of French Take Advantage of Brief Spell of Fair Weather to Photograph German Lines

By JOHN MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Paris, Oct. 14 —(AP)— French military advices said today the destruction by the French of three big railway bridges over the Rhine River was to forestall any attempt of German airborne offensive into the French Alsace.

This action, announced yesterday, was taken after heavy German troop concentrations were reported along the frontier from Lauterbourg to Switzerland, hereabouts relatively quiet area.

The bridges destroyed were those connecting Hagenau and Rastadt, Colmar and Fribourg-En-Brisgau and Mulhouse and Mulhetm. Only two bridges remain across this portion of the river, both at Strasbourg.

ARMED BANDITS HOLDUP AND ROB L. GEROW, GILEAD

$5 Taken from Man and Also Wife Hidden Under Seat of Car

REVOLVER USED

Held up at the point of a revolver by two armed highway bandits, Leo Gerow, Gilead, was robbed when his automobile was stopped by the armed highwaymen on highway No. 14 at McCann's Corners 15 Miles south of Belleville early last evening. Gerow later reported Provincial Police the robbers had taken $5.00 from his trousers pocket and also stole his purse, which he had hidden beneath the seat of his car when he was stopped. Mr. Gerow said there was a small sum of money in his purse also.

According to the story related to Provincial Police by Mr. Gerow, he was proceeding north on Highway No. 14 enroute to visit friends at Gilead when he suddenly came upon another motor car which had

Berlin View is That Lull in German Activity in West Will Continue Until Italy and Russia Have Spoken

POLISH SITUATION

Nothing is Officially Known as Yet on Positions of Russia and Italy in Regard to Present Conflict

Berlin, Oct. 14 (AP)—The lull in German military activity on the western front is expected here to continue at least until Italy and Russia have spoken.

German conversations with these countries were said already to be under way. Only a few high-ranking Nazis, however, can predict Adolf Hitler's next step now that Prime Minister Chamberlain has rejected his terms for ending the war.

Informed German quarters said that nothing more may be expected from France or Great Britain, but they expressed belief the door still is open for a neutral nation to act as a mediator.

The only official comment on the progress of hostilities in the west was a communique reporting that three enemy planes had been shot down near Coblenz. The Supreme Army Command also noted "minor artillery activity."

THREE KINGDOMS WELCOME PARLEY

Norway, Sweden and Denmark Will Declare Scandinavian Solidarity

Stockholm, Oct. 14—(AP)— Norway, Finland and Denmark today welcomed Sweden's invitation to a conference on their joint neutrality as an opportunity for a new declaration of Scandinavian solidarity.

From statements of all three countries came words of praise for King Gustaf's suggestion that they discuss mutual problems created by the European conflict.

The Swedish press joined official spokesmen in acclaiming the call to conference. The Copenhagen National Tidende declared editorially:—

"Knowledge of the chiefs of the northern states will show the world that the Nordic fellow feeling acknowledges their unity, and that an attack against one of them will be an attack against all."

Finnish Crisis

While the specific questions to be discussed were not disclosed, informed observers were convinced that the apparent crisis which Finland faces in her relations with Soviet Russia would play an important part in the conversations.

Dr. Richard Sterner, Norway's Foreign Minister, said in a statement that the meeting was called "both because of the general European situation and the special situation in connection with Finland."

The call for the conference was issued amid growing tension and fresh military preparations in most of the countries arising from the Finnish-Russian conversations now under way in Moscow.

40 GARTER SNAKES SEEN ON HIGHWAY

An unusual sight was observed yesterday by a motorist travelling on the Picton-Belleville highway when a band of slippery garter-snakes, some forty in all, were seen wriggling there way along the shoulder of the road.

Dead bodies of other members of the wiggly nomads ever apparent in the roadway where passing traffic had taken its toll.

BISHOP JOHN LYONS VISITS AMELIASBURG

The Right Rev. John Lyons, Bishop of the Diocese of Kingston will visit St. Alban's Church, Ameliasburg tomorrow, when the rector, the Rev. John Strothers, will present a large class for confirmation.

Another feature of the Sunday services will be the commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of the church. Special music sung by the newly organized surpliced choir which will wear new mortar boards and cassocks for the occasion, will be another highlight. The cassocks were made by the ladies of the congregation.

In the afternoon, Bishop Lyons will hold confirmation services at Hillier where he will dedicate a memorial window.

CHUBBY TERRIER GIVEN A HOME

The chubby little terrier, who sojourned near the kitchens of the Belleville General Hospital, where he lived royally for a month before being "arrested" by City Pound-keeper Thomas Thorne, is happy again.

Life suddenly changed its hue for the little fellow who is part fox-terrier and part wire-hair, when he was taken to the city pound to await whatever life might hold in store for him.

But today, eight hours before he was sentenced to die, a good Samaritan came to his rescue, bought him an official dog-tag and adopted him as one of the family to play with the children.

Flo Nickerson Brings New Stage Revue to Capitol

In the past three years Miss Nickerson has lived up to her reputation, as a fine producer; but this year surpasses even past performances and is being just chock full of Music Gaity, glamor and novelty.

The show opens with a five piece band playing the Billboard March that sounds like a symphony.

Then a group of talented young and pretty girls dance as gally and expertly as one can on kitchen chairs as you would in a ballroom.

Then the queen of Wit and Humor Flo Nickerson herself appears with her juvenile proteges Phill and Bud The Harmony Lads in a song greeting entitled Are you Having Any Fun. Followed by Harmony songs delivered by these two lads in excellent voice.

Then a Surprise Novelty executed by Asta Elven, Blond and lovely definitely different and keeps her audience guessing throughout her act.

Mike Napoli, the manager, arranger and conductor of this little group of musicians more than lives up to the reputation of a fine maestro and Miss Nickerson gives him. Only musical geniuses can really appreciate his talent.

Red Reynolds is another outstanding artist in the line of music proven by his noteworthy impressions of Artie Shaw and Benny Goodman. May we say that his lack of ego and that bit of shyness goes right to the heart of the listeners and predicts a brilliant future for this young homebuilder.

Florette and her Bubbles is artistic and gracefully charming in her dance creations. Her background the lovely ladies of the ensemble in charge of Miss Enchantment prove marked training and practice in Jack Modern Ballet that receives rounds of applause from the audience wherever it plays.

Then We keep things flowing at a fast pace as Mistress of ceremonies and delivers rib tickling impersonations of Judy Canova The Hill Billy Girl and a love sick Elsie Schnozzle Girl.

Rounding out an hour of entertaining novelty is a dollar a seat are The Aristocrats of Fun-land, Gaudsmith all over the world. The young lady in the act namely Ashly and Ware has great powers of an outstanding comedienne.

This full hour of stage entertainment is followed by a first class feature picture and an outstanding cartoon and short subjects on the screen at the Capitol Theatre.

Voluntary Registration Of Canadian Women Begins in City Today

This morning at the Chamber of Commerce the first registration of Belleville women, in connection with the Voluntary Registration of Canadian women, began, On Monday four other centers, located at the Belleville Central Collegiate, King George School, the Engineers' Hall and 58 Charlotte Street, will be ready to receive registrations and the women of the city and district are asked to co-operate in this national movement to determine how the women of the nation are best able to serve their country in the emergency.

Registration of Canadian women is to find out what the woman power of Canada can do and is doing; and what experience and training they have or have had.

It does not ask them to do anything nor to give anything or to go anywhere. It asks only for information. It does not obligate nor tie up anyone, in any way.

Arrangements for registration are in charge of Mrs. Roger Porter and her efficient committee, with many volunteer workers doing their part to make registration successful in this district. The booths will be open each day next week from nine o'clock until five and it is hoped that every woman in the city from sixteen to sixty-five will fill out the questionnaire used in this Dominion survey.

$2,788 SECURED IN "Y" DRIVE

Workers Will Continue Next Week to Reach Required Objective

Friday the 13th held no fears for the canvassers in the present Belleville Y.M.C.A. financial campaign yesterday when a substantial increase in both memberships and subscriptions was noted over the same period of last year's drive.

Stressing the contacting of new subscribers, Secretary J. F. Shore revealed a total of $2,788.00 had been obtained in the first three days of the drive, leaving $1830.00 yet to be collected before the campaign objective would be realized. The present Belleville Y.M.C.A. financial drive called a short three over the week end, but will renew its effort with vigor on Monday in a last-day drive to raise the remainder of the amount needed to carry on the work of the Y.M.C.A. not taken care of in the general funds.

At yesterday's campaign luncheon J. B. Findlay submitted the highest individual report of subscriptions, while Howard Clarke's team had the highest team total. Joe Imlah continued to dominate the campaign to report the one new money received for the second day in succession.

A total of 313 subscriptions have been received thus far in the campaign for a total of $3,788.00 received. W. B. Deacon was general Chairman yesterday and urged the canvassers to bring before the public of Belleville the splendid work of the Y.M.C.A., among the youth of Belleville in providing free sports and clean, healthful recreation in all the season of the year.

"Last year the "Y" provided 200 boys with softballs and 180 with hockey sticks at no charge to the children's parents. Other features of recreation such as wood carving and manual training are provided through the facilities of the Y.M.C.A." Chairman Deacon revealed.

On Monday the campaign will conclude as the canvassers will seek to contact citizens in an effort to raise funds to help "build better boys for Belleville."

OBITUARY

LATE FRANCIS GRILLS (Sidney)

3rd Sidney (Special)—Friday afternoon, October 13, the funeral of Francis Grills took place from the family residence, 3rd Concession of Sidney, to Allens United Church, where service was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. L. W. Scott. The many floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held. During the service a solo, 'One Sweetly Solemn Thought' was rendered by Mrs. L. W. Scott. Favourite hymns of the deceased were sung.

The message by the pastor was taken from the 23rd Psalm.

Interment was made in White's cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. Bruce Bogle, Arthur Bennett, Fred Weslover, Wm. Wheeler, Frank Jeffrey and Wilbur Jones.

First Woman to Register Has Brilliant War Record

First woman in the city to answer the call for Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women was one who had served her country gallantly during the last war, her brilliant record earning for her mention in despatches by Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig. She is Mrs. Arthur Rawson, 69 Cedar Street, formerly Miss Mabel Macdonald, a member of the Territorial Force Nursing Service, from 1915 to 1920, with the English army overseas. She was married in July 1918.

Mrs. Rawson upon her demobilization came to Canada, lived for a short time in Montreal, was a nurse at the Hamilton Sanatorium and came to Belleville after her marriage to Mr. Rawson. Of her war service, she is very modest and reticent.

Serving at the base hospitals in France during air raids, Mrs. Rawson's heroism earned for her mention in despatches for gallant and distinguished service in the field and she was later decorated for this service.

Upon her discharge she received a medal in 1919 from the War Office which referred to her service of five years. She had proceeded to France in 1916 and during the official record said, she proved a very reliable, capable and hard working nurse. The testimonial signed over her superior in the Force, referred to her unfailing devotion toward patients and to the fact tha she could always be relied upon to carry out orders correctly and efficiently.

Eager to do her bit, Mrs. Rawson was the first visitor at the Chamber of Commerce where registration began this morning and in filling out her questionnaire, it was learned by officials of the wonderful record she has already achieved in service to King and country.

SIX ARE INJURED IN HEAD-ON CRASH

Accident Occurs at Melody Inn East of Brighton Village

Six people suffered minor injuries early last night when two automobiles met in a head-on collision on Highway No. 2 near Melody Inn east of Brighton.

Miss Elizabeth Alexander and Mrs. Mabel Macdonald, Smithfield, were taken to Belleville General Hospital suffering with severe facial lacerations and shock and Kenneth Pound, five year old grandson of Mrs. Hales and Mrs. Robert Austin, all of Brighton were taken to their homes after receiving medical attention.

All sustained facial and body lacerations from flying glass.

According to Provincial Officers Shannon and Caldwell, who investigated the accident, the car driven by Pound was proceeding in an easterly direction.

According to investigation, wet slippery pavements caused cars driven by Pound and Clayton Farrow to skid, resulting in the cars meeting head-on.

Dr. G. R. Bickle of Belleville, attended the injured people and intimated today that Mrs. Macdonald and Miss Alexander will be able to leave hospital within a few days.

WOMEN ARE URGED TO HELP KNITTING, SEWING

Toronto, Oct. 14 (CP)—Distribution of materials to individuals by the Red Cross Society is an "impossibility", Mrs. W. R. Campbell of Winnipeg, National Chairman for War Work said today.

She urged individual women who desire to knit or sew to join an organized group which would supply them with the necessary materials and instruction.

The Red Cross has found it necessary to confine distribution of materials to organizations only, Mrs. Campbell said, "and the reason is understandable. It would be entered a Donald Street home and impossible to meet the overall speed exceedingly difficult and costly to keep records of the materials supplied many individual women for nothing, but when such materials are given to organizations the latter can keep their own records of the members who receive them.

"Organizations that want materials, instructions or patterns may obtain them from their nearest Red Cross branch," she added.

Police Blotter

Petty thievery has been prevalent in Belleville during the past week, at the police station last night detailed minor cases being reported upto the police. Last night persons rain.

"NERVES" SHE CALLED IT

Losing interest—losing friends—she never went out any more—always too tired. "Nerves," we thought—but it was her kidneys, the filters of her blood, that needed attention. Today, several dosages of Dodd's Kidney Pills at once helped to clear away blood impurities and once again, fatigue, backache, lack of energy, disappeared.

Dodd's Kidney Pills

Everybody knows the words with their catchy tune. To younger people it is just a song. To many of the older generation it brings back memories from overseas . . . Young folk are apt to miss the significance of the "kit bag" — which is something to be packed and strapped on as comfortably as possible when one is braced to start on an adventure . . .

"So pack up your troubles in your old kit bag and smile, smile, smile," it is the British way of doing things which have to be done — even distasteful things.

We in Canada, with the rest of the British Empire, by the judgment of free people, have undertaken a task. Worrying (which is letting "troubles" get in the way) will not help. We must "pack them up" so that we may get on with our jobs whatever they are on active service or in home, office or factory. For it will be a wonderful help if, as far as in him lies, each one of us plays his allotted part in the life of this nation with that indomitable humour which has always seen us through.

Mr. Wm. Alexander, mail courier, spent Saturday night and Sunday in Trenton.

Congratulations to the Wooler Softball team who won the eastern championship in their class this year. That they did not win the Ontario honors was not because they did not play well, but in the final game Tuesday, down Hamilton way, played just a little bit better.

Mary Elizabeth, wife of the late Alexander (Sandy) Ross, died on Wednesday, October 4. Mrs. Ross was in her 84th year and a native of this district. Mrs. Ross was a remarkable woman and retained her faculties to the last. She leaves to mourn her departure two sons, Herman, with whom she lived and where the service was held on Friday afternoon, and Roy. One daughter Mrs. Carence McArthur of Trenton. Interment was made in Carman Cemetery.

Mr. Jim Hennahan of Toronto Called on his wife's father, Mr. J. P. McAuley on Tuesday, also motored to the farms in Codrington for a chat with her brothers Fred, Hugh and Bill.

A dinner was served in the basement of the United Church on Tuesday following Thanksgiving. There was ample, for no one left over from the night before to serve numerous people. The fee was only 15c.

Mr. Jack McAuley and Teresa were visitors to her daughter on Wednesday, (Mrs. Bill McAuley) in Codrington.

Tweed

Tweed—Marmora High School girls proved no match for the locals on Wednesday afternoon at Tweed High School grounds as they succumbed to the superior batting and pitching strength of Mr. Robert Sweatman's charges by a score of 22 to 6. The Tweed girls opened the scoring in the first frame culminating in a hitting barrage in the sixth inning which netted them seven runs.

Ana Thompson carried off the batting honors with four runs and a like number of hits which included a triple and a homer. Enid Rogers, visiting centre fielder accepted out a four base knock. Audrey Scott pitched a steady game for the locals, her fast delivery holding the visitors to six runs and eight hits. She struck out seven and walked three opposing batsmen.

Margaret Kerr, Marmora twirler, pitched good ball, but found the local batsmen in top form as every player collected at least two hits and two runs.

Tweed High School—Marion Tummon, Marjorie Tummon, Ana Thompson, Audrey Scott, Grace Stewart, Marion Moon, Monica Reyers, Muriel Baker, Audrey Scott, Lucille Leal.

Centenary

Centenary—News of the death of Mr. Geo. Cummings, who had been ill in the Belleville General Hospital for the past few weeks, was heard with sincere feelings of regret by his many friends. Mr. Cummings possessed a kindly traits of character. He was a devoted and loyal member of Centenary Church, at one time Supt. of the Sunday School, and up to the time of his illness was teacher of the Bible Class where he will be greatly missed.

The funeral which was largely attended took place from Centenary Church on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Mercer conducted the service and paid tribute to the work of Mr. Cummings in the church. He was beautiful flowers covered the casket. The bearers were Mr. B. Hart, Mr. F. Aikins, Mr. D. Thrasher, Mr. P. Radford, Mr. H. Garrison and Mr. Wm. Waterhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aikins, Doris and Teddy were in Toronto over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hardwick (nee Annabelle Adams) who have a young son.

Mr. and Mrs. Alwin Hart and master Bobbie were in Toronto on Thursday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Ray of Hamilton were guests of Mr. Ray's mother, Mrs. Wm. Ray for Thanksgiving.

Mack Holton spent Thanksgiving in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aikens, Mr. and Mrs. H. Garrison and Gordon attended the plowing match at Brockville on Thursday.

A number from Centenary attended anniversary services at Aikens on Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Scott of Aikens Church occupied the pulpit at Centenary on Sunday and preached an inspiring Thanksgiving sermon.

Many friends in the community were sorry to learn of the death of Mr. Hart Aikins which occurred early at his home on Wednesday after a short illness. The sincere sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family.

BURDEN IS ON ADOLF HITLER

Adolf Hitler who started the war and then offered peace after Poland had been conquered has had his proposal rejected. So the burden is on him. The government has "threatened unparalleled" war. Yet there is a hint that Germany may allow a time of grace to see if some neutral state might submit some means of ending the war. Since the delivery of the speech by the British Prime Minister, Mr. Chamberlain, Nazis have attempted to make the world believe Britain intends the annihilation of the German people and the German Reich though the Premier made it very clear that it was the German Government which stands in the way of possible peace.

Neutral opinion sees in Mr. Chamberlain's remarks some appeal to the German people as distinct from the Government of Germany. The New York Times contains these words "in view of the swift march of Imperial Bolshevism, there must be many Germans who see the future clearly as a choice between a continuation of war culminating in a revolution of the left or an early peace, to be achieved through an amalgamation of forces opposed to war and communism." The Italian press sees the situation unchanged.

Meanwhile up to early today there had been no momentous signs of the impending terror which the Nazi chieftain said would follow rejection of the peace proposal.

At sea Britain yesterday struck hard at the U-boat fleet by sinking three submarines, though merchant ship losses were gained by two vessels, one British and one French. Today Britain suffered her second big naval loss in the sinking of the Royal Oak.

Meantime the Russian bear's shadow grows to the northeast of Germany and the small kingdoms and the republics in and around the Baltic and the Atlantic Oceans are greatly perturbed.

DISAPPOINTMENTS

Disappointments have had to be faced by the German people this week, one day a false rumor of armistice, the other the Allied rejection of the German Fuehrer's peace proposals. The Nazi Government is left in no doubt what the Allied nations mean with regard to them—that the Hitler proposal of ending the war has been weighed and found wanting, would mean peace with conquest by Germany.

It is not difficult to understand the wishful thinking of the people of Germany—that there should be end of war but they will learn soon or late in spite of Nazi suppression of facts, that their government is not only the worst thing for the nations outside Germany but also the worst thing for the German people. The Allied nations have a disagreeable task to perform—to carry on the war to end Hitlerism and the Nazi policy.

There was jubilation in Berlin for a brief space on Tuesday on a wild rumor that there was an armistice. The Germans are reported to have been so happy that there sprang up spontaneous celebrations, with people throwing their arms around one another's necks and weeping for joy. In one city two hundred workers threw down their tools to "celebrate." All this took place in spite of the fact that no word had come from official circles. The people acted on their own emotions, without waiting for a communique from official Nazi headquarters. At last the German radio had to bear the heavy news that there was no foundation for the rumor. And soon the voice of the German Fuehrer was heard speaking at the Sportspalast, sounding a militant note if peace were rejected.

GERMAN CLUMSINESS

The American liner Iroquois arrived safe at New York.

But the Nazis had spread a yarn that she would be sunk, for the German Admiralty in one of its many clumsy manoeuvres intimated that some other belligerent would sink the vessel as she neared the U. S. shores with 584 U. S. refugees from the war area.

German propaganda is crude and foolish in making such a statement as that the Iroquois would be sent to the bottom as the Athenia had been at the outbreak of the war. Grand Admiral Raeder forwarded the statement in an extraordinary message to Washington. The implication of course was that she would be sunk by an Allied vessel because Germany had denied responsibility for the sinking of the Athenia, though a German submarine was sighted from the deck of the Athenia after the vessel had been torpedoed and was being shelled. British Admiralty officials merely answered the implication that it was "too absurd to deny." As a purely precautionary measure the Iroquois was protected by U. S. destroyers and navy flying boats.

Where was the sense of the Grand Admiral in making so preposterous a suggestion? No one would believe Britain and France could contemplate such a thing as Raeder hinted. Raeder is the officer who made up the false German situation with Sweden by sinking her shipping and caused Goering to take issue with him and the German Admiralty for angering the Swedes from whom Germany usually receives large quantities of iron ore.

Had the Iroquois been sunk there is one place where the world would have placed the blame—on the German Admiralty.

German clumsiness was evident in the last war and it is not lacking in this. Somehow the government of Germany cannot understand the mind of the democracies. Germany has made no friends with the unnecessary fabrication it spun about the Iroquois. No one thinks of thanking Germany for what Raeder has done. Surely the low status of the Nazi statescraft was never more clearly shown in all its blundering, misunderstanding, miscalculation, unfairness and injustice.

It is this same characteristic seen in Hitler in the diplomacy preceding the Polish war and the Germans offer of peace to the world on the basis of conquest as the British Prime Minister put it Thursday.

1939 CANADA YEAR BOOK

There has just been issued for distribution by authorization of the Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, the 1939 edition of the Canada Year Book. This is the statistical annual report of the country and contains a thoroughly up-to-date account of the natural resources of the Dominion and their development, the history of the country, its institutions, its demography, the different branches of production, trade, transportation, finance, education in brief a comprehensive study within the limits of a single volume of the social and economic condition of the Dominion. This new edition has been thoroughly revised throughout and includes in all its chapters the latest information available up to the date of going to press.

The new year book covers over 1200 pages, dealing with all phases of the national life, especially with those susceptible of statistical measurement. The statistical summary of the progress of Canada is included in the introductory chapter and gives a remarkable picture in figures of the remarkable progress since the first census made in 1871, 68 years ago.

There were over thirty maps and charts contained in the volume, and a photo-gelatine insert illustrating the special article on Noxious Forest Insects. Three lithographed maps are included.

In commemoration of the Royal visit to Canada, May 17 to June 15, 1939 colour plates of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, together with official pictures of incidents connected with the unveiling of the National Memorial to the Right Royal Assent to legislation of the 1939 Session of Parliament, appear as frontpiece. At pages 1156-1160 a short account of the Royal Tour across Canada together with a condensed itinerary is given.

Persons requiring the Year Book may obtain it from the King's Printer, Ottawa, as long as the supply lasts, at the price of $1.50, which covers merely the cost of many backles there—Collier's Magazine.

NEARLY 12 MILLION TOURISTS

Nearly twelve million tourists from United States visited Canada this year in the first eight months, the latest figures available at present. The figure of 11,968,905 is as large as the population of Canada. That fact shows the importance of Canada as a country in which people of another land love to spend their themselves.

Canada has welcomed this great peaceful army of citizens from the great Republic and knows that they are good friends of hers and that they express the spirit of goodwill which exists on the borders.

What their tour has meant in interest and entertainment to them, what it has meant financially to Canada and what it means to the future kindly relations of the two countries is beyond computation.

Canadians who have toured the United States realize what a good neighbor Uncle Sam's people are. Canada is a good trader with the Republic. Cementing their good relations are peace and confidence.

Survey of Professionals Brings Tips to Drivers

New York, Oct. 14—Practical advice to American millions of car owners on how to drive, and how not to, results from a survey conducted by Loeliers among professionals in the field—taxi drivers, truck drivers and bus drivers—that reveal how they drive nine and ten hours a day without physical or mental strain.

In reporting on the survey Quen tin Reynolds, associate editor, says:

"The automobile engineers of the country are constantly in a class by themselves when it comes to solving the mechanical, structural and face-lifting difficulties that arise in the building of a car. Each year they perform new miracles, but to date none of them has done anything about the rather shapeless, poorly made, ill-tempered gadget used on all cars, called the Driver.

Reynolds states that many of the professional drivers interviewed reported that after an all night stretch behind the wheel of a truck or bus, they often go into their bunk, even to take their families for a spin — unfatigued because they know how to drive properly. Some of the useful tips gathered from these veteran fellows:

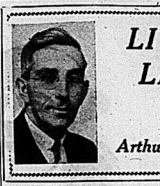
"If a man drives intelligently he can go eight or nine hours a day without tiring himself. First of all he must get well adjusted in his seat. He must sit erect, not too far back that is almost straight. That way you are well balanced.

"Most people off on a long drive start out early and try to get in a lot of mileage the first few hours. That's a mistake. You burn up your energy that way. It's best to start slowly even if you're on an open road with no traffic. Slide around forty for the first couple of hours. By then your position in your seat and your grip on the wheel and in the job of driving. You can't pop out of bed and expect to drive seventy miles an hour in the glare of the sun without hurting your eyes and endangering your life. You must warm up for it, as a runner warms up for a race.

"Take the matter of night driving. The ordinary driver comes to with his time swearing at oncoming cars with glaring headlights. There's no reason why anyone should see them. First of all you shouldn't look at them. Look down to your right at the edge of the road. Glance at the oncoming towards you don't look into the light. Or stop your car. Amateur drivers have a lot of false pride. Professionals aren't. I've stopped my bus many a time when lights coming toward me were too strong to ignore.

"Often I've been stopped by a light in New York and passed every driver in a car next to me will yell 'How many blocks did you make on that green light buddy?' and I'll tell him maybe eight, maybe a dozen and he'll say proudly 'I made fifteen.' Well, he will be a nervous wreck after getting home in New York."

And in conclusion here's some advice from a New York taxi driver who speaks more or less for that entire great group:



LIVELY LINES

by

Arthur L. Burke

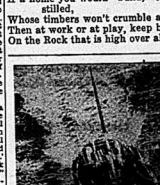
Now, why build a home, from which you may roam,
Or create in your mind such a scene,
For most folks are born, on this planet forlorn,
In a hospital spacious and clean.

A good deal of life, with its battle and strife,
Is spent in a college or school,
Get married in church, or be left in the lurch,
Is the up-to-date modern rule.

Or why stay alone when a car you may own,
And spend half your life in its seat,
Ten chances to one you will die on the run,
Then why build a home I repeat.

And when you've expired, no home is required,
There are funeral parlors galore,
Your friends may all weep, but the service is cheap,
You don't need a home any more.

If a home you would build, ere your heart-beats have stilled,
Whose timbers won't crumble and fall,
Then at work or at play, keep building each day,
On the Rock that is high over all.



THAT BODY OF YOURS

Preventing Pyorrhoea— Inflammation of the Gums

In former days it was thought that it was natural as people grew old the teeth should become loose in the gums and fall out due to old age. Then came rheumatism, rheumatism, stiff joints, and muscular pains were also supposed to be a part of the aging process.

Today it is known that pyorrhoea or poor the life of which was told in childhood when arches are narrow and temporary teeth are lost too early.

In his little book, The Teeth and Something in Addition, Hartman, Professor of Operative Dentistry, Columbia University, says that the chief cause of pyorrhoea is the inflammation of the gums immediately surrounding the teeth. Because the body's resistance has been lowered in some way, the organisms in the gum tissues (which harbours in a normal mouth) invade or enter the tissues, causing inflammation and set up an inflammation. If the condition causing the lowered resistance persists, insufficient food, tartar accumulations, jagged edges or crowns, or other irritations of the gums will become healthy again and be able to withstand the organisms normally present in the mouth.

When the cause is not removed and the inflamed gums are neglected, then the second stage—active pyorrhoea—begins. The inflammation tends to continue wedging down upon the gum tissue or some other form of irritation continue, the fibres of the membrane helping support the tooth in its socket will gradually permit of a greater movement of the teeth in the socket. The germs present on this membrane when the teeth are brought together will cause the breaking down of the bony process, the blood supply is unable to pass normally through the tissues and infective organisms easily get the upper hand. If left untreated the third stage of pyorrhoea is finally reached and there will be a general movement of the teeth, the gums recede, mouth in what are practically pus pockets, resulting from these pus pockets usually are responsible for a tired and sleepy feeling, hears disease, and sometimes other forms of nervousness."

The prevention of pyorrhoea is brushing the teeth regularly with soap and water and having your dentist clear off the tartar, correct faulty contacts between the teeth, and fill all cavities.

Mr. Duplessis is afraid to face you on his record of administration in the last three years. Instead, he had raised false issues such as conscription and threatened invasion of provincial rights", Mr. Godbout asserted.

Mr. Gouin, who announced yesterday he would be a candidate in the Montreal-Jacques Cartier constituency, said in his address last night he was declaring war on "our representatives at Ottawa who refuse for conscription while pretending to combat it."

Lapointe Criticized.

He criticized Mr. Lapointe for a lack of "zeal" in the attitude toward Canada's war participation, recalling speeches in which he said the Justice Minister declared he would resign if money voted for arms to defend Canada were used for anything else. Mr. Gouin said that in one address Mr. Lapointe had enunciated an "antiparticipation policy".

Mr. Gouin labelled Premier Duplessis the "new Hitler who declared war by declaring itself the champion of provincial autonomy". He accused the premier of "trying to divide the province and make it forget his immmerable broken promises".

He found Mr. Dupiessis and Mr. Godbout were the exact opposites. Mr. Duplessis promises things and then votes against them while Mr. Godbout votes for promises but voted against when he sat in the legislature, such as the vote for women and abolition of the legislative council," Mr. Gouin said.

DUPLESSIS CALLS

Two of Quebec Province's representatives in the Dominion cabinet return to Ottawa tonight. Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe, who returned late in the earlier of Oct. 25 elections "a national act of sabotage", will address a meeting Sunday night at Sherbrooke. Works Minister P. J. A. Cardin will speak at the same time in Quebec City.

Mr. Duplessis spoke in English and French at Asbestos, in the province's eastern section, where he asserted that he was "respect provincial autonomy". He said there had been an increasing trespassing on the rights of the province in the last few years, a trespassing "becoming intolerable under the War Measures Act."

Defence Minister Under Fire.

The premier criticized Defence Minister Norman Rogers when he described as an "arch-centraliser" because of a recent address in which he said Mr. Rogers declared that "provincial legislatures should be abolished and control of the provinces' economies and finance should be centralized".

The Union Nationale leader claimed that under the War Measures Act Ottawa controlled all economy and finance in the country.

"Ottawa has all the money for destruction," he charged. "Ottawa centralizes credit and we can get nothing for works of peace or construction."

Liberal leader Godbout, on the other hand, claimed in his St. Johns address that it is time to "put an end to provincial autonomy, it exists in the province.

He charged that the Unional National administration had ruined provincial credit. He maintained the "financial misdeeds" of the government might bankrupt the province to the extent that it would come under the tutelage of the Dominion government.

Debt Increases Charged.

"If your province, your rights are threatened, they are threatened right here by the Duplessis regime,"

"REDHEADS ARE LUCKY"

By VERA BROWN

CHAPTER XVI

Summer hit New York, locking the city of steel and brick and concrete in a relentless grip which winter never quite achieves.

But for Mike the trying days were turned into magic. When he was in town sometimes he would rent a car and they'd go for a ride on Long Island, eat in some quiet place by the sea. And Mike knew perfect happiness for the first time till her life.

In August, Handsome was depressed. His record on the road was not what the club had expected. But Handsome could not seem to snap out of his lethargy.

"Am I a disappointment to you, Mike?" he asked one night shortly before Labor Day.

They were sitting in a small restaurant fifteen miles from the city. The heat seemed far away and forgotten.

"A disappointment? Larry, you're wonderful!" She could not help saying it.

"I'd give up if it weren't for you, Skipper."

"You're just tired," the girl countered. . . .

"Bah, I can't seem to get goin' again. The road trip was pretty bad. The team had just come back from an eastern swing.

"I keep tellin' Ace you should come along with me on good if you aren't there."

Mike watched his downcast face. "Darling, let me say something. I've been meaning to for a long time. I love Larry, believe me, but anything in this world. But you've got to, for all time. You can't get dependent on me. It isn't fair to you. Whether I'm watching your work, or not, make no difference. You know that."

Handsome looked up startled. "Don't you want to be necessary to me?"

Mike's eyes were dark with sudden feeling. "I want to be necessary to Handsome Larry, not his life." She paused a moment. "But this is something different. You've got to prove to yourself you can stand on your own two feet. You don't need me—or anybody else, Larry. Wish knows, tis says that is true." Mike had her by on a chair beside her. Her red hair was a halo about her face. "Wish, some one day you're going to be the greatest ball player the team ever had."

Handsome dipped his broad shoulders, leaned over and patted her hand which was his diamond.

"Something I've never told you before. You remember the night we met? I was just a kid, and you gave the whole thing up I was licking through. Then you came along." He lit a cigarette, and started talking so low his hand shook. "So you see. You came, and everything was different."

Later when they drove slowly back to town, they stopped for a long time where the road met the sea. It was a still night. The waves lapped gently as moonlight played on them.

"I can't be married before the season is over?" Handsome asked. "You seem afraid, darling." She was snuggled there, in his arms, in perfect peace.

"Maybe. . . ."

"I tell you it's the only thing to do. I have to read things, trains, hotels, noise, dirt. If you were along, I wouldn't mind."

"I can't walk out on things at home. You know how bad that is."

"We could manage."

"We couldn't. You haven't the vaguest idea about money, Larry. You've always had it. I've been where you could get it. You don't know anything about scrimping and saving. You don't know what it means to shop in the cheapest stores, cook the cheapest cuts of meat."

He kissed her suddenly; "I could eat hamburger."

"You who love three inch steaks! And you should have them! No, Larry. It won't work. If you get into the series, then maybe we could struggle along. I don't want much, but you couldn't stand real poverty. You'd hate that. I know," and they sat there watching the quiet sea. Mike wondered if she was right. If it had not been for Jimmie, she would have gone . . . in a rebellious mood, she felt she'd done enough for her family. She had made up her mind before Jimmie's illness, that things must change. She had had the burden of her family too long. But there was no use thinking those thoughts now.

"What has made you so depressed tonight? You aren't yourself."

Handsome did not answer for a moment; "Ace had me over to his coals last night on the train coming in. He's wild at me; says I'm stalling."

Handsome tipped her soft chin so that he could kiss the impudent mouth before he answered: "Of course, I'm not stalling. I told Ace I couldn't do anything when you weren't along. Just as I've always told him I'm not pitching against in the dark. "I thought he was going to take a seat on the bench.

"But you aren't drinking. You're keeping in trim. You're working." "He always stands over at the wrong time—puts me in when I don't feel like pitching."

"Why don't you tell him that?"

"I've try kidding in a manner you don't feel like pitching that day, just because you don't? I couldn't tell him that and keep on with my job, not a black eye. He's tough!"

Mike tried to change that conversation. Something was wrong that was certain.

"Darling, I'm sure I've got to pitch tomorrow, just because he got sore at me. And my arm is in good shape."

Get out yet.

"Right now, Come," she leaned over and kissed him gently. It was like dealing with Jimmie.

"You'll be grand, Larry. I'll be right here. And you'll show those writers something to rave about." Mike tried to force it out. Just what she might do about the matter, Mike knew she could see Wish at the park the next day.

As usual when Handsome was pitching, Mike was breathless at the press gate just before game time. She had hoped she saw was Wish. He'd been waiting for her evidently. She let the boys on the gate know Mike, and they spoke to her. Some of the ushers recognized her and smiled at her.

Mike smiled up at Wish when he saw him coming to the gate "I hope you'd be out here today. I want to talk to you."

"Good! I've got tickets in a different box. Maybe we won't be bothered."

"Is Handsome going to start?"

"That was the plan when I left the locker room, but Ace is sore at him."

"I know. Handsome told me last night. What's wrong, Wish?"

"Harried if I know. Sometimes I think the kid's just plain lazy."

"It isn't that. He says Ace barks at him." Mike tried to laugh in spite of the seriousness of the discussion.

They'd reached the box and Wish gallantly helped her up the steps, growling: "What does he think this is, a pink tea?"

"I'm afraid Handsome's spoiled, Wish. He's an only son, and he's always had things pretty much his own way."

"Ace will take that out of him."

"I do doubt it. He would be a little more interested in Handsome. . . ."

"Interested! Ace can't sleep nights for that clunk! Mike, I tell you for the first time, I'm sore at the kid. There's not a darned thing wrong with him, except he won't pitch on the road! Figure that out if you can."

"Wish, ain't that too bad! That traveling is making him more money at 23 than he'd earn at 40 any other way, and with a chance at a real ability. I'm frank to say I don't understand him."

The game started. Handsome seemed in fine shape. During that long afternoon he turned in a most creditable win. When it was over, Wish slapped his hat back on his head.

"Can you beat it? You'd think he'd been in the big league for years! If I thought he was stallin' on the road, I'd beat the tar out of him tonight. And I could do it!"

Mike put her hand through Wish's arm. "You're too impatient."

"This is a fine time to talk patience with the season running out!" Wish walked over with her to the gate where she always met Handsome.

"I'm goin' on. I don't want to see Handsome tonight. I might say something I'd be sorry for. We've got to have games here. I'll be west on our last swing in September, if he don't come back with the pennant clinched, then we haven't much chance in the Series. You talk to him, Mike." She promised.

Wish Handsome met her five minutes later, he was beaming. The fans gave him a welcome, but he and Mike escaped into a taxi quickly.

"Whew! It was hot today! How are you, Skipper? Nice game, Larry."

"Yes, Infant." Mike replied to her giant in white flannels

"How do you like the get-up? Pretty nice? Was Ace wild! I almost laughed in his face. He thought he'd fixed me, putting me in there today. I showed him!"

"Good boy. How's the arm?"

"Feels wonderful." He said putting it around her slim shoulders. "I wish you wouldn't quarrel with Ace."

"I'm not, he's quarreling with me."

Mike gave up. In this mood there was not talking to Handsome. He was sitting on top of the world tonight.

Mike could not find it in her heart to talk to him more that night, short try it is again when she was more in the mood for such serious conversation.

September opened hot and cloudless. Handsome had some new clothes and was as pleased with them as a child. Mike pressed and steamed and worked all one Sunday morning to make over an old black crepe dress. She did get extravagant and bought a smart fall hat.

Handsome was leaving the Tuesday after Labor Day for the last western trip and Mike kept turning over in her mind the things she had to say to him before they left. They must be said. But how? She'd planned her little talk for Monday night. But it hadn't turned out that way. She and Handsome had gone to a party at Dusty Lee's swank apartment on Riverside Drive. It was the first time Mike had met Carol Lee, and she found her amusing. Carol Lee made a special effort to be nice to Mike, and the girl was grateful. For Mike was not dressed for the party. She had on the old black crepe, but it looked well enough. If Carol eyed Handsome's fiancee speculatively, Mike was not aware of the close scrutiny.

It was a pleasant party, and Mike admitted she had a good time. But there was not much time to say good-bye to Handsome. He kissed her hurriedly at the hotel, insisting that she take a cab home.

Thursday Handsome's mother came to work, she felt depressed and unhappy, to have him go away like this! He only stopped at the magazine counter a moment on his way to the stadium and asked her to be at the station when they left at 6:30 p.m.

CHAPTER XVII

It was noon when Wish came in to the hotel. He did not stop at Mike's room, but went to Downey's office. Shortly the two men came back together.

"Mike, I've got something to tell you. You're going along with us tonight."

"Yeah?"

"But how can I?"

"Don't know, it, somehow."

"We'll fix your salary so it will run while you're away. Ace has given over to your mother," Downey said.

But Wish—"

"It's all right. Carol Lee will look after you. She's a good egg, and my wife's crazy about her. I'm sure. You can have one of the bedrooms. You're just going."

"But clothes, Wish! I haven't any."

"I can't go looking shabby."

"Of course you can. I mean you don't look shabby."

Mike could not hold back a little anger. "If you need clothes, you can get them in Cincinnati. Take a club pay for them."

"How can I leave Jimmie that long?"

"He'll be so thrilled over your letters. Honest, Mike, Wish is all stirred. Here's $50. Take it. I'll get it from the club."

"You mean leave right now?"

"Of course, if you've got the shopping to do, get busy. The train leaves at 6:30 p.m. I've got tickets for you. I'll see you at the station."

"Does Handsome know about it?" Mike was suddenly afraid.

"That's what he's been screamin' for. We'll find out when he sees you at the station!" And Wish laughed at his own humor. But Downey. He urged her to get on her way.

"It doesn't seem fair to you, Mr. Downey."

Downey only laughed and urged her to hurry. He did not explain to the club—what he had in mind.

Shortly Mike found herself out on the street with a crisp new bill with $50.00 clutched in her hand. She had to buy stockings and shoes. It was almost one o'clock. She should get a dress or a suit or something. But Mike decided not do for September. Frantic, she tried to figure just what she must absolutely necessary purchases.

When she came out of the store it was 3 o'clock. She was hot and faint. She'd had no lunch. Desperate, she climbed into a cab with her packages. She could not face struggling with the crowds in the subway. And she felt guilty about such extravagance.

When she finally walked into the apartment, Jimmie was resting and so was her mother. She was in a like a summer cyclone, dumped her purchases on the table, and the words tumbled out of her mouth.

"What about my old coat, mother?" she called. "I can't go with decent looking suit case?"

The little apartment was suddenly turned into a madhouse. Mrs. Shannon got to work on the new black frock, and Mike started throwing out clothes from the dresser drawers.

PSYCHOLOGICAL

The British army is doing it, the United States army did it in the last war and sample tests on R. C. A. F. pilot candidates have indicated again the practical value of applying psychological methods in army examinations. It is claimed.

When war equipment is becoming steadily more technical, such tests would be valuable in all branches of the service. It is suggested, but particularly in the selection of air force pilots. The Canadian Psychological Association has found that a man may be physically fit and able to fly a plane, but that a lot that is needed in an efficient pilot of a high speed, combatant plane of rapid manoeuvrability.

Require Mental Alertness.

Pilots require general mental alertness, sensitive sight, hearing, sense of touch and balance, judgment and speed reactions, and also ability to appraise a variety of significant factors instantly. Skill in delicately controlled movement is important. Lack of what the psychologists term motor coordinability, or "ham handedness", is a definite disqualification. The emotional factor is likewise important. The psychologists have devised a series of tests for judging these different qualifications. By the results of these all if a man is definitely unsuited to army flying when he applies. If he is accepted, he might still be weeded out during a later stage in his training. Of a small sample R.C.A.F. group recently examined, for example, 20 per cent were eliminated for psychological reasons, although they were already flying aeroplanes.

The saving in time and money by finer selection of personnel is substantial, since the training of a pilot for battle service costs an estimated $25,000.

Such selection of air force pilots illustrates in finer degree the results the psychologists suggest would be obtained from classification of all army recruits. In the last war, the United States army gave psychological tests to 2,500,000 recruits and rejected 10 per cent on the results. This action saved a great saving as it was calculated it cost $5,000 to train and send overseas an ordinary soldier.

Within so much mechanical equipment now in use generally, the sifting out of recruits who have little ability for mechanical work becomes desirable. The psychologists do not claim that the results of their man with the best mechanical ability but can eliminate those with a definite lack of that particular ability.

Only Take Half Hour.

Psychological and aptitude tests could be applied in ordinary recruiting examinations without great additional effort, they say. Satisfactory results for classification purposes could be obtained from general half-hour tests given to groups of 100 or so.

A conference of military medical authorities and the Psychological Association has already been held here at the National Research Council. The association's suggestions are being considered by the Defence Department.

NOTED AVIATOR'S

Comments Not Favorable

Few comments favorable to the United aviator's speech were heard in the Capital. "Asinine" frequently was used to describe the address in Berlin. Even the phrase "This Western Hemisphere is our domain."

Although Lindbergh apparently spoke for himself, it was noted that his recommendations for American neutrality legislation closely followed those of Herbert Hoover, former Republican president. His suggestions for a world program were:

1. An embargo on offensive weapons and munitions;

2. The unrestricted sale of "purely defensive" armaments;

3. The prohibition of American shipping from belligerent countries of Europe and the danger zones;

4. The refusal of credit to belligerent nations or their agents.

Statements of the Senate refrained from immediate public comment. However, their reaction to the idea of continuing the embargo on "offensive" weapons such as bombing planes — to use Lindbergh's example—while repealing it as to "defensive" weapons such as anti-aircraft guns was indicated when former President Hoover made the suggestion last Tuesday.

Chairman Key Pittman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a leader of administration forces in the current embargo controversy, commented at that time that "that's fiddling around with immaterialities."

Referring to the United States pledge to aid in the defence of the Western Hemisphere Lindbergh asked:

"But have they (Canadians) the right to draw the boundaries of war to a European war simply because they prefer the crown of England to American independence?

"Sooner or later we must demand the freedom of this continent and its surrounding islands from the dictates of European war. American history clearly indicates this course. As long as European powers maintain their influence in our hemisphere, we are likely to find ourselves involved in their troubles, and they will lose no opportunity to involve us."

Would Not Assist Monetary

Repeal of the arms embargo, Lindbergh said, would not assist democracies in European wars. "I do not believe this is a war for democracy."

Senator Harold Burton Hurley, Ohio Republican, declared in the Senate that the fact that repeal of the embargo seemed likely to benefit the British cause should recommend the new neutrality act to Congress. He drew attention to the fact that the embargo prevented Canada, a friendly neighbor, from buying arms in America, but that the United States resources were available to Russia, Italy, Japan, and Mexico, all more or less friendly.

May Compromise

Meanwhile, Senate activities behind the scenes centred about efforts to work out a compromise whereby the debate on neutrality which now has occupied two full weeks may be ended. Vice-President John Garner was reported to have urged both sides to compromise.

There seems little doubt in any quarter that the revised measure will pass the Senate with support of at least two-thirds of the membership of 96. And nobody has claimed the two-week debate has altered any opinions held by Senators when the debate opened.

But there will be amendments to the bill's drastic shipping restrictions that would prevent any American vessel from carrying cargoes or passengers to a belligerent country no matter how far that country might be removed from actual conflict.

Senator Pittman has tentatively agreed to several proposed amendments which would have the effect of restricting the prohibitions to those countries close to the conflict.

Go to Canada

It is the aim of a group interested in this phase of the measure to provide that American ocean shipping to Canada, Australia, New Zealand, the West Indies other than countries remote from the war zone but technically belligerent would proceed without interference by Presidential decrees should the submarine menace spread to these areas.

Today's scheduled speakers were Senators Lynn Frazier (Rep. North Dakota) and Ernest Lundeen (Farmer Labor-Minnesota), opposing the bill and Senator Connally (Democrat-Texas) supporting it. At least doen more addresses are expected before the Senate begins consideration of amendments.

General Hugo Viktor Oestermann commander-in-chief of Finland's armed forces, will be faced with the task of resisting Russia's armed might should the small Finnish republic stand firm in their resolve to resist any attempt by the Soviets to threaten the independence of Finland.

Little Lois Orrell, 236 Charles Street, is a patient in the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

Mr. J. F. MacFarlane Shannonville, has returned from attending the Post Graduate course, which was held for licensed embalmers this week in Toronto.

Mrs. Norman Hickson visited Toronto friends this week.

On Tuesday evening, Miss Grace Appleton was hostess to a delightfully arranged cup and saucer shower in honour of Mrs. Charles Wilkins, nee Eunice Reid, a recent bride. The evening was spent in playing bingo, games and contests. Later a tasty luncheon was served. The evening came to a close all wishing Eunice much happiness.

Weddings

LESCH—GIBSON

Calgary, Alberta, Asters and gladioli in a splash of autumn color, were used in an effective arrangement in Christ Church, Tuesday afternoon, September 19th, when Mary Elizabeth, elder daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Gibson, (formerly Miss Margaret Keith), of Belleville, Ontario, became the bride of Mr. George Clarence Lesch, only son of Mrs. W. H. Lesch, of Winnipeg, and the late Rev. Mr. Lesch. The bridegroom is a lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, and following the reception he and his bride left by motor for Kingston, Ontario, where they will be stationed for the present. They visited Belleville relatives en route.

Ven. Archdeacon Cecil Swanson, D.D., and Rev. Dudley Kemp officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a becoming two-piece wool dress in a warm tone of gray the bodice embroidered in self-color braid and cut with a yoke, the sleeves a small bit of harvest wine shade trimmed with wide tips in blue, yellow and wine, and her corsage was pure roses and bouvardia. She wore a pearl sunburst, the gift of her father to her mother on their wedding day.

Miss Alice Richardson, wearing a grape wool frock with a matching hat and a corsage of Talisman roses, was the bridesmaid. Mr. Keith Gibson, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom. Mr. James Gibson, also a brother of the bride, and Mr. Walter Howard were the ushers.

Following the service a reception was held at the Glencoe Club where Mrs. Gibson, the bride's mother, received in a gown of sapphire blue velvet with a blue hat made of tiny feathers. Her corsage was of American Beauty roses.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. H. G. Taylor, Mrs. E. W. Kolb and Mrs. A. E. Richardson. Rev. Dudley Kemp proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling the bride wore a top coat of Queen's blue with a deep gray collar.

BOURCHIER—BLAIE

The marriage of Miss Marion Keith Thorold, daughter of Mrs. Blair and the late F. W. Blair of Willsie, Sask., to Flight-Lieutenant Hugh J. Bourchier, son of Mr. and Mr. A. J. Bourchier, Toronto, took place this afternoon in St. Paul's Chapel, Toronto. Rev. H. L. Morrison of Tweed, cousin of the bride, officiated assisted by Bishop R. J. Renison, chaplain to the 110th Squadron, R.C.A.F. Mr. Maitland Farmer played the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. R. B. Dillon, wore French grey taffeta with white embroidered accessories and corsage of orchids, and her attendant, Miss Christine Galloway, was in blue taffeta dress with matching hat and corsage of Pernet roses. Flight-Lieutenant C. W. Burgess was groomsman, and the ushers were Pilot Officers, J. D. Pattison and A. Hamilton. Following the ceremony an R.C.A.F. plane circled above the church and the officers of the 110th Squadron formed a guard of honor as the bride and bridegroom left the church.

The reception was held in the R.C.A.F. Officers' mess, Jarvis Square. Mrs. H. L. Morrison of Tweed, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Melville Jones of London, Ont., received the guests. Later the bride and bridegroom will leave by plane for Muskoka and will live in Ottawa on their return.

O. S. D. TEACHERS HOLD MEETING

Presentation Made to Miss Lally Before Leaving Staff to be Married

A meeting of the Association took place in the sewing room on Wednesday, October 11, Mr. Cunningham, the president, welcoming C. B. McGuire who does not often have the opportunity to attend and also Mr. Geo. F. Stewart, an honorary member of the Association.

Miss Flora M. Bell of the O.S.D. staff, and who had been "on exchange" in England during the 1938-1939 session gave an interesting talk on her year abroad. Miss Bell taught most of the year—starting last August, and completing her work in July—in the Acton Vale East School for the Deaf, London, and School for the Deaf in Ashford, Kent.

Miss Bell had limited her talk to thirty minutes. This time was inadequate to go into detail in regard to her work, or to her experiences outside school. She did however spin a very alluring tale of her year abroad.

She briefly contrasted and compared her classroom experience in Belleville, Ontario, and London, England. Two things which stood out were the better physical conditions which exist here, and the general superiority of the pupils of the English day schools in lip-reading.

Shortly after she had begun work in September 1938, preparations for evacuation were made, and later carried into effect. The difficulties confronting the people of London, and the solution of such were vividly brought home to her audience.

Holidays Described

Christmas holidays and Easter holidays were described in more detail. The League of the Empire, a London organization arranged the trips for the week-ends in England, and on the continent during the holidays.

These trips included Oxford, Cambridge, Canterbury, the Isle of Wight, Salisbury, Bath, various sections of London, and on the continent—Paris, Milan, Venice, Florence, Naples, the ruined city of Pompeii, Rome, Vatican City, Pisa, Genoa, Monte Carlo, Nice, Marseilles, The Hague, Amsterdam, although Belgium, through the famed Maginot wishing her happiness for the future. Miss Lally thanked the Association for the gift, and Miss Bell for her tenure at the School had been a pleasant one due to the fine spirit of co-operation and friendliness existing among the members of the staff.

The meeting was closed with the National Anthem. After adjournment tea was poured by Miss Bell and cake and sandwiches were served by Miss Wallis and the social committee.

PRESENTATION

On Wednesday evening the members of St. John's Anglican Church Guild of Moneymore, met at the home of Mrs. Alex. Mitchell, where a party had been arranged in honour of Miss Jean Mitchell, a bride-to-be.

The party was in form of a

Second Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

It is good form for a widow who is marrying a divorced man to have a formal wedding complete with wedding processional, bridesmaids, and so forth? Should the wedding be held in a church near here recently, and I have been somewhat confused in relation to my own wedding plans.

Bride-to-be

To be in the best form, the wedding of a widow should be quiet and simply. It should not be planned so that the word "elaborate" could be used of it. Also, the bride should not wear a bridal veil

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Again the Green-Eyed Monster

Dear Miss Fairfax

Mine is another of those eternal triangles. Two of us are in love with the same girl. We all graduated from high school the same year, this other chap and I took her to all the school dances, concerts, plays and other social activities in the school.

I'm to enter college this fall, but my rival was lucky enough to get a job and his given up the college idea. Now if I go away, I'm afraid it will be a case of "out of sight, out of mind", and the other fellow will get the girl. How can I keep this girl interested in me? Can you suggest something I can give her to remember me by—a ring, perhaps—not a diamond, of course—or some other gift which she can keep to remind her of me? My folks would hear of quitting college. We're all 17 and 18.

Jealous

You're very frank about admitting you're jealous of this other fellow. But if can't see why you, on the way to a university career, should want to blind this girl to you by keeping her from receiving the attention of the rival. It seems to me, if you give her a ring (although it's not a diamond), you would put yourself in a false position.

If you want to give her something to remember you by, why not give her a long, newsy portfolio, and tell her you hope it will suggest that she will sometimes write you a letter.

Wants a Polite Way Out

Dear Miss Fairfax

There's a certain young man who keeps on calling me up for dates. I go with him sometimes, but at other times I don't care to. Please give me a polite way of refusing him without offending him. I don't want to lose his friendship.

One of the Girls

You can always plead an old engagement which has slipped your memory. Or you can have out of town friends coming. Also you may have some class or club work for that particular evening. While such excuses may be white lies, they will be forgiven, it seems to me, because they are told to spare someone's feelings.

It Isn't Always Wise to Confide in One's Friends

Dear Miss Fairfax

I am 18 years old, and have been going "steady" for over a year with luck to you.

having won one of Moneymore young ladies for a bride.

On behalf of the Guild of St. John's Church, Mrs. Mitchell asked you to accept this gift and hope it will find a useful place in your new home.

The Misses Moneymore Guild.

Mrs. Edward Alexander then presented the bride-to-be with a silk bedspread. Mrs. Mitchell joined in sing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow".

Miss Kincaid then expressed her appreciation and thanks for the lovely gifts.

Lunch was served and a social hour spent.

Mrs. G. G. Ostrom Celebrates Her 91st Birthday

On Thursday, September 28th, the family of Mrs. G. G. Ostrom, Halleway, gathered at her home for a surprise party with well filled baskets of chicken and sweet goodies to honor her on her ninety-first birthday.

Mrs. Ostrom while not so strong as she has been is still very keen and active. She loves to be out of doors and has kept herself busy through the summer keeping her lawn and tending the flowers. Her talented daughter a favourite book entitled "The Upper Room, every three month which she reads and enjoys so much. She also reads the daily paper with much interest.

At one o'clock all sat down to a table laden with all the good things of the season and centered with a beautiful birthday cake, trimmed with ninety-one candles. After all had partaken of the good things provided Mrs. Ostrom was asked if she would like to say a few words. She replied very feelingly saying she was more happy than she could express in words to have her family with her on her ninety-first anniversary of her birth and seeing them all so well pleased and contented was glad that she gave her heart to God when she was a little girl, also she was thankful to God for her long life, health and prosperity. She was also glad to thank all her friends for the beautiful gifts, flowers, card and letters of congratulations received.

All present replied with heartfelt thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Ostrom's address. Happy Birthday to You, was then sung.

Then Mrs. Ostrom sang in her clear sweet voice "Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow" and all very heartily joined in.

Through the course of the afternoon appropriate readings and songs were heard. Mrs. Ingelton gave "Memories of Mother", Mrs. Snider "The Song My Mother Sang"; Mrs. Phillips "That Wonderful Mother of Mine" and Mrs. Cassidy "Will de Roses Bloom in Heaven?" Then a half hour was spent in contic readings, jokes, and patriotic songs. "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" was then sung and all departed home wishing Mrs. Ostrom many returns of the day and feeling they had spent a happy time together.

KINGSTON ROAD W.A.

On September 27th the W.A. of the Kingston Road United Church met at the home of Mrs. Gazely for the purpose of quilting a quilt, which had been pieced. Mrs. Gazely served a dainty lunch of coffee and cake, after which the quilt was finished and completed the quilt.

On Wednesday afternoon, October 4th, the regular monthly meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Alex. Donaldson, Foster Avenue.

The President, Mrs. C. Macdonald presided and the meeting was opened by singing the theme song with Mrs. Donaldson at the organ. Mrs. Donaldson led in prayer. The ladies discussed several items of business. The meeting was followed by very cordial invitation to meet at the home of Mrs. Gazely on Wednesday by cleaning the stove pipes. The ladies decided to give the young people a party and possibly paint the floor before the anniversary. Mrs. Donaldson led in the call in that church morning and evening of October 22nd.

The afternoon of the afternoon was spent in making pyjamas for the Red Cross. Mrs. Donaldson faithfully carried on by the ladies. The afternoon proved very pleasant, gratifying and a very sumptuous lunch was served by Mrs. Donaldson, Mrs. Gazely, Mrs. Farnsworth and Mrs. Snider.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

The W.M.S. of Tabernacle Church, held their monthly meeting recently at the home of the President, Mrs. L. T. Mcclintock on Tuesday afternoon with a good attendance. The meeting opened with the President, Mrs. Mcclintock reading the Thanksoffering meeting appropriate music was used and a psalm was sung responsively. The minutes of secretaries' reports were given and adopted. Plans were completed for sale to bring the report from the Sectional Rally. Miss Singer favourite solo was accompanied by Mrs. Duff.

The guest speaker, Mrs. M. Osborne was introduced by Mrs. Mcclintock and gave a very excellent address on Christian Stewardship, giving us many new thoughts and inspiration to work for the Lord. Mrs. Osborne sends His love and gifts to us and we should be thankful to have her as a friend with others. God needs our unselfish co-operation. A duet by Mrs. Quaid and Mrs. Duff was much enjoyed also a reading by Mrs. Fisher. A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Osborne for her splendid address and also to the ladies taking part in the program. The meeting closed with prayer and the ladies of the church served a cup of tea and a social time was enjoyed.

GOOD MANNERS

BE WARY OF CONTRACTING SOCIAL OBLIGATIONS

There are some people who love to place others under obligations to them. Whether from misdirected kindness or from a desire to wrest some social favor in return, this procedure is a fatal social error. The over-generous one soon becomes known as a nuisance to be avoided. Do not thrust favors upon anyone. Wait until you are quite sure that it will be agreeable to your friend to be under obligations to you.

Many do not accept favors because they cannot afford to return them. Many might do so, but do not accept a special favor from you, but would be willing to accept the same thing from someone else.

On the other hand, do not ask people whom you do not know well for any special privilege. For you either subject yourself to the humiliation of a snub, or you run the risk of obliging your acquaintance to grant a privilege to you which he or she would rather confer upon someone else.

Time for Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

When there is to be a large wedding, how many weeks in advance should the bride-to-be announce her bridal party?

Ruth

Usually the bride-to-be invites her bridal attendants and the grooms-to-be their ushers when the engagements about two months before the date set for the wedding is to be a large, formal wedding. There is no reason why they should not be announced earlier if the couple will, or later, if the wedding is to be informal.

Orchids

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

1—May I give a girl, whom I've been out with twice, an orchid to wear to the dance which I'm attending and dance? Will one be enough?

2—When is the proper time to give it to her? Should I present it at her home, or after she gets in the car?

William

1—Yes, sir, you may and it would show you a gallant and generous gentleman. And she will be delighted—if not overjoyed. One will be enough, if the young lady is petite and if the orchid is large.

2—If it is convenient, it is better to send the orchid in the afternoon of the dance. Next couple will call for it with you, and to give it to her at home. Then it is more convenient for you than giving it to her after you have entered the car.

Wash Away Oily Hair Troubles

MARY TAYLOR. . . thorough sha mpoos keep her hair radiant; lovely, and a strong current of water. Brisk friction is necessary. If the comb and brush show a gray deposit, the scalp has not been removed. Hair, when properly laundered, will not be oily before a fortnight, if then, no matter how busy sebaceous glands may be.

By HELEN FOLLETT

LOUDEST among the beauty wailers are the girls with oily hair. They complain eternally, make a big fuss. Sometimes over-active sebaceous glands are buttering the scalp; often the dilatness is the penalty a girl pays for giving herself a casual half-hearted shampoo.

If she rubs that bar of soap over her brain mat, she can be sure that particles of soap will cling so closely that rinsing will not remove them. Some soaps are desirable for the skin, nor for the hair; they don't make a live crackling lather which is necessary to combat oils, dead skin scales and dust that the pesky mop has collected.

Let Wailing Winnie phase a mild bar of soap in a quart measure, half fill the jar with warm water, let stand three days before using. She can then half fill a cup with the solution, add as much hot water, have a perfect shampoo medium.

There should be one application as many rinsings with a bath spray will

If You're Hunting Home Bargains

By Eleanor Ross

THERE IS often a sharp division of opinion on the subject of sales. Every daughter of Eve loves a bargain, but there are many women who never go to sales, who insist that the stores offer merchandise specially manufactured for that occasion. We are referring especially to home furnishings, to furniture, bedding, draperies, rugs and other articles for use in the home. Of course, there are those shops not so ethical in their dealings who do buy poor merchandise and include it in their sale offerings. After all, most of us know little about the interior of furniture and even if we do we can't stand up in cross sections. The careful shopper will frequent only those stores which offer branded goods and which have sales people who are prepared to answer every question and know about the merchandise on sale. Usually real bargains are available in such shops for good stores, order their merchandise regularly and for in advance, and must have the space and the money for their new commitments. A good shopper will often note the mark-down on something that she has tagged and be entering at once and so check the real saving. Odd pieces, which often cannot be secured because the manufacturer has discontinued making them, are typical opportunities. It is also possible to acquire, at a fraction of their worth in the regular way, an odd chair or even a sofa or love seat.

But unless a piece fits into your home, it isn't a bargain, no matter what the price tag says.

When you are furnishing or refurnishing, it is sometimes a good idea to look out for these "orphan" bargains and revolve your decorating scheme around them. This goes especially for a fine rug or a fine sofa.

Don't let anyone talk you into the grand bargains obtainable at wholesale, for only retailers can go into the furniture market and actually buy at wholesale. By virtue of their large and regular purchases, they are entitled to wholesale prices and discounts.

Obviously, a big buyer is not going to discourage his business by dealing at those houses that are in direct competition to him, so it's best to go to a good store, and if you are a careful shopper, you'll find real buys even when it isn't sale time.

Sectional Rally W. M. S. Held At Zion Church in Thurlow

Morning Session

The fourteenth annual meeting of Belleville Section, Women's Missionary Society, was held in Zion United Church, Thurlow, on Thursday, Oct. 12.

Mrs. S. W. Spafford, presided at the gathering and the 200 women present were inspired by the addresses, the service of song and the spirit of sincerity and devotion manifest throughout the day.

The morning devotional period was taken by Mrs. C. C. Mills and Mrs. (Rev.) Armstrong of Canniffon, the theme being Prayer, Praise and Thanksgiving. Mrs. W. Tufts extended a very sincere welcome to the delegates and ladies. Mrs. A. J. Burke in replying thanked Mrs. Tufts for the beautiful thoughts contained in her message and words of welcome.

Membership Totals 931

After the roll call of auxiliaries the recording secretary, Mrs. Harry Rayburn read "The Story of the Year." a resume of the year's work of the thirty-five auxiliaries throughout the Belleville Section. The membership is 931 showing a decrease but Mrs. Harrison was pleased to say an increase in givings which amounted to $5,175.-50. Money is given systematically. All schools but Mt. Pleasant and Rawdon reporting all members as systematic givers. Seven auxiliaries use the Study Book and Missionary Monthly.

Great interest is shown in the Temperance and Christian Citizenship departments with special attention given to temperance work. The supply work is an important department in every auxiliary.

There are 58 members in the three Mission Circles of the section whose givings total $179.00. The 234 members in 23 Mission Bands

Twenty-two Mission Bands have 234 members, $240.38. Baby Bands gumber 14 in the Presbyterial.

A solo "Teach Me to Pray" was sung by Mrs. (Rev.) L. A. Scott of the Sidney Parsonage.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes in an address on the C. T. work stated the movement was promoted by the Dominion Girls' Work Secretary, Canada. Its object is religious education for girls to assist them in ways of living in the present and in the future.

Mrs. Holmes explored the lack of leaders. Recruits could be trained she said in Literature, studying Summer School and giving a year's help.

Press Requirements

Mrs. Harry Rayburn says the subject of a short talk on Press work, by Mrs. R. Bateman, Press Secretary was urged to make reports brief, interesting, outlining unaccomplished work and stressing the importance of the work being done.

Leaflets were ready for distribution that had been prepared by the Ontario Intelligencer, who with to co-operate in improving reports for publication.

Contest Explained

An explanation of the Scrapbook Contest as sponsored by Mrs. Percy Mason, Literature and Press Secretary, was given and each auxiliary was urged to send a report to start a Missionary Scrapbook.

An address "The Baby and Its Mother" was given by Mrs. Milton Robson, Bonarlaw, Ont. Baby Week The Baby Band goal Mrs. Robson stated, hopes to make their real to the young children, and to cultivate right habits and attitudes in the home, where is later spreads to the community, finally creating a friendship for the whole world. Clever posters were displayed by Mrs. Robson which made the message was the poem "My Opportunity."

The Presbyterial President, Mrs. T. L. Hooper introduces the first speaker, Miss Hean Day, a former National Y. W. C. A. worker, who has been on the staff of the Dominion Board since September 1935, as Secretary of Publicity.

Mrs. H. K. Denyes, in whose home Mrs. Sally Ray was held was honored by Mrs. Spafford and the ladies present for her long standing as a faithful and loyal Missionary and Temperance worker up-to-date in every way performing where she graciously addressed the meeting.

Address on Temperance

An splendid address on temperance was given by Mrs. (Rev.) Parnworth. The liquor traffic is the greatest evil mankind. There are over one million dollars spent in strong drink every day in this Dominion, she stated. "Can we, as Ministers, stand idly by and allow our eyes to the monster which is emitting down our boys and girls in Canada?"

A large army of W. M. S. members are in the field, volunteers, and give great push in the march forward toward victory in the war on liquors, the speaker concluded.

Reports of Deceased Members

The quiet half hour was conducted by Mrs. R. D. Ponton. Sincere tribute was paid by Mrs. Davidson to the following deceased members: Mrs. Hiram Bell, Mrs. Jas. Bronson, Mrs. Jas. Williams, Mrs. Wm. Bell, Mrs. Thos. Shetlor, Mrs. Cleo. Reid, Mrs. Jennie Hagle, Mrs. Alex. Bowerman, Mrs. Spafford, Mrs. Emma Youker, Mrs. Vivian, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Wm. Bell, Mrs. Bateter, Mrs. Scantlebury, Mrs. John Green, Mrs. Moore, Methodist Lady Lader.

At the noon hour the ladies of Zion Church served hot dinner to the delegates and ladies.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session opened with Mrs. Stanley Spafford in the chair.

Mrs. W. J. Osborne, secretary of Christian Stewardship for Presbyterial had charge of the first part of the program. She had arranged for six girls from Bridge Street Church to give a play entitled "The Second Mile" which put in action the thought contained in the verse "Whoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain." The girls did their parts well and the play proved to be not only very interesting but instructive as well.

The worship service followed in charge of Mrs. Chas. MacFarlane and Mrs. Frank Bennett of Melrose.

Mrs. MacFarlane read the parable of the Good Samaritan and gave a very fine explanation of the parable.

Given Inspirational Address

The next item was the address by the guest speaker, Miss Helen Day, Lit. Sec. of Dom. Board. Miss Day has an appeal all her own and her talk on "Gratitude" was a most unusual subject and proved interesting to the audience.

The speaker gave a practical picture of workmanship in which all could do something even the most gifted and that line, which would bring us joy. This led up to the tasks in the W. M. S. work and these were listed under four headings.

"What are we seeking to create in W. M. S. fellowship? she asked. "We should build up the fellowship which is according to Kingdom. Fellowship is harmony, good will and peace in which to thrive. It is not the time to let it decrease."

"The materialistic have to work with is the women of our churches, who must send the gospel to other lands through the Missionary. Sale of literature has been greater in China than it was before the war and while the Chinese people are crying out for it the transportation is extremely difficult.

"Great skill in leadership is needed and leaders should realize the responsibility should feel the opportunity is just a summary of friends and should be able to share the work and have ability to participate in worship and conference periods.

"Lastly the tools the W.M.S. have to work with are the Bible, prayer and the church. Our own work must go on and we must pray without ceasing in the interest of the United Federation campaigning. Red Cross work and repairing the Lord's Prayer set.

Mrs. White welcomed the visitors, then introduced Mrs. J. Houch of Trenton, Ont., Dept. Secretary, who said she was pleased to visit this district and meet and exchange ideas with the workers. She then explained the duties of the officers. Mrs. Houch then called on Mrs. J. Birdsall and Mrs. Fowler who explained the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women.

Mrs. Fowler then explained the questionnaire. It was at first planned to look after unemployment and the problem of youth. Those from the ages 16 to 65 are eligible to register.

Mrs. Birdsall pointed out that the Red Cross questionnaire was not the same as work for the Red Cross is voluntary and with this it is entirely optional if you receive remuneration. The two main undertakings will be the Housing of the people and Canada Taking a Man's place in Industry.

The work of the organizers is done voluntarily. The President of each branch of the W.I. will be responsible for opening a booth in her community. Two women are required in the booth at one time. The booth must be kept open for several days to give all women of the district a chance to register.

At noon the ladies gathered in the Sunday school room where pot-luck dinner was held.

After dinner the ladies gathered in the church where Mrs. Houck again addressed them. Greetings and Honorary Members, Life Members, War Work, Way of Raising Money were discussed. Mrs. Houck discouraged the use of Lotteries as a way of raising funds, for Dept. Secretary.

The history of the W. I. was briefly reviewed by the speaker from its beginning at Stoney Creek in 1897 with one branch in connection with the Farmers' Institute till today when there are 1285 branches in Ontario with 142,000 members, 72,000 more in Canada Federated W. I. formed 30 years ago, every branch is represented on the board through federated representative.

A song was sung and Miss Ella Bell gave a humorous reading. Mrs. Houch then spoke on "Programme Planning."

In regard to Resolutions sent to the board committee there are conditions the speaker said the best way is to bring them home and wait for the Institute to get busy and do something about them themselves.

Mrs. White thanked Mrs. Houch for her helpful addresses and the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem. There were around twenty five ladies present from the branches in the district represented were Mohawk, Quinte and Roslin.

Women's Institutes Hear Talk On Voluntary Registration Plan

Roslin—The East Hastings District Women's Institute held an all-day meeting in the Roslin Presbyterian Church on Thursday Oct. 12th. The District President Mrs. W. White, presided, the morning session opened with the singing of the hymn and repeating the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. White welcomed the visitors, then introduced Mrs. J. Houch of Trenton, Ont., Dept. Secretary, who said she was pleased to visit this district and meet and exchange ideas with the workers. She then explained the duties of the officers.

PRESENTATION

On Thursday evening, one hundred and twenty-five guests gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Carroll to honor their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fobert, whose marriage took place recently. The newlyweds,were presented with a miscellaneous shower after which dancing was enjoyed.

The following address was read:

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fobert,

Dear Agnes and Joe,

We, your friends and neighbours have gathered here tonight to honour this great event of your marriage. We wish to express our heartiest congratulations and best wishes in some tangible way.

You, dear have been with us since childhood, we have always found you to be a good sport and ready to assist in anyway where ever the occasion demanded it. We also may say that you have plenty laugh and cheery smile Will bring happiness to you both as the years pass by.

We have not known you, Joe, as long as we have Agnes, but we bid welcome you as a friend for the sake of one we have always respected. We congratulate you heartily upon your choice of a helpmate for life.

As this is an occasion when no one has some advice to offer good or otherwise, we have chosen that to which you doubtless have already received.

When everything goes crooked, And seems inclins dlo rile,

Don't fight, nor lose your temper!

Just—run—smile.

Be wise and pleasant

Just—you—laugh.

It's hard to learn the lesson But in the end you will find

When people tease and pester

Just—you—grin.

But if you find your outfit

Surrounded by trouble you will

And cannot smile, nor laugh, nor grin

Just—keep—still.

You will meet new opportunities What will demand of you your best You will find disappointments That will put you to the test

Don't stumble, tear, or falter If you find the way grows hard God has promised He will strengthen

If he knows you're trusting Him.

Please accept these small tokens of ours, and remember chiefly the hands and wishes that go with them. We hope that you will use them in your every day life, and that they may be one of the pleasant relationships and old friends of the future may bring to mind.

Toronto, Oct. 14 (CP)—Hockey's fine art of buying and selling, which failed rapidly with the development of the school and farm systems, has come back with an inexplicable bang.

Last fall the only deals of importance before the National League season were Charlie Conacher from Toronto to Detroit and Art Jackson and Leroy Goldsworthy from Boston to New York Americans. Now those three have been caught up in a whirl of trades that would have left David Harum gasping.

Retirements and other factors have helped to open the way for face lifts with the result that the big-league scene will be considerably altered for the schedule opening Nov. 2.

Dutton is Market

The Conacher acquisition of Conacher and their decision to return Jackson and Goldsworthy to Boston reveal a main part of Manager Red Dutton's summer bargaining. He has obtained Herb Jay Jackson, Doc Romnes and Bum Bell from Toronto to fill the places of the former Schriner. He has bought Murray Armstrong, Bummer Baldwin and Charlie Conacher from the former Toronto farm at Syracuse and called in Pat Egan from the Pacific Coast League.

In addition, Dutton has obtained a big group of amateurs to his training school at Port Arthur, Ont., and added to the wrestling-mat success among the veterans by releasing Nick Knott when Cliff Barker balked at a salary reduction. Joe Jerwa went, too, and others will follow.

Has Opposition

All this makes the Americans' manager the one world's champion among traders, but he has opposition.

Paul Thompson, newly-installed as manager, is busily making over Chicago Black Hawks last season by send Rob Gracie to the Pacific League and taking a scouting trip. He has followed that by notifying Earl Robinson and Tommy Dunderdale, obtained with Gracie from the old Montreal Maroons, that they were no longer needed. Last week he sold Robinson to Montreal Canadiens.

Thompson acquired Bill Carse and Gaye Stewart from New York Rangers, Les Cunningham and Phil Hergesheimer from Providence and Syd Howe from the International-American League and Des Smith from the Canadiens. He summoned a batch of amateurs to camp at Hibbing, Minn., and may find further replacements among them.

Jack Adams has been busy, too. He has added to Detroit's belief in sending Charlie Conacher over there and buying Pollard from the Rangers. He retired Herbie Lewis to the management of his new Indianapolis farm and released the stringer he held on a group of Pittsburgh players.

Number of Amateurs

Then Adams dragged in a huge contingent of amateurs and told them they had chances to make a place in the big show, so that anything is liable to happen to Syd Howe before the schedule starts. Adams is almost sure to retain Don Grosso from the Rangers and perhaps Jack Keating, former Kitchener amateur, second-baseman.

Lester Patrick hasn't indicated who will replace Dillon, Allen and Carse for the Rangers. Joe Krol and Bobby Kirk from the Philadelphia farm seem like fair bets and Patrick is another wise man with a big selection of minor-leaguers and amateurs.

Toronto's trade with the American farm direct gave Manager Conn Smythe short. He got Schriner who will be a tremendous help in the way off afflictions with the Syracuse farm, leaving the Leafs with an sizeable group of captain-farm-hands to choose from.

Smythe has yet an experienced rushing defenceman and, when he needed, decided he could. Wally Stanowoski would fill the bill in his second year out of wrestling mats. Billy Taylor and Hank Goldup, after years under Smythe's eye, have gained poise-bracts and look good as forwards. Jimmy Fowler has retired to become a paint salesman but he was slated to go to the Americans anyway.

To Play at Home

Boston's biggest problem was presented by Eddie Shore's move in buying the Springfield Int.-Am. Club. Figure, granted defencemen of them all, will play with the world champion Boston team in only its home games until the playoffs.

Johnny Shewchuck, who would have been called up from the minors long ago if Boston hadn't been so well fixed for defencemen, probably will catch on now. Ross Lowell and Ray Getliffe to the Canadiens and Goldsworthy to the minors, but his Hershey and Providence farms leave him plenty of selections.

The tragic death of Coach Babe Siebert removed a bulwark from the Canadiens' defence. Jimmy Ward has been released and his going will help make way for Robinson and Getliffe. But it would be no surprise if the latter two should be put into the already-boiling pot before November.

Final Play of Contest Sees B.C.I. Player Kick to Deadline To Earn 6-6 Tie With O.S.D.

Six-Man Football Game Has All the Thrills and Beautiful Plays Seen

O.S.D. SCORES FIRST

Powers Returns Kick to Deadline Just as Whistle Sounds

Returning a last-second kick as the final whistle was sounding, Mike Powers floated the old pigskin to the deadline to give the Belleville Collegiate a 6-all tie with the O.S.D. gridders in the initial six-man Bay of Quinte senior interscholastic football game played at the O.S.D. campus yesterday.

Trailing from the initial quarter, when the "deaf lads" scored six points, the "collegians" battled counter-by-counter to gain a draw in a story-book finish play.

Following a B.C.I. fumble, Graziano and Kinsiki made substantial gains and May punted to the Collegiate deadline for an early point for the O.S.D. Kinsiki ran a kick-off back 40 yards while Graziano added 10 in another 30 on an extended end run and Kinsiki galloped around right end for a touchdown, converting verified and O.S.D. led 6-0 as the second quarter opened.

Elongated Tommy Thompson swung into action for B.C.I. at this point and three successive forward passes to Powers and Theobald and then himself crashed through the O.S.D. line for a touch-down that also was not converted to bring the score to 6-5 for O.S.D. at the half-way mark.

Passes Intercepted.

There was no evidence of scoring in the third quarter, but in the fourth Thompson intercepted two of the "deaf lads' attempted forwards, but the Collegiate could not penetrate far into the O.S.D. territory. Powers, fast, elusive halfback of the yard gain, but O.S.D. held on their own fire-yard line and on the last play in the final second of play May elected to kick out of danger. Powers caught the ball and immediately returned the kick, with the final whistle sounding as the ball settled over the line to the deadline for one point giving the B.C.I. a last-second 6-6 tie.

Thompson led the Collegians effectively, with Powers and Theobald sparking plays. Powers' catching of forward passes bordering on the sensational. May, Graziano and Sachs carried the bulk of the O.S.D. attack along the line. The game marked the inaugural of senior interscholastic six-man football in the Bay of Quinte group of the C.O.S.S. A. and was productive of some fine football.

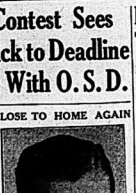
Belleville Collegiate Institute — Thompson, Gamble, Theobald, quarter; Powers, snap, Rogers; linemen, Welch and Reid; alternates, Thompson, Mason, Cunningham and Burley.

O.S.D.—Halves, Kinsiki and Graziano; quarter, May; snap, Robertson; linemen, Bartu and Hazlitt; alternates, Tessier, Sachs, Caldwell, Barton, Murphy, Calder and McLaughlin.

Referee—Art Cole.

BLUE GOOSE SHOT

Brockville, Ont., Oct. 14—(CP)—Carrie Cox, 50, a game warden certain parts in Ontario, was shot and killed yesterday at Grape Island, in the north end of Cavander Island, by W. H. Comstock. The bird had a wing spread of 61 inches.



CLOSE TO HOME AGAIN

Back to the city where he first rose to fame as a right wing star in the National Hockey League is Earl Robinson, ABOVE, recently sold by Chicago Black Hawks, for whom he tolled last season, to Canadiens, to bolster one of the latter's weak spots in their rebuilding campaign. Robinson graduated from Montreal leagues to the Maroons and moved to Chicago when the big red team folded.

EVERYONE WANTS TO FIGHT CONN

Best Drawing Card in the Business Excepting Joe Louis

New York, Oct. 14 (CP)—Young Billy Conn, shifty lightheavyweight champion from Pittsburgh, is having his troubles these days trying to cope with all the fighters in they range from middleweights to heavyweights—who want a crack at his title.

And it's easy to guess why. Every manager knows that Billy is the best drawing card in the business outside of Joe Louis, the heavyweight ruler. But, as is not the case with Louis, every manager seems to think that he has the fighter who can whip Conn.

The Pittsburgher is a fighting boxer but lacks the crushing wallop of Joe Louis and in his last two fights which were with Mello Bottina, Conn had to go 15 rounds each time to get a decision. In the first battle Conn captured Bettina's light-heavyweight crown and in the second successfully defended it.

Conn's latest title fight will be against Gus Lesnevich at Madison Square Garden on Nov. 17. Then perhaps Billy will draw a light-heavy will fight Conn. Billy defended Apostoli twice while the two were still middleweights.

Ceferino Garcia, Apostoli's knockout conqueror and New York-recognized middleweight champion, also wants a match with Conn. On the list too is Bob Pastor, Louis' latest victim.

New York, Oct. 14—(AP)— Talk of another Rose Bowl football game, with over the Duke University campus.....machinery is underway to smoke out a certain Pittsburgh coach who has been choosing to do most of his fighting in his own back yard.

Challedon, the three-year-old champ, will pass up the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap at Santa Anita Hialeah.....reason: owner W. J. Brann can't get his colt used to the sea air long enough to make a start. Last year's big event change bosses when his 1939 contract expires?

Not so long ago, before the "flitterkrieg" struck, a Cincinnati baseball writer blandly asked if it become of all those fellows who were riding Billy Myers last year. Well, Myers is in training camp in Florida and all he has to see his colt gallop..... what'll you bet Bazil James, one of the club's two owners, doesn't change bosses when his 1939 contract expires?

Brooklyn football Dodgers have offered Pittsburgh a week of drawing for fullback Sam Francis..... the Yanks are hankering for Bill Dudley, the fast Cincinnati admirers ..... Eddie Mead told 'em out west Lou Little's the guy to see..... he'll be Dec. 1 date with Henry Armstrong..... Glenn Cunningham has begun training for a lawnfree, Kans., for the winter track wars.....

Romancers among the staff of the 20th Century Sporting Club are giving Mike Jacobs a headache..... it's rumored if the first Coast League managerial shift finds the popular Bill Brenner moving from Portland to Hollywood...Duquesne will be one of the Pythian teams to watch in the east next year..... they've got 18 sophs getting from experience..... now and a honey of a freshman backfield back home.

Reach for those record books, boys..... the Queen City high school Tigers have played three games so far—scores, 40-0, 40-0, 40-0.

BEHOODED GENT LUCKY TO DRAW WITH RUDY EPPS

Fair Put on Hour of Good Wrestling With the Honors Even

DANIELS DEFEATED

Belleville's Public Enemy No. 1 as Regards Wrestling Defeated by Mexican

Friday the 13th took its feared and awful toll on the pugnacious Tiger Daniels, of Regina, and Belleville's public wrestling enemy No. 1 at the Hume Arena last night when the villainous Daniels lost to Pedro Valdez of Mexico City, in two straight falls in the semi-final bout of a three-card show, that proved highly entertaining and most satisfactory to some 800 paying fans who howled with glee and satisfaction when "The Tiger" was vanquished. In the main bout of the show, however, Rudy Epps, the little 210-pound Canadian mat-grappler, wrestled to a 60 minute draw with "The Mask" each contesting a fall. The bout lasted for full one hour time-limit terminated the brawl.

Bout Steals Show

It was the semi-final bout that took the fancy of the fans, however, as patrons obtained value received for their money to see the rough and unscrupulous "Tiger" Daniels soundly beaten by Mexican Pedro Valdez after a series of the most unorthodox attacks of the pugnacious Daniels including a series of punishing armlocks and a cartwheel pinned Pedro to the mat in the first fall after 13 minutes and strenuous wrestling. Twice during the bout Referee Art Cole had to twist "the Tiger's tail" when he pulled "dirty" tricks and hair-pulling. In the second round, however, Valdez soon tired the "Tiger's" tactics and used his Mexican boomerang", by hurling Daniels over the ropes and then bouncing him to the floor from the tension. Valdez won the second fall with a flying mare and settles with the second application of the "boomerang" after 11 minutes satisfied with the decision Daniels attacked the referee and then floored the winner with a right uppercut and it was not before four fans had entered the ring that Daniels was finally quelled and order restored in the packed room shouting defiance to the fans and the world in general.

Splendid Wrestling

The main bout between Rudy Epps, the little and agile Columbus grappler, and "The Mask" saw a splendid brand of Canadian wrestling with the beheaded gent successfully evading the pugilistic ring tactics when in trouble at the hands of Epps. Although occasionally using the "Mask" who resembled "Two-ton Tony" Galento the "Mask" Epps took the initial fall of the bout with an inside-prop-over hold. Instead of "beheaded one" to concede the fall as Epps applied forceful and punishing pressure. Unfortunately for the majority of the patrons, however, the "Mask" won the final official decision as the crowd was more paramount by the fifth fall and the referee declared that had broken out between two ringside fans and Mayor Meagher was reported, but no serious damage or injuries resulted.

Wins With Spread

Epps was an early second round aggressor with a series of flying mares, and flying tackles and following a flatic outbreak between the contestants Howard Scott, 167, Washington, D.C.

Hollywood—Jimmy Garrison, 137 1-2, Kansas City, outpointed Nick Peters, 138, San Antonio, Tex., 10.

BRUINS, LEAFS CLASH NOV. 2

Montreal, Oct. 14—(CP)—The most noteworthy of the National Hockey League rivalry—that between the Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs—will start anew at Toronto on the first Saturday in November.

Obviously, the schedule makers have an eye toward a natural, for the opening season, Bruin-Leaf tilts have been recognized as the best draw in the league.

President Frank Calder released the 1939-40 schedule last night, showing that the season gets underway Nov. 2—a day earlier than last year—with games at Chicago between the Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings.

The Hawks finished seventh and last and the Wings fifth last season. The champion Bruins, who won the Stanley Cup in a final series that the Leafs, ended up on top of the regular schedule while the Toronto forces held down third position behind New York Rangers.

This season's schedule ends in three cities on St. Patrick's Day, March 17—two days earlier than last season. Opening home games for the seven-team circuit are spread out this season until Nov. 9, when New York Americans and Bruins make first appearances on home ice.

Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday nights are predominant, as in the past, but an innovation will be Friday night games this year at Detroit.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Worcester Mass.—Henry Chmielewski, 172, Boston, outpointed Darrell King, 163 1-4, Detroit, (10).

Hollywood—Jimmy Garrison, 137 1-2, Kansas City, outpointed Nick Peters, 138, San Antonio, Tex., 10.

SNOWED UNDER

Not looking very happy about things is Bill DeCorrevont, seen on the Northwestern University bench during a game he mowed under by a 23-0 score in its game against Oklahoma, a feature "upset" of the young U. S. grid season. Decorrevont is the young man who attained considerable fame two years ago as a high school player in Chicago, and, already labelled another Red Grange, he played a great game against Oklahoma, his first college test, despite his team's loss.

Senior interscholastic six-man football was introduced locally yesterday and after surviving contact with B.C.I. and O.S.D., played a 6-6 tie. It wasn't until last that a six game-player, but rather the manner in which it was attained. On every last play of the game B.C.I. was being in possession on their own five yard line, elected to kick out of danger. Mike Powers, aggressive halfback quarterback, caught the ball and in the same motion returned the kick only to have the final whistle blow as the ball settled over and later fell to the deadline for the single point. Incidentally Powers' fine catching of forward passes and Thompson's line plunging featured for the "collegians", while Graziano and May carried the mail for the "deaf lads". Six-man football is an open game, the fans can see what's going on at all times, a decided advantage over the men on the field as in the conventional twelve-man game. Another feature observed was the absence of repeated fumbling, as was the case in the Albert College-Belleville Collegiate twelve-man game last week. Four teams comprise the Bay of Quinte six-man rugby group—Trenton High School, Albert College, Belleville Collegiate and O.S.D.

When George Laughlin entered B.C.I. rugby football squads into the Senior Intermediate O.R.F.U. as a group and the new six-man interscholastic loop, he assured the success of the latter. Single men of B.C.I. squads would not contain enough personnel, in either event, and the players comprising the Collegians' regular twelve-man or contentional squads were not even permitted to play for the B.C.I. six-man team. Similar procedure in schools such as Albert College, O.S.D. and Trenton would be expected to adhere to such regulations, but Mr. Laughlin feels there is ample material at the Collegiate to man two squads without using the same players in both games. "By keeping each game separate and refusing to permit players to appear in more than one play six-man football, we will be promoting team sport for a large number of our students, instead of having school sport for a select few," explained Mr. Laughlin, who could have fielded a strong senior football team providing the Collegians' six-man squad, but Mr. Laughlin is a pronounced believer in having more permanently interested in the various sporting activities within the school, which is most commendable.

Comes time for the weekly football selections and during one last week. There are a brace of tough games scheduled when the football circles this week; namely Western-Varsity and Argos at Toronto. However, the way we call 'em, fearlessly but not hopelessly—Montreal to beat Ottawa, Hamilton to clear Peterborough (and we hope the Hilltop crowd doesn't take out on the bunking of his pets every week too seriously), then Queens should beat McGill and Ottawa over the Montreal Royals. Now for the two tough ones—with Hilton and Wagner back in harness we'll give Western the nod over the surprisingly strong Varsity squad while in Hamilton Argos will have a tough nut to crack in Sarnia but via a strong aerial attack, we hope.

Arnold Ethier, leading scorer of the Belleville Juniors last season returned home from a sojourn in Guelph without so much as ever donning his skates. After looking over the western metropolis Ethier realized Belleville could carry far better hockey possibilities and today Skipper "Toots" Holway is happy about the whole thing. Ethier has a brilliant future in hockey circles and providing he improves as the years roll by, "Red" should be just about tops among the Holway-led crew this winter. Monday we hope to have some hockey news that should prove startling.

Local wrestling fans left the Hume Arena last night perfectly satisfied with their lot simply because one Tiger Daniels, who had been the patrons' wrestling public enemy No. 1 for some weeks past, was soundly trounced by a newcomer to local wrestling wars, one Pedro Valdez of Mexico City. The Mexican introduced a new hold known as "the Mexican boomerang" and it proved most prolific as the "Mexicano" won in two straight falls over the hated Daniels. Both boys proved agile grapplers, but at one stage of the match the bone aroused the ire of the fans with less effort than a flagpole sitter on a calm day. However, the patrons were satisfied in seeing Daniels humbled and defeated, despite the fact it took the efforts of four ring attendants to subdue him after he had been declared the loser, and what a sore-head loser he was. For good orchidoot wrestling Friday night the fans had hops. Rudy Epps, the peoples' choice last night have won had he not tried to unmask his opponent, "Red Mask" in the third round. Red Mask had gained a fall and the boys went on to wrestle to a draw as the referee called the hostilities all even. Early in the third and final fall Referee Art Epps took the aggressor and seemed headed towards victory until he endeavored to unmask Red Mask, whereupon the latter things happened quickly as the referee was knocked out and he unconsciously attacked Epps and had him at his mercy when the final bell halted hostilities.

The first person to use the term "Texas Leaguer", as applied to a fly ball that falls safely between the infield and outfield in a baseball game, was Ted Sullivan, who was an organizer of minor leagues some years ago. He had come across the term in some baseball game, and when one of these fluffy fly balls landed safely he remarked facetiously that it was a "Texas Leaguer". The word caught on and is now known wherever baseball is played.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Four Feathers"

All record crowds shattered standing room at a premium, the most sensational business done anywhere on any motion picture is surpassed by "Four Feather," the screen's most magnificent entertainment, entirely in new beautiful technicolor, now playing at the McCarthy Theatre.

Do not miss "Four Feathers" starring Ralph Richardson, who surpasses his brilliant performances given in "The Citadel" and in "Clouds Over Europe." C. Aubrey Smith, the grand old man of the films seen at the McCarthy as Pip-Emma's "Grandpa" in "The Under Pup" John Clements and June Duprez, new co-starring screen sweethearts, all players who give performances which cannot fail to win Academy Awards. In their support the largest assemblage of featured and small-part players seen on the screen in many years all have important roles to fill and help in no small way to make the picture the fine entertainment it is.

"The World's Fair Vanities"

On the stage next week at the McCarthy Theatre, Art Ganey's smooth musical revue, "The World's Fair Vanities of 1939" will be presented featuring a seven-piece all-girl stage swing band and a trio of strong star acts mixed with some great spot numbers and revel dancers. The star-studded cast of ceremonies to ever step before a Belleville audience.

Everything to bring you gayest entertainment is presented in this greatest road show on tour; beautiful girls, peppy dance numbers, comedians galore, novelty stage presentations never before seen in Belleville and the big special attraction when "The World's Fair Vanities" have to offer. Sunshine Sammy in person, of Hal Roach's Hollywood "Our Gang" comedies. Be ready, pack up your troubles, help in no small way to make the most entertaining musical revue ever brought to Belleville. The World's Fair Vanities stage entertainment which continually holds its interest from the opening of the curtains until the gala finale. Don't miss this addition to the 80 minute stage presentation, the gayest three-star romantic comedy of the new season, "She Married a Cop" will be shown and this smash hit with Phil Regan, Jean Parker, Jerome Cowan, Dorothea Kent, Barton Baker and Mary Gordon in the featured roles should be put on all movie-goers' "Best Movie" list.

Late Mrs. Arthur Maracle

The death occurred suddenly Sunday morning of Mrs. Arthur Maracle at her home on the Tyendinaga Reserve. Her death came as a great shock to her many friends as the deceased had been about her duties as usual on Saturday and in the evening did her shopping in Deseronto. She was taken ill Sunday morning and death followed with unexpected suddenness. The deceased was a well-known and highly respected resident of this district. She was a member of Christ Church and took an active part in church activities. Deep feelings of regret and sorrow are felt by all residents in the community. She was a woman pleading of friendly personality and possessed many fine traits of character which endeared her to many friends. The deceased was 48 years of age and surviving to mourn her loss besides her husband are her father, two sisters, Mrs. Abraham Maracle and Mrs. Herman Hill, Milltown, and three brothers, John Maracle of Tyendinaga, Jacob Maracle of Milltown and Job Maracle of Point Anne.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence to Christ Church Tyendinaga, where the services were conducted by Rev. Herbert Pringle. Interment was made in Christ Church cemetery.

Minto

Minto—Anniversary services was well attended on Sunday here, with the Rev. H. E. Lackey of Shannonville in charge of the both services. Very inspiring messages were given at both services and were much enjoyed. During the morning service the choir rendered appropriate music and in the evening the choir sang an anthem. A duet was sung by the Rev. Mr. Delve and Mr. J. B. Hagerman.

The following Monday evening a chicken supper was served in the church, which was filled to the doors. A good supper was served followed by a good program, $80.50 being taken in at the supper.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, Oct. 14 (CP)—The final session of the week brought an easing of prices on the Toronto Exchange with trading decidedly slack in the decline. Fewer than 100,000 shares changed hands in the two-hour session. The action appeared chiefly in a group of the industrials, including the gold, papers and aircrafts with Bell Telephone lagging for evidence. Trade in the mines was dull.

Consolidated Bakeries pfd. up 3 points to 58 and Loblaw "A" up ¼ to 27¾, were about the only gainers in the food group. Utilities sold down and losses in the steel list came out for Steel of Canada, Dominion Steel, Canadian Car Pfd. and Dominion Foundries. Reselling set Fleet Aircraft back a fraction along with Bell Telephone. Massey Harris Common and Toronto Elevators. Senior oils were featureless and lower and adjustments in the banks were unchanged.

The golds were taken in light volume with little net change in the price average. Wright Hargreaves and Teck Hughes posted minor gains and of their number the most stronger for Central Patricia, Sylvanite, San Antonio and Upper Canada. Among the losers were Ken Addison and MacLeod-Cockshutt weakened slightly.

Two senior base metals, Nickel and Noranda, led the firm to strong to slow trade and losses of 10 to 15 cents were netted by Waite-Amulet and Falconbridge.

Interest lagged in the western oils. Hugs and Dries displayed slight weakness and Calgary-Edmonton came out at 2.45, unchanged.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, Oct. 14—(AP)—The war pause remained the principal stock market influence today and while weakness was absent in most cases throughout the list session, leading issues declined to lower average moderately.

Exceptional lightness of selling was seen as a negatively encouraging factor by bearish observers. Transfers for the two hours of around 300,000 shares were the smallest for any time since the outbreak of war.

Hedge in the drifting division the greater part of the day were Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Glenn Martin, American Smelting, Western Union, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, U. S. Gypsum, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Ohio and General Electric.

Down fractionally in the Canadian section were Hiram Walker, Dome and O.P.R. Good demand appeared for Dominion 4s in the bond market.

Mild resistance was shown by Public Service of N. J., American Can, Union Carbide and Goodyear.

MEPHISTO BEARDS GROWN BY FLIERS OF FRENCH FORCE

'Red Devils' Not Allowed to Paint Red Devils on Planes

ENVIABLE RECORD

By JACQUES VILLABON
(Havas Staff Writer)

Paris, Oct. 14 (CP-Havas)—Daring feats by bearded fliers of France's "Red Devils" squadron are winning them an enviable reputation among air units on the western front.

One of them, describing how they were caught by a barrage of German anti-aircraft fire, put it this way:

"We were saluted by hot salves that found us at high altitude and we turned back toward our own lines in zig-zag flight. The idea was to get them to fire in the zig while we were in the zag. But the Nazis tightened up on us and became an effective team. They even devil themselves — despite their saucy beards and gleaming eyes — their jaws and swallowed in dry throats."

Dog-Fight Described.

"Scouting toward Landau I spy four sunglass black specks in the sky. Warned by radio, the tricky old 'devils' accompanying me aim to the situation at once. We ourselves in the glare of the good old sunlight and continue watching our pals in the observation planes. Nothing, nothing, then the fifth presses sweep down on an observation two-seater and in turn we plunge down on the Nazis, forcing them back on the right track. With the first burst of gun fire one of the enemy planes breaks into flames and falls helplessly to extinction."

Young Pilot's Heroism.

One young pilot, flying high and alone, saw three Messerschmidts below him in line abreast over the Saarbruecken. The French flier put his plane into a dive until he was only 150 feet from the ground, machine-gunning the first of the landing ships and crashing it to the crash.

"He then turned on his wing, attacked the second plane and shot it down likewise. He still had time to catch the third which had circled to make its landing."

One reconnaissance plane, it was reported, flew over to take photos of the Siegfried Line and was attacked as it was returning. One pilot was killed and the observer was seriously wounded. The plane managed out, however, carrying his equipment and plates, which were found intact. The second pilot aboard brought his flaming plane down. It landed over as it bounced and the flier was hurled out of the ship. He returned to the observation cockpit to retrieve some photos still there.

GEORGE T. CUMMINGS
(Contributed)

3rd Sidney—Death of Thomas Cummings died in the Belleville General Hospital on Monday, Oct. 9th, 1939. Deceased was well known in the Belleville district, having lived in Sidney since early childhood when his parents, the late George and Rosanna Cummings moved to Sidney. Cummings homestead on the 3rd concession. He was the eldest of a large family of the family, his sister, Mrs. Moldrup predeceased him over a year ago.

Mr. Cummings was a loyal and faithful member of Centenary Church and Sabbath School, having served as superintendent and adult Bible class teacher in the Sunday School for many years. When health permitted he was active in young people's work. He was president of the Sidney Cheese and Butter Company and held office in the Bell Telephone Company for a number of years.

Mr. Cummings possessed a fine Christian character and was held in high esteem by all who knew him and will be greatly missed in all church and community life. Surviving are two sons, seven daughters and ten nieces who will receive the sympathy of the community.

Occupation of Finland.

In the view of the commentator said, German occupation of the Nazi "sphere of influence" in Finland "would be necessary took over "the last sectors at the Rug river".

Meanwhile the Berlin version prevailed that Germany would attempt attacks from the west, north and east on the British navy and British coastal points.

Reliance close to the government declared it is "completely clear now that Germany will not accept this peace under any circumstances". Official comment, equally bitter, accused Britain of the determination to "annihilate the German people".

Meanwhile the Berlin press generally that Germany would attempt attacks from the west, north and east on the British navy and British coastal points.

Reliance close to the government declared it is "completely clear now that Germany will not accept this peace under any circumstances". Official comment, equally bitter, accused Britain of the determination to "annihilate the German people".

Meanwhile the Berlin press generally that the war guilt upon Britain's shoulders, the Nazi press declared, and editorially that behind Prime Minister Chamberlain's rejection of Germany's peace offer was the plan for a "hard and wicked determination to continue the war regardless of the fact that peace—a sensible and armament peace—could be had."

Germany's Internal Problems.

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung referring to difficult position of neutral nations, said:

"They realize today that the desire for peace is on the German side and that the war guilt of England and France binds them to continue the war."

The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger called upon the German people to withstand British "war guilt".

As to the politicians taken by Russia and that in respect to the present conflict, nothing was officially known as to the Russian attitude, but pointed out that discussions between the Soviet and German general staffs would determine the course of Italy's future action.

As far as Russia was concerned, these quarters claimed that the agreement of the conference of Sept. 28 took care of all eventualities.

HUNGARY EXPECTS

Should Russia lay claim to Rumania (Carpatho-Ukraine) on the basis of the Italian-German award as she did with regard to the Polish Ukraine, Hungary would also be posed for Hungary; whether to go to the aid of Rumania or to cross the Carpathians or to fight.

Many Hungarians say Hungary's interest in Rumania Buttonia which she gained in the partition of Transylvania after the World War was part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire before constitution of Czechoslovakia.

To make further us of the Carpathian Ukraine as a base for operable Hungarians say, Hungary would have to occupy Rumanian Transylvania in event Russia entered Rumanian Bessarabia. The only railroad between Hungary and the southern Carpathians form a V-shaped line from Budapest to Czechoslovakia which Hungary lost to Rumania in the Treaty of Trianon.

In no European country is there more apparent hatred of Bolshism than in Hungary and in no country has the aristocracy more to lose in the event communism gains considering the probability of a counter revolution following the suppression of the Bela Kun Communist regime in Hungary.

Hungarians point to Russians early in the first Great War, was to Russia at the time of the Red Revolution and, in the role of Communist advance agent to Central Europe, returned to his native Hungary where he set up a Communist government.

Hope for Italian Aid

While Hungary's position in the face of any Russian threat would be affected by the German attitude many Hungarians say that in any event she would receive possibly hopeful help from Italy and Yugoslavia.

The prospect is not a happy one for Hungarians, especially when they compare it with the World War years. From the 152th to 17th centuries the Hungarians battled the Turks and finally drove them back.

The Hungarian view is that in holding back the Turks, Hungary saved all western civilization but exhausted her strength and so was prevented from becoming one of Europe's largest and most dominant people.

The morning communique of the general staff said the night was quiet, but mentioned artillery activity on both sides in the region east of Metz. "The continuously bad weather, it was indicated, sharply curtailed aerial activity.

In the south, along the Rhine, where the French yesterday blew up three railway bridges, the Germans were reported installing anti-aircraft guns on the great granite piers left standing on (their side of the river.

Destruction of the bridges—which connected Mulhouse and Muelhein, Colmar and Fribourg, Hagenau and Rastatt—left only two other spans across the Rhine. Both are located at Strasbourg.

French Photograph Enemy Lines.

The French reported their aerial reconnaissance planes had taken advantage of a brief period of clear weather yesterday to make photographs of the German lines at several points.

Both the pilot and observer in one of these planes were found dead in their seats after the craft, pierced with bullets, had landed safely behind the French lines, it was said. The bodies of the fliers, identified as aged and contained valuable photos, the French declared.

The ship apparently had been engaged in a dogfight with a German plane, but the pilot, though fatally wounded, lived long enough to make a landing.

EGG QUOTATIONS RISE SHARPLY ON THE CITY MARKET

Selects Jump to 40 Cents the Dozen. Potatoes Note Slight Decrease

APPLES CHEAP

Egg prices shot up sharply on the city market today with selects jumping as close to forty cents a dozen for "A" sizes as against the top prices of 34 cents a week ago.

Mediums and pullets sold at 30c and 32c with cooking eggs in the whole being considerably less than those of Saturday.

Chicken prices likewise maintained the high levels of last week with the cheapest birds selling generally at 22c the pound, although some cases the top price of 25c was demanded. Farmers' butter prices remained at 30c for "prints" and 60c for two pound rolls.

In contrast, potato prices notes a slight decline, the first change made their debut on the market. Cars of these were quoted today at $1.25, a drop of 15c from last week's figures. Cabbage, however, climbed at 90c and pecks at 20c, and 30c for extra large heads. Cauliflower, that the quality of the late yield is of high caliber with little or no more than the difficulties of last year's crops, being in evidence.

Eleven pound baskets now are the victims of damaging frosts, were offered at 75c, while bushel lots offered at 60c and 75c each. Baskets were available at 25c and 30c each. Pears are offered, the few down present going at 15c each, while Bartletts are sold by at several prices.

Imported grapes at 20c the basket, were a feature of the fruit offering. Miss Dawson plums sold at 25c a basket.

Choice Winter apples at the present time are plentiful. Northern Spies, of excellent quality, were offered at 15c a hamper, with a slightly inferior grade selling at 10c. Yellow Sweets, MacIntosh Reds, Snows, Crimson Pippins and other fruits were also offered at a slightly lower fall price of 31 the bushel.

Grapes, selling at 25c the pound, headed the fish offering with whitefish at 22c, haddies at 20c and a few mudcats at two pounds for 25c rounding out the offering.

FIRST DIVISION

The Division is composed of some of the crack units of the Canadian non-permanent and permanent active forces. Infantry of all units selected have now been recruited up to war-time strength and are receiving training by fifty-six of their local headquarters.

Brig. Hertzberg and Leader

In England it is hoped the troops may be billeted in counties near to perhaps receive Divisional training.

A senior office for defence headquarters is expected to proceed to England shortly to establish the nucleus of a headquarters there and make provision for the arrival of the Division, possibly in December.

By the time the Division sails the troops will be completely equipped with the new battle dress uniform of blouse, loose-fitting trousers and gaiters. The infantry units will be armed with rifles and generally speaking equipment will be obtained in England, and the men will take only their clothing and personal kit.

Machine guns, field guns, anti-tank guns and transport will be provided by the British War Office in England.

Major General A. G. L. McNaughton will command the first overseas Division and probably the entire Canadian Army force if and when other units are sent.

Brigadiers, staff officers, commanders and headquarters staff officers will be selected tentatively by defence authorities and announcements will be made in due course.

The infantry battalions, artillery batteries and engineers are already organized under their own commanding officers.

All sections of Canada are represented in the Division. One infantry brigade is composed of units from Western Canada, another of units from Ontario, the third of units from Quebec and the Maritime Provinces.

One artillery brigade is entirely made up of permanent force batteries, a number of non-permanent batteries from Quebec and the Maritimes and one battery made up of non-permanent western batteries.

The Division consists of a squadron of mechanized cavalry, three infantry brigades, each consisting of four batteries, three brigades of field artillery with a total of twenty-four batteries and a machine gun battalion, four companies of engineers, a company of army service corps, and the servicing units.

Of the latter troops the ammunition company, a petrol company, Divisional supply company, three companies of ambulances, field hygiene section for sanitation, provost company, postal unit and Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Divisional signals unit and the headquarters staff.

Just 26 years ago today the first Canadian contingent landed at Plymouth, England, for the first Canadian Division of 30,000 men and from it the first of four Canadian Divisions in the war in France and Belgium was organized.

The first contingent spent 16 weeks on Salisbury Plain, England, before being transported to France.

29,150-TON SHIP

The huge warship, which took part in the historic battle of Jutland in the first Great War, was built in the early years of that conflict at a cost of £6,662,286.

The announcement of Britain's second big loss of the war came just a few hours after the Admiralty announced that British gun boat sent three German submarines to the bottom of the sea. The first Nazi undersea craft was destroyed by aircraft-carrier Courageous which was sunk with a loss of nearly half her crew.

According to naval reference books the Royal Oak was built in Devonport in 1914 and was completed in 1916. Her wartime complement is 1,146 men.

Commanded By Captain Benn.

The August, 1939, naval list showed that Royal Oak was commanded by Captain W. G. Benn. Before she was recommissioned in the summer at Portsmouth the Royal Oak was with the second battle squadron of the British home fleet.

The Admiralty announcement follows:

"The Secretary of the Admiralty regrets to announce that His Majesty's Royal Oak is sunk, it is believed by German U-boat action.

A first list of Royal Oak survivors contained fifteen names, including Petty Officers and Ratings and two officers. All already had been reported safe. None was reported injured.

Additional lists were expected to be issued during the day but it was indicated several days might elapse before a complete list is compiled.

Filled For Protection.

The Royal Oak's defensive armament included deep bulges extending from the ship's sides. These bulges are armored air spaces designed to explode torpedoes without damage.

Vessels of her class were fitted with special bulges provided them with the protective bulges, their defence against underwater attack had been considered adequate.

With acknowledgment of the loss, the Admiralty announced that it was amplified the government's "Friday the 13th" announcement that three German submarines had been sunk yesterday.

They described two of the three as of the enemy's largest ocean going type.

Berlin's Statement on Sinking.

Berlin, Oct. 14.— (AP)—Sinking of the 29,150-ton British Battleship Royal Oak was announced today in special editions of newspapers with headlines reading "Battleship Royal Oak sunk by German U-boat."

The supreme command's announcement of the sinking did not mention whether the ship went down.

The German News Agency, commenting on the loss the Royal Oak, Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, whether he had forgiven him the sinking of a seventh British airplane carrier".

The Berlin claim the 22,000-ton Carrier Ark Royal has been "destroyed" in addition to H.M.S. Courageous.

The agency asked whether Mr. Churchill was "ready now to say where the Ark Royal is".

(The United States Naval Attache in London reported last week —after the German claim was made that the Ark had been sunk in the Royal, and that she was unharmed.)

AT THE BELLE

"The Wizard of Oz"

Presenting what is heralded as the finest screen version of the color, music, dancing, spectacle, pageantry and fantasy of L. Frank Baum's "Wizard of Oz," flimination of the celebrated fantasy by L. Frank Baum, comes to the Belle Theatre as the most sensational musical production ever made by the wizards of Hollywood screen entertainment.

The story of Dorothy opens on a dreary Kansas farm where the picture is done in black and white photography with a new form of Technicolor. From there Dorothy goes to the imaginary Land of Oz, carried there by a cyclone. The picture becomes all-color and remains in Technicolor until she returns home.

The story is the same as written by 1200 authors. Dorothy (Judy) meets a Scarecrow, Tin Woodman, and Cowardly Lion and they journey on to see the Wizard to get brains for the Scarecrow, a heart for the Tin Woodman and courage for the Lion. After many thrilling adventures they reach the Wizard what they wanted all the time.

The picture was directed by Victor Fleming who directed "Gone With the Wind" and "Test Pilot." It was produced by Mervyn LeRoy and Arthur Freed who produced "Anthony Adverse" and "Little Caesar" among others.

Six new and catchy songs embellish the story, among them "Over the Rainbow", "If I Only Had a Brain, the Nerve, a Heart, "We're Off to See the Wizard", "The Merry Old Land of Oz." "Ding Dong, the Witch is Dead" and "If I Were King of the Forest," written by the well-known song-writing team of E. Y. Harburg and Harold Arlen.

Price of Eggs Continues Upward

Toronto, Oct. 14.—Rising prices continued on the egg market at Toronto yesterday, but choose to the wholesale trade weakened and butter remained firm.

Seasonal decline in production, which was being reflected in light arrivals of fresh receipts, and prevailing good demand were responsible for the upward trend on the egg market. Although not active, some points are beginning to draw on storage stock to satisfy any shortage in current supplies. Top grades and grades recorded a general increase of 1 cent per dozen in all parts of the market.

Demand was not active on the butter market but it was in sufficient volume to prevent a steady clearance of offerings. As has been the case for the last several weeks, holders were not generous in releasing supplies for sale. Prices continued firm at previous levels. No sales were reported in the quotations which are 1-2c to 2c per lb.

Efforts Made to Stop Marketing of Ridglings

There are certain characteristics in the breeding of hogs that are revealed in the rail grading system that were unknown factors under live grading.

One of these factors is the number of ridglings hogs that are found in some strains of breeding stock. The carcasses from these hogs represent a total loss to the packer and a loss to the farmers who produce them.

Records are being kept of the number of ridglings marketed from the Belleville district in the hope that the trouble can be traced to its source.

Stirling, Oct., 14—(CP)—Construction of a $60,000 radio beam station at Hubbell's Hill, six miles west of here has been started by contractors working under the Department of Transport.

Twenty acres of ground have been purchased at this spot, which is almost exactly halfway between Ottawa and Toronto on the Trans-Canada Airway.

According to Rorke Ferguson, M.P. for Hastings-Peterborough, an emergency landing field will be constructed, as well as a radio beam station. Two residences for radio and field staff are also to be built.

NAZI VETERANS

bourg, where they are incorporated in the Magnicl and Weirwald fortifications.

Massing of Troops

North of the Upper Rhine sector the Germans were reported in French advices to have massed enough tanks and heavy artillery between the Rhine and the Moselle to launch a large-scale offensive any moment. On this sector no natural barrier such as the Rhine separates the two armies.

The Nazi troops manning this 100-mile front, the French said, are veterans of the Polish campaign.

These troops, coupled with a sudden lull in persistent activity on the German side, kept French outposts on the alert as rain and fog settled over the lines after a day of clear, crisp weather.

Frontal Assault Expected.

The German strength along the entire western front was estimated at approximately 2,000,000 men, most of whom were said to be concentrated in the Saar and Lauter sectors in position for a frontal assault.

The morning communique of the general staff said the night was quiet, but mentioned artillery activity on both sides in the region east of Metz. "The continuously bad weather, it was indicated, sharply curtailed aerial activity.

In the south, along the Rhine, where the French yesterday blew up three railway bridges, the Germans were reported installing anti-aircraft guns on the great granite piers left standing on (their side of the river.

Destruction of the bridges—which connected Mulhouse and Muelhein, Colmar and Fribourg, Hagenau and Rastatt—left only two other spans across the Rhine. Both are located at Strasbourg.

French Photograph Enemy Lines.

The French reported their aerial reconnaissance planes had taken advantage of a brief period of clear weather yesterday to make photographs of the German lines at several points.

Both the pilot and observer in one of these planes were found dead in their seats after the craft, pierced with bullets, had landed safely behind the French lines, it was said. The bodies of the fliers, identified as aged and contained valuable photos, the French declared.

The ship apparently had been engaged in a dogfight with a German plane, but the pilot, though fatally wounded, lived long enough to make a landing.

been driven across the highway, and when the driver stopped to ascertain the trouble, a man jumped on the running board of the car, pointed a revolver at him, ordered Gerou to drive up a side road and then to get out.

Car Went in Front

"The other car went in front and was driven by a second man. The bandit with the gun got into the car and kept his revolver pointed at me, directing me to follow his companions' car. We drove about two yards where we both stopped. The armed bandit jumped out of the car and holding a flashlight in my face they searched me and took $5.00 from my pocket. When I first stopped I had slipped my wallet behind the seat of the car, but later the men searched the car and found the wallet. They stated Gerow as he stated the bandit car sped away to the south. Gerow and Constable Brown of the same and investigated. As Gerow could not give a clear description of the men, only to say they were driving a dark car, police state that they could find no clues that might lead to the capture of the alleged crime. All highways and side roads leading out of Prince Edward County were later searched but with little avail.

POLES SE EK RUMANIAN SANCTUARY FROM GERMAN BLITZKREIG

Many were the pitiful scenes photographed by neutral photographers as Germany's blitzkreig swept over stricken Poland, leaving death, despair and destruction in its wake. Despite the German claim that only military centres were shelled and bombed, UPPER RIGHT, is a typical scene in numerous small Polish villages that felt the might of Germany's long range guns and bombing planes. Dead villagers lie outside their ruined homes. Scenes like the one depicted, UPPER LEFT, were the rule at the Polish-Rumanian border as the terrified Polish population fled before the Nazi onslaught. This woman carried all the possessions she could salvage in the baby carriage fashioned for a more nobler purpose. Haystacks and farmyards, LOWER LEFT and RIGHT formed the resting places for hundreds of the Polish refugees after they crossed the Rumanian border to safety.

The recruits are not being given their lessons in a lecture room, but on the field where 18 tanks, recently delivered from England, are put through wartime manoeuvres. Two of these tanks are shown in action ABOVE, while a recruit practices using a machine gun, UPPER LEFT under similar conditions he will find when firing from the inside of one of these armored monsters, each of which weighs more than six tons. Not only are the recruits being taught how to wage an offensive with their armored vehicles, but they are also being taught how to combat enemy tanks with a new type anti-tank rifle, LOWER RIGHT.

BROAD SCALE ATTACK

Reconnaissance Patrols Bring Back Word of Increased Activity and Artillery Immediately Put Into Action

(By Axel De Holstein)
(Havas Staff Writer)

Paris, Oct. 16.— (CP-Havas) - French heavy artillery hammered along the entire Western front today against the German lines and heavy concentrations in the rear in apparent preparation for an early general attack.

The major French artillery attack began last night and was especially heavy along the sector from the Moselle to the Haart Forest.

Information from sources available to the French general staff indicated the Germans were preparing an attack on a broad scale.

French guns of all calibres shelled roads and lines of communications.

This morning's general staff communique reported "great activity in the enemy lines between the Moselle and the Saar" and also announced "patrols on both sides in the region west of Wissembourg."

All day yesterday the front was extremely calm. German artillery was virtually silent.

The French High Command sent reconnaissance patrols out in the air and on land. In the woods of the Haart Forest prisoners were reported taken by advance units.

ROBERT M. MITCHELL

ROBT. M. MITCHELL FORMER WARDEN OF COUNTY DIES

At Time of Demise Was Tax Collector for the Township of Thurlow

IN HIS 68TH YEAR

Robert M. Mitchell, tax collector for the Township of Thurlow for many years, passed away at the family residence in the second concession of Thurlow Township, late on Sunday, Oct. 15th., after an illness of several months' duration.

In the passing of Robert Manly Mitchell, the County of Hastings has lost a prominent resident; one who had at all times the good of his township and county at heart and who gave freely of his capable services in the furtherance of undertakings, which would benefit the people of the county as a whole. He was a man of fine character and possessed a pleasing personality and kindly disposition which attracted and held many friendships. Throughout the county the announcement of his death will bring sincere feelings of regret.

The late Robert Manly Mitchell, who was in his 68th year, was born in Jurray Township, Northumberland County, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. S. Mitchell. After residing in Thurlow township where he was born for some years, he moved to Thurlow Township in the County of ..astings thirty-six years ago.

Hecklers Interrupted Dominion Cabinet Minister and Two Arrested

A 'HOT' CAMPAIGN

Montreal, Oct. 16—(CP)—Gaining momentum as the closing days of the Quebec election campaign moved into new territory today.

The leaders and two Dominion Cabinet Ministers held the spotlight during the weekend with more than a dozen speeches across the province. Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe spoke at Sherbrooke last night and Trade Minister P.J.A. Cardin addressed a Quebec meeting in the afternoon.

Crisis was the buziest leader, delivering six addresses in two days. Godbout spoke four times and Duplessis twice. In addition, their candidates and supporters carried on an active campaign in city and rural constituencies.

For the first time since the campaign for the Oct. 25 elections began, police were needed to preside at a meeting. At Quebec, hecklers interrupted Mr. Cardin's speech and there were a number of

2 BODIES FOUND IN WRECKAGE OF R.C.A.F. PLANE

Navigation Flight from Trenton Base Over Eastern Ontario Ends in Tragedy

SEARCH PARTY OUT

Plane Crashes at Snow Road Near Crotch Lake North of Kingston

Snow Road, Ont., Oct. 16—(CP) —The bodies of two Royal Air Force officers were found in the bush here today in the wreckage of their plane which crashed Saturday.

The plane, carrying Pilot Officer H. K. Corbett of Fredericton, N.B., and Pilot Officer A. A. Cloutier of Winnipeg, came down in the bush about six miles from this town, 10-and 65 miles north of Kingston, Ont.

Thirty men led by R.C.A.F. officers from Trenton, Ont., Air Station, began the search when the camouflaged monoplane failed to return to the air base after a night flight over Eastern Ontario and was reported down in this area.

The search was carried on all day Sunday and the wreckage of the plane was found this morning. The badly mangled bodies were brought out to Snow Road and taken by plane to Trenton.

A high wind stripped into the district most of Saturday and at times there was a downpour. It was believed here that these factors might possibly have caused the crash.

FATALITY TOLL OVER WEEKEND IN ONTARIO, 16

Automobile Accidents Take Nine Lives With Quadruple Tragedy at Kingston

AIRMEN KILLED

(By The Canadian Press)

Ontario's weekend fatality toll stood today at 16 as the possibility an airplane tragedy would add still another victim to the list.

A Royal Canadian Air Force plane, missing from Trenton airport since early Saturday, crashed at Snowroad, 20 miles north of Kingston, and burned, killing both pilot and observer. The body of one man was reported found in the wreckage. The plane carried Pilot Officer H. K. Corbett of Fredericton, N.B., and G. J. Cloutier of Belleville. The known victim is the unidentified the fate of his companion unknown.

British Fighting Planes Beat Off German Bombers Attacking Scottish Coast

Attack Repulsed With Some Casualties and Pursuit Planes in British Chase Enemy Out to Sea

NO CIVILIAN CASUALTIES

Three German Bombers Shot Down One in Firth of Forth and Two on Land—Approached from North Sea

London, Oct. 16—(CP)—British fighting planes beat off an attack by German bombers today on the coast of Scotland, whose shipyards are working at top speed to keep Britain mistress of the seas.

The Air Ministry announced that the German attack had been repulsed with "some casualties" and promised additional details later.

Admiralty direct from Edinburgh said anti-aircraft guns were in action there and told of British planes in pursuit of other craft. The attack came amid predictions of military observers that Germany would strike at British shipyards, harbors and merchant vessels, and while afternoon newspaper posters thundered that a German offensive on the Western front was imminent.

No Civilian Casualties

The Ministry of Home Security said casualty reports received to date indicated there were no civilian casualties and no damage to property as a result of enemy action."

Three German bombers unofficially were reported shot down in the Firth of Forth and two on land.

No report of any damage in Edinburgh, the Air Ministry said was received although several bombs were dropped in the vicinity of Forth Bridge.

The German planes approached from the North Sea at a high altitude. Coastal anti-aircraft batteries and fleet units fired on them as their way in the direction of the Forth Bridge.

Several bombs were dropped, all striking the water.

Admiralty announced the Air Force had successfully carried out reconnaissance flights over eastern and central Germany last night.

The Air Ministry announcement encountered any resistance in Germany.

At the same time, naval observers in Scotland said that while submarine offensive which sent the Royal Oak to the bottom and destroyed three Allied merchant vessels over the week end was being carried on under control.

These sources interpreted the Prime Minister's statement in reply to Great Britain's rejection of Germany's peace proposals that They predicted, however, the campaign would be halted more quickly by this than any other launched at the outbreak of the war.

In the first month of the war, it was recalled, enemy submarines sank nearly 800,000 tons of British shipping before Winston Churchill, British sea lord, announced he was able to announce the offensive had been checked.

Some military men expressed belief the new submarine offensive would be accompanied by aerial attacks on British ports.

Naval observers said that while loss of the 29,150 ton Royal Oak, one of the navy's 15 capital ships, was a serious blow, a severe blow, it was by no means critical.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

The Soviet Russian noose tightened around the throat and the neck of another of the small free nations of northwestern Europe, Finland. Upon the outcome of the Russian-Finnish negotations, now temporarily suspended, hang consequences not only for Finland but for other neutral and warring nations. It may mean the extension of war to a new sector and the entrance of all the Scandinavian nations into the struggle.

The Finnish delegation to Moscow has returned home, apparently to consult with the government on the final answer to Russian proposals which mean a measure of Russian control over Finnish territory. If the answer is a rejection, Russia, flushed with its other successes in Poland, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, may turn its great army against Finland.

Such action would be a direct threat to the other Scandinavian countries, particularly Sweden. In the first Great War Finland was a part of Tsarist Russia but Norway, Sweden and Denmark remained neutral. Their traditional policy is to remain neutral in the event of war between any of the larger and more militant nations to the south of them. If war came to their doors, however, as it would in a Russian invasion of Finland they might consider their own independence threatened.

A war between the Scandinavian countries and Russia could scarcely be ignored by Great Britain and France. In time it might have the effect of establishing Russia definitely as an enemy regardless of whether or not Russia gives direct assistance to Germany in the larger war.

Members of Outlawed Hungarist 'Death Legion' Arrested to Stop Coup

Large Quantities of Guns And Ammunition Are Seized

Budapest, Oct. 16—(AP)—Hungarian Nazis today reported they had arrested 160 members of the outlawed Hungarist "Death Legion" to head off a coup against the Government.

Though there was no confirmation from official sources, Nazis said the mass arrests occured Saturday with the seizure of large quantities of guns and ammunition.

Plans for the coup, Nazis said, included the assassination of 17 Members of Parliament.

One leader of the Legion, a prominent Nazi faction which is at bitter odds with other branches of the Hungarian Nazis, was said to have been captured in a Budapest airraid shelter. Five other leaders were reported to have escaped into Austria.

Rifles, hand grenades and machine-guns were said to be included in the war supplies seized by police.

Nazis declared the dissident "Death Legion" had plotted to kill several Nazi leaders, among them Kalman Hubay, successor to Ferenc Szalasi, the "Hungarian Hitler" who is serving a three-year prison sentence for "incitement against the constitution."

'PATIENCE' PLEA OF GEN. GAMELIN AS WAR GOES ON

'Every Passing Hour Works for Us,' He Declares in Interview

LOSSES MINIMAL

Paris, Oct. 16 (CP-Havas). — General Maurice Gamelin, Commander-in-Chief of the French armies, said that "this war, is one in which patience and hour by hour works for us."

"The war hardly started," he added.

The statement of the French military leader was printed today in the newspaper said it was given to its special war correspondent, Jacques Boulanger.

General Gamelin was quoted as saying:

"Explain to the public that the war has hardly started and that it is necessary to have patience—much patience.

"It is not a small matter to gather together the forces of the French nation. It has taken less than twenty days to concentrate the French army. You know that the concentration was carried out with perfect regularity and order. That is a great advantage for us.

"While it was going forward, and since it was completed, we made first contacts and pushed forward on a front 36 kilometres (23 miles) wide, but there were only engagements pulling back the outposts of defence in the line. Nevertheless, these assaults were useful to us in reconnaissance.

ROYAL OAK LOSS STRENGTHENS BRITISH RESOLVE

Resolution for Final Victory Confirmed by Sinking of Ship

LIVES NOT WASTED

London, Oct. 16 (CP)—The British press said today that torpedoing of the Battleship Royal Oak only strengthened Great Britain's determination to fight to final victory.

"The loss of the Royal Oak and the loss of the lives of 800 brave men is a disaster," the newspaper said. "There is no reason for denying it. But there is no reason why it should dishearten us. We must be prepared for great shocks in wartime. This is one of them.

Agrees to Amend Arms Embargo Bill To Prohibit Credit to Belligerents

Washington, Oct. 16 (AP)—The Roosevelt administration leadership in the United States Senate agreed today to amend the arms embargo repeal bill to prohibit all credit to warring governments.

Senator Pittman (Dem.Nevada), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, proposed the amendment. It would wipe out the present bill's provision allowing credits of not more than 90 days. This provision had been criticized by many Senators on both sides of the arms embargo controversy, who considered 90-day credits would prove an enterting wedge for long-term credits that might bring the United States into war.

The provision to be removed gave the President discretion to allow the 90-day credits. His committee had considered, Pittman said, that the presidential discretion would be governed by an opinion of the attorney general in construing the Johnson Act. The Johnson Act, which forbids credits to nations which have defaulted on their war debts to this country, contains no such 90-day credit exception as that now being stricken out of the embargo bill, the Senator added.

As a result of Pittman's move, administration leaders counted upon picking up the support of a number of Senators who favor repeal of the arms embargo but who want a "cash and carry" system to other exports which would be more strict than that in the bill.

Meanwhile, Speaker Bankhead of the House of Representatives in a press conference said he was confident the neutrality bill would pass the House.

A dozen opposition Senators met today to discuss strategy against the bill but they reported afterward they were in "no hurry" to reach a final vote

Senate leaders ad hoped to start consideration of amendments in midweek and to obtain a final vote next week.

Fear the United States may become actively involved in the war appeared overwhelm Senate debate on the bill.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

From trees to ground: To explain how the ancestor of man changed from a tree-dweller to a ground-dweller, it seems plausible to assume that the change was brought about by a change in climate. Millions of years ago there was a change in Asia in elevation of the land surface from lower to higher levels, making for more arid conditions which diminished the forests. Those that survived this change had to meet competition with ground animals; they learned to fight, using new weapons such as sticks and stones, instead of taking flight into the trees; to eat grain growing on the ground instead of the fruits of trees; and finally, with the coming of more severe winters, to clothe themselves with the skins of beasts and to seek shelter in caves.

CITY DISTURBANCES PROBED BY POLICE

After being warned by city police to disperse and refrain from congregating and thereby causing unnecessary disturbances, a quartette of Trenton teen-aged youths was apprehended on Highland Avenue at an early hour today, where they were attempting to procure rides by means of hitch hiking. Residents complained to the police, that the young men and boys were congregating on Highland Avenue nightly and disturbing the peace by soliciting rides and generally shouting after the midnight hour. City police obtained the names of the four Trenton youths and charge of disorderly conduct will be preferred in each incident, Chief Kidd revealed today.

OBITUARY

BEVERLEY GONYOU

The death occurred at the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday morning, Oct. 15th, of Beverley Gonyou, the one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gonyou, Tweed.

LATE LEVI COURNEYEA

Tweed (Special)—The funeral of the late Levi Courneyea, who was instantly killed on Thursday morning while working at the new Separate School, was held on Saturday morning from St. Carthagh's Roman Catholic Church, with interment in St. Carthagh cemetery. Very Rev. Jean D. Cullinane celebrated Requiem Mass for the deceased.

Veterans of the Great War from Tweed and district marched in a body from the church to the cemetery as a tribute to the memory of a comrade who had fought shoulder to shoulder with them on French battlefields in the last world war.

The deceased who was forty-three years of age, was a son of the late Mr. Dennis Courneyea and Mrs. Courneyea, who was born in Rungsford Township and since his father's death some five years ago, has lived in Tweed with his mother who survives, together with the following brothers and sisters: Paul, Theodore, Joseph D. John D. all of whom live in Rungsford Township; Dennis of Tweed, Fred crick of Actinolite, Moses of Callander, Mrs. Robert McMurray and Mrs. James Brennan of Peterboro and Mrs. George Trudel of Detroit.

The funeral was largely attended by friends and relatives of the deceased. Pallbearers were all members of the Separate School Board. They were: Wilfred LaSage, T. D. Corcoran, Jas. Trudeau, Dennis Collins, John Murphy, Fred Yobert and Ray Quinn.

The late Levi Courneyea who was a carpenter by trade, met his death when he fell head foremost a distance of some sixteen feet, from a steel beam, alighting on a small pile of stones, resulting in a fatal fractured skull. Death was instantaneous. When the accident occurred, Courneyea was assisting in putting a large steel beam in place. It is thought that he must have slipped as the surface of the beam on which he was standing was wet and slippery with dew. His efforts to grasp another beam proved fruitless and the fatal fall resulted.

MRS. JENNIE (McCREARY) THOMPSON
(Thurlow Township)

Mrs. Jennie (McCreary) Thompson passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. H. M. Broughton, Donald street, in Thurlow Township on Sunday, Oct. 15. She had been in failing health for some time.

The late Mrs. Thompson was born in Thurlow Township and resided there all her life. Her parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. John T. McCreary. The deceased was married twice, her first husband, Lewis Cooke died in the year 1926, and her second husband, William Thompson, died in the year 1930. In religion she was an adherent of the United Church and well esteemed.

Surviving her are five daughters, Mrs. H. M. Broughton, Donald street, Thurlow Township; Mrs. Wm. A. Daniels, Worcester, Mass.; Mrs. Harold Cummings, Sidney Township; and Mary and Queenie both at home; two sons, Archie Cooke, of Belleville, and John Cooke, Verona, Que.

Body of Mrs. H. Snarr Found in Trent River

TWO-DAY SEARCH

Thought to have fallen accidentally into the Trent River when walking along the bank four miles north of Trenton, Friday night, the body of Mrs. Laura Snarr, Stirling, was recovered from the water yesterday afternoon, by W. Cleveland and Joseph Dunning, following a two-day search by provincial police and relatives.

The late Mrs. Snarr had been a passenger in a car with Mrs. A. Akers, Stirling, Dunnich and E. Bunnett, Belleville. When the car stopped at Glen Miller for one of the transact business with a transport company official, Mrs. Snarr is said to have got out of the car and gone for a walk.

When she failed to return, the trio made a careful search of the immediate district but failed to find any trace of her.

Provincial Police Constables Travers Smith and W. Fraser, of Belleville, organized a posse which combed the district and dragged the river with no success.

The late Mrs. Snarr was born in Thurlow Township thirty-five years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Prinzen, of Belleville. She resided in this city until four years ago when she moved to Stirling. She was a member of the United Church.

The funeral notice appears elsewhere in this edition.

MURDERER OF BOY TO HANG DEC. 18

Nighswander, Buffalo Mechanic, Sentenced for Killing Henry Doto

Welland, Ont., Oct. 16.—(CP)—Stewart Nighswander, 28-year-old ex-Port Erie mechanic, will die on the gallows in Kingston Dec. 18 for the murder of 15-year-old Henry Doto. Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier sentenced Nighswander Monday morning.

His Lordship passed sentence and set the date for the execution following Nighswander's conviction by a Supreme Court jury here early Sunday.

The jury ignored a plea of insanity in finding Nighswander guilty of killing the Buffalo boy, whose nude body, slashed with a razor blade and bound at the wrists and ankles, was found in a bush on the fringes of Port Erie last June 22.

The body was found after Nighswander wandered into a hospital at Port Erie with a gash on one arm and told attendants he had "just killed a man".

Justice E. R. E. Chevrier pronounced the sentence in a packed courtroom. The condemned slayer entered the courtroom apparently in high spirits and chatted with the guards before court opened.

"Have you anything to say why sentence should not be passed, according to law?" His Lordship asked.

Nothing to Say

Nighswander's answer was spoken clearly.

"No, my Lord," he said.

Pronouncing sentence Justice Chevrier observed the defense had been "well and ably presented" and that no other verdict than guilty would have been justified.

Nighswander's hearing did not change when sentence was pronounced. Immediately after being sentenced he walked briskly out of the courtroom.

Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier told the jury he believed the verdict was justified from the evidence presented. On hearing the verdict, Mrs. Doto, the slain boy, Mark Doto, said "That's good, I'm glad. He deserved it."

Previously, before charging the jury, Mr. Justice Chevrier commended both the Crown Prosecutor and Defence Counsel for able presentations.

Judge Compliments Press

Then, turning to the reporters' table, he said: "Gentlemen, I have carefully gone over the reports of this case appearing in local and provincial papers. I have also digested the stories of the trial appearing in newspapers published in the adjoining community across the imaginary line that divides us from that great great country to the south.

"I must express my deep sense of appreciation for the manner and good judgment in which they have all handled the case. They have presented the high ideals and conditions consonant with a fair-minded and free press. They have seen to it that the feelings of the readers have not been inflamed and they have also assured that the sanctity of the homes where in those papers have entered has not been disturbed".

J. D. Cromarty of Welland, counsel for Nighswander in summing up his case Saturday, pleaded his client was insane and said he was suffering from schizophrenia.

Crown Prosecutor W. B. Common said the offence was a result of Nighswander desiring to "stage a final orgy of sexuality" before committing suicide.

Women's Auxiliary Collects $325 Saturday

Convener Expresses Appreciation to Public for Generous Contribution

Appreciation of the generous response of the public and of the fine co-operation of the members of the organization was voiced today by Mrs. A. H. Kelcheson, convener of the financial committee of the Women's Auxiliary of the Belleville General Hospital.

Three hundred and twenty-five dollars was the total on behalf of energetic sellers, who braved weather that was anything but comfortable, to help collect the funds that will be used for the purchase of a mobile X-ray unit.

While this amount was slightly below that collected a year ago, expenses were lighter, and the net amount will exceed that of last year by a small margin, Mrs. Kelcheson explained. "I want to thank the members of the Auxiliary for their fine co-operation, especially in view of the fact that the weather was anything but conducive to comfort," the president said, adding her tribute to the generosity of the public for its splendid response.

Campbellford Lodge Officers Installed by Team From Springbrook

Bonarlaw, Ont., Oct. 16—On Friday evening District Deputy Wm. J. Barlow, D.D.G.M. Dist. No. 45, I.O.O.F. and his installation team Bros. Thos. H. Prest, J. F. Baker, Roy Brown, Geo. E. Eastwood, Clayton Burkitt, Geo. E. Thompson, Sidney Mason, accompanied by other members of Springbrook Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 429 motored to Campbellford and installed the officers of Campbellford Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 246.

At this meeting also the Second Degree of Oddfellowship was splendidly exemplified by the Degree Team of Campbellford Lodge. The Tweed and Havelock Lodges each sent a candidate for this degree and Campbellford had one candidate. A number of visiting brethren were present from the above lodges and the hall was well-filled.

The newly installed Noble Grand, Bro. Earl Craighead presided at the banquet immediately following the work. Inspiring addresses were given by Dist. Deputy W. J. Barlow, Past Dist. Deputy Dr. S. R. Beatty, Past Grand L. A. MacDougall and others. Bro. W. Hanthorne of Madoc delighted the audience with several vocal solos. A beautiful shield was presented to Campbellford Lodge by Dr. Beatty, this being to have the most progressive lodge in the district during his term of office as D.D.G.M. last year. The National Anthem closed a very enjoyable evening.

POLICE COURT

Another city bylaw failed to produce a conviction in today's police court, held before Magistrate R. J. Butler, K.C. when James R. Murphy appeared on a charges of parking his truck in a manner to result in the obstruction of traffic on Front St. contrary to bylaw No. 238.

Murphy had parked his truck legislative into the curb according to regulations, but the rear of the vehicle protruded about three feet over the designated white lines at the rear.

"Is this truck a standard vehicle?" asked Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan. Police Constable Officer Doug Ellis, who replied it was to the best of his knowledge, but the rear of the truck obstructed the progress of traffic. Mr. Donnan searched the bylaw thoroughly, but could find no reference to such matters. Accordingly immediately dismissed the case.

Several minor charges appeared charged with infractions of the Liquor Control Act and paid fines according to the decision of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment was given seven days in jail after being convicted of drunken driving. "There was no accident or damage resulting from this man's actions and I am told he is a very good soldier," Crown Attorney Donnan, K.C. in his urged a minimum penalty.

Everett Rollins who is residing in Peterborough, appeared charged with non-support. "I am becoming impatient with this man. This is the third or fourth time it has been necessary to bring him into court in order to make him support his wife and family. This can't go on forever," remarked Magistrate Butler as Rollins agreed to pay his wife ten dollars per week.

Today, while diplomats in Moscow are trying to avoid an open break the Finnish army is standing ready to fight if it must to preserve the country's independence.

Every unit of the Canadian active service forces, with the exception of kilted regiments, will shortly be appearing in these new "battle rompers", designed as more comfortable and more efficient than the old-style uniforms. A notable difference is the disappearance of the old familiar puttees.

The war has started & back to armies of girls, boys and those unfit for military service. Here is a squad of young farmers from a school in Worthing as they marched off to prepare the ground for a new crop of greens.

French soldiers are shown examining unexploded German land mines which have been dug up and placed in an open field until they can safely be set off. Article Says Germans Want to Overthrow Hitler

London, Oct. 16 (CP)—An article saying the German people want to overthrow Adolf Hitler to secure a democratic peace was published today in a new monthly magazine issued by the "Friends of the German People's Front" in London and the "Committee of German Opposition".

"Hitler's peace offer," it said, on the basis of reports from numerous German cities "is not the offer of the German people—just as Hitler's war is not the war of the German people.

"Our people want peace, but they want a just peace, a democratic peace. The German people also know that such a peace can only come, after Hitler has been overthrown. And for this purpose they rather their strength, they work for by hour for the overthrow of Hitler."

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

AN ACHIEVEMENT

Britain achieved in the movement of the first body of troops and war vehicles to France the ultimate goal—a safe passage of men and equipment on their mission to triumph over the foe on the western battlefront. In this achievement the plans were perfect and are, officially said to have been worked out by a small group. Not a casualty occurred. Losses to such transportation would have been a heavy blow and most lamentable, particularly if it were among men going to the front to serve in the test which Britain along with France will give the Nazi armies.

This precautionary care is something which indicates the soul of the British people. War is war and is always tragic but as one nation fights it and as another nation fights it, there is a difference. Britain has a burning zeal to save life in every way possible.

The more one thinks of this safe transportation over the Channel to the territory of her ally, France, the more one thinks of her perfect arrangements. It may be taken for granted that the enemy did everything possible to prevent that passage.

Britain takes care of her men in wartime. In the days before the war broke out and there were all the evidences that Britain was looking after the welfare of her soldiers. Here is an army of the finest British manhood and the Motherland and Empire are proud of these defenders.

The two types of soldier, the British Tommy and the French Poilu, will figure in the warfare in the west to come which the decision of civilization is to be made. Two finer armies never fought on the same side as the British and French. The spirit of unity is over all.

'LIBERTY'

There are things in life Hitler does not understand, particularly liberty. He could not realize that the Poles could love their country more than life itself. The Ottawa Journal refers to this strange peculiarity of the Hitler mind:—"When Herr Hitler viewed what was left of Warsaw he seems to have committed the mistake of openly underestimating the motives of those who loved it and fought as long as they could to keep the city out of his hands. To his disordered mind, incredible as it may seem, the defenders of the Polish Capital were simply guilty of error in resisting the German attacks, and in trying so desperately and so heroically as they did, to keep it unconquered.

"Perhaps Herr Hitler has never heard of the statesman who sent hurtling down the years the cry which every patriot echoes: "Give me liberty or give me death."

"Benjamin Franklin, who seems to have uttered sentiments to fit all occasions, once said, "They who give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety."

It would indeed be a reminder that country comes first. Some few there are who unconsciously mix their values, or, blinded by personal interest, do not see what is best for the land to which they loudly, and with many protestations, declare their allegiance.

"Life, liberty and happiness have long been held the rights to which mankind is entitled. Among these liberty stands supreme. Without it life is not worth living, and happiness non-existent—truths which are obviously beyond Herr Hitler's comprehension."

WHERE DID CIVILIZATIONS ARISE?

Is it possible, Gilbert T. Brewer, of Penn Yan, N.Y., amateur archaeologist, wonders, that all the history books are wrong, and civilization moved from America to Europe, instead of the reverse?

Mr. Brewer, Canandaigua, N. Y., former newspaper man, said he is unable to explain why such wise remnants of stone walls eight feet thick, quantities of broken, weathered stone building materials, fragments of pottery and stoneware and several pieces of finely wrought and ornamented iron found strewn over a twenty-acre site on Bluff Point, Lake Keuka, says the New York Times.

"Methods of building and the art, ornament and workmanship in iron and stone, previously unknown in early America, indicate a lost empire which flourished long before the Iroquois Indian confederacy," he asserted.

"We are still unable definitely to identify the ancient occupants of Bluff Point," he emphasized, "but the values of the art and ornament to early Etruscan and Ionic forms, linked with the period renowned in the Homeric legends, seems inescapable."

Mr. Brewer himself finds it difficult, he says, to credit this theory, adding that "actual evidence has no regard for preconceived ideas."

Skeptical of the "belief that America first became known to Europe in the fifteenth century, Mr. Brewer for years sought proof of possible penetration of Scandinavian Viking Age influence into the Ohio and Mississippi River Valleys, particularly in artifacts found among workings of the mysterious mound builders.

But evidence turned up laboriously with ordinary pickaxe and shovel on the Lake Keuka promontory a people more ancient than the Vikings, he asserted.

"The stone hammers, pounders, pollishers, mortars, pestles and other similar objects are almost identical with those found by Heinich Schliemann during his discovery of the site of ancient Troy," Mr. Brewer explained.

"Impressions taken from engraved stones have been found, singularly the same in conception and execution to the strange tomb paintings of the Etruscans in which human and animal heads are arranged in amazing patterns.

"The iron objects are from metal of exceptionally fine quality and are ornamented with patterns similar to those found on the engraved stones.

"There is one example of 'granular' ornament in iron, which is acknowledged in the metal arts as typically an Etruscan discovery. Another iron ornament has the design embellished with red enamel, which has retained much of its brilliance."

Significant also, in his opinion, are massive, intersecting stone walls, which exhibit a vaulted structure deeply bedded in the shale and sandstone formation of the hilltop ruin, if ruin it is.

Visiting geologists, he says, were "disheartening with their opinions that the 'stone walls' were natural pressure ridges." He has excavated to a depth of fourteen feet in one of these "walls," and expects to find underground vaults or even an elaborate system of corridors.

Within Hart Wedg 58, of Penn Yan, first discovered the strange stone "walls" on Bluff Point while making a geological survey of Yates County almost 60 years ago.

Local newspapers and historians made passing notice with their opinions that the 'stone walls' were natural pressure ridges." He has excavated to a depth of fourteen feet in one of these "walls," and expects to find underground vaults or even an elaborate system of corridors.

The Word of An Englishman

Canadian readers have noticed with much satisfaction reaction in the United States to the warning that the United States Ambassador Iroquois is to be sunk on her approach to home shores with a large passenger list.

Not only is the message from the German admiralty interpreted as a diabolical piece of propaganda intended to discredit the British but the statement is also made openly that no one in the United States would believe the British could be guilty of such a thing.

A Port Arthur man who was formerly of Belleville and Bay Shore had been put in charge of an important financial institution, and also was a leader in local life was because no one else could be trusted.

There is still another country in which the oath of fidelity to truth is: "On the word of an Englishman."

The reputation is worth something, after all.

Grand Newspaperman Passes

Removal by death of Andrew G. Davie, advertising manager and columnist of the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer, came as a distinct shock to newspaper friends everywhere. "Andy", as he was familiarly known in this city, was a newspaperman of the old school, one who had learned the rudiments of the Fourth Estate in the type case and had transferred his talents to the editorial room. Later he had taken him from the smallest weekly newspaper shop to the great journals of metropolitan New York, where he labored among the foremost newspaper people of his day. He wrote "20" to an eventful life, amid the clatter of the linotype, the pulling surroundings of a daily newspaper office.

A pioneer in the weekly field of Northern Ontario, he saw the early growth of that great country when Cobalt, North Bay and Timmins were frontier towns and where only red-blooded men survived. His tales of the exciting days when Cobalt boasted the greatest hockey team of the period; when handy prospectors lost thousands in a single night over the gaming tables, never failed to create interest among his colleagues. His wealth of experience gained from fifty years in the newspaper business, made his daily column one of the most widely-read in Eastern Ontario. Only twenty years ago, he lit the lights of "The Lamplighter's" column in the Belleville paper and during that time, they have never gone out. Due, also to his endless knowledge on topics grave and gay, "Andy" Davie's comments will be missed by those whose pleasure it was to follow his column. To the humble in the company of the common man on the street and the intelligentsia in the realm of human interest stories appearing daily, were one of the features of the journal on which he spent the closing years of his life. Deep appreciation has gone to his reward with the passing of Andrew Grey Davie. Requiescat Pace.

The death at Belleville last week of Andrew G. Davie, advertising manager of the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer, was a shock to Mr. Davie's many friends in this district. Speaking for ourselves, we feel that we have lost a true friend, a kindly considerate gentleman whose place will be hard to fill. We sympathize with the family. We mourn with them.—Trenton Courier Advocate.

First Frost

Annually, when the reds and yellows begin to appear in the woodlands, and the air becomes chilled it's beautiful; but just wait until after the first frost!" The old folktale concerning the part frost plays in the colour changes of the leaves dies hard.

Those who have studied those changes, however, know that the first frost plays no part in the process. It is a matter of chemistry not yet fully understood. Throughout the spring the leaves are coloured green by the presence of chlorophyll, a strange plant substance which converts sunlight, water and mineral food for the tree. When the season begins to wane the chlorophyll slowly changes to another food, known as plastids. The plastids have a chemical colouring known as carotinoids, which react to sunlight and cooler temperatures. Some of them turn yellow, others turn red.

Another colour factor lies in the amount of plant sugar trapped in the leaves when the branches cut off the sap veins in preparation for winter. This plant sugar reacts to chill nights to form anthocyanin, sometimes to red or purple.

Thus we have the splendour of autumn not from the first frost, but from the chemistry of the leaves themselves.—Sarnia Observer.

Women

A friend has presented the editor with a piece of literature taken from an old Nazi publication. It is called "Women". It is undoubtedly worth passing on:

In the Beginning, when Twashtri came to the creation of Women, He took three lines of Sunshine and three lines of Moonlight and three lines of Spring Lightning and three lines of Trembling Grass and three lines of Running Water and three lines of Timidity and three lines of Bashfulness and three lines of Weeping and three lines of Fear and three lines of Shame and three lines of Mercy and three lines of Softness and three lines of Gentleness and three lines of Sorrow and three lines of Tenderness and three lines of Pity and three lines of Prayer and three lines of Forgetfulness and three lines of Inconstancy and three lines of Mother Love and three lines of Vanity and three lines of Coquetry and three lines of Illusion and three lines of Dreams and three lines of Silver and three lines of Down and three lines of Eternal Youth and three lines of Grace and three lines of Harmony and three lines of Melody and three lines of Rhythm and three lines of Passion and three lines of Ecstasy and three lines of Music and three lines of Laughter and three lines of Happiness and three lines of Delight and three lines of Kindness and three lines of Wisdom and three lines of Hope and three lines of Faith and three lines of Charity and three lines of Virtue and three lines of Obedience and three lines of Submission and three lines of Silence and three lines of Discretion and three lines of Cleanliness and three lines of Modesty and three lines of Purity and three lines of Love and three lines of Beauty and three lines of Perfection and three lines of Truth and three lines of Intuition and three lines of Comprehension and three lines of Reason and three lines of Judgment and three lines of Memory and three lines of Imagination and three lines of Ambition and three lines of Determination and three lines of Courage and three lines of Strength and three lines of Power and three lines of Leadership

HOLLOWAY ST. CHURCH MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Rev. J.I. Mackay of Toronto Is Special Preacher of Day

FESTAL MUSIC

Holloway Street United congregation was in festive mood on Sunday as it celebrated its sixty-sixth anniversary with special services. The front of the church was adorned with rich-colored flowers of the season to mark the event, the choir sang special music and the Rev. J. I. MacKay, B.D., superintendent of the Church of All Nations, Toronto, spoke at the morning and evening services and addressed the Sunday School in the afternoon. Rev. Royal Jr. Newman, pastor, was in charge and welcomed the large number of visitors and paid tribute to the work of Rev. Mr. MacKay in Toronto among the "new Canadians". In the evening both Bridge St. and Tabernacle United congregations worshipped at Holloway Street Church.

"Our Unfinished Temple" was the subject of Mr. MacKay's evening sermon, which was based upon First Corinthians, 3:12—"If any man build upon this foundation gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble; every man's work shall be made manifest."

Adequate Foundations

The story of the unfinished cathedral at Beauvais, France, which was started in 1225 A.D. and is still unfinished was told by Mr. MacKay.

The church is still unfinished because the builders ignored the laws of architecture, guided by vanity and pride.

Now modern scientists are laying a body of truth as a foundation on which those who follow may build. Two thousand years ago, Jesus sensed the need of the world, even as he has so completely identified himself with the sufferings of men and certainly none has so completely identified himself with God as He. He spoke of the Kingdom of God in which was to be brotherliness. Many people turned away disgusted and did not heed His message. But since His day many others have declared themselves as ready to attempt to build on the foundations Jesus Christ has laid. "What a temple we should have today had the builders been true to the plans of the Christian architecture," remarked the preacher.

This age has declared much of our work to be worthless, wood, hay, stubble being used not much which can stand the fire of progress.

But surely some noble things of progress have come down. It was not long ago since men believed that society was built around slavery but Wilberforce fought against slavery and succeeded in freeing the entire British Empire of it in twenty years. He saw no place for slavery in Christian brotherhood. Not long after it disappeared in other places and today few places have slavery.

But complete freedom was not won by freedom from slavery. The fullest expression of their heritage had not come. Still today many have to struggle against an economic slavery which is just as tragic in some aspects as the old slavery, Mr. MacKay said.

Reference was made to the League of Nations. It was organized after the last war and many believed it would be effective, trusting that the principle of the conference would do something to promote international harmony. While the League failed, yet to have brought such a league into existence is an accomplishment. But it has failed. To many the failure of the League of Nations has been the bitterest disappointment of modern times. Mr. MacKay said the foundation was not well laid, perhaps the leaders used wrong cornerstones.

Yet man can finish these unfinished temples. "Will we ever have world brotherhood? he asked. "I see some sign of hope."

Mr. MacKay said he believed there were fifty nations represented in Toronto and estimated there were seventy-five nations represented among the people in Canada.

He asked: "Do you suppose God has sent to Canada for no purpose whatever people of so many cultures? Or was it that they might show the world that so many can live together in peace and harmony? To those and to this cause the church must give leadership. Why cannot we extend the same harmony across the Dominion and across the nations? How can we expect the nations of the world to live in harmony if we in Canada with the boundaries within the country do not get along with people here?

"There are some people you say, who are because of circumstances hard to like. But when you get to know them, they are not hard to like." Those nationalities which are represented in Canada from other lands are very independent and self-reliant. They will make good Canadians.

Mr. MacKay told stories of self-sacrifice among the "new Canadians" associated with the Church of All Nations and explained the work of the church among them.

"We have to be very much in touch with the Founder, for this spirit of brotherhood does not come except by prayer and fastings.

"Prayer does not mean only raising our voices to God, but it means we have to listen to God to hear Him speaking to us.

"We must be prepared to put the spirit of love, brotherliness, the gold and the silver and precious stones into what we build or are we to be satisfied With wood, hay, stubble, which does not endure very much?

"God grant we may finish the temple and be an example to the world."

The musicale service was impressive. Mr. William Skinner sang solos at the organ and during the evening services played this instrument while Mrs. Edward Hubbs played the piano, the duet being very effective. Mrs. Hubbs sang with fine volume and tone, the anthem, "O Love that wilt not let me go" and Phyllis May took the soprano solo and Mr. Harry Atkinson, the tenor solo, and "Praise the Lord, O My Soul" and Lo, 'Tis Night."

During the day there were special anniversary collections.

NO DRAW GAMES

Kansas City, Oct. 16.—(AP) — American Hockey Association Directors have adopted the "sudden death" overtime rule instead of the National League System it had voted at the end of last season.

The directors decided last night that the National League plan—two overtime periods, with each team allowed one point in case of a tie—would slow up the game.

The directors set up a schedule opening Nov. 4 and closing March fifteenth.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

During the flight of terrified Polish women and children from towns and villages in the path of Germany's "blitzkrieg," scenes like this were the rule along the countryside whenever German warplanes appeared overhead. The fugitives took to the ditches and gullies and hid until the "birds of ill omen" had passed. Then they resumed the weary trek towards Rumania.

Soviet (LEFT) and German (RIGHT) high army officials are shown leaving the government building in Bialystok after drawing up line of demarcation through Poland leaving that ill-fated nation in two sections, one controller by Germany and the other by Soviet Russia. Russia seems to get the best of the deal, controlling almost two-thirds of the land and nearly half the population.

Only if the United States were subjected to an unwarranted attack would Dr. Affonso Longoria reveal the "death ray" machine he invented in 1934 and which he destroyed because he wanted to help civilization instead of wrecking it. Dr. Longoria claims that his machine was capable of killing by changing the red corpuscles of the blood to white. He also believed his ray could be used to demagnetize electrical devices and might have been used to stall airplane motors in midair. Dr. Longoria is shown here with the machine, shortly before he destroyed it.

MUST HAVE GOD TO HAVE PEACE SAYS MINISTER

Rev. G. G. Wright of Christ Church Addresses Order of Eastern Star Chapters

60 MEMBERS PRESENT

Challenging mankind to return to God in their effort to find peace, Rev. G. G. Wright addressed the Order of the Eastern Star, Minerva and Belleville Chapters, and the congregation of Christ Church yesterday morning on the occasion of the annual church parade of the O.E.S.

Taking the angels' heralding of "Glory to God in the highest and on earth, peace and goodwill toward all men", as his text, Rev. Wright forcefully told his listeners that today's cynical criticism of Christianity was due entirely to the failure of mankind to seek God and allow Him into every-day life.

"There have been continued wars for the past quarter of a century simply because man has been trying to build a world of peace without including God and it can't be done.

"Mankind preaches goodwill toward men in service clubs and on churches, but the entire trouble is the fact they leave out God. They forget the first commandment and that's why the present structure of life can't stand up.

"St. John's gospel represents the true Christianity as he says—'In the beginning the Word was God, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.' The only way to peace is with and by God.

"Every generation that man tried to build without God is in ruins today. Mankind wants peace today without giving glory to God and that's impossible. We must include God before we can build a world worthy of all men reigns supreme in a peaceful world," concluded Rev. Wright.

Some 60 members of the Order of the Eastern Star paraded to Christ Church yesterday morning in Dundas worship.

Flo Nickerson Show a Hit

Last midnight at the Capitol Theatre Flo Nickerson's Musical Revue Hooray for Life", entertained a capacity house and by doing themselves the good-will and laughter of everyone present.

Encore after encore had to be taken by various members of the show and the local girl's delighted with their fine interpretations and impersonations of well known local famous on the radio and stage today.

The chorus made them sit up on the edge of their seats and rouse a hearty laugh was heard as Flo got into action of her famous number "laughter specials" and fanned the appreciative audience to kept the audience howling with mirth.

The one solid hour this stage show presented was a fast treat pace featuring the queen of wit and humour, Flo Nickerson, herself, with her juvenile proteges, Phil and Bud, the dancing twins, the acrobatic experts, Eva and Evelyn, a surprise novelty executed by Jata and Jerry and Marie the Happy Go Lucky Nitwit of Flo. Florette and her fan dance is better than any fan dancer you have seen anywhere. Many other performers make this show real entertainment that was enjoyed by everyone present. This full hour of stage entertainment was followed by a first class feature picture and short subjects on the screen of the Capitol Theatre.

Admiralty Declines Comment on Report Respecting Repulse

London, Oct. 16 (CP)—The Admiralty declined today to comment on a German claim that the fast battleship which rank in the British Battleship Royal Oak also scored a torpedo hit on the battle cruiser Repulse, seriously damaging the ship and putting her out of commission.

A spokesman said the attitude of the Admiralty was that it would not go to the trouble of "denying all these reports."

Other naval circles denied that the Repulse had been damaged.

The German claims that the Repulse had been disabled followed unsubstantiated claims last week that H.M.S. Hood, another of Britain's three battle cruisers had been damaged.

Earlier in the war the Nazis repeatedly claimed a successful attack on the Aircraft Carrier Ark Royal, and today any possible sinking of the Admiralty last night issued a new denial which said the Ark Royal "has not been sunk nor has she been damaged in any way."

On Saturday a Berlin statement said the Hood, largest warship afloat, had been "damaged so seriously as to be out of commission for several months. This claim was categorically denied in London. Hood is one of the heavy cruiser, name not given, and one destroyer had been sunk. These claims also were discounted by the Admiralty.

In London it was thought the German claims were being made in an effort to create a false impression to divulge the positions of the Royal Navy. Germans feared considered to be useful for purposes of bolstering the German morale.

Should the Germans succeed in sinking two of Britain's battle cruisers, it would mean a great preponderance of British capital ships over the German fleet and would leave only H.M.S. Renown in this class.

The Repulse was to have carried the King and Queen to Canada last spring but the visit was postponed at the last-minute change of plans on account of the international situation.

MUCH may be gained on this day by a determined effort to succeed and by overcoming old crystalliza-tions and stubborn obstacles or frustrating circumstances. Steady application, hard work and sound principles are likely to attract the interest and substantial co-operance of superiors, elders or old-established institutions. But beware of intrigues or shady solutions. There may be renewed values in old holdings, but there might be gains through trusts or insurance. Be wary in reading and signing papers. Those whose birthday it is may be assured a gainful year, with much success through hard work, application and good judgment. The tanglements, solid support of elders, superiors and long-established institutions is indicated. Old matters flourish and static conditions are stimulated. Values should increase and insurance or trusts prove lucrative. Sign all writings carefully and be alert to plots, schemes and sinister intrigues.

By VERA BROWN

It was Mrs. Wheeler from across the hall who saved the day for Mike. She came in, learned the situation and went to work pressing Lenny coat. She loaned Lenny a respectable looking suitcase, too.

During all this Mike had to give instructions about money. There were certain bills which must be paid. Then there was the matter of everything explained to him. He was so excited, his pinched little face burned hot with fever, and Mike's head ached. Maybe, she shouldn't leave him.

There was a little money in the old brown teapot where her mother hid away extra dollars. Mike gave her everything she had except two dollars of the money With had given her. She'd have to have something for tips.

When Mike was finally dressed in the old black crepe for travelling, he did look nice. It was hard, saying good-bye to Jimmie, but finally she got him to bed and the covers pulled up. Mrs. Wheeler pressed one of her own pills into service to drive Mike over to Grand Central.

At the station, Mike could see nobody she knew. It was a little ahead of time. With cane, found her, forlorn, with her two bags and her hat box and he thought he'd never seen a prettier picture. He sent her luggage on the train to Carol Lee's drawing room, and then waited for the rest of the gang.

Ace Barnes came early. It was the first time Mike had ever met the famous catcher-manager, and she was shy.

"Thanks for coming," was all he said as he shook her hand. Mike could see he hardly knew her. He was distraught and worried. Then Handsome came swinging down the steps on a half run for the gate.

"Larry!" With's voice halted him. "She's gone!"

Handsome's face, when he heard the news, was pregnant with fear. Mike's panic and worry.

Carol and Mike were busy opening packages in the Lee suite in a Chicago south shore hotel. The pile of packages was the result of their first day's shopping trip. With trembling fingers Mike undid the big box which held her new suit.

"It's beautiful!" the girl said, her eyes glowing as she held up the new jacket.

"And bad for $58.50," Carol admitted.

"I shouldn't have let you talk me into spending that much on it. I can't afford it."

"Nonsense! The club's got to pay the bill, anyhow. You've got to look nice."

Carol had been furious when Ace Barnes had broken the news to her that Mike was coming with Mike, But now she found the girl amusing. Mike, Carol had decided, was one she could teach something about clothes, and perhaps, at first, and when school had recessed, older boys and girls came, walking in threes and fours, Mike felt lost.

She sat on a bench, after a while and watched the others and studied them, too. Mike was amused at the old woman's efforts to get Mike's attention. She would have much preferred to think her own thoughts. But the old lady was eager, apparently so lonely for conversation, that Mike could not ignore her need.

"Do you live in Chicago?" was the first question.

"No, I live in New York."

"You do? My daughter lives in New York." The old woman's face lighted up. "Perhaps you've got Jim's going right well for. But I wish she'd come home to visit."

Then began a long talk which Mike asked for the lack of anything else to say.

"Four years. She promised to come home last Christmas, but she couldn't get away from her job. She's an actress." The old woman leaned forward to see if Mike would be shocked at the pronouncement.

CHAPTER XVIII

"My girl works at a place called the Inferno. Did you ever hear of it?" The old lady went on.

"Yes, I've heard of it." Mike looked at the clock. Carol must have been very beautiful, for even now the eyes were still a deep blue. Her daughter looked like Mike's, she asked kindly.

The old woman beamed. "She looks like I used to. She's real beautiful, Miss. The mother added complacently. "You should see some of the pictures of herself she sends me. They're as big as this." The old woman stretched out her arms to indicate the size. Mike could visualize the photographs, probably vastly different than those which appeared in front of the Inferno.

"Yes, my girl was always beautiful. I've worried a lot about her. She went down to South America once and married. I never saw him. She left him in Buenos Aires and came home. So, I'm glad things are going so well for her."

"You've never been to New York?" she asked.

"No. I'd like to go, but I can't leave her father. He was born in the same house I was born in. It was there we married young. We went to school together out in Indiana. Pretty. Did you ever hear of it?"

"You mean the name of the town is Pretty?"

"Yes, the boys used to say our town was rightly named, that my sister and I helped to give it its name." The old lady rambled on.....

Mike only half heard what she said. Her thoughts were elsewhere. She looked at her watch. It was four-thirty. If she walked back, she'd get to the drug store just about in time to meet Carol. The old woman was loath to let her go.

Miss finally left, walking fast now, as she approached the hotel... At home her mother would be getting supper in the stuffy apartment. Jimmie would be restless waiting for the family to come. He should have her yesterday's letter by this time.

At the drug store, Carol was nowhere to be seen/Mike climbed on a stool and bought a milkshake. It would take up some time. It was after five. Mike hoped Carol would not be late. She did not dare go up to the hotel apartment without her. As Mike finished her drink drop in her soda slowly, a familiar voice spoke her name:

"What are you doing here?" It was Stuart Handsome Hastings, tall

"I came here to get a carton of cigarettes for Handsome." Mike hoped Dusty did not hear her confusion.

"Come on, Carol will probably be waiting for us," he said.

Mike got up slowly. Then to her horror, through the doorway walked Carol. She was beaming, had on an orchid corsage.

"Hello, you two. What is this, a rendezvous?" Carol's voice was perfect. Certainly it was better than Mike's, Dusty glowered at Carol.

"Where have you been? We demanded.

"How don't make a scene here, darling. Let's wait till we get up to the suite for the brawl. Come on, you two." She took them both by the hand.

Mike's cheeks were burning. In the apartment she went straight to her bedroom, closed the door. She could hear Dusty's angry voice, and Carol's cool laughter. To her great relief there was no loud quarrel. Carol had managed to quiet his suspicions. Mike, fortified by a cold, fixed her hair, walked for Handsome's call.

She was late tonight. Maybe he was tired of having her trail along with the rest of the gang. The doorbell rang. It was almost seven. But when she heard his voice, she knew she was ready to weep from sheer nervousness.

"I've found a new place for us to eat, Skipper," he shouted, "Hurry! I'll meet you in the lobby with Dusty and Carol. They'll want to dine in the royal suite."

When Mike came out of her room, the door into the living room of the Lee suite was open. The waiter was just leaving with their dinner order and Carol was alone. Carol was evidently dressing.

Aren't you and Handsome going to eat with us?" Mike called to her.

"Not tonight, thanks. Handsome wants to go to a new restaurant he's found.

Mike laughed. "Bring him back up here, there are some people coming in later." Mike said she would. Carol said good and shut the door. He stood looking down into Mike's young face. "I like you kid," he said suddenly.

"I'm glad. You and Carol have been so nice to me."

He brushed that aside. "I don't want to be nice to you any mistakes."

"What do you mean?"

Dusty grinned: "I'm an old hand, Skipper." He used Handsome's pet name for her. "I'm not a baby. And the crazy mug you're engaged to, don't want to see you get started wrong."

Mike did not understand. She looked up at him uncomprehendingly. He patted her shoulder:

"I won't spoil you, kid. But I don't want Carol getting mixed up in any such stuff. Handsome could handle her. You're too nice a kid for two-time anybody. Remember?"

Mike looked at him a moment. "I'll remember," she managed.

He gave her a little hug, pushed her out of the door and shut it.

Mike leaned against the wall as she waited for the elevator. So that was what Carol was up to, was it? How did she dare? Sudden anger swept the girl. Her knees were trembling when the elevator door finally opened. The car was full, but Mike squeezed into it.

Only when she met Handsome a few moments later did she realize just how successful her new clothes were.

"You look wonderful!" Handsome's voice was flat. "I didn't know you were so beautiful." It was as though he was talking to a stranger, to somebody he had met for the first time. But there was no time for explanations. They went on out to the restaurant, the new discovery" of Handsome's, which made down the street. When they faced each other across the little table for two which Handsome chose, he went on:

"Do you know, it's funny, but I think I just always took you for granted."

"What an awful thing to say!" Mike refused to be serious.

"I mean I didn't know before you were beautiful. I thought you were just a nice girl."

"Am I not still a nice girl?"

"You aren't serious, are you?" Mike said.

"I am!" he persisted. "I don't trust beautiful women." He was a little scout it that Mike could not find it in her heart to quarrel with him. She could put out her hand:

All right, darling, from now on, I'll wear my old clothes." Her voice was so sincere, her smile so genuine, that Handsome felt somewhat ashamed.

"I didn't mean it, really, Skipper. But you just startled me."

Several times as they were eating Mike managed to find Handsome regarding her as though she were a stranger. Then it would pass. Each time Mike resolved to tell him about Carol and Dusty, decided, but what Dusty believed. But she hesitated. Mike tried to remember all the things about Carol Wish had warned her. There were still two more weeks of their trip. Mike she must be careful. There must be no quarrels, and Handsome might soon tire of Carol.

"Why so thoughtful?" Handsome broke into her reverie.

"Just thinking about home. Lately I've been so busy that I haven't really lie la cane to her lips. Nevertheless again she would allow Carol to be with Handsome. With him, however, that plain tomorrow just between the two girls.

Fortunately for Mike, Handsome wanted to talk about and she was content to listen with a feeling of disloyalty for she heard hardly a word he said.

"It looks as though we'd come off with more than the contents in our pocket..." He was too engrossed to notice Mike's preoccupation. "Carol wants to go to Reno another today....." He threw the cigarette away. "Come on, Mike." She wants us to come out home and be married before Christmas."

Mike was conscious of a long time talking about their plans; Mike with that dreamy look. Suddenly it was time to leave:

"I'll have you over to stop at the suite, they have people coming..."

Handsome groaned. "No that's all we need to get a new place and catch some sleep. I may have to pitch tomorrow."

"What shall I tell them? I can't get into my room without their seeing me."

"Tell them I'm sick. that I've been sick all day. I'm going to bed ...I don't care what you tell them so long as you get rid of them. Dusty knows he won't have to work tomorrow...let him carry on as he can."

"They'll probably make me come in."

"That's your job, Skipper, nonsense." Handsome's voice cooled. "Just keep the pack off me. I'm working mann!..

He grabbed her arm and hurried her down the street to the nearest movie. The film amused Handsome in silk or velvet in black or colors.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Doctor Outlines Special Precautions In Handling Premature Infants

Yesterday we explained that a premature child needs extra care and attention in a full-time infant. For instance, it is often necessary to feed a baby every two hours. The child a bath, although in some cases we do give a bath in warm water to a baby who isn't breathing strongly enough. When a bath is given, there is always considerable the risk of chilling, it must not be given under any circumstances. Sometimes a partial bath will solve the problem. That is, the face, genital, buttocks may be washed, but not removing the baby from his incubator and exposing it to the cold. Doctor Dafoe didn't have a bath in water for months after they were born. They remained in the incubator all.

Remember that a premature baby has practically no resistance to infection—that is one of the more dangerous aspects of prematurity. Apparently it is during the last couple of months in the mother's body have a great tendency to take colds; when they do, they have so little resistance that a fatal pneumonia is likely to develop. So you see that premature babies are necessarily a premature child.

It means that no one can be allowed to go near him or breathe on him his germs, except the person who is caring for him. And the person who is caring for him must wash his milk at first. So it is necessary to get his precious milk from some healthy mother who has lots of milk from some hospitals. The milk is then sent to the baby through a medicine dropper. a few drops at a time. Feeding through a stomach tube is something that only a doctor should advise, and when he does he will show you how to administered by a trained nurse.

Your premature baby is likely to be very restless, so it is important that he be given cool-liver oil or concentrated cod liver oil vitamin. Orange juice is another food that all children need, but premature babies need it more urgently and it should be given him as early as two weeks after birth.

Parents of premature children should be encouraged, not by the prospect of all the care necessary to rear them. When the Dionne Quintuplets today I find it hard to for a while. In the middle of it, he decided he'd had enough.

As the quintuplets' second birthday approaches, I am more than ever impressed with the fact that they are normal babies in every way. When they were in incubators, getting their food through medicine droppers.

Fashion Flashes

More and more more seems to be the key. Every shop is showing dresses, suits, evening frocks, and wraps in this rich, beautifully textured fabric. Popular are those slim suits in this material made so that they can be used as a two-piece frock.

Travel talk means first of all a good travel coat, one that can be worn over various frocks and looks attractive en route or after arrival. Such a model is in a rich ruby and grey tweed mixture with collar and tuxedo revers of ruby lipped silver fox. Note the lines blending beautifully with the tweed.

Every clever are those new cloth hats that are so simple and so handled to suggest a suit. A coat of velvety woollen has a silver fox collar and cuffs to match and there is a rippling fox peplum that simulates a peplum jacket.

Margaret March is the order of the new hats as most of the models are tilted very much forward, trimmed with adding the same line. A little toque with sides and back bow is another popular model. The brighter crown has forward tilted wings combining the two colors.

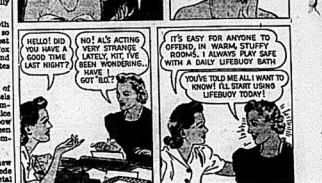
Pretty soon we'll be faring forth in our evening wraps again. A new model, full of skirt and slim of sleeve, has a flattering, bright velvet, the bodice trimmed with leaf sprays in trapunte work.

A position practically any woman can learn. Begin the five of them come charging at me in the morning as I walk into the nursery. They usually howl me over. So just think of the Quintuplets and how they have "organized" since last I was when they were in incubators, getting their food through medicine droppers.



AT THE McCARTHY

"WORLD'S FAIR VANITIES OF 1939"

In addition to the biggest and most elaborate musical revue ever brought to Belleville as a stage attraction, Manager Al Somers of "World's Fair Vanities of 1939" now appearing at the McCarthy, has another screen offering is one of the best, "She Married a Cop" starring Adolphe Menjou, Bert Parker, Jerome Cowan, Dorothea Kent, Benny Baker, Horace MacMahon and Mary Gordon. A picture loaded with laughs—Concentrated—and new popular songs including "I Can't Imagine", "Remember" and "Here's To Love." Also presented are two splendid short subjects, a laugh-packed comedy and "Going Places" a screen novelty.

AT THE BELLE

"The Wizard of Oz"

Ever since the first news came that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was planning to film "The Wizard of Oz" screengoers have been wondering why it took Hollywood thirty-nine years to discover that L. Frank Baum story, published in 1900, is excellent motion picture material.

"The answer is found at the Belle Theatre where the "Wizard of Oz" is the feature attraction. It is difficult to see how this story could possibly have been made without all of the perfection in color, sound, music, casting and amazing effects of 1939.

The Wizard of "Oz" is an all-family picture. It will delight children. The picture has all of the charm of Baum's delightful book, which millions have read. But the story has an adult-appeal in plot, cleverness of lines and stirring musical songs which will delight all from 3 to 103, lyrics which will arouse the sympathetic and bring chuckles to the grown-ups.

Judy Garland is the star of the most amazing color scenes the screen has ever had. The new figure out how some of those tricks are done, you're a magician.

Judy Garland is one of the screen's greatest child performers and she is ably supported by Frank Morgan, as the Wizard, was stage attraction at the Capitol where he grants the heart-felt wishes of all those who have a heart tug and a philosophy which will never be forgotten.

The Scarecrow role recognizes Ray Bolger as the Scarecrow; Jack Haley as the Tin Woodman and Bert Lahr as the Cowardly Lion, you'll be amazed. They are the characters right out of the book but they still have their own personalities. All three are great Broadway musical comedy stars and they sing, dance and clown songs and dances are a distinct delight. Billie Burke, as Glinda the Good, was never more beautiful. Margaret Hamilton is perfectly menacing as the Wicked Witch and Clara Blandick do their usual fine jobs.

A very interesting newsreel, and a novel and entertaining Pete Smith Specialty, "Poetry of Motion" precede the feature attraction.

What a Grand Girl! Energy, Poise and Personality

She has energy, poise and personality and is always so sure of herself. Worry and irritability are absent from her thoughts for she is filled with the joy of healthful living.

Most any girl can have similar attractiveness if she gives proper attention to her health. Anaemic condition, jangled nerves and listless, languid feelings often give way with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. And what a pleasure it is to win back the joy of healthful living.

The foundation of all beauty is health. Creams and makeups have their uses but they cannot take the place of vigor and vitality.

Issues Challenge

As in previous speech, conscription, the issue which has split the line between Quebec and Ontario, were the most popular subjects for discussion. The speakers dealt with these issues as:

Mr. Lapointe, addressing a crowd of 8,500 at Sherbrooke Arena, appealed for the citizens of the province to "unite Quebec with Confederation, with Canada, so that our children and their children will enjoy the freedom they have today — freedom, Nationism and despotism will not prevail in our Canadian life."

To charges of the Union Nationalists chief that the War Measures Act infringed upon the rights of the province, Mr. Lapointe replied that they are taking means to keep Canada's money at home for you, to protect our Canadian industries."

"The purpose of the act," he said, "is to assure that there will be money in Canada to fill the needs of the country and our business men."

Champions of Autonomy

Mr. Lapointe said he and his colleagues "are champions of provincial autonomy, despite Mr. Duplessis' assertions. Our powers in the provincial field are in danger and should be defended.

Charging that province's debt had increased more during the Union Nationalist four-year term in office than in all the time from Confederation until the last general election, he elected, Mr. Lapointe stated:

"When a man goes into bankruptcy, he loses his autonomy, and that is the fate the leader of any one of the provinces is to elect Adolph Hitler as dictator."

Attacked Quebec Government

Both Mr. Lapointe and Mr. Cardin attacked the Quebec Government and its leaders. Ottawa had "provided the best-ever term in office than in all the time from Confederation until the last general election," said Mr. Lapointe, "and the province has suffered."

The Works Minister, speaking before 4,000 persons, said Canada had en----'d the war "voluntarily".

"It is a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations. We have responsibilities and we have vested obligations," he asserted.

Mr. Dupleasis, charging Dominion Government plans for youth training under the Nationals Defence Act, said: "Compulsory military training in Canada without authorities would "pay no more unless we sent to the forests only those who had to work," said he intended to safeguard the youth of the province.

The Premier did not speak Saturday but yesterday was a busy one. Leaving at 8 a.m., the latter was in town Mr. Godbout's home constituency at 11 o'clock.

The response of the peoples of the British Empire to the call to the service has been truly marvellous, he said. The British public, living in the dark for over a year, has learned to take the air-raid precautions meastures in its stride, and volunteers have come forward in large numbers.

"You know we have compulsory service," he said, addressing the crowd. "Well, there have been so many volunteers they have had to go back to the compulsory service. They have to tell men to go home. There is no fear there will be needed for a few months."

The air training scheme will be entirely under the control of Canada, assisted by the regular Canadian Air Force, he said. Great Britain will provide whatever is needed in the way of instructors, technicians and aircraft but will not control the scheme.

Continuous Stream

The main idea is to turn out a continuous stream of fighting airmen. Existing Canadian establishments will be greatly enlarged and multiplied until they are turning out a steady passing of 25,000 to 30,000 air fighters into the services each year.

After all Australian, New Zealand and Canadian airmen available for operations against the enemy will be kept filled to capacity by sending reinforcements from the British Empire training scheme.

The Canadian Government will pay the cost of training, but overseas governments for training their men, then agreed upon per capita rate, and sum has yet to be settled but will be based on the cost of the training establishments.

Thousands of mechanics will be required to keep the air fighters fit in training. Manufacture of aircraft and repair parts will be possible but in the initial stages it is likely Canada will rely on the United States for many of the parts.

Canadian fliers are the best fliers in the world, Lord Riverdale said. Many are already in the Royal Air Force but this scheme was "designated ately keen" to get some Canadians, Australians, New Zealanders and Australians, serving overseas in their own squadrons. They have to have Canadians in fliers mixing with their own.

Twelve in Mission

Lord Riverdale's mission includes 12 air officers, assisted by two more high officials are on the way. They are Captain H. H. Balfour, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Air, and Air Marshal Sir Christopher Courtney.

Recruiting Mission

Sir Robert will probably remain in Canada for the duration of the war as representative the Royal Air Force. He resigned recently as Governor of Kenya Colony to undertake the task.

Missions from New Zealand and Australia are expected in Ottawa soon to complete arrangements for participation in the scheme.

The prospect of ever-increasing Empire air forces has already had a marked psychological effect on the Germans, said Sir Robert. The German air strength is bound to lessen as time goes on but the Nazi air strength will go on rising.

GERMANY CLAIMS

(The Repulse, commissioned in 1916 and reconstructed in 1936 at a cost of $5,500,000, displaces 32,000 tons and has a complement of 1,181 to 1,200 officers and men.

Other than the 29,150-ton Royal Oak which was sunk Saturday, the Empire carries six 16-inch guns, 20-four-inch guns, including eight for anti-aircraft, and eight torpedo tubes among lesser armaments. She carries four aircraft with catapults.)

The German command apparently was preparing to close its book on the English campaign. Its communique today announced that the completion of occupation of the German zone in Poland would cause reporting from the east.

The war in the west, it said, still was inactive.

The communique said the French had been forced by floods to abandon small fortifications on the west Rhine River.

(French reports said communication had been hampered in the Lorraine region because of overflowing of the Meuse, Moselle and Sarre rivers.

(These reports said French artillery had opened up along the entire western front.)

Following is the text of the communique: "

"After troops movements for occupation of the German region of influence in Poland are completed, the commander-in-chief-general will report from the east.

"In the west, there is activity of patrols, skirmishes and artillery fire mainly directed against the fortifications designed to annoy. On the Rhine, downward of Basle, the fortifications were forced by floods to evacuate one bunker.

"In this, as there was little activity of our own and enemy planes in the front sectors."

Report is Denied

London, Sunday, (Reuters) — British naval circles today denied Berlin reports that a German submarine had torpedoed and completely sunk the battle cruiser Repulse.

NEUTRALITY

It was expected the Government would issue a statement after meeting upon his report this evening.

Dr. Pasaitkivi stepped from his train at 9:50 a.m. (2:50 a.m. E.S.T.) and went to the apartment officials while a crowd of several thousand stood about. Before a Foreign Tyrant."

Silence Unbroken

Moscow sources said the Finnish mission was expected to present to the Soviet Union a report reporting on the progress of the talks. Foreseen by observers in the capital of Finland, but reported an impasse in a military conference, was the fortification of the Aaland Island.

Finland has continued to hasten preparation to meet any eventuality and looked to the world organization to resist any pressure threatening her independence.

All Bridges Guarded

Organization of the industrial front was undertaken today to guarantee corporations compensation for losses and damages resulting from war emergency conditions. Plans for insurance to be applicable to property not covered by insurance.

All strategic bridges and buildings were guarded heavily, and thousands of volunteers were in the Helsingfors and other cities, it was declared today. 100,000 civilians already have left the capital voluntarily in response to broadcast appeals.

FATALITY TOLL

Automobile accidents took nine lives, a quadruple fatality snuffing out the lives of three young couples and the LaSalle causeway near Kingston, Howard Leggett, 24, Kingston, and Margaret Sandiler W. Bruce, 22, Port Hope, were instantly killed, and Miss Sandiler died later in hospital.

Four fatal car crashes occurred in Toronto and vicinity. Aaron Cohen, 25, died after being struck by an automobile; E. P. Robinson, 70, Hamilton, was killed when two others seriously hurt when his car crashed a heavy truck; Harry Tarr, 44, King, was knocked from his motorcycle and killed; Mrs. Elizabeth Cashe, 72, Toronto, died of injuries after stepping in front of an automobile.

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

G. B. S. Says Britain Needs Orator To Match Dictators

London, Oct. 16 (AP)—Critical of Prime Minister Chamberlain's oratorical ability, Bernard Shaw thinks Great Britain needs a war-time leader to match what he calls the fiery able oratory of Adolf Hitler and Joseph Stalin.

The 83-year-old playwright's criticism was contained in a letter read Saturday at the opening of a Fabian Society, a Socialist group, of which Shaw was one of the founders years ago.

The conference, Shaw said, should rule out of order all meaningless words like Hitlerism, totalitarianism, aggression, security, liberty, democracy and the general all parliamentary language."

Shaw said Mr. Chamberlain's conclusion in speeches was that it was for Germany to make her choice and added:

"We have had enough of leaving the initiative to Herr Hitler. He invariably takes it."

TWO MOTORISTS BEING SOUGHT

Alleged to Have Failed to Stop at Scenes of Accidents in District

Two motorists, who are alleged to have been directly responsible for motor accidents and who failed to stop at the scene of the accidents, are being sought by city and Provincial Police of this city following accidents over the week-end.

One alleged hit and run driver struck eleven-year-old William Kirkpatrick, of 106 Station St. and speeded away leaving the lad lying in the street in front of his own home early last evening. Young Kirkpatrick was crossing Station St. when a dark colored sedan roared south down Station St., striking the lad and hurling him some 25 feet down the street. Pte. Gorman-Lott, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, was passing and carried the injured lad into his nearby home. Dr. R. S. Gibson was summoned and stated the lad had sustained an injured back, face lacerations and other minor injuries.

Pte. Lott informed P. C. Evans, upon the latters investigation, that the hit and run vehicle was travelling too fast for him to procure the licence plate number of the vehicle, description of the car was given by other witnesses, however.

The second incident of this kind was reported to Motorcycle Fireman Sam Ervine after a motor car driven by Mrs. Ronia Hemmon, of Deseronto, had crashed into the ditch four miles south of Belleville on Highway No. 14 over the week-end. Mrs. Hennon informed the officer that an oncoming car, being driven in the centre of the highway and at a fast rate of speed, had crowded her off the road. Other motorists passing substantiated Mrs. Hennon's story and later the licence plate number of the offending vehicle was obtained and given to the officer. Mrs. Hennon was returning home when forced into the ditch. Fortunately no injuries were sustained during the accident.

Apparently this broth is far from spoiled, for everyone seems to want a taste. Scene is at a British army training camp in Aldershot, where members of the Women's Auxiliary Training service are trying their hands at cooking in field kitchens. The girls don't seem to mind sampling their own product.

The censor left the name of the port out of the caption when he approved this picture, showing an important epoch of the new world war. It shows the arrival in France of men of the British army as well as airmen. Movement of troops is accompanied by cloaked secrecy of War Leslie Horeliesha has announced to the House of Commons that more than 150,000 British troops have been landed in France during the first five weeks of the war.

GIRL IS SAVED FROM DROWNING

Maurene Bowler, Point Anne, Rescued by Roy McDonald Late Saturday

Point Anne, Oct. 16—(Special)—What might have been a fatal accident happened on Saturday morning when little Maureen Bowler, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bowler, Point Anne, was rescued from drowning by Mr. Roy MacDonald, Main St., who was playing with Mr. MacDonald's daughter, Marlene on the dock near which Mr. MacDonald was working with his nets. On hearing a splash Mr. MacDonald turned and seeing only one child ran immediately to the dock and leaped into the bay, and brought Maureen to shore none the worse for the soaking.

Amateurs Beat Eddie Shore's Team

Quebec, Oct. 16 (CP)—Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League edged out Springfield Indians of the International-American loop 3-2 yesterday in an exhibition game featuring Eddie Shore, fights and spurts of brilliant hockey.

The amateurs took a 2-1 lead in the first period and held that margin by matching Indians' goal in the second period. Ted Evans, fans of the season here, gave Don Penniston, new coach of Aces, and Eddie Shore, new owner and manager of Indians, a chance to look over their material for the coming campaign.

Shore, Boston Bruins' starry defenceman, wasn't content to watch for long, however, and took the ice turns at right wing until the dying minutes of the first session when he was sent with a misconduct penalty. For the remainder of the game, he looked on from the sidelines.

Fire Protection In City Buildings Found to Be Good

Inspection of Front Street business section, factories, churches and other buildings were found to be in "good" condition as regards fire hazards, officials of the Belleville Fire Department who concluded inspections in connection with Fire Prevention Week on Saturday, stated this morning.

"As always, the business public gave us a fine fullest co-operation", Fire Chief William Ellis stated today. "There has been a noticeable improvement in the protection for electric wiring, and in the removal or elimination of other fire hazards" he added.

Unemployment Figures Show Slight Increase

While a large slumber of placements have been made during the summer just passed, aggregations of unemployed for the district show a slight increase over figures a year ago, Superintendent W. D. Ross of the local Employment Bureau stated today.

"Ordinarily, with the number of people placed in employment this year, registrations should be well below what they are," he said, attributing the increase to the fact that applications for skilled and unskilled labor on the part of such firms as the Bata Shoe Company resulted in the heavier registration.

Lists at present contain not only the names of city unemployed but also a considerable every community in the county, Mr. Ross said.

Springbrook

Springbrook—Mr. and Mrs. Herb White and son returned to their home at Oshawa after spending the week end and holiday with Mrs. F. Fen.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Mason of Lindsay visited Mrs. Lottie Wilson on Sunday.

Mrs. Martha Morgan is visiting relatives and friends at Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Morton and daughter Louise of Regina, Saskatchewan, called on relatives here in the village, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aunger of Edwards, New York, and Mrs. Annie Bonter of Crowe Lake called on Mrs. Bertha Mason on Thursday.

Mrs. Fred Fenn accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Herb White to their home in Oshawa where she will spend a few days.

Mrs. Charlie McMaster spent Tuesday with her mother, Mrs. Lottie Wilson.

The weekly meeting of Springbrook Young People's League was held in the church on Monday evening. The President, Miss Bessie McMullen opened the meeting with a hymn with Mrs. T. E. McKeown as organist. Delegates were appointed to attend the Young People's Convention at Peterboro. Plans were completed for the league convention that is to be held in the Orange Hall, Springbrook.

After singing of another hymn the Missionary Convenor Miss Dorothy Harding took charge of the meeting. Community singing was then enjoyed, followed by a call to worship by Phyllis Knox. A hymn was then sung, after which Doris Fleming led in prayer. Scripture readings were given by Rev. Reg. Morgan. The topic for the meeting was commencing a study of India, which was very ably taken by the convener. An introduction of the study was read by Thelma Ketcheson. Ralph McMullen and Grace Fleming gave papers on important characters of India. A paper on "Time Marches on" was given by Mrs. Murray Mason. A closing hymn was sung. A can contest was enjoyed, after which the meeting was brought to a close by repeating the Mizpah Benediction.

Mrs. Carrie Gayle is spending the week with her daughter Mrs. Alex Ralleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay McKeown and Shirley of Mount Pleasant were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McKeown.

The many friends of Mr. Mel Neal of Bonarlaw are sorry to learn of his illness in Belleville Hospital and all join in wishing him a speedy recovery.

Mr. John Benson of Toronto spent the week end and holiday under the parental roof. . . .

Marmora

Marmora—Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell attended executive and committee meetings of the Synod at Kingston on Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and son Thomas attended Roseneath Fair on Friday.

Marmora High School rugby team lost its second game to Madoc High School on the Deloro grounds on Friday afternoon. The score being 17-0. The Marmora girls' softball team were also defeated by the Madoc girls, the score was 11-1.

PLAINFIELD W. I.

The meeting of the Plainfield Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Horace Palmer. The meeting opened with Ode. The roll call was answered by a Thanksgiving quotation. The leaders for the girls' work are Mrs. McKenzie and Mrs. Outwater. Mrs. Erle Denyes, and Mrs. Clarence Hall were appointed to the Red Cross Committee. The delegates for the convension are Mrs. Wallace Simmons and Mrs. Frank Hodgen.

Mrs. Harry Harrison, Mrs. McKenzie and Miss Huff were named on a committee to look after a Hallowe'en concert. Mrs. O. Bates, Belleville, gave a very interesting travelogue of Florida where she spent six months. Mrs. Frank Hodgen gave a reading "Little Old Granny Mine." Mrs. Simmons gave a reading "Grand Mother' Sitting Room." Miss Verna Priestly gave a reading on Grandmother, also Mrs. N. Hall-Jr. on "Grandmother's Flowers." Mrs. Jack Golden quoted verses that she had composed herself about herself and grandson, as it was Grandmothers' Day.

Mrs. Downey, the oldest grandmother present and her daughter were presented with gifts by the president. The meeting closed with "God Save the King." Lunch was then served and a vote of thanks tendered the hostess. Attendance was 34, children 6.

WAL LSTREET

New York, Oct. 16 (AP)—Buyers made feeble passes at the thin stock market today and managed to push up only leading issues fractions to a point or so. Proceedings were lethargic throughout, with turnover indicated at as the lightest since war started. Advances were fairly well held near the fourth hour.

Happenings were served to keep Wall Street thoroughly puzzled, and most traders still inclined to stay lightly either way pending more definite signs. Domestic business continued to remain as the number one speculative influence, but contributed little of the fireworks in dispute, with fears Union troubles might spread to other industries served to keep optimism within bounds.

Stocks in the Canadian group showed little variation in price. Distillers Corp. took a shade from and Labatts and Lake Shore 36 Leitch 70 were unchanged. Dominion 4s were even in the bond market.

Steels, rails and aircrafts led the stock list on the selective comeback, after considerable early spotliness.

Among better performances were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas, Aircraft, United Aircraft, Westinghouse, American Can, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, U.S. Rubber and Sears, Roebuck.

Backward were Sopth Porto Rico Sugar Du Pont, General Electric and Johns-Manville, Chrysler and General Motors were about steady.

Narrowly improved in the curb were Standard, Gulf Oil and International Petroleum.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 16 (CP)—Demand for some industrials today lifted steel implements, aircrafts and foods, on Toronto exchange today, pulled up and gains were posted. Golds and Western Oils were also a little stronger. Base metals were mixed mild weakness.

National Steel Car advanced about 2 points to a new high at 76 and other steels moved ahead. Fleet Aircraft firmed nearly a point. Cockshutt Plow fidmed 1 1-4 to a new high at 13 3-4 and Massey Harris issues added fractions to a point.

Trading action was fair in a few scattered golds, including Preston, Wr. Amulet 615 Wr. Harpers 785 and others and prices ruled higher. Home Oil added 2 cents and the bids were firm for other oils.

LIVESTOCK

Montreal Oct. 16 (CP)—Prices held steady in early trading on the Montreal livestock market, with the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported.

Receipts: Cattle 1340; calves 3134; sheep 3411; hogs 1941.

Not enough early sales of cattle were made to establish prices.

Good cows and heifers sold at 4.50 to 5.50, with medium kinds around $3-$3.50 and common light ones down to $6. Drinkers ranged from $5.50-$7.

Creamers brought $3.75-$5, averaging close to $4.50.

Good cows and heifers sold at $9.50, heavy lambs $8.50-$9, and bucks $7.50. Sheep made $2.50-$5. No early sales were made on hogs.

Toronto, Oct. 16—(CP)— Cattle trade picked up moderately at midsession today after a slow opening. Prices were generally steady. Good calf and sheep sections were firm while hog trade was established on hogs. Cattle holdover from last week was 1,700 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branche were: cattle 3,400; calves 1,850, hogs 1,200, sheep and lambs 2,750.

Weight of heavy ranged from $6.25-$7.25. A few good butcher steers and heifers made $7-$7.25 and common butcher kinds were offered at $2.50. Butcher cows sold from $3.75-$5 and canners and cutters $3-$3.50. Butcher bulls brought $5-$5.50 and bologna bulls $4.25-$4.75. Good stockers were $6.50-$7 with common grader selling as low as $5.25.

Choice veal calves held opening prices at $10-$10.50. Common veal-ers brought $6. Grass calves sold mostly at $8.

Previous close on off-truck hogs was $8.50.

A few good lambs traded at $9-$9.25 but the general market was not established.

Sheep ranged from $2-$5 cwt.

HOG QUOTATIONS

Toronto, Oct. 16—(CP)— A steady to firm tone prevailed on bacon-hog markets today, Brantford reporting the rise in some while dressedweights declined 16. Chatham and Toronto markets were up 10-15 cents and other reporting markets were unchanged.

Liveweights:	Brantford $8.25,
Chatham $8.25.
Dressedweights:	Barrie $11.60,
Brantford $11 and Chatham $11.25,
Hamilton $11.10, Hull $11.35,
London $11, Peterborough $11.85,
Stratford $11 plus transportation.

Butter, Egg Prices Remain Firm

Toronto, Oct. 16. — Price changes were slight in Toronto produce lines Saturday. Firm undertones prevailed in butter and eggs.

Small arrivals of fresh make continued steadily at unchanged prices on the butter market. There was not much buying, but a fair inquiry was reported. One odd lot of high-scoring Ontario butter sold at 28 to 28½c, but the general market remained at the 26c level.

A strong tone was seen on the egg market. Outside of a cent increase in pullets in the ungraded and retail divisions, prices showed no change. Pullets arrived in fair volume and demand was being directed to this grade in view of the higher value asked for the two top grades.

Montreal Produce

Montreal, Oct. 16—(CP)—Produce market prices for Saturday, as reported by the Dominion Agriculture Bureau, follow:

Butter First grade creamery prints, 29½c; first grade tub, 29c; solids, 28c; price 28 1-2c. Receipts: 10,037 boxes, compared with 11,873 a year ago.

Cheese: Ontario white and colored, current receipt price, 13 3-8c to 13 1-2c. Receipts: 29,624 boxes, including 3,231 export, compared with 29,-780 a year ago.

Eggs: Graded inspected shipments in used free cases, A-large, 26c; A-medium 26c; A-small 23c; B-large 24c; C 18c. Receipts: 6,064 cases, including 1,000 export, compared with 10,864 a year ago.

ATHENIA OWNERS CONTRIBUTE $23,500 TO PASSAGE HOME

London, Oct. 16 (CP) — United States Ambassador Joseph Kennedy announced today that the owners of the torpedoed liner Athenia had contributed the equivalent of $23,500 toward the cost of returning home American passengers.

The Athenia was sunk in the Atlantic Sept. 3 a few hours after Britain declared war on Germany.

The cheque which I have just received is a splendid gesture taken without regard to any immunity from legal responsibility which the company (Donaldson-Atlantic Line) might have enjoyed under the special circumstances of the Athenia sinking," the ambassador's statement said.

POCKET U-BOATS USED IN ATTACKS?

French Circles Consider Possibility Germany Uses System of Underseas 'Motor-Boats'

By JEAN-PIERRE SIGNY
Havas Staff Writer

Paris, Oct. 16.—(CP—Havas)—Information garnered from recent sinkings on the High Seas from French naval circles to conclude that Germany has developed a system of undersea "mother boats which are transporting "pocket submarines" to mid-Atlantic stations to carry out their depredations against Allied shipping.

Earlier opinion was that torpedoings occurring from the coastal waters were the work of the big, ocean-going U-boats, but more recent reports have indicated tiny "sardine subs" are responsible for many of the attacks.

The first inference drawn from this was that the Reich has worked out a radically new method of provisioning and overhauling these deadly little weapons of war, since they can only operate at sea for extremely short periods before needing a thorough going-over and a complete new stock of fuel, ammunition and other supplies.

Surface Supply Ships in Last War

In the last war, Germany perfected a fleet of surface supply ships which were veritable floating docks, equipped to service submarines.

Under present-day circumstances however, it was thought doubtful that any such ships could long escape the Allied dragnet and naval observers believe Nazi engineers have found a way to use large submarines with wide cruising radius as a mother-vessel for the pocket-size U-boats.

Both the French and British Navies have submarine aircraft carriers. It is entirely possible, naval observers say, that Germany have developed undersea submarine carriers.

Think 50 U-Boats Stocked

Best available information is that when the war began the Reich had about 50 U-boats equipped to carry enough supplies to enable them to take up fighting posts as far as 2,000 miles from their base.

There is no reason why such vessels could not tow, or perhaps even carry, a number of pocket submarines, depending on size, and then stand by in nearby waters to refuel, restock and repair at the need arose, French naval Navy men said.

The tiny Nazi submersibles are understood to be about 60 feet long and not over 10 feet wide. It has already been demonstrated, according to naval sources here, that one gunner could receive fuel and oxygen from another without either craft coming to the surface.

Return to Same Once Month

The heavy U-boats need not return to their bases more than once a month, but must then spend about 10 days in dock for a thorough overhauling of their delicate mechanisms.

While submarines are the object of obloquy spectacular results, they are highly vulnerable. Once it is determined established that the Germans are using big U-boats as carriers and supply ships for pocket submarines naval quarters here said, the Allies will embark on a systematic campaign against the mother vessels.

With all the other submersibles out of the way, they said, the "sardine sub" would be doomed, as they could not return to home ports under their own power and would fall easy prey to Allied warships and fighting planes.

Immigrant Italian Wife Fails to Operate Gas Stove Correctly

New York, Oct. 16 (AP) — The thing you say when Angelo Angelo left bought to surprise his immigrant wife brought death to her and their year-year-old son the same day they arrived from Italy, Rinaldi, a local cook, who has been here three years, diligently set about to bring over his wife and family, and they arrived yesterday on the liner Rex.

Then Michieli left for work after explaining to his wife how to operate the new glove that had thrilled and delighted her.

When he returned shortly before midnight, he found the apartment full of gas fumes—Bruno lying on the kitchen floor, the body of his wife slumped over a bed in an adjoining room.

A pot of coffee was on the stove from which gas poured from an open jet. Police said the coffee boiled over, extinguishing the flame.

Mrs. Michieli had not known she must turn off the jet.

Number of Entries for Cheese Exhibit Slightly Greater Than Last Year

Decrease from Empire Countries Made Up by Large Canadian Participation

OFFICIALS TO SPEAK

Number of entries s"t

Despite the fact that the war will have some effect on the exhibition of overseas cheese products, the forthcoming British Empire Cheese Exhibition scheduled to open here on December 4, 5, 6 will compare favorably with that of preceding years. Mr. James Irwin, Dairy Grader, stated this morning.

Communications have been received from various nations of the British Commonwealth of Nations, entries for the Exhibition, but in view of present conditions it is extremely doubtful if such entries will be made possible.

To offset this, however, entries from all provinces of the Dominion have been received, and the list, if anything notes a slight increase over that of last year, Mr. Irwin said.

An array of distinguished speakers including high-ranking officials of the Departments of Agriculture has been secured for the Exhibition. Prominent among these are J. F. Singleton, assistant-director of Marketing Service, Ottawa; Norman R. Reek, deputy-minister of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto; L. C. Roy, superintendent of Agriculture for Eastern Canada for the Canadian National Railways Montreal; Joseph Burgess, chief of Grading and Dairy Products, Inspection Services, Ottawa, and C. R. Lackner, director of Dairying, Toronto.

Armed Man Steals Plane At Sudbury; Gas Tanks Full

Police Believe Gunman May be Planning Another Crime Soon

WATCHMAN HELD UP.

Sudbury, Oct. 16 (CP) — A nationwide police alarm was broadcast today following theft of a single-winged Aeronca plane from the Austin Airways base at Lake Ramsay, near here.

The robbery was effected in pulp strategic fashion by an unarmed man, who first held up, tied and gagged the watchman at the base, Frederick Kallio, and locked him night in the office of the company sitting quietly drinking soldier rum beside the helpless watchman. Then he started to work on it with full tanks and about twenty gallons of gas.

Police here expressed the opinion that the plane might have been stolen to assist in the robbery or some other crime the gunman had planned for the immediate future. It bears the red letters CF—BDJ.

Released by Milkman

Seguin, still trembling from excitement following his release by a milkman this morning with whom he had a slight scuffle and rejoined from the ignition wire used to bind him, told what happened.

"I had just come on duty about ten minutes to 12," he said, "and got my flashlight and went down to the dock. The first person I walked down to the dock and flashed my light around at the water's edge was a man. He stepped into the big Bellanca I saw the plane there was open and I expected myself up and looked in.

"I could see something he was open. I thought someone had been cleaning out the plane and thought nothing of it. I was turning to go to the next plane I thought I heard a noise and looked back."

Seguin said he opened the door of the Bellanca cabin and flashed his light inside and saw the head of a man, crouched on the sleeping bag. He stepped forward and shoved a large automatic pistol in Seguin's face, the watchman said.

Seguin then described the robber said.

Grabbed Flashlight

He grabbed the flashlight away from Seguin.

"Get under, with a cap pulled low over his forehead, marched the watchman into the office close to him and told him to keep still. He then said he had forgotten something and ordered him back to the dock.

"He sure knew his way around, because he went to all the other machines in turn and stripped off the covers. Seguin said.

"He prodded me along back to the office and there we got him tied. He grabbed a bunch of wire and tied my hands and feet with it. He told me I might as well lie down and go sleep. Then he locked me in a closet."

The robber got a bottle of rum from the bar, left the office and armchair by the office window and climbed out. Then he came to time he took a swig. He helped himself to Seguin's lunch and cigarettes and rolled cigarettes. Seguin said he writhed and struggled to free himself but was unable to.

Along toward dawn, the robber left the office, walked to the dock and helped himself to a parka, flashed his light inside, started up the motor of a plane start and knew he was away.

GERMAN TRAWLER SEIZED

Motor Vehicle Sales Expected to Increase

As one of Canada's basic and most important industries, the manufacture and sale of motor vehicles will play a vital part in the war effort by scale throughout the coming year. This is the message brought back to Belleville by Mr. A. C. Reynolds of Oshawa, General Motors zone manager, dealer in Pontiac and McLaughlin-Buick automobiles and GMC trucks. Following a new model preview and dealer convention at Oshawa from which he has just returned.

This optimistic attitude, reports Mr. Reynolds, was shared alike by the executive and salesmen present and by the General Motors executives who acted as hosts, and was displayed to the dealers the new 1940 models of Pontiac and McLaughlin-Buicks with their re-styled exteriors and their many new features.

Among the senior executives of General Motors of Canada who addressed the dealer convention and preview of the new models were: R. S. McLaughlin, presidentg; K. J. Carmichael, vice-president and general manager; J. E. Johnson, director of sales; and Roy D. Kerry, general sales manager of the Pontiac-McLaughlin-Buick GMC truck division.

ROYAL OAK LOSS

"Exactly when was the ship sunk? Where? How? Does the sinking disprove the widely held view that capital ships, with their immense armour protection, are safe from torpedoes? Or was it just a lucky chance for Hitler that one caught on target?

Official Answer Asked

"These are questions on men's lips, and only rumor makes reply. That is why official answers must be given soon. Only truth kills rumors.

"While we wait let us mourn our dead, and avenge them by pressing forward with added resolution to final victory."

The Daily Telegraph said: "The effect on Britain of such loses has always been to confirm her resolution and hardened the British breast. Fresh efforts that their comrades shall not have died in vain.

"For the second time since the war broke out, the page said, the world has to face the news that a great vessel has been sunk and that hundreds of lives have been drowned.

"As a maritime people we have been taught in the course of our history how to meet such blows with fortitude. What must be, must be.

Bear and Feel Grief 'Like Men'

"Though we shall not fail to bear our grief like men, we should also claim the right, in the words of the prime minister, Mr. MacDuff at the extremity of his grief, to 'feel it like men'."

The number of those dead in the disaster must be little less than 800 officers and men," the paper said. "We mourn their deaths bitterly. We refuse to let it rest with neither their lives nor the lives of their families. We have a full reckon on the Saar front shall have been wasted."

'PATIENCE' PLEA

"First, from the point of view of justice, France is the enemy to move to the Western Front a part of the troops operating in Poland.

"From the political point of view, they permitted our troops to advance into the heart of the Reich, and thus gave the army much confidence. The advance was met with very strong support from tanks and artillery. The Germans blew up bridges, but could not prevent the French from passing.

Tricks Are Used

"Tricks were used widely in villages we entered and elsewhere. A door was opened, a foot was placed on a bicycle, a hand was held, a hand was placed on a key—the French were duped.

"An infernal machine of this sort was arranged in a cemetery containing French tombs. Those who went there to pay their respects to the dead met their doom.

"As time passes as dead leaves fall, as time passes and the leaves fall, and the mines become less visible.

"German prisoners make it clear that the people were well trained by the Nazis for war. Even rather uncultivated persons are often able to read a map. They have nothing, on the other hand, regarding life in democratic countries. They do not even know that their country was at war with ours.

"Our infantry morale is very good. Take an officer whom I cited today in an army order, he dictated his report to one of his men. That is all. But he could not keep his eyes; he was blind and perhaps will remain so.

"Take a native sergeant who exploded we know not how many tanks. He knew how to use them, how to locate the explosive and where to place it, but at last, at dawn, he was seriously wounded.

"Take the pilot who, his ammunition exhausted, crashed his plane at a German plane which was attempting to escape. Nonetheless, the German fled and the Frenchman was killed.

"How different from 1914, twenty-five years ago. That was the time of the race to the sea, and we had already lost 700,000 men.

"Now we have learned our lesson.

"As for material, we have expended a certain quantity, but we are resolutely confident that the enemy would have to expend men and material en-masse only to attempt an attack. How could they chase us with tanks in the mud?

"Make it clear, I repeat, that our means of action are adapted in relation to the passing of time. From week to week the British army is perfecting itself, and the number of planes and tanks are being manufactured.

"During this time Germany which hasn't means equal to ours, sees its side of the scales go up. Thus the war is a war of patience, of morale. I feel sure the moment will appear, the public should understand.

"Every passing hour works for us. Let the country be calm and have confidence in the army."

GUNS

Increased Activity

After significant observatory reported a great increase of activity in the German rear, Pliers reported movements in a train, with 18 machine guns first line. Many unusual lights were seen. From the French frontlines could be clearly heard the clatter of arms and the sound of mechanical equipment in motion.

It was the collation of reports of this kind which led to the new French artillery action.

The German expectations were believed to be especially heavy between the Moselle and the Great Forest, a distance of about 80 miles. This front separates the German front from the Lorraine front and here the German Army has the advantage of a thickly-wooded land, still in leaf, which defies aerial observation.

Approximately 30,000 British soldiers were reported to have taken over sectors along the northeastern front and received their first baptism of fire. Last night it was announced 150,000 British troops had landed in France.

Two German Troops

French sources estimated the German forces opposing the vital northern sector of the Maginot Line in addition to regular troops, from 200 and 800,000 men by recent reinforcements.

Meanwhile, further to the south, automobiles equipped with loudspeakers toured the Saar and the German side of the Rhine broadcasting appeals to the troops there. The broadcasts included sections of Poehrer Hitler's recent Reichstag address and appeals to Germans asserting Germany has no quarrel with France.

The various sections of the front, from Switzerland to Belgium their lines banners bearing slogans such as "bad luck for those who refuse to fight for Hitler."

The French said their artillery fire had destroyed numerous enemy banners with well-aimed salvos.

The number of the French frontier Provinces of Lorraine said continued rain had caused the Meuse, Moustier and Sarre rivers to overflow, inundating the countryside and flooding certain localities.

The heaviest German forces, the French said, were massed opposite their left flank in the sector formed by the German cities of Trevres, Kreuznach and Kreuznach.

Trevres is on the east bank of the Moselle River, about 25 miles from the French border. Kaiserslautern is the most northerly point of Trevres, while Kreuznach is approximately 25 miles south of Trevres and 30 miles north of Kaiserlautern.

Increase Plane Output

Military advices reported the French output of warplanes would be increased fivefold by next year through plants of the French Minister Guy La Chambre. By that time, they said, the factories would employ 300,000 men, and the training of pilots would be stepped up to 2,000 pilots per month.

French correspondents at the front, describing the recent advances of French fliers and their "superiority complex" over German aviators, one pilot brought his reconnaissance plane back 7 times and landed safely after his observer had been riddled with bullets which had killed him in a parachute.

In this and a similar accident where another reconnaissance plane was said to have been landed on a field by wounded observer who took over after the pilot was killed, valuable photographs were reported brought home undamaged.

Joined R.C.A.F. 10 Months Ago

The pilots joined the Air Force about 10 months ago and were sent to Camp Borden and, later, to Camp Rockcliffe, Ottawa, recently transferred to Trenton. The navigation officer was on the staff of the training course.

They took off at 9.30 a.m. on a flight to Carleton Place then to Elgin and return to Trenton, the plan was due to arrive about hour later or flying over Kingston.

Next word came about noon Sunday when reports reached Snow Road that a plane had been seen sailing into the bush. William Sergeant and Fred Tremblay, familiar with the dense bush and rugged terrain started a search and came on the wreckage near Crotch Lake.

They said the nose and part of the engine were buried in the earth. They made a hasty examination and believed they had seen a body in the twisted heap.

The men returned immediately to Snow Road and word of the discovery was flashed to Trenton Air Port. An officer of the air force flew to Snow Road with Constable Stewart Patterson of Stanhope, a search party was made. The party set out after dark last night and had not returned early today.

National Defence Statement.

Ottawa, Oct. 16 (CP)—The National Defence Department today issued the following statement concerning the crash of a Royal Canadian Air Force plane near Snow Road, Ont., in which two airmen were killed:

On Sunday, Oct. 14, Pilot Officer U. Olstead, piloting, and Pilot Officer R. E. Corbett, navigator, both of the R.C.A.F. station at Trenton on a navigation exercise at 9.30 a.m. The aircraft did not return to its base on the allotted time and a search was instituted without success.

No trace of the missing aircraft was found until late Sunday afternoon when word was received by constable from the Provincial Police that it was in the bush and that it had landed in the neighborhood of Crotch Lake approximately 20 miles north of Crotch Lake which is on highway No. 7.

Confirmed By Search Party.

This information was later confirmed by a search party from the area which found the crashed aircraft in the woods and at its base officer, accompanied by an Air Force officer proceeded immediately to the scene of the accident.

The plane was found to have smashed in the woods and both airmen's bodies were dead. The bodies were brought out and an inquest will be held into the cause of the accident.

Residents in the vicinity say the plane circled twice but no one witnessed the actual crash. They thought the sound of the motor landed. The next of kin were notified.

Pilot Officer Olstead was from Corbett was from Fredericton, N.B. Corbett was from Fredericton, N.B. Both officers joined the R.C.A.F. in February last year and had completed their intermediate flying training at Camp Borden and were to proceed to Trenton for advance training early in September.

Joined Last Year

Fredericton, Oct. 16—(CP)—Pilot Officer R. E. Corbett, killed yesterday with Pilot Officer G. L. Olstead in an airplane crash at Snow Road, Ont., joined the Royal Canadian Air Force last year after graduating from the University of New Brunswick as a Bachelor of Civil Engineering.

His home was at Barker's Point, near here. Corbett, who was with the Maritime Intercollegiate heavyweight boxing team, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Kenneth Corbett, and two younger brothers.

Parents Visiting Here

Parents of the young Pilot-Officer R. E. Corbett, killed last night while flying with Pilot-Officer Corbett at Snow Road, Ont., while on R.C.A.F. plane crash are at present stopping in Belleville at the Hotel Bolte, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Johnson and it was here today about noon they received the first definite news of the death of their son. Previously they drove down into the country, where they reached way reported to have occurred but nothing definite being known they returned to the city. Enforcing the tragedy was conveyed by R.C.A.F. authorities on the finding of the bodies of the two young men in the bush early today.

Mr. and Mrs. Olstead had driven with their son, Stanley, from their home at Neepawa, Manitoba, over 350 miles to Winnipeg, to Belleville, arriving here about a week ago so that they could visit with their son, Pilot G. L. Olstead. He had seen his civilian clothes at home and they decided they would like to see him before he might be transferred from the Aircraft Training Centre.

The parents had the opportunity quite often last week of having visits with the young flier.

This afternoon they went to the airport to consult with officials.

It is expected that Mrs. Olstead will leave by train for her home and her husband and their younger son, Stanley, will motor back.

BRITAIN TRAINS 32 DIVISIONS ON HOME SOIL

B.E.F. Numbers in France Increase Daily Says London Report

MILITARY ACTIVITY

By J. F. SANDERSON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Oct. 16—(CP Cable)—Britain has 32 divisions under training in this country to reinforce the original British expeditionary force of 158,000 men, it was learned from official sources today.

A division in the modern army represents from between 14,000 and 20,000 men. So Britain has between 450,000 and 650,000 men under training.

The British Expeditionary Force in France is being augmented daily, Thursday's total of 18,000 men, ports with increasing frequency. It is considered that the British Army has never been strong numerically and British officers say it has never regarded itself as a great military power—as distinct from a great naval power—but never in the first six weeks of the war has the B.E.F. been so large.

For any nation to send 158,000 troops into the theatre of battle with the loss of but 18,000 war machines, and have 60,000 men in training as in the first six weeks of war, is considered an accomplishment of considerable merit.

War on for Weeks Before German Soldiers Knew

London, Oct. 16—(CP)—The strife and suffering which German troops captured in France did not know was on for weeks after it started.

A statement asserted the Germans were "absolutely flabbergasted when they found out by being shot at and surrounded that there was a real war."

FOREIGN MINISTER

Unofficial reports said Finland, refusing to be drawn into the Russo-German pact between Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, would concede certain strategic islands commanding the approaches to Leningrad, but would balk at a military alliance or submission to Soviet garrisons on the islands.

Cautious Approach

While a Hungarian trade and diplomatic delegation came to Moscow for an unofficial exchange of views, Hungary was believed preparing to depart shortly, possibly with a non-aggression agreement respecting Russian safeguards on the question of Bessarabia, Russia's former Bessarabia, which the Soviet Union, Sulcu Saracoglu, returned to the Kremlin at 4 p.m. to confer for the first time with Joseph Stalin and Premier Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff.

(In Istanbul, it became known that Saracoglu had presented military steps because of reports that Russian troops were massing on the Caucasus on Turkish and Iranian—Persian—border. The talks were under Sunday night, denied troop reinforcements there.

Flatly Denies Rumors

(Authoritative sources in Istanbul said Turkeys foreign minister flatly denied reports that Russia had formulated demands for recognition of the principle of Soviet-Turkish mutual assistance, the formation of a Russo-German Scandinavian bloc, and the Balkans, and Russian and Bulgarian expansion at the expense of Rumania.

Rumors long have circulated here that Russia wants to use Turkey to dominate the Balkans, and, now that Germany has defeated Poland in the west, may demand the return of Bessarabia, Rumanian province, which contained that oil-rich territory from Russia in the post-Great War diplomacy.

Russia, meanwhile, was consolidating her position in Poland, which would place her in a much stronger position to control the Balkan portage, role in the Balkans.

The Hungarian diplomatic visit, reported by the Russian news agency, was given point by the fact that Hungary has common frontiers Russia a frontier with Hungary.

The Hungarian press has been stressing a desire for friendly dealings with Russia, and the visit of a German trade delegation remained in Moscow.

Norway Troops Ordered

Stockholm, Oct. 16 (AP)—Reports received here from Oslo said Norway had ordered troops to go today to her Finnish border.

At that point, Norway is close to Soviet Russia, which has designs for concessions from Finland is to be the subject of a conference of Scandinavian Foreign Ministers on Wednesday.

The Norwegian port of Narvik, an outlet for Swedish iron exports and a frequent visit of German ships before Great Britain began her sea patrol, is in the far northern tip.

Klings Haakon of Norway and Christian of Denmark and President Kyosti Kallio of Finland are to meet here Wednesday with their Foreign Ministers at the invitation of Premier Hjalmar Branting for a discussion of the Finnish and other questions expected to last two days.

Senator Clark Opposed

Senator Clark (Dem.-Idaho), a foe of the Neutrality Act, declared in the opening of debate today that in asking repeal of the Arms Embargo the administration was seeking to aid Great Britain and France. He added:—

"I don't believe that Great Britain and France, with their mighty Empires, should be aided by the United States at this time for two reasons:—

"First, by blindly and arbitrarily refusing even to negotiate for peace they have placed themselves in the role of aggressor, and therefore do not deserve our help.

"Second, if Germany is crushed, she will be driven into the arms of Stalin, building an Empire to dwarf anything that will be in store for the peace of the entire world."

Clark told the Senate that he knew it was a "very grave thing for anyone to question the altruism of Mr. Chamberlain or Mr. Daladier".

"We can only do it among our close friends," he continued, "and then with a glance over our shoulders to see whether anyone is listening.

"So intense has been the propaganda, so fast has it been handed immediately as pro-Hitler."

He referred to a speech made last week by Charles A. Charlie, a Lindbergh and quoted Pittman as saying that it was absurd to suggest construction that Lindbergh approved "the brutal conquest" of totalitarian governments.

"It is about time," Clark added, "that some one asked in this country question the modern Talleyrands, Richelieus and Henry the Eighths who are playing fast and loose with the foreign policy of America."

The arrival by airplane of the Hungarian Governor of Ruthenia was seen in diplomatic circles as an indication that Hungary intends to Russia's aims.

One cause of concern in diplomatic circles here last night was Russia, if she repossessed Bessarabia would annex Bukovina, the home Ruthenia from Hungary. Diplomatic dispatches throughout the Balkans reported that Russian reinforcements near the Ruthenia and Bessarabia borders.

These sources also noted Moscow still had under arrest the ex-minister to Hungary and expressed concern over what Hungarian Foreign Minister Count Istvan Csaky and other high officials here might do.

As Dr. Joseph Kristofy arrived here from Budapest to become head of the new Hungarian minister there, some observers here predicted that as a result of renewed Russian-Hungarian relations the Hungarian Ruthenia would be returned. But they also were mindful of the trend of Russian imperialism in the Balkans and the Baltic countries.

Diplomats here think Slovakia to stimulate trade began here, meanwhile, and were expected to talk Hungary to exchange $4,000,000 worth of wood and fats for $3,000,000 worth of goods in the past eight months and $300,000 worth from Hungary.

The great concern in governmental circles at the moment was over the 2,500,000 Ruthenians—more than five per cent of Hungary's entire population—who live in Ruthenia. The region almost touches Bessarabia, which Russia took from Rumania at the first Great War. Fear was expressed here that if the Soviet decided to annex Ruthenia it might go farther.

Heavily-controlled Hungarian press, which recently had avoided almost all reference to Russia, today published attacks on both.

POLISH ARMY UNITS RESIST GERMANS

Paris, Oct. 16 (CP-Havas) — The warmest fighting of the war between Germans and Poles was officially admit they are still fighting in Poland and that the Polish army, regular Polish army units, the Polish Government said today.

These organized forces are still giving fierce resistance to the German hordes in Galicia, in the south-eastern part of Poland, especially in the Sawalki district and in the Carpathians, and in the Pripet marshes.

Premier Hepburn to Speak to N. Y. Club

New York, Oct. 16 (CP)—The Canadian Club of New York announced today that Premier Hepburn of Ontario will be the chief speaker at its annual Armistice Day luncheon there.

The function will take the form of a "Canadian Thanksgiving."

In addition to Premier Hepburn speeches will be delivered by Godfrey Haggard, British Vice-Consul at New York; Hon. Peter Heenan, Canadian Minister of Lands and Forests; Douglas S. Cole, Canadian Government Trade Commissioner, New York, and Victor T. Goggin, president of the club.

MICKEY MacDONALD'S SECOND BRIDEGROOM

Toronto, Oct. 16 (CP)—The second trial of Donald "Mickey" Macdonald on a charge of killing James Windsor, Toronto bookmaker, opened today before Mr. Justice C. C. Makins and jury. Windsor was shot to death in his home here last January. Appeal for a new trial was granted three weeks ago on the ground that the jury which previously found him guilty might have been prejudiced.

POLISH OFFICERS SENT TO SIBERIA, MEN SENT HOME

Jews as Well as Priests and Landlords Feeling Weight of Soviet Hand

RUSSIANS GRUMBLING

By JEAN CHAMPENOIS

Press Staff Writer

Moscow, Oct. 16—(CP-Havas) — Jews as well as priests and landlords are feeling the weight of the Soviet hand in eastern Poland, it was learned here today.

Public meetings and newspaper editorials in the Russian-occupied regions daily denounce members of the Bund (General Union of Jewish Workers) and the Polish party as "traitors," "petty bourgeois," and "lackeys of the Polish ruling class." They are accused of having sent "class conscious" men and "Polish nationalists" underground.

Trainloads of Polish prisoners passed through the Moscow suburbs today. Informed circles said officers were being sent to Siberia and the men, but that the men would be returned home.

These observers reported hearing Russian guards reassure Polish prisoners with expected to be liberated by saying: "Don't worry. If they were going to shoot you, they would have done it a long time ago."

Russians Grumbling

Other Russians were heard grumbling at bringing in foreigners "to eat our bread."

Every effort is being made in Soviet-occupied Poland to call Polish peasants who fear losing their plots because of their nationality, according to information reaching here. Soviet administration at Lvow (Lemberg) has contracted immediately to return to homes even when the owners were accused of no crime.

Soviet mobilization was increasingly reflected here today in numbers of taxis replacing men as taxi drivers, traffic patrolmen, truck drivers and railway engineers.

Industrial labor done by women rose to 24.1 per cent in coal, 31.1 per cent in metallurgy, 20.4 per cent in electricity, 30.6 per cent in oil, 38.2 per cent in chemicals and 46.4 per cent in peat.

FOUR INJURED IN GUN ACCIDENTS IN OTTAWA AREA

Boy Struck in Back by Stray Bullet — Body Partially Paralyzed

ONE MAN ARRESTED

Ottawa, Oct. 16—(CP)— Four persons were injured, one seriously, in shooting accidents in Ottawa and district over the week end.

Struck in the back by a stray bullet from a .22 calibre rifle near his home here yesterday, Arthur Stevens, 13, was in hospital today with his body partially paralyzed. Police said a 17-year-old army recruit, James Nevin, missed a target in a shed at the rear of the Stevens home in private shooting practice, the bullet passing through an open doorway and striking Stevens.

Antonio Pepin, 18, was arrested and charged with the shooting following a fire-arm in the city after a revolver he was allegedly playing with went off. The bullet barely grazed the neck of Roger Chouinard, 15, who was treated in hospital.

Aurele Villeneure of St. Pierre de Wakefield, Que., 18 miles north here, was struck in the back by pellets from a shotgun which went off accidentally in the hands of Maurice Denault, 16, also of St. Pierre, Que.

J. F. Carlyle, 23, of Killaloe, Ont., near Pembroke, received a shotgun shot in his right eye during a hunting expedition with a companion. Police said Carlyle was walking ahead of his companion when the latter's rifle accidentally discharged as he was loading it.

HUNTER DROWNED ON THE NIPIGON

Two Others in Party Are Also Feared to Have Lost Their Lives

Port Arthur, Ont., Oct. 16 (CP)— One hunter was drowned and two others are believed drowned of a party of three who left Cameron Falls, on Nipigon River, 70 miles east of here, for a hunting trip Thursday.

George Mokolosh's body has been found. The believed Griffith Hawkins and E. Christinson were also drowned.

The party expected to be back here on Saturday. When they did not return yesterday a search party went out and found the body of Mokolosh floating in the river by a life belt. The others did not wear life belts.

60,846 KILLED IN ACCIDENTS

Atlantic City, N.J., Oct. 16.— (AP)—The National Safety Council estimated today that 60,846 persons were killed in accidents in the United States during the first eleigh months of 1939.

Automobile deaths took 18,800 lives during the period, but the Council calculated this was four per cent fewer than during the similar period last year.

LITHUANIAN TROOPS OCCUPYING WILNO

Kaunas, Oct. 16—(CP-Havas) — Lithuanian troops today started to occupy the Wilno (Vilna) territory secured from the Soviet Union under term of the Soviet-Lithuanian accord. Soviet troops began withdrawing and it is expected that more than 20,000 men will occupy the area by day or two.

RADIO OPERATOR WAS HOPEFUL OF EVENTUAL RESCUE

Ed. Gaynor Left Letter in Plane in Quebec Bush Saying He Was Well at Time

DIED ON TRIP OUT

Ottawa, Oct. 16 (CP)—Hope of eventual rescue from Quebec's wilderness—rescue that death prevented—was expressed in a letter to relatives here from Edward Gaynor, 19 year old radio operator who died in the bush 300 miles east of Quebec three months after he and his companion, Clifford Prechette, 23, Quebec pilot, made a forced landing in the wilderness.

A letter was left in the plane after Gaynor, a former Ottawan, and Prechette decided to strike out for civilization after waiting a month for a search that never came. Bodies of both Gaynor and Prechette were found October 3 a few miles from their seaplane on Magpie River.

Gaynor's letter, addressed to his aunt, Mrs. Mary Gaynor, and Uncle Jear Folks—just a few lines in case they should find the plane before he himself got out—said: "If you know I am O.K. and still have hope."

He started out for Moose and got lost and been here for a month waiting to be rescued, but he haven't heard a plane yet. He said he thought the gas tanks from the plane and are making a raft to go down the river to get to the coast which will lead us to Moose Factory.

The good Lord has been giving us lots of fish to eat, and we have "starin" to go, so we have to leave Aug. 1, no later. We want to get out before the snow comes. We still have some food and the rifle but we will be sure to get off as all that. And I am sure we will reach the coast all right.

If always keep in my motto "While there's life, there's hope." So don't worry and pray for me and everything will be O.K. Love to you all. Will be seeing you soon.—Eddy.

R. C. A. F. TO USE HOSPITAL AS BASE

Building at St. Thomas Will be Used as Training Station

Toronto, Oct. 16—Premier Hepburn last night announced that the Ontario Government is investigating Ontario's rent-free offer of the new $6,500,000 mental hospital at St. Thomas for an R.C.A.F. training station, and that every attempt would be made to have the 1,200 patients evacuated by the end of November. The building would be ready for occupation by the air force next Monday.

Mr. Hepburn's decision on the nearly 2-weeks-old offer came to the province's chief health officer today from Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Defence, who said the property was required immediately.

BOAT CAPSIZES, 450 DROWNED

Overloaded Vessel Overturns Near Mouth of Yangste Estuary

Shanghai, Oct. 16—(AP)— Authorities estimated 450 Chinese and a number of Japanese lost their lives today when the overloaded 160-ton river steamer Tahsin Maru capsized in the storm-swept Yangtze Estuary 12 miles from Woosung.

Only 50 persons aboard, a Japanese captain, was believed lost by the Japanese.

Several vessels in the vicinity rushed to the scene and rescued a few.

Heavy seas made rescue attempts almost impossible.

The passengers aboard were employes of Japanese dominated areas along the banks of the Yangtze.

FEW DEER HUNTERS

North Bay, Ont., Oct. 16 —(CP) —A sunny day inaugurated the deer hunting season here today, but there was no rush for licences. Hunters are said to be scattered in the woods of this district and it is expected that more hunters will turn out within the next day or two.

Firing of Torpedoes in 'Clusters' Probable Cause of Quick Sinkings

London, Oct. 16 (CP)—Private persons versed in naval affairs today offered a theory that the heavy casualties in the sinking of the Battleship Royal Oak resulted from perfection of a "cluster" torpedo technique by the Germans.

Observers further suggested the loss of 786 men (latest official estimate) was influenced by darkness with nearly two-thirds of the crew below in sleeping hammocks.

They said the firing torpedoes in clusters like slugs from a shotgun is entirely plausible from a naval viewpoint, experts said. Many present-day submarines are capable of simultaneous discharge which would send three or four torpedoes streaking into a warship.

The official announcement on Saturday of the sinking of Royal experts said.

Oak merely said it was believed she was the victim of "a U-boat action".

The "cluster" reasoning further was pointed to as accounting for the speed with which the Royal Oak apparently sank. New Year's Day, 1915, when the relatively old British battleship Formidable was sunk by a German submarine under cover of darkness, took 2½ hours before going down.

In the sinking of the Royal Oak, only a few minutes elapsed between the attacking submarine manoeuvring herself directly in the path of the battleship between the customary beams of anti-submarine craft. The attacker's presence could not be detected in the darkness if she was half submerged. The bulk of the battleship makes a silhouette unmistakable as far as 600 yards, the experts said.

Briton is Free to Grumble Over Business Regimentation

London, Oct. 16 (CP)—The Briton is free to grumble as much as he pleases over industrial and business regimentation in the wartime setup.

Parliamentarians keep out of print any news that might be regarded as of value to the enemy, expression of opinion is without official check.

The sharp tax increases which brought the standard income tax to 37½ per cent have brought some criticism, but the general tone of editorial objection has been that new regulations might hamper ordinary business processes.

"Give traders confidence," the Times urged in an editorial which declared "the government needs to tax and for the yield of taxation it must look to the increase and income and profits."

The threat is quick to avoid officialdom on anything considered likely to turn business against it, for example is a Daily Mail editorial headline "Stranglehold" which takes Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to task on the fiscal pro-

Lionel Conacher M.P.P. May Head O. A. C.

Toronto, Oct. 16—(CP)— Reorganization of the Ontario Athletic Commission with the probable retirement of Chairman P. W. Ellis, K.C., was hinted today by Premier Hepburn.

Lionel Conacher, Liberal M.P.P. for Toronto Bracondale and Vice Chairman of the Commission, is mentioned as successor to chairmanship.

The Chairman Mulqueen is scheduled to confer with Hon. Harold Kirby, Minister of Health, under whose department the Commission comes, today.

High Strung, Fiery Lads Get Fighting Planes

London, Oct. 16.—(CP—Cable)—The Royal Air Force is experimenting on the determination of psychological tests would be useful in recruiting, it was learned today.

At present air force pupils are divided into two groups, those destined to work in fighter aircraft and those to work in bombers.

Highest strung, fiery lads get the fighters while cooler and more phlegmatic types are trained for the bombers.

Whether Canadian Psychological Association has suggested to the Department of National Defence-at-War that psychological tests would be of definite practical service in recruiting for the Dominion Air Force.

Fire Destroys Home Man and Girl Burned

Victoria, Oct. 16 (CP)—A man and a teen-aged girl were burned to death and two other persons escaped when fire destroyed the home of Frank Landers at Mesachie Lake, Shawnigan, British Columbia police headquarters here were informed today.

The victims were Frank Masters and Ella Pahl, 15-year-old maid in the Masters home, 150 miles north of here on the east coast of Vancouver Island. Mrs. Masters and her 19-year-old son Thomas escaped unharmed, the latter leaping from a second-story window.

Grant MacNeil Opposes Canadians Fighting in Europe

Nelson, B.C., Oct. 16.—(CP) Grant MacNeil, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member of Legislature for Okanagan North, said at a public meeting here last night that Canada's "direct and vital concern" is the war against Hitlerism, the shedding of blood on European soil."

One of two speakers at a C.C.F. meeting here tonight, the resident of the British Columbia section of the C.C.F. to "unnecessary encroachments on civil liberties," Mackenzie said:

"If we embark on ambitious overseas military intervention we shall be in the absurd situation where we will have to call on American troops to protect Canadian territory."

He said any attempt to put conscription into effect would split Canada in twain. He claimed that "no matter what assurances are given, conscription will result in the dispatch of an expeditionary force" from Canada to Europe.

One of German Submarines Sunk Says French Bureau

Paris, Oct. 16.—(CP-Havas) — The French Bureau of General Information announced tonight that at least one of the German submarines responsible for the sinking of three French ships last week has been destroyed.

Skilled Mechanics To be Required

Ottawa, Oct. 16 (CP)—A Dominion registry of skilled mechanics and others with specialized training who might assist in the wartime civilian industries is to be undertaken, it was announced today.

Labor Minister McLarty met representatives of the provinces here today to discuss the registration of persons skilled in trades which provinces would collect the names and transfer them and other relevant information to Ottawa.

The above chart will help settle that old argument as to who wears what badges, and who is senior to who in the navy, army and air force. The first question to settle is which branch of the armed service is the senior branch. As can be seen by the chart, the navy always marches first, followed by the army and then the air force. It is to be noted, too that a lieutenant-general is senior to a major-general despite the fact that a major is senior to a lieutenant. There is no rank in the navy equivalent to a major in either the army or a pilot officer in the air force.

Probabilities
Moderate winds fair today and Wednesday quite cool tonight.

Withering Maginot Line Fire Breaks Down German Drive On 20-Mile Sector Near Saar

At Least Six German Divisions of 60,000 Men Repulsed in Two Attacks—"Our Fire Stopped the Enemy" Staff Reports

HALTED NEAR APACH

By HENRY CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Paris, Oct. 17—(AP)— A German offensive along a 20-mile sector east of the Saar River has broken down, the French reported today, in the face of devastating Maginot Line fire.

At least six German Divisions were known to have taken part in the offensive yesterday in two attacks, one of which carried 100 yards into French territory, military dispatches said. Allied army authorities estimated the strength of each Division to be at least 10,000 men.

"Our fire stopped the enemy," the French General Staff announced after explaining advanced French outposts had been drawn back to prepared defensive positions in the face of the advancing German.

Halted North of Apach

Military sources said the German Army threw a full Division into its first assault yesterday morning on a four-mile sector in the Moselle River Valley. This thrust pushed forward 1 1-2 miles and then across the border 100 yards into the French village of Apach, near the Luxembourg border. Blocked by a curtain of French artillery and machine-gun fire, the German mass halted north of Apach.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Weather for the amateur! Many who take a lively interest in the weather feel that instruments are essential, but there are many kinds of observations suitable to different tastes which can be made without instruments. Optical phenomena like mirages, rainbows, haloes coronas, lightning and visibility effects; phenological data such as the date of appearance and disappearance of insects and birds, time of flowering of certain plants and of harvests; destructive effects by rain or snow, lightning, wind, frost; all may be noted and described. Those who have a knack for drawing or photography may use these means to make illuminating additions to their weather diaries.

IRON CROSSES FOR OFFICERS, CREW

Submarine Crew Awarded for Bravery in Recent Raid at Scapa Flow

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Berlin, Oct. 17 —(AP)— Commander Prien and the crew of his submarine which sank the British battleship Royal Oak Saturday and claimed to have torpedoed the battle cruiser Repulse were awarded Iron Crosses today for their exploits.

It was announced they arrived today at an unnamed harbor and that Grand Admiral Erich Raeder hurried there to extend the Reich's congratulations.

Adolf Hitler also elevated Commodore Koenig, Commander of the German Submarine Fleet, to the rank of Rear Admiral.

Winston Churchill, Britain's First Lord of the Admiralty, authorized sources said, would "in such form as the German Supreme High Command thinks suitable" be acquainted with photographs of bombing activity in the Firth of Forth taken yesterday by German fliers.

Those sources asked whether Churchill would dare deny the extent of the damages inflicted in the light of incontrovertible proof said to be in German possession.

Automobile is in Collision With Passenger Train Near Valcartier Camp

Quebec, Oct. 17 (CP)—Sylvio Desaulniers and Roland Cummings, both of Quebec, were killed instantly today and two companions were injured when their car was automobile in which they were riding collided with a Canadian National Railways passenger train at a level crossing near Valcartier Camp, about twenty-one miles northwest of here.

Ernest Pelletier and Albert Paradis are under treatment in the Jeffery Hamment Hospital here. Doctors described Pelletier's condition as "critical."

The party was travelling from Quebec to Donnacona to the Dominion Government Arsenal at Valcartier, where Cummings held a civilian contract for painting work. Cuay, Pelletier and Paradis were painters in the employ.

All but Paradis, whose address was given as Levis, Que., across the St. Lawrence River from here, were residents of Quebec City.

FOUND GRAVELY WOUNDED NEAR BURNING HOUSE

Hamilton, Oct. 17—(CP)—Frank Tobin, 62-year-old farmer, was found gravely wounded with a shotgun charge in his abdomen outside his burning house yesterday, underwent an operation in hospital here today.

How the fire in the house started is still clouded in doubt. The shotgun was found under debris of a bed in the house.

Novocaine Injections Cause Quick Recovery From Sprains

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

Philadelphia, Oct. 17 (AP)—A quick, simple cure for sprained ankles and knees was reported today to the American College of Surgeons.

Novocaine is injected close to the site of the sprain. It relieves the pain of moving the joint and at the same time helps bring the tissues to recover quickly.

The sprained part is bandaged tightly and, instead of being ordered to bed to rest, the patient is told to get up and walk around. Where the hypodermic treatment is used for sprains, patients get well in two or three days in cases when the ankle or knee could not be used for two weeks by the usual orthopaedic treatments.

In 125 of these sprains reported at the hospital of the University of Pennsylvania but two or three recovered speedily.

The new treatment is apparently useful for the large class of sprains where ligaments are not torn, but only stretched and loosened.

Surgeons who discussed this treatment said that ligaments are torn they prefer the old rest treatment. The use of novocaine for sprains originated in France. It has been given a year's trial at the University of Pennsylvania hospital.

Sam Browne Belt Worn by Officers To be Abolished

Ottawa, Oct. 17 (CP)—The "Sam Browne Belt," long one of the marks of rank in the British armies is being abolished, at least for the duration of the war, it was learned on authoritative and warrant officers and consists of a broad leather belt around the waist with a diagonal strap passing over the right shoulder.

A new dress regulation abolishes the shoulder strap for all officers except those in mounted units. For the time being officers may wear the belt provided the Sam Browne but new officers need not.

Instead they will wear a cloth belt of the same khaki shade as uniforms, much like the belts worn in the Royal Air Force except that they will be detachable. The Air Force cloth belts are attached to the jackets.

Pardon Deserters Of Regular Force On Conditions

Ottawa, Oct. 17—(CP)—Deserters from the Permanent Force are pardoned on condition they surrender and re-enlist in the Canadian Active Service Force, before the end of November, Department of Defence Department announced today.

An official statement said:

"By order-in-council, No. P. C. 2083, dated Oct. 11, 1939, His Excellency the Governor General has been pleased to grant pardons to those men of the Permanent Force who, on the 10th September, 1939, were in a state of desertion from that force and who, on or before the 30th November, 1939, surrender themselves in Canada and re-enlist for service in the Canadian Active Service Force. Such indulgence, however, is not to extend to men who are undergoing imprisonment for other than military offences."

Press Comment of German Papers Shows Elation on Account Given to German People

Berlin, Oct. 17 (AP)—Attacks on the British navy apparently have become the latest Nazi strategy.

German bombers made a surprise raid yesterday on the British naval base at Rosyth, Scotland, on the Firth of Forth and an army announcement claimed the airmen dropped bombs on two British cruisers. The communique said two pursuit planes which roared up to give battle had been shot down and placed German losses at "two planes missing."

Von Ribbentrop's Activities Probed by Gestapo, Report

Story from Antwerp to London Paper Says Hitler Abandons Attack Through Holland

ADVICE OF GENERALS

London, Oct. 17 (AP)—Chancellor Hitler has ordered his secret police to make a detailed report on the private activities of the Reich Foreign Minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, the Daily Herald reported today in a dispatch from Antwerp.

Von Ribbentrop is generally regarded as chiefly responsible for the Nazi friendship with Russia.

He is also said to have persuaded Hitler that Britain would not resist a Nazi invasion of Poland.

The Fuehrer's instructions to the Gestapo, the Herald dispatch said, followed a request by high army officers for information on the Foreign Minister's activities since he returned at the end of September for from his second visit to Moscow.

The army men were said to have asked if Von Ribbentrop had made any part in Moscow's "agreement" with the Baltic States.

The dispatch added that Hitler has decided, "on the advice of army generals," to abandon plans "prepared by Air Marshal Herman Goering for an attack on France through Holland and Switzerland."

The Herald's Antwerp correspondent said this new "filtered through Belgium from Berlin."

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

While increased German activity on the French front may be a prelude to a major offensive, overseas despatches indicate the Allies are not overlooking the possibility of a surprise blow in some other quarters. The German advance in the Moselle Valley Monday may be a prelude to wider and heavier attacks on French lines or just a ruse to attract attention while the big surprise stroke is launched.

Whatever progress an offensive along the French border might make it would lack the element of surprise which is desirable in any initial attack. It is said that heavily fortified area the French troops are ready for anything.

The possibility of a German march to the sea through Holland as a big surprise move has not been overlooked by the Allies. Concentrations of German troops around Dusseldorf, Essen, Cologne and Coblenz, back of the Dutch border lend support to the theory entertained by some war observers that Holland may suffer the fate meted out to Belgium in the first Great War.

In Better Position

Control of the Dutch coast would put Germany's submarine and air froces in a much better striking position than now. Belgium might or might not agree to the movement of French troops across its territory but the refusal to assist Belgian consent to such a movement were obtained quickly Germany's fast moving armies might be well on their way to the coast before French troops would be in a position to attack them.

Great Britain, of course, could send troops to Holland by sea, but that would involve complicated land and naval operations that have always been costly and of questionable value.

A German push through Holland would probably involve the greatest air battle in history, a definite test of strength between the Allied and German air arms. While measures to assist Holland on land were being completed the Allies would certainly employ their aircraft to harass the German advance. Similarly German air forces would be turned loose to resist the landing of British troops in Holland. In each case the aircraft supporting the ground forces could be expected to carry the battle into the air and attempt to drive off the opposing bombers.

Moscow, Oct. 17—(AP)—Protracted negotiations between Soviet Russia and Turkey came to at least a temporary halt today with the announced intention of Turkey's Foreign Minister, Sukru Saracoglu, to leave Moscow tonight.

Saracoglu has been in Moscow nearly a month discussing with Soviet leaders problems in connection with the Black Sea and its outlet, the Dardanelles.

Turkish officials said Saracoglu would hold no further talks either with Joseph Stalin or Vyacheslav Molotoff before his departure.

Battleship Royal Oak Sunk While Riding at Anchor Churchill Tells House Today

Lord of Admiralty Estimates One-Third to One-Quarter of Total U-Boat Fleet of Germany Has Been Destroyed

13 U-BOATS SUNK

Prime Minister Said Four Planes Took Part in Raid and Two Bombs Fell Near Iron Duke Damaging Training Ship Slightly

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Oct. 17 (C.P. Cable) — The German air force struck again today at one of Britain's naval depots, raiding Scapa Flow in Scotland and damaging the training ship Iron Duke. One of the Nazi skyraiders was shot down and another damaged, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons.

The Prime Minister's announcement came a few minutes after Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, disclosed the Battleship Royal Oak was torpedoed by a German U-boat while riding at anchor at Scapa Flow in the early morning of October 14. How the submarine penetrated the defences of the harbor is a mystery and an Admiralty board of inquiry has been appointed.

There were no casualties aboard the Iron Duke.

Encouraging Figures

Mr. Churchill gave the House encouraging figures on the campaign against submarines. He estimated that "from a third to a quarter of the total U-boat fleet of Germany has been destroyed" and added that "nothing like this rate of destruction was attained in the last war."

In the first six weeks of the present struggle, he said, "we may estimate that 13 U-boats have been sunk, five seriously damaged and possibly sunk and several others damaged." The total of four submarines were sunk, including two of the large ocean-going type.

Speaking of today's raid, Mr. Chamberlain said four planes took part and that "two bombs fell very near H.M.S. Iron Duke and the ship sustained certain damage."

The Iron Duke is an old battleship which was launched during the London Naval Treaty of 1930 and which has since been removed. She has since been used for depot and training ship purposes.

Fighters Observers

"One (German) aircraft was shot down in flames by fire of either the ship or shore defences, and two more probably shot damaged," the Prime Minister said.

The Royal Oak, Iron Duke, built in 1912, was the flagship of Lord Jellicoe in the last war. Scapa Flow is the Orkney Island naval base where German crews raided the German fleet during the Versailles Peace Conference.

New Type Lung Operation Causes No Chest Deformity

Philadelphia, Oct. 17 (AP)—A surgical operation which removes a whole lung with little risk and no chest deformity afterward was reported to the American College of Surgeons here today.

The first person who lost a lung this way, a middle-aged Pittsburg physician, is still alive and his wind is better than that of many of his colleagues of equal age. Children who were reduced to one lung by the new method are playing the usual athletic games as well as their two-lung companions.

The remaining lung has expanded to fill most of the space left vacant. The operation saves lives in cancer of the lung, which forms one ten per cent of all cancer and which was, until a short time ago, regarded as hopeless.

The new operation was originated by Dr. Evarts A. Graham of Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, and professor of surgery at Washington University, St. Louis.

This operation preserves the ribs completely. Two or three ribs are divided to the making an opening into the chest. Later they are sewn together and soon unite. Then the muscles are often disappear, Dr. Graham says.

The first operation was performed seven years ago.

Since then, Dr. Graham said, several hundred have been performed over all the world.

Blood transfusion is given during the operation. This process already formerly the cause of high death rates in chest operations.

Dr. Graham said that in enlarging to take over the extra work the remaining lung probably does not grow more tissue, but that its capillaries expand. It appears, he said, that man normally is supplied with more lung tissue than he needs.

REPEAL TO BRING WAR TO OUR DOORS SAYS SEN. WALSH

Senator Walsh Says U. S. Should Spend Time Observing Strict Neutrality

HISTORY REPEATING

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—Senator Walsh (Dem.-Massachusetts), told the United States Senate today that repeal of the arms embargo might bring the war "right to our front door" with submarines and warplanes operating off the American coast to sink munitionladen ships.

Walsh, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, took the floor at the opening of debate today on the Roosevelt administration's neutrality legislation to urge that the United States efforts be directed toward building up its armed strength and preserving its strict neutrality.

"Instead of spending time and energy adopting legislation, which will mark us as unneutral and perhaps involve the world, destroy our moral influence as neutrals, and ultimately surely involve us," he declared, "we should be giving our attention to building up a strong impregnable defence, an army, navy, and air force greater than any in the world, a system of national defence embodying an enlarged army and navy, adequate coastal fortifications, anti-aircraft guns with proper range, and organizations and ensure complete protection against any overzealous activities on the part of the chaos and disorder of Europe and Asia."

Coast Guard Finds No Sign of Wreckage

Kristiansand, Norway, Oct. 17 — (AP)—A Norwegian coast guard ship dispatched to investigate a fire and explosions at sea reported early today it found no sign of a stricken ship or survivors.

Inhabitants of the southern Norwegian coast waited for daylight perhaps to disclose the reason for a mysterious blaze and a fire which burned from 10 o'clock last night (4 p.m., Monday, E.S.T.) until about 2 a.m. today, about four miles off Hellesoy Light.

Coastal observers at Augland said the series of explosions and the fire started after a tanker might have been stricken. The playing of search lights by a vessel beyond the fire appeared to some to have come from a warship, but others said it might have been from a passenger liner previously seen in the area.

PLANE IS FOUND ABANDONED ON PICKEREL RIVER

J. Farrendon of Timmins Arrested After Clue Given by Amateur Detective

PLANE TOTAL LOSS

Sudbury, Oct. 17.—(CP)—An amateur detective is credited today with bringing about the arrest of a suspect in the theft of an airplane from Sudbury Airport yesterday.

George Tucker of Pickerel River, where the stolen plane was found wrecked last night, gave food to a man who said he had been lost in the bush. Tucker became suspicious and when the man left left an notified Provincial Police.

Suspicion Aroused

The man whose talk aroused Tucker's suspicions left to catch a mixed freight- train going south. Tucker furnished a full description of the man to Inspector A. R. Knight of the Provincial Police, and Police later picked off the train a man giving the name of Joseph Farrendon of Timmins.

Pilot Phil Saure returned today from Pickerel River to report that the plane was nearly a total loss, and is almost entirely submerged in the river.

Provincial Police here understood that a somewhat similar attempt to steal a plane occurred recently at Kirkland Lake.

The plane stolen from Sudbury yesterday was abandoned later in the day by the thief, who was found hoping the plane would depart the Airport watchman here.

SUDBURY, Ont., Oct. 17.—(CP)—Authorities today awaited the arrival here of police with a man taken into custody at Parry Sound following the theft and abandonment of an airplane from the Lake Ramsey air base of Austin Airways. The man, said to answer the description of the armed airman who stole the plane, will be questioned. His name was not given out.

Fancy Dress Banned in Army During War

Ottawa, Oct. 17 (CP)—Fancy dress has been banned from the Canadian Army for the duration of the war. Under an order announced today it is directed that full dress, undress and mess dress will not be worn by officers on any occasion.

So the scarlet mess-jackets, the neat blue undress uniforms and colorful dress uniforms on occasion will not be put in mothballs. The khaki service dress or the new battle dress will be worn at all times except that officers on leave may wear plain clothes as all ranks at their stations may wear plain clothes for athletic exercises. The wearing of orders, decorations and medals also will cease but the ribands of orders, decorations and medals may be worn on the service dress and the battle dress.

AUTUMN'S HEAVIEST FROST TWO WEEKS LATER THAN USUAL

Although the frost of last Sunday was one of the heaviest initial strokes of Old Man Winter in years, at this time, farmers and gardeners of the district took consolation in the fact that it was the latest to arrive in a considerable period of time.

Tomato crops were harvested practically one hundred percent in the majority of producing districts, a fishing farmer said today at the city market.

This year's black frost arrived approximately two weeks after the usual time for its appearance, consequently farmers were able to get the most of their perishable crops harvested," was his opinion.

6 SPECIAL POLICE ARRIVE IN CITY

Six additional Special Provincial Police Constables arrived in Belleville late yesterday and reported to Inspector Frank Gardner, O.P.P., Headquarters No. 8, for special guard duty bringing the special O.P.P. strength in this district to 15 constables. One special O.P.P. officer will be placed in charge of the veteran guards now stationed to guard electric power plants and sub stations throughout the Belleville area. The names of the new officers were given as Constables— T. C. Stamp, P. J. Carroll, H. S. Hutchison, W. F. Irwin, A. Koster and E. B. Hicks. The new men were dispatched from Provincial Police Headquarters at Toronto to Belleville.

MARKET QUIET

With Sunday's damaging frost taking heavy toll of plant and vegetable life of the city and district, the city market was void of anything but productive of a variable offering.

Tomatoes were scarce, as was expected, with prices rising sharply to thirty cents the basket. Crops have been entirely obliterated by the frost, vendors reported.

Northern Spy and other varieties of winter apples with a few staple vegetables formed the main attractions. Spies, Tolman Sweets, Delicious, Reds were offered at one dollar the hamper. Flemish Beauty pears sold at forty cents the basket, while blue and white grapes were offered at twenty and twenty-five cents the basket.

A few eggs were available at forty cents the dozen.

WILD GEESE SEEN FLYING TO SOUTH

Flying high in the air, in "v" formation like a squadron of raiding planes, the large flocks of wild geese were noticed travelling in a southerly direction on yesterday afternoon.

The birds flew on a straight line and would not have been noticed had it not been for their ominous honking as they travelled high over the city.

DESERONTO GIRL INJURED BY CAR

Fourteen-year-old Eleanor McCabe of Deseronto was knocked down and injured while crossing the road in Napanee during the progress of a fire Sunday. The little girl ran directly in front of a car driven by Dr. T. H. Galbraith, when with Dr. Willoughby rendered first aid. She was taken to Kingston General Hospital.

INITIAL SNOW STORM OF SEASON SEEN

The sudden drop in the temperature resulted in the season's initial snow storm, seen in Belleville today. The snow that fell melted as fast as it dropped upon coming to earth, but the soft white flakes were quite discernible as they floated down from a cloud-covered sky. Heavy frosts have been reported throughout the city and district during the past few nights, but reports of farmers attending the mid-week city market today stated no damage had resulted to crops, which for the greater part have been gathered in to the granaries and root cellars of the farming area.

ALBERT COLLEGE GRIDDERS LOSE TO TRENTON H. S.

In their initial six-man senior O.S.S.A. rugby football game in the Bay of Quinte group, the Albert College gridders were defeated 21 to 8 by the Trenton High School squad on the latter's grounds yesterday. The game developed into roughness and many of the injuries to several Albert College players, reports from Trenton stated today. Jack Ruddy, quarterback, sustained a dislocated shoulder and will be out of the game for two or three weeks. As he plays on the 12-man team, his absence will be keenly felt in the Albert lineup. The summary of the Bay of Quinte senior Interscholastic six-man football group now reads:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Trenton H.S.	1	0	0	2
O.S.D.	0	0	1	1
Belleville C.I.	0	0	1	1

ALBERT CARMAN, JOURNALIST, DIES AT AGE OF 74

Editor-in-Chief of Montreal Star Was Born in Belleville

SON OF DR. CARMAN

Montreal, Oct. 17 (CP)—Death has ended more than a half-century's newspaper work for Albert Richardson Carman, whose writings were known far more widely than was his name.

Mr. Carman, editor-in-chief of the Montreal Daily Star, died at his home here last night after a brief illness. He was 74 years old, and two years ago celebrated the Golden Jubilee of his entry in the journalistic field.

But so great was his antipathy towards the public limelight that about the same way as he worked through his editorial columns of rear—he remained behind the scenes while newspapers throughout Canada paid tribute to him. He did accept an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from McGill University, and he considered that more than any other mark the half-century milestone in his career.

Seldom Appeared in Public

A kindly, quiet man, he seldom appeared in public and probably wrote as many words anonymously as any newspaperman in Canada.

Son of a Methodist minister, Mr. Carman joined the staff of the old Toronto Globe as a cub reporter in 1887. That was the start of a varied journalistic life that eventually brought him to the Montreal Star, under the late Lord Atholstan, in 1895. In that year, he once wrote, "I came to do" the House of Commons "beat" for the Star.

Born at Belleville, Ont., February 8, 1865, the son of Rev. Dr. Carman who served for years as general superintendent of the Methodist Church, young Carman made his way to Toronto and obtained a post as cub on the Globe. Because of his father's affiliation with the church, the son became known to his confreres as "Bish" or

"A year before he became a "cub" Carman was married to Harriet Gertrude Walker of Belleville, who survives him.

Of his career at the Globe, he once wrote that it was "short, unimportant, but very pleasant in retrospect."

Published Two Novels

But his work was not confined to the newspaper field. He published at least two novels, The Prepossessing Mr. Inverarity and "The Pensionaires." A staunch student and upholder of Imperialism in his youth, he described as being of "serious political import", on "The Ethics of Imperialism."

Carman, himself, however, considered the best and "serious" effort, and he never hesitated to express himself in this regard. Numerous articles, by him were published in British, United States and Canadian magazines and reviews.

Private funeral services will be held in Toronto but arrangements have not been completed.

Captain Billy Myers of the Reds is used to fame. In seven minor league seasons he was on the all-star teams seven times.

R. M. A. Discusses Christmas Sale Project

Coverage of the city and district through the medium of daily newspaper advertising to precede a Christmas sale was a subject of lengthy discussion at the regular meeting of the Belleville Retail Merchants' Association held in the Y.M.C.A. last night.

Contact with practically every home in the county was mooted by various members, through the medium of a special newspaper edition which will supplement the ordinary news editions that daily cover this section of the county. A committee of two was appointed to investigate the possibilities of the plan.

The Christmas sale, it was suggested by various members, would be one of the seasonal events to be conducted in the future. Suggestions that similar sales be held monthly or bi-monthly met with strong opposition from the majority of those present. It was felt that weather conditions it was felt would be the launching of such events at these periods would not be productive of any appreciative volume of business.

Other items of business included the decision to purchase and deposit a wreath on the Memorial Cenotaph, Station Street on November 11th; a request to the city council that the street-lighting decorations be illuminated during the month of December, and the suggestion that weekly band concerts be discontinued.

Evangelist Urges Prayer, Co-operation

Rev. H. L. Stephens, Conducting Two Weeks' Services at Alliance Tabernacle, Speaks on Needs in Present War Situation

A large and interested congregation was present last night to hear an address given by Rev. H. L. Stephens, the Canadian Evangelist at the Alliance Tabernacle where special services are being held for two weeks. Mr. Stephens conducted large and successful tent meetings in August of 1936 which, it is recalled by hundreds from the town and for many miles around. After a brief song service the Rev. Mr. Stephens took the pastor, Mr. Stephens took charge and said in part: "I am very glad to be in the City of Belleville once more and look into the faces of many who attended the services which it was my privilege to conduct three years ago. We are engaged in another war, but the present moment the conflict is between Germany on the one hand and England and France on the other, but before long other countries may enter the conflict. The present situation calls for definite co-operation on the part of everyone and much prayer. In the last great war, General Haig sent a word to England and said: "Our backs are against the wall, there is no retreat; let everyone pray for deliverance and victory and all England and Scotland got on their knees in prayer and victory came. We find such conflicts recorded in the Bible but the victories are always given when Israel, God's special people, looked to the God of heaven for help. Elijah, the great prophet, stood in a time of terrible spiritual declension and the people were worshipping the local deity sun and moon, but with the real leadership of King Ahab and his wife Jezebel, who were doing their best to challenge their false prophets to a test. Elijah called down from heaven to prove that God was the only true one to worship. Down came the fire from heaven and the records of marvelous men who stood in the gap made to repentance and sin, and God heard their prayers and saved the nations. We need such men as John Knox, Wesley, Luther, Finney, Edwards, Moody and Torrey, men who were mightily used in great revivals to save nations and lead led the people on in victory."

REV. H. L. STEPHENS,

Special addresses will be given every night at 8 p.m. and every citizen is invited to attend.

District Supervisor Of V. O. N. Attends Local Meeting

Miss Ferguson, district supervisor of the Victorian Order of Nurses, attended the regular meeting of the local committee last evening and gave a very interesting address on the work of the Order. Miss Ferguson explained the high standard maintained by the Belleville nurses, pointing to Miss Secular as one of the finest in the Order.

Miss Ferguson counselled the members not to be discouraged by the trying times ahead. Often in such periods, she pointed out, the community is more keenly aroused and interested in their less privileged neighbours is shown by co-operation with the V.O.N.

Mr. Percy McGuire, who was in the chair in the absence of the president, thanked Miss Ferguson for her address. Mr. R. Hart, chairman of the membership campaign, reported on progress so far, and the members were most gratified by the splendid response of the citizens to the annual appeal.

SHORT SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT

Motion to Have By-Law on Daylight Saving Put to People Defeated

COMMITTEES NAMED

A motion "Are you in favor of having by-law put to the people on Daylight Saving?" introduced by Ald. A. M. Kennedy was voted down at the regular session of the City Council held on Monday by a close margin. Ald. Kennedy was given the suspension of the rules to introduce the motion but on the vote which was six to five, the motion was lost. The business of the meeting was transacted in short order although some considerable time was spent in the committee room. The Mayor and members of the Council were quite jubilant and expect big things industrially in this city in the near future months. His Worship has been in touch with Lord Riverdale, chief British director and in charge of that branch for the British government in Canada and has been given assurance that when the organization in control of Belleville will be sent some work to help finish the war. "Belleville is well equipped to handle it," said His Worship Boss, "and we will have the hearty co-operation of all industry in Belleville. A close connection with the Industrial Office in Ottawa will be kept by the Chamber of Commerce and the City Council.

Committees Appointed

Mayor Bone, Aldermen Logan and Mullins were appointed as a committee to confer with the Chamber of Commerce to form an Industrial Committee for the city. In conjunction to push forward the matter of the Belleville Industrial city. A rebate of $2,746.46 on the street lighting on the Bridge over the Moira by the Hydro Electric Power Commission and gratefully acknowledged. Secretary Ontario Cheesemakers' Association will be given the same privileges as last year according to Ald. Thomas Cushing, Chairman of Market and City Property Committee queried by Ald. Lewis. Ald. Cushing stated that everything had been agreed to in the estimates and the use of the various rooms in the City Hall building had been freely given. "We are willing to assist in every way possible to make the Quinte Cheese exhibit a success," said Ald. Cushing.

Question is Asked

A piece of property 81 by 81 Canniff Street sold to A. W. Carmichael for the sum of $150 and the by-law authorizing same and deed to Richard Cornell for a piece of property already purchased from the city. Under the head of inquiries, Ald. Kennedy asked if the Public Utilities Commission was going to conduct its own business. Ald. Lewis replied that the Commission was going to conduct its own business. Ald. Kennedy supposed we would have the Solicitor's opinion on the question.

Ald. Haig "I will have the Solicitor, who is in adjoining room give his opinion."

The Solicitor told the council "that the Aldermen could be paid mileage allowance if such charge was proven."

Ald. Kennedy—Will Alderman Lewis sold to the Board of Education goods amounting to $395.43 and he has rendered two bills to the Utilities.

Ald. Lewis "This is just one more act of a contemptible person."

Ald. Kennedy "Ald. Lewis appeared before the Board of Education in respect to some business and was given a "Walking Down" by Mr. Tom Bennett, principal of the Collegiate Institute."

Ald. Lewis "I was treated most respectfully by the Board of Education when I appeared last March before the Board and with the exception of a mild remark by Mr. Bennett in, I was given a fair hearing." The discussion closed with no action being taken.

Those present at the meeting were Mayor Bone, Aldermen Haig, Thompson, Logan, Butler, Jeffery, Allin, Marshall, Harvey, Cushing, Mullins and Lewis with Ald. Kennedy in the chair for the committees of the whole and by-laws.

OBITUARY

LATE MRS. NANCY SINE
(Sidney Township)

The funeral of the late Mrs. Nancy Sine was held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. DaFoe, Sixth Line of Sidney, on Wednesday, Oct. 11, at two p.m. Rev. Mr. Cook officiated and interment was made in the Sine cemetery.

The late Mrs. Nancy Sine was the last of a family of nine. She had spent her whole life on the Sixth Line, being born on the upper sixth ninety-three years ago last March. Her father was Caleb Dafoe and Laney Sharpe. When five years old she with her parents moved to the farm on the lower sixth now owned by Percy DaFoe. When twenty years old she married Stephen Sine on the next farm and resided there for over fifty years. They resided in Frankford from 1917 coming back to the homestead's a few years after her husband's death in 1924.

Three daughters, Mrs. Elvina and Beatrice and one son Raymond as well as her husband predeceased her.

Up until her 91st birthday she was a regular attendant at church and though her failing eyesight was a handicap she still enjoyed helping with light household tasks.

Since then her general health began to fail and the last two years have been spent in bed.

She leaves to mourn her loss one daughter, Mrs. DaFoe and one son Perry of Frankford and two grandchildren, Grant and Ross Lott.

The bearers were Grant Lott, Ross Lott, Ross DaFoe, Wilfred Badgley Vernon Bush, Carman Frost.

First Form Students Stage a Short Play

On Monday afternoon the first form students of the Belleville Collegiate Institute put on a short play, "The Slippers of Cinderella," in the auditorium. The play was produced under the direction of Miss Loretta Stark one of the senior students and considering the brief time divoted to the staging of the play, those who attended considered that it was exceptionally well done. The cast of the play follows:

BERLIN BANS BOOKS

Berlin, Oct. 17—(AP)—A ban on "Through Embassy Eyes", a book by Martha Dodd, daughter of the former United States Ambassador to Berlin, William Dodd, was published today in the Official Gazette. Banned at the same time was "Secret Armies", by John L. Spivak, an American.

JEWISH REFUGEES NOW IN RUSSIA'S NEW HOLDINGS

Move Out of German-Occupied Polish Territory to Escape Persecution

POLES STILL FIGHT

Propaganda Campaign for Approval at a Plebiscite of Annexation of Polish Ukraine

(By Witt Hancock, Associated Press Staff Writer.)

MOSCOW, Oct. 17.—(AP)—An increasing flood of Jewish refugees from German-occupied Polish territory into Soviet Russia's new holdings was reported today.

Meanwhile, some parts of the Polish army were understood to be still fighting a guerilla campaign lurking in the woods and marshes of eastern Poland and donning the uniforms of Soviet soldiers killed from ambush.

There were numerous unofficial reports of the stream of Jewish refugees from the German side of the new boundary, estimated already to total 500,000 to 1,000,000 for example, the population of Bialystok (Belostok), on the Russian side of the line, normally 100,000, is said to be nearly doubled. (Vilna), which in Polish days was gave back to Lithuania, was also said to be jammed with refugee Jews.

Received Cordially

Russians here say the Red army is receiving the Jews cordially and providing work for them. As a native population, however, is said to be found that spies accompany the refugees and to be receiving them with suspicion. The future status of the wanderers remained unsettled.

In the absence of developments on diplomatic front with regard to the Finnish and Turkish negotiations, Russia was conducting a propaganda campaign for approval at a plebiscite Sunday of her annexation of the Polish Ukraine and White Russian territory.

It was understood there were simultaneous steps against outspoken opponents of Soviet regime in the occupied territories, despite official assurances however, that the vote would be fair and free.

Status of the Russo-Turkish negotiations remained clouded in conflicting rumors and official silence.

Delay Only Temporary?

Some foreign circles gave credence to a report that an unexpected snag had prevented signing of an agreement, but that this delay might be only temporary.

Sukru Saracoglu, the Turkish foreign minister, conferred at the Kremlin for two hours today. He was reported in Istanbul Sunday night to have stalled at first over big concessions to Russian influence in the Balkans. In Bucharest it was said that Grigore Gafencu, Rumanian foreign minister, would meet Saracoglu as soon as he left Moscow.

In the Baltic area, where Russia has expanded her influence through Soviet bases in Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, negotiations with Finland ended time. It was said that Dr. John Kusti Paasikivi, the Finnish envoy, probably would not return here until late this week. Paasikivi returned yesterday to Helsingfors to consult his government. Tass, the Soviet news agency, announced signing of the 1938-40 agreement between Lithuania and Russia, intended to double trade between the two countries.

AFFIDAVIT FILED AT WASHINGTON BY EVANSTON MAN

Gustav A. Anderson Questions Officer as Saying Guns for Quebec Carried on Athenia

QUOTES SEAMAN

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)— An affidavit saying the liner Athenia sank September 3 enroute to New York, carried coast defence guns for Canada and was to be armed after completing its trip, has been filed at the United States Department of State by Gustav A. Anderson of Evanston, Ill. a travel bureau operator. He is described as a passenger on the Athenia.

The affidavit was drawn on the basis of questions by three Congressmen Francis H. Case (Republican, South Dakota), Overton (Dem.-Louisiana) and Walter M. Pierce (Democrat, Oregon).

Anderson said his statements were based on information from Chief Officer Copeland of the Athenia. He quoted the officer as saying there were "plenty" of guns on the ship for coast defences at Halifax and Quebec.

(Stephen Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, said at the time of the sinking the Athenia apparently was not carrying munitions.

"At this point on," he said, "that according to official information that ship was carrying any munitions, which is not the kind.")

'No Guns in Sight Outside'

The affidavit said:

"Congressman Case: Have you any knowledge whether the Athenia carried guns or ammunition on that trip?

"Anderson: There were no guns in sight outside.

"Congressman Brooks: "Were there any guns inside that you know of?

"Anderson: I believe there was. I talked to the chief officer and I asked him, 'are there guns here?' He said they were in the hold and there were plenty on board.

"Congressman Price: "What did he say they were for?

"Anderson: He said they were to be used for coast defence for Halifax and Quebec.

"Pierce: Did he say she was fitted out as a raider?

Asked Search

"Anderson: He said they were to be used as guns on a raider for her return trip.

"Brooks: Did you see any guns?

"Anderson: I was looking down the hold and talking with one of the seamen loading cargo. I asked, 'What's that, the guns?' and he said 'yes'.

"Brooks: What did you have reference to?

"Anderson: The stuff down in the hold. There was a canvas or tarpaulin covering it.

"Pierce: Could you form any idea as to the size of the guns?

"Anderson: I could not form any idea as to size. But the guns under the tarpaulin formed a huge pile.

"Pierce: Had you any knowledge as to whether the Germans knew the Athenia had guns?

"Anderson: No. But there was a rumor to that effect.

"Brooks: Did you see any indications that the Athenia was equipped to carry guns?

Could Have Heavy Braces.

"Anderson: She was reinforced with heavy beams and braces.

"Brooks: Did you discuss the reasons with Officer Copeland for these braces and beams?

"Anderson: Everybody knew it, everybody on board knew it. Some time last year after the Munich conference she was fitted out as a raider.

Anderson's affidavit is one of several filed under oath by the State Department from passengers aboard the Athenia. The department is seeking to ascertain responsibility for the sinking in which 28 Americans lost their lives.

An official said today he did not know whether any other passenger had given testimony concerning guns.

NOT NECESSARY

Toronto, Oct. 17. (CP)— Ample power resources of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission will make it unnecessary to "ration" electrical energy as was done in the last three years, T. L. Houck, vice-chairman of the Commission said today.

"It is conceivable that the time might come when we would have to ration power but it is highly improbable," Mr Houck said. "We are well ahead of the demand now and we intend to do our best to keep ahead."

The only possible curtailment of deliveries will be in the supply of secondary loads, officials of the Hydro Radial system said. Primary power or "off peak" is supplied now at a cheap rate for non-essential purposes. In other words the Hydro uses all the power it receives and as the primary load increases the secondary load is curtailed. "It was emphasized that no "rationing" could be foreseen under existing conditions.

WILL RESUME WHEAT BUYING

Ottawa, Oct. 17 (CP)—British buying of Canadian wheat, lacking since the war started, will be resumed as a result of a new understanding between the British Cereals Authority and the Canadian Wheat Board and between the two governments, it was reported here today.

8 DUCK HUNTERS FEARED DEAD IN NORTH LAKES

Bodies of Three Already Taken from Lake Late on Monday Night

BOATS ARE FOUND

(By The Canadian Press)

Search parties scoured lake-dotted wilderness in two sections of Northwestern Ontario and in the Rouyn, Que. district today for eight persons missing on hunting expeditions and feared drowned. Bodies of three hunters have been taken from lakes.

Following the finding of an overturned skiff at Lake Dessarat, 14 miles west of Rouyn, yesterday, bodies of Cyrill Guest of Waite-Amulet mines, formerly of Toronto and Stanley Moore of Noranda mines, were found in the lake last night. Missing are Armos Corbeil and Henry Gadbois, employees of Guest and Moore on a hunting expedition. The search began after they failed to return Sunday from their trip. Police said they feared Corbeil, 27, and Lion also drowned.

The body of George Malcolm, 37, was found in a lake near the Canoe Falls power station on the Ippiqua River, 25 miles east of Cochrane after from where he and six companions, Griffith Hawkins, 37, and Ed. Christenson, 32, are also feared drowned. A search party organized Saturday when they failed to return. Hawkins' body was borne up by a lifebelt, was found by Provincial police and a party from Winnipeg are searching bush country and waters in the vicinity of Ingolf, 100 miles east of Winnipeg, for trace of Bob and Stewart Ogilvie, brothers, and Mrs. and Mrs. H. R. Escott, all of Winnipeg. Their overturned canoe was found in Long Lake, near Ingolf, yesterday after the four did not return when expected from a hunting trip. A storm swept the area Sunday and the canoe, laden with hunting equipment and powered by an outboard motor, is feared to have been swamped in the storm. Although the four are believed drowned, searchers hold hopes they reached shore and were in the bush country.

Warring Nations' Allowances Vary

New York (CP)—Government allowances in Great Britain, France and Germany for those who stay at home, while the breadwinner is on war duty, are worlds apart.

Great Britain—55 cents a day for the wife; 16 1-2 cents for one child; 11 cents each for the wife; 7½ cents for one child.

The figures for Germany are based on a nominal rate of exchange between the mark and the Canadian dollar and bear little reference to the purchasing power of the German mark. High prices and scarcity of foodstuffs in the Reich lessen the value of money.

Say about Mosby's Tonic will be of interest to every one who suffers. His detailed statement reads:

Rheumatic Pains in Arms, Hands and Limbs.

"If anybody in this world ever had what could be called 100 miles and then I would have quit. Mr. Marion said. "I was down in bed with it, and for three months rheumatic pains were simply ALL AROUND ME. I could not raise my arms above my shoulder. The pain in my hands and fingers was so bad that I could not even hold a pencil with which to write. I was terribly upset and my bowels were constipated.

"I had taken medicine for it but it never, until I was discouraged. For never, until I was discouraged. For three months I suffered agonies. I got so that I would not even shave myself. I just went day after day with my face unshaven. I was so nervous that I would not even comb my hair. I just let it hang down over my face, and now I can raise my arms above my head. I have got relief from those terrible pains. I have got relief from my shoulders, and the pains in my hands and fingers are gone. I feel fine. I am a changed man. Mosby's Tonic has regulated my bowels. I am feeling fine. I am a man more that I want to publish my name and address, so that all others who suffer as I did will be glad to write me."

Acts on Bowels, Stomach, Liver, Kidneys

MOSBY'S TONIC acts on bowels, stomach, liver, kidneys. It penetrates and drives out the poisons. It is blended with 5 Other Proven Ingredients, each doing its part to relieve constipation, stomach gas, sour stomach, sick headache, liver and kidney action. Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best way to relieve any ailment is to get at its cause. If you're constipated, you probably don't get enough bulk in your diet. That's what's giving you the trouble!

Eat more vegetables. Drink lots more water. Eat more fruit. If you don't get enough "bulk" in your food, and if your doctor doesn't approve a dose of salts, try Nature's own way. Eat Kellogg's All-Bran every day. Drink plenty of water. Then see if you don't feel like a new person!

All-Bran is not a drug. It's a delicious cereal. It helps you "regularize" Made by Kellogg in London, Can. Sold by every grocer in two convenient sizes.

IN EUROPE

The sinking of the British battleship, the Royal Oak, sent to their death about 800 heroic men of the standard of those who have carried British principles and civilization to the farthest parts of the earth. Had it not been for those who go down to the sea in ships the progress of the world and the dissemination of the principles of British liberty would not be what they are today. Without them the political complexion of the world would be far darker than it is even today, for today, despite the tragedy of war, there is a militant democratic ideal, which is fighting for the freedom of the world.

The loss of the ship is a heavy one but the loss of the men of the Royal Oak is greater.

The disaster is, however, not such as to affect seriously the great predominance of the British navy as it maintains that guard and blockade along with the French fleet which has brought the German Nazis to a realization of the powerful grip of the navies of democracy on Germany.

The sinking of the battleship is believed to be due to a German submarine torpedo. Full details are not known or have not been published and it may be certain that the Admiralty will make an exhaustive study of the sinking to determine whether it was an enemy torpedo and what other information can be secured from the 396 men who have been reported saved.

German Nazi desperation is shown by reports which hail from Berlin, that the Nazis are agreed at the reply of the British Prime Minister to the so-called peace proposal of Herr Hitler that rather than yield to the British and French viewpoint the Nazis may bring in the full power of Russia and readily hand over a large portion of the continent to the Reds. The Nazis have spoken of consulting Russia and Italy on the British reply. All of which proves how desperate Chancellor Hitler is with his alliance with Russia, which seems to have given Russia a fairly free hand to act without need of struggle and with his flouting of the British and French appeals to him on behalf of Poland before the first of September. At his back is the Russian bear and before his face are the British and French whose no fulminations of Hitler will fright.

Hitler's "Mein Kampf" is going awry. Britain and France have come too soon on the scene for him. His "Kampf" or struggle on land as it may be translated, lies in East Europe where he has been forced to make an alliance where he originally did not plan any such pact. He has come to the major struggle long before the time set, no doubt, but planned to have it delayed until he figured it would not be a major struggle, but with Germany bloated by conquest and receiving the wealth and tribute of middle Europe which he planned to dominate, the France and Britain he hoped to meet would hardly be a match for him in his opinion.

Meanwhile Britain with her fleet and with every branch of the services is building for a long war if that must be. Her navy is having an effect. The noble ship Royal Oak and her associates have been throttling the enemy's trade. They have been doing what General Maurice Gamelin, head of the armies in France spoke of Sunday, helping to win the war with the passing hours which work for the Allies. It is they who are giving the British people time and irking the German Nazis beyond patience. The Allied method is working out well, it is saving lives.

While the Royal Oak served in the navy she was accomplishing what will bring the ultimate victory. The fleets have been mighty factors in throttling trade of the enemy and have permitted the gathering of the forces of two great empires.

PATIENCE AND TIME

Patience is urged by General Gamelin of the French army. Time is working for France and Britain, he says.

Patience is the very thing the Germans do not want the Allies to gain and practise, for patience means the steady processes by which Germany will be steadily weakened until she has to yield and until Hitlerism passes out.

Chancellor Hitler is not displaying patience such as he used for years. His course has been one of sensations from the day of the Munich putsch in 1923. His Austrian anschluss was anything but the peaceful measure he claimed it to be. It was Nazi violence of the highest degree. A year and a half have gone into history since Hitler talked to Chancellor von Schuschnigg. Since March 1938 Schuschnigg, whose only fault is his anti-Nazism, is the prisoner of the liberty-crushing Nazis. Latest report is that he is beaten daily by Nazis to make him issue an order calling upon all Austrians to rally to the Reich. The ex-chancellor of Austria is too much of a hero to die and may lose his life, but he remains true to Austria but the man, Adolf Hitler himself, seized his own country, Austria, after becoming the sole arbiter of the fate of Germany, for Hitler was born in the Austrian Tyrol and lived there until 21 years of age when he became so enamoured of the German Reich that he left his native land and settled in Munich. He served in the German armies but did not become a German subject until later.

Hitler was impatient in Poland. Quick action was necessary but it had been arranged with precision in advance by the Nazis. In those days before the Polish war opened, Hitler was irritable, impatient, spoke of Germany's cup of grief overflowing and said he would rather go to war now than to wait until he was 55 or 60 years old.

All commentators on the war believe Britain can play a waiting war. It suits British policy to fight the war with as much economy of man-power as possible.

France and Britain have refused the proposal of Hitler and this irritates the Nazis who must have action. The Nazis' very being is action and try to impress the masses of the people who are kept in the dark as to events. Observers say today Hitler has no easy task to convince the people that war is essential even if Hitler uses all his eloquence to convince them that Britain and France want to wipe out the Reich. The Nazis reception of the rejection of the peace proposal was such that they could not hide it. They were too much disappointed not to show it.

Hitler is believed not to desire war for they know what 1914-1918 meant to them. No doubt many of these realize that it will be the same type of end as far as German is concerned.

Hitler is pointing the British people on the terrible "spot" of war has put himself on the "spot." Hitherto he has been able to escape, sometimes by the desire of the nations of putting some faith in him or let him go long enough to get into trouble. But he is up against a situation now. There is a belief among some observers that he does not want war, a long war, for fear of his prestige. So he is impatient with the French and British who don't understand the folly of looking at Poland as an accomplished fact.

There is one thing, which may make Hitler impatient. He has realized he is a marked man—the man Britain and France name as the author of the war. He knows they mean he must go and never trouble the nations again with his policy. Germany, not he, has to give such guarantees as will be safeguards of peace, so that Germany will not trouble the peace of Europe. Hitler was thinking not more than six or seven weeks ago when he was not much in the mood to be convinced of what would have saved him all the trouble he now faces—with Russia his friend, Britain and France in front of him, his blockade all around him. Italy sitting on the sidelines looking on and all the world irritated and angered by the events which have followed September 1st in which Germany and Russia have figured.

It is quite clear that time is with them, also Hitler knows that time spells ultimate collapse of Germany.

R.A.F. GIVES GOOD ACCOUNT

British airmen gave a good account of themselves on Monday in repulsing enemy bombers off the coast of Scotland whose shipyards are working overtime on the supreme task of increasing the might of the navy. Property escaped damage and no civilian casualties occurred. It was reported during the day that four of the German bombers were shot down, and that British planes pursued the German invading planes.

Slight damage was officially reported done to the cruiser Southampton and casualties in the raid were given as 16 dead and 12 seriously injured. One civilian was wounded.

Germany is making an effort to interrupt the British blockade and Monday's raid seems to have been in pursuance of this policy of attacking anything which had to do with the maintenance of that blockade.

British authorities assured the public that the new raid on shipping over the weekend would be quickly ended.

Freedom of religion, freedom of the press and freedom of person under the protection of the habeas corpus, these are principles that have guided our steps through an age of revolution and reformation.—Jefferson.

Neutral Swiss Praise Army's Farmer Leader

Berne, Switzerland, Oct. 17.—(CP) —General Henri Guisan, a 65-year-old gentleman farmer, is the man directing the Swiss army from a possible German drive through the little mountain-bound neutral country.

Long a student of German military tactics, Guisan was elected General by the Swiss parliament Aug. 30 and given command of the 300,000 man mountaineer troops.

France had decreed general mobilization, Germany was preparing to march into Poland, Britain stood with Warsaw.

Within 12 hours after his appointment, General Guisan ordered general mobilization, the order to report to their stations the next day.

In 36 hours, mobilization was complete and Switzerland's citizen army—one-eighth of the population —were at their mobilization centres.

Another day and they were at their posts, riding their bicycles or speedy electric railways.

Guisan, commander of this army of sharpshooters and an air force trained to the dangerous flying in the Swiss Alps, is the man chosen to hold the title of General since the Swiss canton, unified under Wilhelm Tell in 1291, were federated in 1815.

The last general, Ulrich Wille, served during the four years of the First Great War. Then, however, Switzerland was divided in its sympathies, and Wille, of German extraction, was not popular in French and Italian speaking Switzerland.

Cheering For Allies

Now Switzerland, neutral as a country but partisan as a people, are rooting for a French - British victory over Nazi Germany. Their French-Swiss General became a hero overnight. In German speaking, French speaking, Italian speaking and Romansh speaking Switzerland, pictures of Guisan are everywhere.

Guisan is no hero-hunting product of Europe's military colleges, but a gentleman farmer with a flare for tactics, a keen judgment of men and a love of military life.

Born in the French speaking canton behind Lausanne near Lake Le-canon. One does the paddling while man on Oct. 31, 1874, son of a well-to-do doctor, he went to the classical school of nearby Lausanne and took an arts course at Lausanne University. But he was no great scholar. He had other plans and decided he wanted to be a farmer, and became manager and part owner of a dairy farm.

He did his service in the national militia, but reserved the right to go and then for 11 days each year. By 1901, Guisan decided he preferred army life to farming. He joined the small permanent staff of regular officers and within three years later was promoted to captain. He was named a colonel, top rank in the militia, in 1912. Two years ago, in 1937, By 1933 he commanded the second army corps and was one of the colonels who drafted the Swiss army reorganization bill, raising its effectiveness from a possible 260,000 to 500,000, in 1936.

Guisan's command needed a general as the crisis swelled toward war in Europe this fall Guisan was the logical choice. The government backed him and the assembly of the two houses of parliament confirmed him by a total of 204 votes out of a possible 229.

Throughout his army career Guisan has laid the emphasis on sports and training. Those who know him because he is accessible and obliging. He is quick to make decisions. He is like him because, as a Berne paper said, "he knows how to talk out straight—all of them—with honest and simple talk anyone can understand."

West's Wild Rice Is Indian's Crop

Winnipeg, Oct.—(CP)—Western Canada's most unique harvest is under way in Eastern Manitoba where hundreds of Indians are reaping bonfanas of wild rice from a number of lakes in or near the Whiteshell Forest Reserve.

The wild rice is generally harvested by teams of two Indians in the other bends over the tops of plants which fringe the lakes and flail the seed heads into the bottom of the canoe.

Indians take off most of the harvest. Some of them sell it directly, others gather the rice for agents who sell it in the United States. The crop usually runs around 90,000 to 95,000 pounds a year, although some years it has reached 100,000 pounds.

The main market for the wild rice in the United States where it is used partly for thanksgiving and Christmas feasts and partly as a food delicacy. The average price for wild rice is 32 cents a pound.

The rice fields in Eastern Manitoba are confined mainly to Lakes Lake, White Lake, Star Lake, Cabin Lake and other waters near the Manitoba-Ontario boundary.

Experiments to cultivate wild rice in other sections of the province are being carried on under the supervision of David Hinks, biologist of the department of natural resources. The plant is an annual, with long linear glaumes and seeds which spread out into compound branched spikelets, each of which bears a fruit or grain. It is tricky to cultivate and apparently requires a special kind of water.

That Body Of Yours

That body of yours KEAbes A Blood Building Diet

Now that liver and liver extract are being used in the treatment of anaemia you are not hearing or reading so much about remedies to enrich the blood. Unfortunately also you do not hear or read so much about blood making foods as formerly, yet the right kinds of food may be all that is necessary to bring the blood up to normal.

In former days, the strength of the blood was estimated by the amount of iron contained in the red corpuscles and this is still very important, but in many cases of anaemia the great need is the substance which manufactures the iron for the red corpuscles themselves. It is this substance—found in liver—which increases the number and completes the development of the red corpuscles. As long as liver or liver extract is taken, the strength of the blood is maintained.

If a meal diet is a very necessary help in anaemia. Proteins — meat, eggs, fish, milk, cheese, are necessary for the formation of haemoglobin and also certain vitamins. The best vitamins are given in the form of natural foods to which is added, in bad cases, brewer's yeast. The diet should include whole liver, kidney and other meats, fruits such as apricots, peaches, prunes, apples, grapes and raisins; vegetables such as beets, greens, spinach, cabbage, asparagus and lettuce; and whole grain cereals.

The thought then in the prevention or correction of anaemia is to undergo examination by your physician and dentist, so that no source of infection is allowed to reduce the strength of the blood, and to eat the foods mentioned above as they are rich in iron, minerals, and vitamins.

Many physicians would recommend also that dairy products—milk, cream, butter, cheese—be added to the diet, since strong factors in preventing infection—a frequent cause of anaemia.

Construction of Radio Beam Station Gives Work to Several Men

Rawdon (Special)—The farm of Mr. John Johnson, Mount Pleasant, on the Concession Trail between Hoards and Stirling is a busy place these days as a radio range station is being built on twenty acres of property which has been purchased by the Department of Transport, of Ottawa.

When this station is completed it will be a short cut for direct airmail service between Montreal and Toronto as well as for trans-Atlantic flights. The contractors in charge is Mr. Ellis with Mr. E. Palmer, engineer and Mr. William Lukaniuk as superintendent.

Mr. Lukaniuk is boarding with the Johnson family and their guests while the other two gentlemen are boarding in Stirling.

Many local men who are employed at the present time are Messrs Henry Farrell, Albert Ellis, Ernest Dunham, Edwood Johnson, Willie Mountenay, Lloyd Johnson and these men are busy digging the basement for the radio towers and four quarters for the elimination of crossings in suburban areas, or at least their more adequate protection.

Save by subways—and on a large scale this alternative is impossibly expensive—action in no way of prevailing foolish drivers against their folly. This writer knows of a level crossing guarded by lights, bells and a local-wise signaler. For quite often either side the highway runs close to the tracks. One would say nobody could help but be aware of the danger—and yet periodically there are fatalities for the debris of a car, and perhaps a shattered body from the right of way.

If every crossing in Canada were protected by gates and a watchman these accidents still would occur, simply because so many drivers ignore the plainest of warnings and of their own safety.—Ottawa Journal.

Private Flying Clubs Help In Developing Fighting Pilots

Rotary Hears Talk on Civilian Aviation by Flying Officer G. McGregor

VALUABLE TIME SAVED

Subsidization and development of private flying clubs in the Dominion in the years prior to the second Great War to form reserve pilot depots for Canada's fighting pilots, Flying Officer Gordon McGregor, R.C.A.F., Trenton, base, told members of the Belleville Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon yesterday.

Flying Officer McGregor, formerly a member of the Bell Newspaper Company's Montreal staff, won his flying spurs with a private club in his home city and joined the colours shortly after the outbreak of hostilities. He is now undergoing advanced training at the Trenton base of the Air Force.

Civilian aviation was practically at a standstill in the years following the Great War, the speaker said. In 1923, the problem of transportation in the far reaches of the country by air resulted in the development of freight and passenger service. From 1927 to 1929 aircraft came into use of the major industries of the country, and in that year passenger and freight was transported in Canada than in any other country in the world.

Originated in 1927 at Winnipeg

Private flying class originated in the brains of a group of Winnipeg men in 1927 to meet the growing needs of civil pilots. Subsidization by the government of flying clubs in twenty-three key centres being chosen throughout the Dominion for the purpose, Flying Officer McGregor stated. In 1930 reserve aircraft were worn out, and the cost of instruction and other problems became so great that three clubs fell by the wayside. The remainder, weathered the storm of depression and turned out an increasing number of pilots at an extremely low cost.

Describing the typical private flying club, the speaker told the club men that they usually consisted from 3 to 6 flight training aircraft, one instructor, an engineer and two apprentices. Eight hundred flying hours per year is the usual average, with about one getting cross-country flying experience.

In 1936 the Dominion Government approached Canada with a view to training pilots, however, the plan effected and the accepted pilots were given the flying ability and preliminary ground-training and air training up to fifty hours.

Well Equipped For Training

All these clubs are now in possession of aircraft for training purposes; instructors have been given special lectures and schooling to enable them to bring the students to the required standard, and applicants for commissions in the Royal Canadian Air Force are sent to the nearest private flying club for preliminary instruction.

"The idea of the 'kindergarten' of the Royal Canadian Air Force, has worked out excellently," Flying Officer McGregor continued. "It is supplying us with a force of preliminary-trained men, who would not have been ready for at least eight or nine months, had it not been established.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian G. Proctor with Rotarian "Bob" Graham extending the appreciation of the club.

During the luncheon, members observed one minute's silence to the memory of the recently deceased members, the late Dr. E. N. [illegible] and Andrew G. Davis.

PLANE is FOUND

The silver-winged Aeronca was taken early yesterday by a rum-drinking bandit who bound and gagged a lad, stole the machine, pontoons damaged, was discovered by an early-rising farmer Pickerel River, 46 miles south of Sudbury, Ont., and finally was the inevitable motive for the bizarre pattern of events.

Finding Brings Relief

Following announcement of the theft, Premier Hepburn ordered provincial police and others thrown into a hunt for the flying bandit early on Thursday. Scores of other planes at the base in an effort to ward off pursuit. The Premier, in Toronto, said that if the plane was found brought relief as, while it was being surrendered, there was a possibility the pilot might load it with explosives and attempt sabotage of Hydro plants.

Pilot Phil Sauve of Austin Airways, and an insurance adjuster will fly from here today to the Pickerel area accompanied by a rough landing.

The bandit, to be questioned was taken into custody by Provincial Constable Walter Robinson, who with Constable Ernest Smith, Harry Parry, railway divisional point two detectives and Harry Scrud, Robinson said the man, who refused to talk, bore body bruises and cuts of fisticuffs.

Felt Something Amiss

Fred Ramsay, manager at Austin Airways, said that shortly after coming on duty at 6 o'clock yesterday he felt something was amiss in a cabin plane and directed his watchful inside the office door. He said a gun was shoved at his head and a man hiding in the plane said "I wouldn't try any funny stuff if I were you."

The gunman then took a bottle of rum from the first-aid kit in the plane, ordered Seguin to the Airways office and bound him hand and foot. The bandit then set through the night sipping rum while Seguin lay on a chesterfield near him.

At dawn, the bandit took a parachute and crosses as a heavy ski cap, gagged Seguin and flew away into daylight. "I hope you don't get into trouble over this."

It Just Can't Be Done

Nine persons were killed near Toronto the other day when a train crashed into a car in which women and children ran into a train at a level crossing. Visibility was good, and the train's whistle was sounding. Following the tragedy come demands from various quarters for the elimination of crossings in suburban areas, or at least their more adequate protection.

ATTACKS ON NAVY

(A British official communique, asserting that at least four of the 13 or 14 Nazi bombers had been shot down, announced victory for Scottish coast defence. The Admiralty said that the cruiser Southampton was slightly damaged and the cruiser Edinburgh and the destroyer Mohawk, sheered with bomb splinters but undamaged.

(Two British officers and 11 men were killed, and 20 others wounded—12 seriously.)

Radi Brings Optimism

News of the Firth of Forth bombing, coming two days after the sinking of the British Battleship Royal Oak by a German submarine brought expressions of optimism from Nazi quarters. Germans also were told that the British battle cruiser Repulse had been torpedoed—a claim not confirmed by any other source.

Members of the submarine crew credited with sinking the Royal Oak were to be hailed as national heroes, according to word transmitted by German broadcasting stations to the submarine "somewhere in the North Sea."

The morning newspapers devoted practically their entire front pages to telling readers about British warships they said had been sunk or put out of commission by torpedoes and aerial bombs.

Cartoon Used

The newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung printed a cartoon showing Prime Minister Chamberlain and Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, with the Ark Royal's carrier, Courageous, the Ark Royal and the battleship Royal Oak sinking in the background.

In the cartoon Winston Churchill was made to say: "If a few more warships sink, we shall also control the North Sea below the surface."

(The Courageous was torpedoed Sept. 17. Eleven days later German radio stations announced that the Ark Royal also had been bombed and sunk but on October 1 Captain Alan Kirk, United States naval attache at London, attended religious services aboard the plane earlier.

Hitler's newspaper, The Voelkischer Beobachter, in a headline said "German torpedoes destroy Churchill's lies."

D.N.B. Reports Raid

A report by the German news agency, DNB, described the planes which attacked the warships at Rosyth as of "the greatest attacking power and fighting ability."

DNB said units of these dive-bombers started from their respective bases early Monday morning and crossed the North Sea within a short time, despite their heavy bomb loads.

This report claimed that the attack so surprised the British defence units that the first bombers were able to discharge their cargoes practically undisturbed by anti-aircraft fire. DNB claimed numerous hits were scored and all of them were photographed. "Several" warships, the agency claimed, had been considerably damaged.

After the attack, according to DNB, the German planes followed the Scottish coast and flew over Edinburgh at low altitudes. Two British pursuit planes that engaged them were shot down, the report said.

Commenting upon the raid on the British naval base in the Firth of Forth, a German supreme command communique claimed that "British naval forces were successfully attacked again" and that two warships had "sustained bomb hits of the heaviest calibre."

Mad Bombers, Defence

"This success was obtained despite the heaviest defence of the enemy by anti-aircraft fire and pursuit planes," the communique claimed.

At the same time the supreme command said a German submarine commander had asserted that the sinking of the British battleship Royal Oak had occurred in Scapa Flow bay, off the north coast of Scotland. (It was there that the crews of German warships scuttled their vessels during the last war after their surrender to the British fleet.)

The communique also said that warfare on mercantile shipping in the North Sea and Baltic yielded effective results" last week.

(United English accounts of a saying that between October 13 and 15 seven steamships totalling 24,500 tons had been sunk in the Atlantic.

The German supreme command announced today that French troops had retired from the main part of the German territory they have been occupying outside the Siegfried line since the first week of the war.

"In the course of the day yesterday," a communique said, "the French troops evacuated the greater part of German territory they were able to discharge their cargoes practically undisturbed by anti-aircraft fire. DNB claimed numerous hits were scored and all of them were photographed. "Several" warships, the agency claim-

D.D.G.M. McCartney Pays Visit to Tweed Masons

Tweed — District Deputy Grand Master Rt. Wor. Bro. McCartney of Wellington paid an official visit to Tweed Lodge No. 239 A. F. & A. M. on Friday night. Following the exemplification of the Second Degree, the members of the Lodge and visiting brethren were invited to the banquet hall where tables had been most attractively arranged by the ladies of the Eastern Star. Visitors were present from Belleville, Stirling, Picton, Wellington, Consecon, Madoc and Marmora.

The toast-master, Dr. W. A. Paul, W. M. of Tweed Lodge, welcomed the D. D. G. M. and visiting brethren following the toast to the King and the Craft. The national Anthem was most heartily sung in response to this toast. Other toasts were: Canada and the British Commonwealth of Nations proposed by I. P. G. Wor. Bro. T. E. Hall, and responded to by Wor. Bro. Rev. Beazer; The Grand Lodge proposed by Wor. Bro. J. W. McGuire, responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. McCartney; The Visiting Brethren by Wor. Bro. Corbet, Junior Warden, and responded to by some of the visiting brethren, including Past D. D. G. M. Rt. Wor. Bro. Carleton, Stirling and Rt. Wor. Bro. R. x). Adams, Belleville.

Tweed Girls Win

In defiance of all superstitions Tweed entertained Stirling on the thirteenth, Stirling High School girls' rugby and soccer football teams journeyed to Tweed to engage in friendly fixtures scheduled games last Friday. It proved a disastrous venture as they lost both contests. The rugby game was score of 25 to 0; and the softball game by a score of 55 to 10. In neither case does the score do the losers justice, as they played splendidly in both encounters, and deserved a closer margin although the locals were entitled to their victories which resulted from well-coordinated play.

Fresh from a victory over Marmora High School girls, on Thursday, the locals were right in their stride on Friday. Ana Thompson, in the box, pitched a fine game and her shaky at the start but gradually settled down to the situation and kept her opponents' hits and runs well scattered. She was not in much danger after the second inning when the locals had increased her a lead of 12 to 6. Marjorie Tummon with five hits including a homer was the leading batter with her sister Marion and Ana Thompson following closely. Barbara Woods collected three hits for the visitors, Grace Stewart, the visiting player to collect more than one hit.

The line-upe—

Stirling—Barbara Woods, Helen Wray, Dorothy Montgomery, Marjorie West, Edith Cranston, Greta Woodcock, Betty Greenley, Norma Rose, Edna Johnston, Winona Beckett.

Tweed:—Marion Tummon, Marjorie Tummon, Ana Thompson, Ina Verrel, Grace Stewart, Marion Moon, Monica Rivers, Muriel Hall, Yvonne Rivers, Lucille Leal.

Umpire—Bill McIver.

Stirling Loses

The first game of the rugby match was closely contested and ended in a scoreless draw, Counepeas, Hedley Reid in the back, far away from his own goal line following a Stirling kick and ran 60 yards before being pulled down by Walker whose tackle saved a certain touchdown.

In the second quarter Tweed made two major runs on identical plays. G. Wagar hurling two forward passes which Courtney Courneyea easily converted into touchdowns.

Wagar to Bailey added another five points in the third, again via the aerial route. The fourth touchdown was scored on a buck over the touch line with G. Wagar carrying the ball. The final touchdown was made on a forward pass from Borritt to Wagar.

The line was gradually rounding into form and will be hard to beat from now on. The line proved a stumbling block to Stirling backcarriers frequently throwing them for a loss. Wagar did a good job of kicking, getting plenty of height and distance, while Luffman and Courneyea gained ground consistently with end runs. Rivers, Connor and Bailey for Tweed, and Walker, Wess Fyear and Francis all turned in useful games.

Tweed—Snap, Connor, Insides, Borritt, McCrae; Middles, Price, Langevin; Ends, Bailey, Rivers; Quarter, J. Wagar; P. Wing, Doyle; Halves, Courneyea, Luffman, G. Wagar; Subs., Bergeron, Meagher, Larkin, J. Reabotie.

Stirling—Snap, Tanner; Insides, Scott, West; Middles, Thompson, McIntosh; Ends, Sine, Basledo; Quarter, Fyear; F. Wing, R. Walker; Halves, J. Walker, Francis, McGee.

Officials—Mundy, Calnan, Wells. Stanley Weedmark of Carleton Place, 16-year-old nephew of Miss Florence Blaney of the staff of Tweed Consolidated School, was accidentally shot while hunting with three other boys on Thanksgiving Day. He died a few minutes after the accident.

Capital Preparing A Lavish Welcome

STOCKHOM, Oct. 17—(CP)—This Swedish capital was preparing a lavish welcome for rulers and statesmen of Scandinavia, Germany and Finland on their arrival tomorrow for an historic meeting of King Gustaf on problems resulting from Soviet Russian talks with Finland and Soviet Russia's new war.

Kings Christian of Denmark, Haakon of Norway and President Kyosti Kallio of Finland, with their staffs, will find the streets draped and garanished city.

The high spot of Stockholm's welcome is to be a concert of Northern music on Wednesday night by 1,000 singers and musicians on Lion Hill in front of the royal castle. Authorities said virtually the entire population would attend.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, October 18

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

ACCORDING to the astral indicements, this should be a lively, productive and generally favorable day, with much stirring in the social, sentimental or artistic aspects of life. While there may be some social changes or plans, or a few upsets, there also is promise of growth with probable promotion. There is hint of extravagance, quite doubtful financial situations and also a threat of possible trouble at the law. With these cleverly manipulated, happy and lucrative circumstances are forecast.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of splendid opportunity for advancement, promotion and favors from those in influence, with increased personal happiness and prestige. In social activities there may be extravagance and there are hints of perilous legal entanglements and possible sudden but trivial upsets. All depends upon personal thrift, vigilance and good judgment.

A child born on this day may be versatile, enterprising and ambitious, with much personal popularity and attractiveness leading to shine socially, it may be showy, extravagant and improvident.

Weddings

DONOGHUE—LALLY

A quiet wedding took place at St. Michael's Church at eight-thirty this morning, when Margaret Helen, daughter of Mrs. Lally and the late Patrick Lally, became the bride of Mr. Godfrey Joseph Donoghue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Donoghue, Rt. Rev. J. P. Nicholson, V.G., officiated. Miss Mary Lally, sister of the bride and Mr. Dan Donoghue, brother of the groom were attendants. After a wedding trip the bride and groom will take up residence in Toronto.

MURRAY—STEPHENSON

St. Matthew's Church, Winnipeg, was the scene of a quiet wedding Saturday afternoon when Gladys, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Stephenson, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Murray, native of Belleville, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Murray, of Winnipeg. Mrs. W. C. Mutchmor presided at the organ and played the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. Rev. G. R. Calvert performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Alfred Jackson, wore Lavender lamb imported bow knot moire, the sweetheart neckline having an attractive collar. The long sleeves were full at the shoulders and came to lily points. She wore a bustle back and a short train. She wore a matching blue chapel veil with clusters of forget-me-nots and carried pink Butterfly roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride was attended by Miss Alice Murray, who wore a blush rose taffeta dress with short sleeves and bustle back. She wore a skull cap of net with a halo of velvet flowers tying in a bow at the back and carried Tallaman roses.

Rev. E. E. Bruder was best man and the ushers were Mr. Douglas Cockman and Mr. Colin Fraser.

A reception was held at the bride's home, Mrs. Stephenson, mother of the bride, chose green velvet with waistline jacket. Her Tokay wine velvet toque was trimmed with an ostrich tip and she wore a corsage of Token roses. Mrs. Murray, mother of the groom, was in plum crepe and she wore a black felt sailor hat and a corsage of Token roses. Mrs. F. Jackson, grandmother of the bride, wore a black panne velvet gown with a jacket, black velvet bonnet that and corsage of American Beauty roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Murkar left on a wedding trip to St. Paul's, Chicago, Toronto and Niagara Falls. For travelling the bride wore wool crepe romaine in forest green. Her black fur trimmed wool coat was made in Russian style, trimmed with Persian lamb and she wore a black felt hat. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Murkar will reside in Belleville.

QUATERNION Y.P.U.

Representatives of the different organizations of the four churches were the guests of the Quaternion Y.P.U., last night in Tabernacle United Church. Over 100 were present. Miss M. Bonter presided with Miss H. Brown as Secretary. Miss Donald was in charge of devotions. Mr. Anglin conducted a community sing-song in a very able way, with Miss Jean Shorey at the piano. Mr. Don Alexander had charge of the meeting in considering the theme for the night which was "The Organization of the church". The following addresses were given on the organization and duties of the different departments of the church life:

The pastoral charge, Mr. Don Alexander; the Session, Mr. Bob Brennan; The Committee of Stewards, Miss Marjorie Wills; Official Board, Miss M. Burke; The Board of Trustees, Miss M. Thompson; the Woman's Association, Miss Jean Archibald; The Woman's Missionary Society, Miss Jean Whitehead; The Sunday School, Miss Ruth McClelland.

Six minutes after each address was given for questions and discussion and Rev. Reilly Hall was the timekeeper. Here are a few of the questions which arose from the addresses given last night. If a congregation wanted to sell an old shed and build a garage what is the proper steps would have to be taken? When an elder enters a home with communicants cards do the young people disappear through the back door?

In assisting the Stewards to raise funds, how many sermons on money should a minister preach in year? If a Session is reduced to the minister and one elder what is the proper procedure? One bold man asked if it would not be better in order to get the cost of administration for the W.M.S. to hand over their work to the men who administer the M. & M. fund, but was properly put in his place by the woman who said if any changes were made it would be better for the men to hand over their work to the women who were better informed than the men in Missionary work. (Why do we need such a woman to speak in the church anyway?) A poser came from one of the young people about who had the authority to grant permission to use the Church building giving music lessons through the week. The young man in charge was eyed, who answered the "Official Board".

Should a person be appointed to teach or hold office in Sunday school who did not attend faithfully the church services?

Mr. Shorey had charge of the games and Miss Jean Shorey of the refreshments. It was not reported whether the ceiling was still falling in when Bishop Lazarik led the crowd in their mighty "Yell". Votes of thanks were accorded to Mr. Shorey, Mr. Anglin, the refreshment committee and to the young people for entertaining the seniors.

ROSES.....decorate the coiffure of this lovely model.

By HELEN FOLLETT

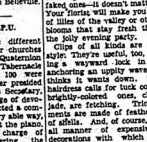
HAIR ORNAMENTS from "way back when" are being revived Ask grandma to let you go through her relics; you may dig up some grand tortoise treasures. Old-fashioned barrettes are just the thing to anchor holeted curls and puffs, and they look well with slime-skin hats stuck over the impertinent nose.

If you are the ethereal type of girl, you can wear a single rose in your hair, stuck over one ear or clasped down on the top of your thinking motor. Fresh flower or faked ones—it doesn't matter which. Your fresh will make you a rosette of lilies of the valley or other small blooms that stay fresh throughout the jolly evening party.

Clips of all kinds are still good style. They're useful, too, for keeping a wayward lock in place or anchoring an uppity wave line that thinks it wants down. The high hairdress calls for tuck combs. The bright-colored ones, cherry or jade, are fetching. Tricky ornaments are made of feathers, wheel of affiels. And, of course, there are all manner of expensive jeweled decorations with which to make your coiffure chic and gala.

Use discretion when making a choice; have to consider the frock. These cute halos for the longhaired effects are too extreme, and the over-dressed woman overshoots fashion's bull's-eye.

When wrinkles appear, it is because the underlying tissues and...



...fibres have lost tone and relaxed, leaving the skin sizes too big, to fall into ripples and crinkles.

By using cold water facial, frictioning with an ice cube and applying astringents, this condition can be checked. A little more cream and butter in the diet will help, too. Long hours of refreshing sleep give the facial cells a chance to be restored.

Massage is of benefit, but it must not be heavy if the tissues have become depleted. A light tapping and hammering will stimulate the blood streams. Keep on with friction until the cream has almost disappeared. The human hide thrives on lubricating substances.

Nothing is quite so exciting as getting a brand new coiffure. Sets the one on one's toes, puts ginger in the heels. As the hair dresser does the trimming, she shears sing a song of hope for beauty.

Though the high hairdo has caught a few devotees, the long bob still flourishes. The reason? It is soft and flattering, does not require as much attention as rolls and curls and can be worn by a most permanent, a finger wave every week or two, and all you need to do is to sweep through the silky strands with a comb, brush up the ends. And there's a fit in the ointment. The long bob blankets the neck in hot weather, feels dirty and messy. And you have to be pretty careful that you tuck it all into your bathing cap.

Dr. Dafoe's Column on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Malnutrition Has Many Causes

Malnutrition is an affliction which many people associate with poverty and want and slums. Unfortunately it is this but it is also a problem for it appears in some of best homes where the table groans with food every meal.

Parents often bring a child to me with the explanation that he is thin and pale and doesn't seem to have strength or endurance, (vogue) have strength or endurance, (vogue) usually brings out that the child's appetite is poor, that he is easily upset emotionally, and that when these upsets occur he will often refuse food altogether. Constipation often is a marked symptom and the child, unlike other members of the family, is nervous and irritable. In some cases, too, the poor child is subject to frequent infections and in the winter has one cold after another.

Examining the patient, you see a small, thin, pale, child, usually with circles under the eyes, with poor posture, round shoulders and slouching walk. Muscle tone will almost certainly be very poor, which will account for his slouchy posture and the fact that his abdominal muscles fail to give good support.

These are the known symptoms of a child suffering from malnutrition, yet time and again parents have refused to recognize these warnings. A common excuse for little Johnny's condition is what: "He's just like his father was when he was a boy".

The first need in the treatment of such a case is to improve the child's general health, and about the first step in that direction is to search carefully for some focus of infection. It isn't at all unusual to find a set of chronically infected tonsils, so first the nose and throat should receive a careful examination. Teeth and sinuses also should be checked, and the heart and chest examined for evidences of infection.

Decayed teeth play a greater part in malnutrition than most people believe. It used to be commonly believed that the first teeth aren't important, that since they fall out at an early age, there is no need to have them cared for. The result quite often is that a child's teeth become filled with cavities, and of course this interferes with the child's appetite. This is one way malnutrition may begin.

A child suffering from malnutrition must be watched very carefully and the treatment must be diligent. Failure to gain weight may be due to different causes. I have known children whose appetites returned and who grew rapidly better when a few bad teeth had been extracted or filled. In other cases, removing bad tonsils or adenoids caused the child's feeding habits to pick up immediately and he began to gain weight and strength normally.

At times there is no focus of infection, but the child's feeding habits are just naturally poor, or the choice of food is inadequate, either because of poverty or lack of knowledge in choosing foods.

YOU WILL NOTICE many unique ways to be different. An elegant heavy yellow satin model is worn like a man's trench coat belt with circular, full-length skirt. Notched revers and collars are of black satin.

Neat is a frock of natural colin woollen the skirt pleated all-around, the bodice with a deep yoke of smocking. There is a narrow section of the smocking just above the waistline, belted in brown leather.

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Husbands and Wives Snap Jobs

Two or three weeks ago this column printed a cross-section of life in the shape of a letter-a real human document.

The writer was a married woman job, with several children. She had been her husband's secretary. Now all the ramifications of her business and his bored to tears with housework without help, but kept going on because she loved her family and felt she was only doing her duty.

Cause and reading when she sank into a chair to read the paper and catch her breath. Bath and hair to wash and "had nothing to do like you, but stay home, keep house, rest in an easy chair and read the paper. I put in terribly long hours at the office, am worried to death over business, have to cook and do a lot of boot-licking to get orders. I'm sick of it all."

Said the lady: "Let's swap, I know all about your business. You keep house for a couple of weeks and I'll run your office."

After considerable argument, he consented. And the lady fared forth and took her husband's desk. As she wrote this paper, at first it seemed like Heaven, the neat office after the child clutter always cast upon the home. The endless meal preparation, dish-washing, bedmaking and so on. And in spite of these so-called unmanly chores, the gentleman, for the first few days, enjoyed staying at home immensely. He had a certain pride in his cooking and the older boy swept under the beds and made them too—after a fashion.

Then the lady began to worry about her children, two of whom were boys, and the gentleman began to think longingly of his roll-top and his swivel chair—to say nothing of the orders his wife might be missing.

So very gradually, the cat crept out of the bag—each would like to have back his and her opposites job. They had a good chat right over the soup and decided that this wouldn't be the last time they'd take a turn—about when the old grind began to seem intolerable.

This column has received scores of letters from all over the country about this exchange of jobs. And while many married women would be capable of holding down their husbands' desks, how many help the children tended to by their fathers, still a very perceptible yearning to swap temporarily is apparent. Husbands think their wives have the better of it, and wives are sure that friend husband in going out to work, is blessed by the gods. There are a couple of letters. We'll be glad to publish yours, if you've something to say on this subject.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I'm women. If they'd only see it, have it all their own way. We men have to wear and shave to keep the roof over our families. All we ask is a smile, and peace when we come home.

"Mere Man".

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Alas, that I never was my husband's secretary, so I can't take his jobs with him, more's the pity! But I sure would like to. Neither but him, mess, from morning 'till night. Milk modifying, diaper washing, spinach straining, vitamins! My grandmother raised ten and never heard the word—then cooking for the big he-man, after the youngsters are tucked away. Would I like to swap jobs, would I—?

Slavey-Wife."

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Correct Thing to Do

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

I am seventeen years old and my parents don't allowed me to go with boys, except on one or two occasions. And I would like to ask you a few questions on etiquette, as I am never sure at the right thing to do at the right time.

1—When a young man calls, should I greet him at the door? I mean, should I offer my hand?

2—Should I take his hat, coat and go for him again when he leaves?

Or should I, in both instances, tell him where to place his wraps, and let him get them himself when he departs?

Just be is taking me somewhere should we, if we have time, remain in the car and chat with the family before leaving?

4—When we return home, should I remain in the car and let him open the car door for me, help me out and take me to my door? Should I, if I just opened the door myself and took him good-night with a kiss? I know it is rather gallant for him to open the door, but sometimes I feel embarrassed if that is correct, am I obliged to invite him in, especially if my parents have retired?

Is it all right just to say "good-night" at the door?

5—Should I tell him that I had a nice time, or should I let him say that, and should I shake hands with him?

6—When getting off the street car, should he get off first? And does the gentleman always pay the girl's fare? Is it bad form for the girl to offer to pay her own fare at any time?

All of this sounds so dumb, I expect, but I have gone with boys so very little and I am so "stiff" when I am in the company of the other sex, and I am sure you can help me.

Cloth Seventeen.

Your questions aren't a bit dumb, my dear girl. They are intelligent and all of us should think about, in our wish to do the polite and gracious thing. The unthought-ful girl doesn't think about these amenities, goes blithely and unmannerly through life on paying attention to building up her manners.

When you greet the young man at the door you greet him as the hostess, shaking hands with him. You take the man's coat and hat. Indicate to him where they are to be left and let him get them when he leaves.

3—Yes, this is the gracious thing to do. In this way you create for yourself a charming home background. Your family will be pleased with your sharing your friends with them. The man will immediately recognize your graciousness and good breeding.

Give the man a chance to be polite—he will like it. Wait for him to open the car door for you. Do not wait for him to help you open the door to your house. If your parents have retired, say good-night to the young man at your door.

5—He will, if he's a mannerly, thank you and tell you that's grand time he has had. Then you say something like this: "I've had such a happy time tonight. I enjoyed every minute of it. Thank you much for asking me to go to the movies with you."

6—Yes, the man pays off the first car first, so that he will be in position to help the girl as she steps down. The man always pays the girl's fare when they are together if they meet in the car or bus by accident. The girl should take it for granted that she pays her own fare. But, this is such a small detail, if the man wishes to pay the girl's fare, the girl may graciously accept this courtesy, if she wishes to.

"REDHEADS ARE LUCKY"
By VERA BROWN

"Come on in, we're waiting for you, Where's Handsome? he said when he saw she was alone. "He went on to bed——"

"The lazy good-for-nothing——" Dusty reached for the telephone and asked the operator to ring Handsome's room. But Handsome was quite prepared. He'd left all calls shut off.

"I'm going down there and pull that mug out!" Dusty in dressing gown and slippers started toward the hall. It took the combined efforts of everybody in the room to dissuade him. Carol finally resorted to tears before he promised to take another drink instead.

"You're making a slay out of that guy!" Dusty accused Mike.

In all this turmoil there was no opportunity to introduce Mike to Carol and Dusty's wife never arrives to her. One of them set out to make himself agreeable to the red-head. He turned out to be Frank Ralston, a Chicago attorney. Mike tried to appear as though she were having a pleasant time. In spite of Dusty's efforts to make her try Scotch, she drank only a little ginger ale.

"I think you were lovely, Mike," Shannidell said, "when you showed me your pictures in the paper this week, but it didn't do you justice. I guess didn't have time to say so, before to this, so admire how you could make her escape."

"Thank you, Mr. RIX

"I'm very glad to be here, tonight," Ralston went on. "I've met Mr. and Mrs. Lee before. Besides most of all, I wanted to know you."

The man was a terrible bore. Mike could see that. Fortunately her patience was wearing thin. There was no chance to escape. Dusty could see that plainly. He was here for the evening. And he'd healed his quarrel with Handsome by this time, although he was harmless enough. Mike was merely annoyed with a jaundiced eye.

The latter was so boisterous that any talk was difficult. Mike gave it up, and Ralston turned his attention to her. It stilled about the great Dusty.

"Come over here, Mike. I want everybody to see you," Mike hesitated, but Dusty crossed to her and in hand: "Come ladies and Gentlemen!" he shouted above the racket. "Look at her! Here's a girl that doesn't smoke or drink! And as for her, I'm willing to bet that way long!" Mike was horribly embarrassed.

"Leave the kid alone, Dusty!" Carol warned.

"Why? So Ralston can monopolize her? Carol stated. "Mike's a swell kid." A moment later she turned away abruptly without answering.

"Dusty" Dusty's face was a grim hard. His strong fingers cut in under the relief on Mike's arm. "I thought you don't realize how strong you are!"

"Oh, don't I?" Dusty ignored her cries, pulled her down onto the arm of his chair. "Ralston, that Ralston guy" he demanded in her ear.

"I don't know."

"Don't lie to me!" Dusty was hurting her arm so badly she was crying. Carol was on the other side of the room talking to Ralston.

"If I catch you two-timing Handsome again, I'll—I'll break your arm!"

Just at that moment two waiters came in from the kitchen with the buffet. Dusty forgot all about Mike as he reared himself out of his chair. The others were ready to eat.

"I want music. Get that team from the Orchid," he ordered. The waiters protested that it was not yet closing time downstairs.

"Make it closing time. I want them up here."

Shortly, the man and girl who played in the lounge were ushered in the bar downstairs arrived.

Ralston jumped to the window seat beside Carol, Mike did not know. But she heard the first few voices under the cover of the singing. It seemed a long time before the music began. Dusty and Mike sat up. With a gesture: "Fine, but you're through," he held out his face for boon and ego."

"There, there, don't worry about a little spat, of course. Just for a moment, Mike managed to make herself heard. "Carol's out—May I leave now?"

Carol's petulant voice was small as she accused: "You always want to break up a party. You've protested no further.

They all trudged downstairs in the old elevator. Mike found herself into street clothes. He was thoroughly and to eat at an all-night dining car off Michigan Avenue. Nothing else seemed open. They were three taxi loads of them which piled out at the little lunch room at 3 o'clock.

Suddenly everybody was very tired. The party was about to break up of its own weight. It had just dawned on them that it was time to went directly to a downtown garage for their cars and in the meantime, Mike found herself with Ralston. Carol could not be found. Dusty's car was the one cab. Dusty was in need of a ride, so he got into the cab which followed the others to the hotel. Dusty's cab was not behind them.

They must have stopped some place," Carol said. A worried frown between her eyes.

"Never mind, I'll take you girls to the hotel," Ralston suggested. "Dusty will be along in a moment."

As the three walked into the foyer, Ralston to Carol's left, the room was ringing. "Answer it, Mike," Dusty was leaving the hall. Carol said with a moan as she threw her coat onto a chair, and dropped down on the davenport. It was Carol—

"Yes, we're home. Where are you?" Dusty told her to tell him that three times. Dusty started in a blustering explanation, but it was for Carol to come to meet him immediately. Mike sank down on one of the twin beds and rubbed the aching head. She did not notice. Dusty, good boy, Dusty, and come home!

He roared on: "Is that stinker shirt, Ralston, there?"

"No. Dusty, he left us at the door.

Mike believed he had. If Ralston had really gone, Dusty promised he'd come immediately. Mike put down the receiver, then she looked up and yawned. The door which led from the bedroom directly into the foyer was half open. Through that two figure space Mike could see the shine of the sitting room lamp in the foyer mirror. She stopped to look at the middle of the bed-room. Reflected in that mirror she could see Carol in Ralston's encircling arms. He was kissing Carol.

Mike, her head over her mouth, breathed deeply for a moment; finally she called out: "Carol, it was Dusty. He'll be along in a moment." Then she walked slowly into the sitting room. Ralston was picking up his hat and stick, and he was speaking composedly by the window.

"I am delighted to have met you, Mrs. Lee. And you, Miss Shannon. I hope I may see you again before I leave town."

There were polite murmurs, and he was gone. Mike sank down and left facing each other.

Carol turned sleepily around: "Why, honey, what's the matter?

"You know!"

Carol, in the faintest idea what you're talking about!"

Mike took a step forward: "Then I'll tell you. Dusty called and that you told Dusty today. There is nothing to do about that. But I want you to warn you. Don't let it happen...

Carol's face was white and pinched in the doorway with a merry "Hello, girls." She looked from one to the other: "What are you two rowing over?"

"Nothing, Dusty," Carol answered quickly. "She was just scolding me for staying out with you so late."

Dusty shrugged his shoulders. "That's what you say. Looks to me as though she was telling you to lay off that key friend of hers." He met him at the elevator. Where did you get the cute anyway, Mike?" she did not answer.

"I haven't any idea," Carol was the one who spoke. "Leonna brought him. He's quite a man, something. He seems to have scads of money."

"He grabbed several checks tonight...a new experience for me, Dusty laughed. "Em we I'm broke along."

Dusty slumped onto the davenport.

"Come along. Get to bed, Dusty".

"Good night." Mike was out the door and into her own room pronto.

...She was afraid she could not sleep, but it did not. She slumped more than five minutes, before the telephone rang.

"Come to have breakfast with me?" It was Handsome and it was 10 o'clock.

"I'll hurry. Give me ten minutes."

"I expect to work today, Skipper."

"I'll be right down." Mike dashed into a cold shower. As she dressed hurriedly she spoke to Carol, still in the mirror. There were mumbled answers.

When she met Handsome fifteen minutes later, he looked at her and sat on smiling, that she wanted to throw herself into his arms. But she restrained her troubles. Of course, she didn't.

"You don't look so good, Skipper. How was the party?"

"Pretty bad. I couldn't feel worse, I know, if I'd been drinking. I've had no sleep, no sleep, the smoke, and the noise."

"Dusty cut up much?"

"Not much. He just would-n't let us go home. There were loads of people there."

Mike watched Handsome consume a tremendous breakfast, eggs and a double order of toast, two glasses of milk.

"Thank the Lord, I ducked that party!" he said virtuously, and added, "Better get some sleep before game time, I'm going to pitch, and there are a lot of them to be on the mound. Refleced in that mirror she could see Carol in Ralston's arms. He was kissing Carol

DEACON, DILLON PROVIDE PUNCH FOR RED WINGS

Kilrea or Don Grosso Likely to be Third Man on the Line

THOMPSON IN NETS

Exhibition Games Will Start on October 22nd at Indianapolis

Detroit, Oct. 17 (CP)—Don Deacon and Cecil Dillon are expected to provide the scoring punch for the first string line of the Detroit Red Wings during the coming National Hockey League season. Deacon and Dillon are working together with speed and precision. Either Kenny Kilrea or Don Grosso is expected to fill the third position.

Deacon, a rookie, set a league scoring record last season in the International American Hockey League. Dillon, a veteran right-winger came to the Wings this year from New York Rangers. Grosso is from Kirkland Lake senijors.

The second line likely will consist of Gus Giesebrecht, Syd Howe and Mud Bruneteau. Tiny Thompson will be in the nets as he was last season.

Exhibition games start Oct. 22 for the Wings and the Indianapolis Club, the Wings' farm team, with a game here. Then the Wings and Indianapolis play against each other at Niagara Falls, Ont., on Oct. 24, at Owen Sound, Ont. on Oct. 25, at Peterboro, Ont. on Oct. 26, and at Brantford Oct. on Oct. 27 before returning here for the second of the three game series at Detroit. On Oct. 30 the two teams play at London and the series closes Oct. 31 here.

Sports Roundup

(By Eddie Brietz Associated Press Sports Writer).

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Detroit News scooped all the papers with the definite announcement both the Yankees and Giants will turn on the lights next baseball season.....The Australian Davis cuppers are en route home with Paul Derringer put his world's series sugar into a flock of new leis at Honolulu, Hawaii.

Paul Christman, the University of Missouri footballer who throws strikes with a football, will elect to play baseball with the Yanks.....Max Baer's demands for a $10,000 guarantee has back-tracked his bout with Bob Nestell in Chicago .....Tennessee or Alabama Saturday is a football sellout already.

Jimmy Grippo has mixed an Oakland battle between his Middle Martin and George Marshall.....A lot of football coaches would swap their entire second string for Bulldog Turner, Hardinsimmons, 220-pound 60-minute center.....Lou Ambers and Henry Armstrong will visit Canada and engaged in bouts at Montreal and Quebec recently.....Ben Foord, of Toronto, is a Canada, Korri is slated to return to England and his old corner.

Winners of two bouts last week at the Forum, Mexico City, meets Ernie Sobie, the little 170 pound Italian who has fought his way into the hearts of the local fans by his clever boxing over last year's visit, however, is a popular favourite in Belleville following the Tiger Daniels here last week in straight falls. Valdes, who does not weigh over 160, employs a new wrestling hold of his own invention and has dubbed it "the headlock," put into use by the sudden application of the wrestler's right arm around his opponent's neck, thus bringing terrific pressure along his opponent's body, hurls the opponent to the mat with easy prey for a fall, if exercised properly. Valdes works this ring hold to perfection.

A preliminary 30-minute bout will commence the night's activities.

GEHRIG ON THE JOB

Seen at his first civilian job since he left Columbia University in 1923, is Lou Gehrig, who spent the intervening years as "Iron Man" first baseman for New York Yankees, until stricken with a form of paralysis last May. Following the world series Lou was appointed a member of the municipal parole commission of New York, his interests in his university days having had a leaning to criminology and penology. He's brushing up with books on crime.

1939 Rookie Crop One of the Best

THREE OF THE BEST OF THE 1939 BASEBALL ROOKIE CROP

Left, the No. 1 newcomer of the year, Ted Williams, slugging Boston Red Sox outfielder, who led both majors in driving in runs with a total of 141. CENTRE, Eddie Miller, shortstop with Boston Bees, who stood out at that position despite being out the latter half of the season with a broken leg. RIGHT, new face in centre field with Detroit Tigers, Barney McCosky, who can get 'em with the best and turned in a batting average of .311.

Ted Gro[illegible] Alongside Miller in centre, [illegible] Barney McCosky, who hit 311. And in left field let's peg the Yankees' Charley Keller, who may prove to be the best of them all. Charley hit .324 for his first season in competition in the fast fields in the world series, which hardly need repeating.

National League Infield

There we have a fast, heavy-hitting outfield. How about the infield? Well, on first base we can place Glenn Russell of the Cubs, who hit .274 and drove in 84 runs. Not sensational, of course, but good enough for a fellow who is steadily improving.

At second we have the sensational Pete Coscarart, who, the Dodgers think, is by far the best second baseman in the National league. Pete hit .277. That's good, but he's even better than those figures indicate for it was only in the last half of the season that his average began to climb, and he gived every indication of making the .300 class next year.

Eddie Miller of Boston Bees gets the shortstop job without a struggle. He played only half the season until he broke his leg in a play at second, but he showed enough to make Casey Stengel believe he has the best shortstop in the circuit. He hit .270.

We must go back to the American for our third baseman — and pick Jim Tabor, the heavy hitting custodian of the far corner for the Red Sox. Tabor hit .287 and drove in 102 runs.

Now there's an infield with youth, speed and enough power to hold their own in fast company.

Catchers, as usual are scarce, but Buddy Rosar of the Yankees proved himself a high class catcher in fielding in for Bill Dickey. Rosar hit .276 and handled his pitchers well.

There was no Bob Feller among the rookie pitchers but there were several who made the grade and gave promise of better years to come. We have Junior Thompson of the Reds, Marius Russo and Atley Donald of the Yanks, Kirt Cooper and Bob Bowman of the Cardinals, Hugh Casey of the Dodgers, Jack Kramer of the Browns and Wally Hilgo of the Phillies.

There were several other rookies who gave promise of future development but the foregoing were the cream of the crop and a fitting answer to those who have been moaning that there are no longer any good ball players coming up to the major leagues.

Bucky Walters, Pitching Star Of Cincinnati Reds is Named Most Valuable in National

303 Out of a Possible 336 Votes Given to 29-Year-Old Righthander

27 VICTORIES.

Second Place in Voting Won by Johnny Mize of the St. Louis Cards

(By Judson Bailey Associated Press Staff Writer).

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Cornelius (Bucky) Walters, pitching star of the Cincinnati Reds today was named the most valuable player in the National League.

His selection was made by a committee of the baseball Writers' Association of America and entitled him to a trophy offered by the Sporting News.

The 29-year-old righthander, whose talent for years was buried under the baleful glare of the masqueraded as infielder, led both Major leagues in hitting with 27 during the regular campaign and was instrumental in lifting the Reds to a pennant in his first full season with the club.

He appeared in 39 games, starting and finishing 31 of them and losing only 11.

All First-Place Nominations

The selection of Walters on 18 first-place ballots, gave him 303 seconds and a fifth among the 24 writers in eight National League cities participating last night. Johnny Mize of the Cincinnati family circle. Last year Hugh (Gimlet) Mulleavy named Walters' battery mate and then leading hitter of the league, was second.

Second place this year went to Johnny Mize, St. Louis Cardinals' slugging first baseman who won the league's championship. He received 178 points, including one first place nomination.

Four points behind him was Paul Derringer, Cincinnati's strong-armed veteran who pitched the Reds to 25 victories and lost but seven during the red-hot assault on the pennant. Another Cincinnati hero, Frank (Buck) McCormick, the dynamite first baseman who led the league in runs batted in, rated 160 points and fourth place.

The only other player to get more than 100 votes was pitcher Curt Davis, the workhorse of St. Louis Cardinals, who was given a total of 101 points for place consideration. The one other star given a first place ballot was Dolph Camilli (Jimmy) Brown, the Cards' classy outfielder, whose total went to 90.

World Series Flashbacks

Lew Riggs, Red infielder, is a product of the University of Carolina, where he was a room-mate of Bobby Wallace, Cards' coach.

In this year's world series Billy Werber, Red third baseman, was the team that gave him his major league start in 1930.

Frank McCormick, Lee Scarsella, White Moore and Lee Gamble, all members of the Reds, started in baseball together at Beckley, W.Va. In 1934, and all were with the Toronto club at Tampa in 1935.

Al Simmons, bought from the Sox in the 1933 season to help the Reds, played nine seasons with the A's, three with the White Sox, one with Detroit, two with Washington, and moved to the National last spring.

Cincinnati won the pennant by taking the last game from Boston, never giving it up.

The Reds will look over in the spring another star of the Piedmont league, Charles Hawley, who batted .372 for Durham.

Ray Mueller, farm system sells a player to another major league club the price almost invariably is $40,000. That is what the Reds paid for Vince DiMaggio and what the Giants paid for Mickey Witek.

Babe Young, the Giants' new first baseman, is weak on ground balls. The Giants are looking elsewhere for a man to fill the job.

In nine years of major league playing Paul Derringer of the Reds has averaged less than two walks a game.

TORONTO LEAFS TAKE TO ICE FOR A WORKOUT

Most of the Summer-Developed Kinks Ironed Out in Fast Practice

PHYSICAL TRAINING

Sweeney Schriner Will Not be on Line With Drillon and Apps

St. Catharine, Oct. 17 — (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs swung into a rapid-fire fitness campaign to prepare for their National Hockey League opener Thursday night.

The Leafs came here from Toronto yesterday and between now and next week end when they go to the north for a series of exhibition games they will scarcely let up for a minute between workouts and drills.

Returning to St. Catharines, where they last trained before the 1937-38 schedule when they won their last world championship, the Leafs went at it for the first time yesterday. In a brisk, one-hour session they rid themselves of most of summer - developed kinks.

"Where I never knew anything like this before," said Sweeney Schriner, inserted in a mid-summer trade from New York Americans. "The Americans always took it pretty easy for awhile."

Schriner took more hard work today when the Leafs were called from bed at seven a.m. and were out for a 15 minutes jaunt. An hour of physical training was scheduled after breakfast.

Lapsed at P. T.

"Once we had physical training with the Americans," Schriner recalled. "But all the players just stood around laughing."

The talk of Manager Conny Smythe and Coach Dick Irvin is made more difficult by the fact the Leafs have no farm club this year and have a big field of players to choose from. While they may farm out three or four players to International - American League clubs, no decision will be made until the schedule starts. Some extra players will be carried.

The main settled one point when he said he did not plan to work Schriner on a forward line with Syl Apps and Gordie Drillon. That would put the Toronto trio one of the highest-scoring forwards in hockey, but Irvin doesn't plan to concentrate his attack in a trio.

"Bob Davidson has had two good workouts as a back-checking forward on the Apps-Drillon line," he said. "He's not sensational, but he gives the team what we want on that line. We'll find Schriner a spot, possibly on a line centred by Murph Chamberlain."

FEATHERWEIGH IS TN A TANGLE

One of the most discredited champs in boxing ranks in some times is Joey Archibald, LEFT, world's featherweight champion in the eyes of the N.B.A. (affiliated with the Canadian Association). Joey has been losing overweight matches and winning questionable decisions since he became champ. Right is his latest win, over Harry Jeffra, RIGHT, is just another of the ring game's many "incidents." N.B.A. authorities are expected to demand a return bout before Paul Canadeo's Canada's Dave Castilloux or any other contenders get a shot at the crown—if ever.

STRANGLER KERRI TO SHOW WARES

Champion of England, Korri Will Meet Joe Maich in Final Bout

Ed (Strangler) Korri, former English heavyweight wrestling champion, who is making his initial tour of North America, was to be officially signed to meet Joe Maich, former Canadian amateur grappling champion, in the main bout of Friday night's wrestling card at the Hume Arena. Korri comes to Canada from New York World highly heralded as a modern wrestler, who because of his fame-like hold the punishing headlock, made famous by the late (Strangler) Lewis a decade ago. Korri has only been on this side of the Atlantic Ocean for a few months and after wrestling with some success in the U.S.A., crossed into Canada and engaged in bouts at Montreal and Quebec recently. Korri, who is a Canadian by rate now, is stated to return to England and his old corner.

Winners of two bouts last week at the Forum, Mexico City, meets Ernie Sobie, the little 170 pound Italian who has fought his way into the hearts of the local fans by his clever boxing over last year's visit, however, is a popular favourite in Belleville following the Tiger Daniels here last week in straight falls. Valdes, who does not weigh over 160, employs a new wrestling hold of his own invention and has dubbed it "the headlock," put into use by the sudden application of the wrestler's right arm around his opponent's neck, thus bringing terrific pressure along his opponent's body, hurls the opponent to the mat with easy prey for a fall, if exercised properly. Valdes works this ring hold to perfection.

A preliminary 30-minute bout will commence the night's activities.

RABBIT MCVEIGH EAGER TO PLAY

Hopes Enough Will Enlist to Let Him Back Into Playing Ranks

Detroit, Oct. 17 (CP)—Rabbit McVeigh has lined up a busy winter as a rocky official with the National Hockey League, the International-American and Michigan Ontario Hockey League, but the Medicine Hat product is hoped with the advent of war that enough NHL players will enlist that he could go back into action.

McVeigh is in his forties, but the veteran is keen to get back into playing ranks. He is a Detroit resident in summer.

"The National Hockey League is just full of stuff complete with the old Western Canada League," McVeigh said. "But I played in the N.H.L. until I was 39. I wouldn't have lived that long in the Western League."

Renowned U. S. Grid Mentors Meet Again After 32 Years

STAGG WARNER

By Central Press Canadian

One of the most interesting games on the grid calendar in United States this fall will take place on Friday, Oct. 20. The game will be played at Stockton, California, between College of the Pacific and San Jose State. It's a game that will "renew acquaintance" on the mythical national championship — ordinarily a rare occurrence, but seldom seen in California, but this year it's bound to attract widely scattered attention.

The reason? In this game one will be coached by Amos Alonzo Stagg and the other by Glenn Scobey (Pop) Warner, two of the greatest coaching names in the history of the American gridiron.

Great as has been their fame down through the years, these two gridiron patriarchs have met only once in an unadorning dual. And that meeting was just a month short of 32 years ago, on Nov. 25, 1907.

At that time Coach Stagg was piloting another of his fine University of Chicago elevens and Warner was still coach of the famous Carlisle Indians. It was a game of unusual interest.

The Indians beat the Maroons, 18-4, and maybe Old Man Stagg has been thirsting for revenge ever since. Well, he gets his chance come Friday. Bookies like a good one for Stagg, judging from the team's 5-0 surprising win over the heavily favored University of California's team in the season's opener.

Plenty has happened in the American grid pastime since that distant day—and lots of things have happened to Stagg and Warner, too. Perhaps they haven't changed as much as the game, but vicissitudes of varying kinds have been theirs.

Stagg continued for many years at Chicago until a gradual decline in interest there in football and advancing age forced the smiling gray-haired dean of the Big Ten out of the game in 1932 after 41 years of service. He accepted a coaching position at the comparatively unknown College of the Pacific in Stockton and he has been there ever since.

Great Years For Warner

Warner continued to coach his Indian boys at Carlisle, turning out some amazing teams and players — the greatest of the latter being Carlisle immortal Jim Thorpe.

When the Indian school was discontinued in 1914 Warner became coach at the University of Pittsburgh and immediately began turning out championship teams and grid players—just as he had done at Carlisle. In 1924 he was induced to move to Stanford and Pop continued his championship-making with teams and players on the Pacific coast, his greatest player being the famous Ernie Nevers.

In 1933 Warner went to Temple University in Philadelphia to build up that school's football status, but after five years there, he did not succeed.

Now he is at San Jose State—and probably very glad of it because he is creator of the Warner system of play so widely used in United States —once more can revive his old feud with his friendly enemy—Stagg.

Hungarians Confiscate Banned Nazi Pamphlets

Budapest, Oct. 17 (AP)— The Hungarian government clamped down on Nazi pamphleteers today, ordering confiscation of a long list of publications it termed inciting—including a pamphlet on Adolf Hitler's Danzig speech.

The government announcement said the pamphlets had been put on sale without submission to the censor.

Among the banned titles were Reflect, Brethren," "In Fire and Blood," "Strangulation Justice," "Enlish Politician," "Justice in Palace and Hovel," and a book of verse.

The county remained calm following yesterday's killing of 4 members of the outlawed Nazi "Death Legion," who, it was charged, planned to overthrow the government and assassinate 17 of their opponents and the more moderate Nazi leaders.

While the secret police sought others connected with the alleged plot, all news of the incident was kept from the country's press. No mention of it was made on the radio, and not one of Hungary's 35 newspapers was permitted by the censor to print even the bare announcement of the arrests. Only one paper carried a report of the pamphlet confiscation order.

VICE-PRESIDENT

"I find great satisfaction in realizing that if I were once more 15 years old, starting out in search of a career, I could do no better than become a railroader," Mr. Warren once said. He underwent a major operation several days ago and died last night in hospital here.

To veteran railwaymen throughout the west Mr. Warren was known as "Bert." To him railroading was the "job" whether as sectionman or general manager.

Born in England
Born at Taunton, Somersetshire, England, June 7, 1874, he came to Canada early in life and entered the Canadian Pacific Railway employ in 1889 as an office boy at Winnipeg. In 1901 he thought to leave railroading and entered the mercantile business here but the call of the road was strong and the next year he joined the Canadian Northern Railway.

He advanced with the road as it grew from only a few hundred miles of trackage to its present proportions as the Canadian National Railways.

He became station agent at Portage La Prairie, Man., then advanced rapidly, as chief clerk to the General Manager, Superintendent, General Superintendent and Assistant to the General Manager for Western Lines.

MRS. SMITH'S FEET HURT!

Mrs. Smith's feet feel as though they had been put through a wringer.

Mrs. Smith ran all over town looking for bargains, comparing prices, looking for "specials today only."

That's why her feet hurt.

If Mrs. Smith were as smart as you, she would have read the advertisements carefully before going shopping. Then she would have saved a lot of steps. And money. Maybe she would even feel like going to the dance tonight with Mr. Smith.

Let's all hope that Mrs. Smith reads the advertisements hereafter. Then she'll KNOW where to go for the best values!

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK — By R. J. SCOTT

SOMES ARE MENTIONED 293 TIMES IN THE BIBLE, AND ROCKS 135 TIMES—PALESTINE WAS, AND STILL IS, FULL OF LIMESTONE ROCKS, LARGE AND SMALL.

THERE WERE SIX TIMES AS MANY PERSONS MURDERED IN CHICAGO LAST YEAR AS WERE KILLED IN AIR RAIDS IN THE ENTIRE UNITED STATES — FLAMES FLEW 22,445,000 MILES, MAKE PEACEFUL THAT OCCURRED IN THE AIR.

Crystal Star

By EARLE COOK

His name was Crystal Star. A very strange name, but I assure you the man was equally strange.

I had stopped for gasoline at Ventura, on my way to Los Angeles from Santa Barbara. As I was preparing to leave the station, I was approached by a queer looking individual. He was about five feet two, topped with a weird looking shock of hair which seemed to stand straight up. After his hair you noticed his steely gray, penetrating eyes, set in a rugged face. The face fooled you. You didn't know whether it was a baby one, or a sad one. It still baffles me fooled. And his age; he might have been twenty-five or forty-five, but your guess is as good as mine. His clothes were very ordinary, but unlike most hitch-hikers, he carried several books under his arm. I knew what was coming, and prepared myself for a refusal, when he spoke.

"If it is pleased you, sir, may I have the pleasure of enjoying with you the journey to Los Angeles?"

He had me there. I opened the door, and started on my way with my strange companion. It was fully fifteen minutes before he spoke.

"May I introduce myself? My name is Crystal Star."

I acknowledged the introduction, adding, "But surely Crystal Star is not your real name?"

"The only name I shall ever have. I am in a new world with a new name."

"But why such a peculiar one?" I queried.

"Peculiar? You may think so, my friend, but to me it is a symbol—my own symbol of the future—may it shine as a crystal star."

"You say you are in a new world? I don't quite understand."

"I am a Russian; I have been in this country only two years."

"Only two years?" I asked, puzzled. "But how do you speak English so well?"

"I have studied; I have worked very hard . . . but thyre is much I must learn." His eyes were heavenward as he was speaking, his jaw was firm. I was enjoying with him his reverie, they said in the great lumber camps of your Northwest that I was too small. But he is small only who is small in mind. They put me in your jails because of my age, or a sad one. It still baffles me fooled. And his age; he might have been twenty-five or forty-five, but your guess is as good as mine. His clothes were very ordinary, but unlike most hitch-hikers, he carried several books under his arm. I knew what was coming, and prepared myself for a refusal, when he spoke.

"I am a Russian; I have been in this country only two years."

of every Russian worker.

"Then one day the Cossacks came to our humble dwelling and tacked a card on the door. I remember my father consoling my mother, telling her not to worry, as nothing was going to happen. But it did happen, much sooner than we expected. The Cossacks returned the following day, and dragged my father off to the town nearby. I followed with my mother, and we were crowded into a building found him before the commandant . . . It was crowded and we could not hear, but we could see that my father was protesting. But the commandant waved him away. The Cossack guard seized him and he followed. In the courtyard they stood him up against a wall; they wanted to blindfold him, but he refused. They laughed. He was looking at us, and silently gave us his last smiled in those days. Eight men fired. . . . Some woman fainted, but my mother. She had smiled with my father.

"The night mother later that he was shot for disobeying orders on the card they had tacked on the door. She was a brave woman, but not brave enough to go on without my father. So, he said, finally turning to me, "that is why I must learn many languages, and learn them well."

I was surprised, and asked, "But I don't understand . . . why didn't your father obey the orders on the card they had placed on your door?"

I saw the trace of a tear as he said, "You see, my father could not read."

Little Benny's Note Book

I was standing on our front steps this morning wondering how it would feel if a lot of newsboys suddenly started to yell, Extra! Extra! no more school, and his office, and I said, O, pop, how's this for a swell day? Did you notice that sky? I said.

I hope I shall never fall to notice a beautiful face or a beautiful sky, pop said, and I said, I will like this yestidday, too . . . and our teacher told us it was Indian Summer.

The Indians must of been lucky people, pop said, as they kept their scalps, pop said, and I said, She told us about Indian Summer, a lot of poems about Indian Summer.

Poets know a thing or 2, pop said. They let the rest of the days after wealth and worldly wisdom while they pit flowers in their buttonholes, and dance through the glens and glades. If I had it to do over again maybe I'd be a poet, he said, and I said, Well jimminy, pop, why can't we pretend we was poets? Just for today!

Meaning to go out to the park or some place, and pop said, That's a thought.

Sure, pop, just think how surprised ma would be when we came home together like the upper crust and told her everything we'd been doing, I said, and pop said, I can well imagine. Well I'll tell you what we'll do, brother poet, we'll each make up a little poem, and then we'll be on our way, he said.

And he made one up and recited it, like:

Birds sing and flowers smell
And bees gather honey,
But children grimly trudge to school
While their fathers loll for money.

Now let's hear yours, Shakesbeer, he said, and I said, Aw G, what's a use?

Wich what was?

Burr's

Burr's—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carley and family, South Lakeside, and Miss Loretta Ryan, Niles' Corners, were callers at Mr. W. B. Hough's on Sunday evening.

Mr. Harry Morden, Demorestville, was a caller at Mr. Robert Bower's on Tuesday.

The trees throughout the countryside have presented a gorgeous appearance lately in colours of crimson, brown, yellow and red in various shades, but the wind is fast robbing them of their beauty and the ground is adorned with a many colored carpet.

Mrs. C. L. McHenry was a caller at Mrs. George Fox's on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Ridley Anderson, Wellington, was a caller at Mr. Bride Hough's on Wednesday.

Mrs. Joshua Moon entertained Burr's Ladies' Aid on Wednesday afternoon. There was an attendance of 17 members and two visitors. The president, Mrs. Gene Hubbs opened the meeting with a hymn, Psalm 99, verses 1-36 was read responsively. The theme song was "I am living." The treasurer reported $67.13 on hand. Those responsible for next meeting are Mrs. Braxon and Mrs. Ross Burr and those to assist with the lunch are Mrs. Ross Burr, Mrs. R. Vincent, Mrs. Tom Morden and Mrs. Norman Fox. The roll call was responded to with a Thanksgiving verse. "Sacrifice" is the word for next roll call.

A discussion followed concerning their Hallowe'en social. Prizes are to be given for the best characters in mask. Messrs Merritt Adams and Kenneth Vanoott were appointed to act as door keepers. A thank offering will be taken to increase church funds. Next day of a children supper. Rev. W. J. Parsons gave a talk on Red Cross work, asking that the Ladies' Aid carry on Red Cross work in the name of the United Church.

It was decided that Red Cross work was everybody's work and should include the whole community and not the United Church alone. Mrs. Gerald Brooks gave a reading, "Plenty to Give." Vera Hubbs sang a solo "The Church by the Side of the Road." Rev. W. J. Parsons closed the meeting with prayer.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

Mr. and Mrs. Awrey Howard and children, Toronto, spent over the week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McHenry. On Sunday they all motored to Lake-on-the-Mountain. Glenora and over the ferry where the view of the high shore in autumnal colors was a pleasing picture.

Mrs. Kenneth Vanoott returned home on Monday after spending some time in Ameliasburg with her sister-in-law Mrs. Leonard who is ill with pneumonia.

Mr. Bride Hough was helping Mr. Sam Clarke on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Barnes motored to Aylmer on Sunday to visit friends, returning home on Tuesday. While away they visited the farm of Premier Hepburn.

Mr. Harold Spencer, Vancouver Island, is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spencer.

Mrs. George Fox, Misses Irene Fox and Vera Hubbs were callers at Mrs. Bride Hough's on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Hubble and little son, Highland Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson, Keene and Miss Dean, Peterboro, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowers who with their guests went to Picton on Saturday evening. On Sunday they all went to Wellington, Sandbanks and Outlet Beach.

Mrs. George Fox called on Mrs. Sam Clarke and Mrs. Robert Bowers on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Authouse, and family, West Lake, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. McKay and two daughters, Cooksville, spent the tea hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowers.

Mr. Anthony Murphy, Wellington who recently purchased Mrs. Ina Fryer's place has a couple of carpenters at work rebuilding the barn, which went down under the weight of the snow storm that fell a year ago last December.

FARMER AGREES TO DELIVER CROP

London, Ont., Oct. 16.—(CP)—A lawsuit in which Cook Brothers, millers, of Kensall, Ont., asked for an order compelling Norman Mitchell of Biddulph to sell them 1,000 bushels of beans at a contract price of $1 a bushel was dismissed in county court today on consent of the parties. Lawyers informed that Mitchell had agreed to deliver the crop.

It was the second test action started here over the wartime beans prices, as growers sought to share in the upswing. Previously, Cook Brothers sued another grower for performance of contract. An injunction was granted and the grower decided to sell at $1 a bushel, according to his spring contract.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—(CP)—The Toronto market moved ahead today on leadership from the war group. Industrials at the start and at the close showed gains of the day. By noon the Golds were up a full point in the index, the Industrials and base metals about .60 and the Western Oils .15. More than a dozen new high prices for the year were chalked up in the Industrial department with the Steels, Foods and Implements mainly affected. National Steel Car, Dominion Bridge, Dominion Foundries, Cockshutt Plow, Massey-Harris Pfd. and the Moore Corporation Stocks all advanced a point or more.

Features in the Gold Share Trade were Preston, Aunor, MacLeod-Cockshutt and Pamour, all selling higher on good volume. Most of the base metals were narrowly higher and bids were up in the Western Oils for Home, Calgary-Edmonton, Anglo - Canadian, Foothills, Okalta and others.

WALL STREET

New York Oct. 17 (AP)— War-buying again made its appearance in the stock market today, with steels, aircrafts, rails and specialties favored.

Gains at the best ranged from one to more than three points. Subsequent profit taking reduced prices in most categories and volume lightened near the fourth hour.

German air raids on Scotland and the British Scapa Flow naval base, with coincident damage to English war craft, brought speculative forces into the market and boosted stocks of companies whose weight benefit from foreign orders if the war proves of lengthy duration.

McIntyre Porcupine moved up a trifle in the Canadian section but C.P.R. and Dome were trimmed small fractions. Fair demand appeared for Dominion 4s in the bond market.

Prominent shares on the upswing were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, U.S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing Sperry, United Aircraft, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Pan American, Ohio, American Smelting, Western Union, Douglas Aircraft, American Can, Johns-Manville and Standard Oil of N.J.

Ahead fractions to two or so in the curb were American Cyanamid B, Leadseed, Grummon Aircraft, and Jones and Laughlin.

TORONTO

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Oct. 17—(CP)—Slaughter steers and heifers sold 15-25 cents higher and other grades of cattle sold at steady prices at mid-session on the Toronto Livestock market today. The calf division held firm while lambs and sheep continued steady. No hog price was established. Cattle holdover from Monday was 1,400 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: cattle 1,110; calves 560; hogs 1,400; sheep and lambs 1,420.

A few choice weighty steers brought $7.25-$7.50 and good butcher steers and heifers made $7-$7.25 with a few selling up to $7.40. Common butchers sold downward to $5.50. Butcher cows were steady at 25-$5.25 and canners and cutters sold at $2-$2.75. Good bologna bulls sold at $4.50 and bologna bulls $4.50-$4.85. Fed calves sold mostly at $7.50-$8. Common to medium stockers were $5.50-$6.50 and good light stockers sold up to $7.

Choice veal calves traded at $10-$11 with the bulk of vealers selling from $8-$10.50. Grassers traded mostly at $5.

Previous c'ose on off-truck bacon was $8.75.

Good ewe and wether lambs brought $9-$9.25. Other grades sold from $7-$8.25. Sheep ranged from $3-$6 cwt.

Graded Eggs and Butter Prices Rise

Toronto, Oct. 17. — Butter and graded egg prices went higher at Toronto yesterday.

Continued light arrivals of fresh supplies firmed the butter market. Demand was not heavy, but there was sufficient buying to take up offerings. Ontario No. 1 creamery solids traded 1at 28¼c per pound.

Good demand and light offerings caused the egg market to maintain a firm undertone. Pullets were not arriving in such heavy volume yesterday. Prices advanced in the graded section, but other divisions held previous levels.

Montreal Produce.

Montreal, Oct. 17 (CP)—Produce market prices here as reported by the Dominion Agricultural Bureau, follow:

Belleville Band And Musicians Give Program at Napanee

Featured as the guest artists in a program that was a novel departure from their usual musical entertainments, the Belleville Municipal Band delighted a large gathering of the union citizens assembled on Trinity United Church, Napanee, last night.

Highlights of the program were Leoni's "Liebestraum" artistically rendered by Mr. Ing, Hamilton's "William Tell Overture", in which Mr. Leo Riggs was the piano soloist, selections from the "Mikado" and other classical numbers. Popular numbers such as the "Beer Barrel Polka" drew well merited acclaim.

Assisting artists were the Belleville Radio Quartette, consisting of Messrs. Harry Moorman, Harold Howard, James Bankier and W. Fraser; Master Ronnie Bankier, who was heard in a cornet duet with Albert Brancombe, as well as solo, and James Bankier.

Action of Premier Duplessis Described by Liberal Leaders As Threat to Canadian Unity

Hon. P. J. A. Cardin Says Good Will Between Races is in Peril

3 LEADERS HEARD

QUEBEC, Oct. 17—(CP) — The action of Premier Duplessis in calling elections in Quebec was described last night by Liberal leaders as a threat to Canadian unity in a critical period.

Public Works Minister P. J. A. Cardin, member of the Dominion cabinet, said in a broadcast address from Montreal: "In this conflict, Canadian unity is threatened; goodwill between the races is in peril."

"It is confederation itself that is being attacked," he declared. "Quebec is being aroused against the rest of the country."

Hon. C. G. Power, Federal Postmaster-General, asserted in a speech at a Quebec rally that the fate of the province and its people rest in the December 25th election campaign.

"What is to be Quebec's future in Confederation?" he asked. "Are we to remain a partner, working in harmony with the other provinces for the common good or are we to return to the bad old days of strife twenty years ago when Canada was torn by racial conflict?"

Described as "Criminal"

Liberal leader Adelard Godbout of Quebec, accused Premier of an attempt to "disrupt our peoples at a time when all provinces are trying to unite in a national effort." He spoke at a rally at Shawinigan Falls. He described as "criminal act" Premier Duplessis' adoption of the "race cry" as a slogan in an attempt to gain political supremacy.

Premier Duplessis, on the other hand, criticized Justice Minister Lapointe for entering the campaign and claimed the 63-year-old federal minister was to give youth a death certificate." The union Nationale leader addressed a meeting at St. Calixtan D' Armagh.

Paul Gouin, leader of the Action Liberale Nationale, started his campaign into Nicolet and Shawinigan Falls. He appealed for the election of his party to "save the province from financial collapse."

Should Be Condemned.

Mr. Cardin, delivering his second address of the campaign, said Mr. Duplessis had raised an election cry against assimilation, centralization, participation and opposition to divert attention from provincial issues. The minister declared "such an attempt to launch Quebec province into an open struggle against the rest of the confirry should be condemned strongly."

While public men and chiefs of political parties call a truce in their political and social discussions to help Ottawa in the policy of voluntary participation, and when labor leaders, Catholic and neutral, promise their support, our provincial government launches an attack against Confederation," Mr. Cardin said. "What an error."

The minister declared there was understanding everywhere but in Quebec Province and he pictured the provincial leader as the start of a "dangerous conflict which could cause a national disaster."

No Neutrality.

He said there could be no neutrality for Quebec, nor separation nor independence that he believed the hearts of the people were for the "honest and generous co-operation with the other provinces in the Canadian Confederation."

Minister-General Power's address before a crowd of 700 at Quebec marked his entry into the campaign in behalf of the Provincial Liberal Party beside Mr. Lapointe and Mr. Cardin.

Mr. Power said the Justice Minister, in lending his support and that of his Quebec colleagues to the war decision to enter the war, had "signed a contract in favor of Canada's people with the other eight provinces." The Postmaster-General accused the Quebec premier of trying to break the contract.

"We are trying to co-operate in behalf of humanity in the war being waged by the Dominion, province and Empire, and Communism but the Quebec premier has seen fit to drag us into the campaign and now that we are in, we will stay in to the finish."

Both Mr. Power and Mr. Godbout, whose Lachute address was directed to Argenteuil County electors, charged Mr. Duplessis with a contradictory attitude on campaign issues.

Premier Duplessis had assumed the role of protector of the province, Canadians against "assimilation." He told English electors, Godbout said, assimilation and conscription were not issues, yet in addresses before French audiences presents the Premier told them the opposite."

Adopts "Race Cry"

The Liberal Leader charged Mr. Duplessis had adopted the "race cry" when the various racial elements in Canada sought to live unity. He said this was "deplorable."

Premier Duplessis, in his address at St. Calixtan, said the province had "seized Quebec for a certificate of recommendation" when he entered the campaign. "He wants to give youth a death certificate."

The Premier said that although the Federal Ministers previously had expressed opposition to conscription participation by Canada they voted $165,000,000 to send us to war," Mr. Duplessis added it were "better to spend to keep farmers' sons on the land or to spend to bury the min Europe."

Mr. Duplessis repeated a charge that Ottawa threatened the autonomy of Quebec. He asserted that the Quebec Government never would permit the people of the Province to be "slaves in Canada or abroad."

Must Have Right

"It is time that it be known in Canada and abroad that Quebec must have the right to express its opinion," the Premier declared. "It is better for Quebec to pass its laws in Quebec than to have them passed at Ottawa."

Paul Gouin, enlisted in his speeches at Shawinigan Falls, in the St. Maurice Valley, and at Nicolet, near Three Rivers, that only the creation of a Provincial Bank, a move he said the Premier opposed, would assure the transportation which rob the Province of millions of dollars each year."

He said Mr. Duplessis kept only those of his 1936 election promises which did not "interfere with the trusts Mr. Gouin said the issues of Provincial autonomy had been raised by the Premier "only to hide the moral failures of his regime and his own numerous failures."

FRENCH RETIRE

The second attack, said French dispatches, put five German Divisions into action yesterday afternoon where they attacked at the Saar River. There the German forces were said to have been stopped on "the prearranged line", still within German territory and still in advance of the main Maginot Line.

This was described as the largest action of the war on the western front thus far. The Germans drove hard across no-man's-land in the Saar attack in the wake of a heavy bombardment without the protection of tanks.

Drive Is Shattered

French artillery fire shattered the German attack, causing heavy losses, dispatches said. With their first line of observation gone, however, the French command kept forces alert along the main line waiting for a new assault.

This morning French military dispatches stated the Germans had failed at least for the moment to pursue their attacks. French confidence that the situation is well in hand was reflected in a War Ministry announcement that soldiers in the class of 1909 would be released from the army starting Friday, and the class of 1910 would be released immediately afterward. Dispatches also stated some of the older officers in the army would be released.

A General Staff communique said that in anticipation of the German thrusts the French Command decided more than 15 days ago to order back to new positions Divisions which earlier had advanced into German territory.

This movement, it was said, terminated Oct. 3.

Silence Then

Since then the communique said, 'we have left in contact only strong surveillance units supported fractions."

Near the Luxembourg border, after penetrating to the French village of Apach yesterday, Nazi troops fell back under the hurled clinging hard to won positions on the heights at Schwieringen.

To Review War

While military activity on the front remained relatively free, Premier Daladier summoned his cabinet to meet Thursday with President Lebrun for a review of the war.

French sources said the German thrust at Apach yesterday appeared to have been aimed to carry past the village and turn west toward the French river below Luxembourg in an attempt to strike at the weakest part of the Maginot line.

The French did not mention their casualties in the battle which forced a new line back from a mile to one and a half miles in the pocket formed by the junction of the German, French and Luxembourg borders.

The Germans employed heavy tanks and airplanes in large numbers, dispatches said. The attack started as it is on their flank.

While the German attack in the corner near the Luxembourg border was pressed, heavy guns and shells between the Moselle and the Saar River made no break up Nazi troop concentrations.

Railroad Artillery Used

Railroad artillery of large caliber was reported to have participated for the first time in the heavy bombardment.

There were indications that French strategy was based on the hope the Germans might be enticed into an assault on the Maginot line. Semi-official statements indicated that it would be a "waiting war" on the part of French and British troops.

The Allies, these sources said, would attempt to cause the German to have to leave the Siegfried line in the hope of gaining an immediate victory there. Then the pinch of the British blockade is felt at home.

French military experts' professed 80th confidence in the efficiency of the Maginot line that they still speculated on the possibility of the Germans attempting to outflanking thrust through the Netherlands or Belgium.

$963 REQUIRED FOR OBJECTIVE

Canvassers Pledge Selves to Complete Campaign by Thursday

Pledging themselves to complete the object of their drive, the canvassers in the Belleville Y. M. C. A. financial campaign went on record at a meeting prepared to meet the campaign objective of $4,627, at a campaign luncheon held in the "Y" auditorium last evening, when it was disclosed that the campaign needed an additional $963, to meet the objective. The campaign will continue until Thursday night, it was announced today.

A total of $3,664.00 has been subscribed to date for the Y.M.C.A. in a public drive to raise funds to meet the expenses of the Association, not otherwise taken care of through the general funds of the city. The "special names" committee, headed by H. W. Ackerman and W. B. Deacon agreed to underwrite $225.00 of the sum needed to make the drive a successful one, leaving a total of $738.00 for the general working canvassers to subscribe.

Canvassers to receive special mention at yesterday's campaign luncheon were Mr. Shapiro, who listed the largest individual number of subscriptions of the day, Leo Riggs' team was credited with having the highest percentage while A. L. Young reported the largest amount of new money subscribed. Gordon Benjafield had the most number of new subscriptions for the day. Speakers of the day were Mayor Ellis, who spoke on the work of the Y.M.C.A. in the community.

"The Y.M.C.A. provides free sports for the city's teen-aged boys in winter and summer, as well as providing summer camps and other recreation at no expense to the citizens," Secretary J. E. Shortt reminded the canvassers to tell their clients.

Musical Show Hit at McCarthy

Acclaimed as one of the finest musical shows to grace the footlights there, the Art Canez "World's Fair Vanities" caught the eye and ear of a discerning audience at its opening night at the McCarthy Theatre last night.

Featured are the amusing antics of Sunshine Sammy, former motion picture star with the popular Gus Gang comedies, and his colored dance partners. Original routines to catchy music caught the fancy of the crowd and the star received well-merited applause.

There is plenty of variety in the program. Comedians, impersonators, musicians, entertainers and dancers round out a whole that was greatly appreciated by last night's audience. A likeable master-of-ceremonies adds greatly to the evening's fun as does a snappy girls' swing band whose ability to produce the popular numbers of the day leaves nothing be desired.

The entire show is one of real merit, its comedy is clean and wholesome, its music tuneful and its dancing and singing of entertaining nature.

CARS' FENDERS BECOME FAST

While backing his motorcar from the curb along Front St. yesterday, John Gallivan, Stirling, was in collision with another car driven by Miss A. M. Burley, of this city. Both cars were backing out from the curb and about to proceed southerly when Miss Burley's car had the same poor during the world war.

CANADIAN WOMEN VOLUNTEER FOR WAR WORK IN ENGLAND

Canadian women in Britain are organizing to play their part in the war and to help in every way possible any Canadian forces which may be sent to England. The Canadian Women's Club, an organization with a membership of over 200 is the royal patron of the movement in London.

High commissioner, LEFT, who is chairman of the emergency committee, is shown interviewing women recruits at Canada House in London.

AIR RAID

It was the second German air raid on British naval centres and followed that yesterday at the Firth of Forth near Edinburgh, in which 12 Nazi planes were lost, 45 injured and from four to seven German bombers brought down.

Shortly after the Scapa Flow raid today the Admiralty announced of a numerous scattered points along the east coast of England and Scotland, from Aberdeen to London being about 20 miles away.

Sir Kingsley Wood, air raid chief Chatfield, minister for Co-ordination of Defence, made similar statements on the enemy action in the House of Commons and Lords respectively today.

Before today only the bare fact that the Royal Oak had been sunk, "believed by U-boat action", had been disclosed, with casualty lists showing 416 saved out of approximately 1200 aboard.

Admiralty Navy Active.

Dealing with the campaign against U-boats, Churchill announced in addition to those mentioned "two thirds of the German U-boats which were operating have been attacked from depth charges."

He said the British navy also had been active, but did not give any figures or details.

Mr. Churchill said about 60 German U-boats were ready for action at the outbreak of war.

The ability of a U-boat to penetrate the harbor defences of Scapa Flow and sink the Royal Oak was called "a remarkable exploit of great resolution, skill and daring" by Lord Chatfield. The sinking occurred last Saturday.

Lord Chatfield said it appeared that the ship was first fired into by the boat torpedoes at the Royal Oak, of which only one hit, striking the bow. The second explosion was first attributed to internal causes or the effect of inflammable oil which was flooded on the basis of the first conjecture.

He added that about twenty minutes later the submarine fired three or four torpedoes and then, after firing in quick succession, caused the warship to capsize and sink.

At End of Harbor.

The Royal Oak, he said, was lying at the extreme end of the inner harbor and therefore many officers and men drowned before they reached the ship's quarters.

"As it is it does not affect the margin of security in heavy vessels which remains ample," he added. "An intensely search for the U-boat menace has yielded no results yet. All necessary measures are being taken to increase the protection which in the last war proved effectual."

Although Scapa Flow was a main base of the fleet during the last war, it was not considered secure by battleships and battle cruisers in the early part of that conflict because of the danger of attack from submarine attacks.

Capital Ships Moved.

The capital ships were taken around the north coast of Scotland because the anti-submarine defences of the anchorage were considered insecure. It has been generally assumed in Britain in recent months that the Admiralty had strengthened the defences of Scapa Flow to minimize the danger of a new German attack. Raid warning signals were sounded during the day at the Firth of Forth in Britain, the scene of yesterday's German raid, and also at Dundee, Hull and other east coast points.

The Firth of Forth warning was given at Leuchars, Scotland, a coastal mining area. It came at 11:13 a.m. (6:13 a.m. E.S.T.), and was followed by an "all clear" signal at 11:36.

The Southend warning was given at 1:33 p.m. (8:33 a.m. E.S.T.). Southend is about 30 miles east of the centre of London.

Earlier in the day raid warnings were sounded at Hull, Grimsby and Spridlington, all on the east coast of Yorkshire.

Later, the Ministry announced unidentified aircraft were reported near Hull and Grimsby shortly before 11 a.m.

The communique said precautionary measures were taken and an air raid warning given.

No enemy aircraft were identified and the all clear signal was given at 11:50 a.m.

Scattered Points

Warnings also were sounded at other scattered points along a 300 mile stretch of the English and Scottish east coasts. The areas stretched from the Firth of Forth in Scotland—where German aircraft reconnoitered early yesterday and followed up with a raid—to Thames Estuary points within 20 miles of London's outskirts.

The alarms were given by alert air raid precautions men on their toes after failure to sound an alarm at Edinburgh yesterday. They began about 11 a.m. and in most instances (as clear signals were given within an hour.

The nearest to London were at Southend, on the north bank of the mouth of the Thames, and at Chatham, naval base on the south coast of the estuary some twenty miles from the capital.

The warnings along the Firth of Forth included one at Dunfermline, north of the naval base at Rosyth. Dunfermline officials were indignant because they were nearly 20 minutes late in being given the warning signal in comparison with other nearby points.

Clear Visibility

A thick haze lay over the Forth and made visibility poor. Even Inchcolm is was a typical unsettled October day.

At 1:30 p.m. a warning was sounded at Felixstowe in the important Harwich harbor area, sixty miles northeast of London. An all-clear was given half an hour later.

Some excitement was caused in the King's Cross area of northern London when a whistle sounded. Thousands of some factories in the neighborhood were told it was an air raid warning. No one seemed to know whether it was a genuine alarm or not but several hundred persons went into shelters.

Places where air raid warnings were sounded included the following: Scunthorpe, Ipswich, Grimsby, Chatham, Hull, Sunderland, North and South Shields, Ramsgate, Southend, Cleethorpes, Driffield and Chelmsford.

The all-clear signal was sounded in the Southend and Chatham area shortly before 2 p.m.

British submarine observers claimed a victory for coastal defences in yesterday's attacks.

Asserting that at least four of the German bombers "probably" had been shot down during an attack on the naval base at Rosyth, Scotland, the Admiralty said that the German percentage of loss had been too costly to make the raid a success. The admiralty reported that only a small bomb had damaged the 8,100-ton cruiser Southampton, and sunk an auxiliary barge near a great ship's boat moored alongside.

13 Killed, 16 Injured

The casualty toll of yesterday's air-raid on the British naval base at Rosyth was officially today announced as 13 dead and 12 seriously injured. This supported a statement last night listing the casualties at 35, including eight civilians killed.

These were casualties among naval personnel, the only civilians killed being those in a passenger steamer struck by a stray bullet.

A German communique claimed two British planes had been shot down during the raid and that two others probably had failed to return to their bases.)

The Admiralty said the Southampton, first British warship struck by bombs, suffered slight damage at the start of the war, was "ready for sea."

A Glancing Blow

The hit on the Southampton was a glancing blow, the ship being struck by a dive bomber. Two other warships, the cruiser Edinburgh and destroyer Mohawk, were also showered with bomb splinters but were reported undamaged. Both vessels were reported on the Edinburgh, the cruiser, the Mohawk and those on the Southampton.

Among the 15 men killed was Commander C. H. Lamb, in command of the Mohawk.

Spitfire fighting planes, which drove the German planes into the fire of fleet and shore anti-aircraft batteries, and destroyed the raiders out to sea, suffered no casualties, the Admiralty said.

The Nazi bombers failed to hit the famous Forth Bridge, linking the Firth of Forth, although bombs dropped near the structure, spanning the water spreading high into the air.

Bombs Fall Near Forth Over Bridge

Throughout the raid, trains continued to cross the high span, which is a vital link between the south bank of the Firth, giving passengers a thrilling view of the raid.

Spitfires, the fighting planes which battle raging over head.

Eye-witnesses reported combined with a large British armada, ready to paint a picture of the raid, which occurred between 1 and 2 p.m. Unofficial advices from Edinburgh declared the raiders flew up the Firth from the North Sea at a high altitude, dropping coastal mines and heading toward the Firth bridges 30 miles inland.

It was then declared the German bombers were forced to fly lower because of the anti-aircraft fire from the German coast. The raiders made three separate attacks at intervals of about half an hour, witnesses said.

No Warnings Sounded

No air raid warnings were sounded in the area of the attack. The racket of airplane motors and the sound of heavy firing at sea, however, caused people in both sides of the Firth gave residents their first intimation of the raid.

The Edinburgh Evening News, saying pieces of shell fell in many parts of the city, declared, "We have an expensive and comprehensive system of observation service. It was not operated by those in authority and the public were themselves against light showing through chinks in blinds at night. We have fitted our houses with warning literature, to say nothing of broadcast instructions."

Left to Guess

And yet the public said took place and the public were left guessing whether it was a sham fight or the real thing.

The News said: "This war has produced many muddles and blunders, but none so extraordinary as that in the first air raid over Britain not even an air raid warden blew his whistle."

The London Star estimated that seven Nazi bombers were brought down in the raid, more than "at least four," as the Government announced.

The first contact between the German planes and the Royal Air Force fighters, according to the British communique, occurred off May Island at the entrance to the Firth of Forth where two of the Nazi bombers were intercepted and driven back seaward.

"Another enemy aircraft was engaged 10 minutes later over Dalkeith," the communique said. "It fell in flames into the sea. While still in flames and a sharp contact took place off Crail and another raider fell into the sea. A third German aircraft was destroyed in the pursuit."

The communique gave no details of the downing of the three German planes which were reported destroyed.

Residents of South Queensferry, at the south end of the Forth Bridge, who had a closeup view of the raid, said the German raiders made "desperate attempts" to drop their bombs effectively.

Bombs Fall Near Town

Some of the planes dived within 300 feet of the bridge and bombed and machine-gunned the Royal Navy establishment on the north end of the span, they said.

One of the warships in the area joined in the pursuit plane overtake one of the German craft as it sought refuge in the clouds.

A Dumferline merchant said that "at least four or six seemed full of planes—it was a real dogfight."

Spitfires, or fighting-fliers, fired by anti-aircraft guns dropped over a wide area, no civilian fatalities were reported. One man was taken to a Leith hospital for treatment of a wound caused by a stray bullet.

The naval boat rescued three members of the crew of four from the wreckage of a German bomber which crashed into the North Sea after being engaged by a British pursuit plane.

Grateful For Rescue

One of the fishermen said the German airmen "all were very grateful for being rescued, and one of them—who spoke English fairly well—took a gold signet ring from his finger and gave it to my father, the skipper."

"It was a ring for saving me," the sailor quoted the flier as saying.

Shortly before the Admiralty issued its communique announcing the raid, it denied German claims the battle cruiser Repulse had been damaged by the same submarine which sank the battleship Royal Oak last October.

A Reuters dispatch from Oslo, reporting that three British warships had been hit by a plane dropped bombs and sunk a German warship off the Firth of Forth, said the following:

(Associated Press dispatches from Bergen said Norwegian fishermen in a boat off the three ships in conflict with a lone war vessel west of Aberdeenshire, Scotland. The fishermen said that one, or possibly two, British warships had been damaged but their identity was uncertain).

A Belgian tanker yesterday landed in English ports 21 survivors of the crew of the 2,677-ton British steamer Firby, sunk yesterday by a German submarine in the Atlantic Saturday.

Wounded in Stomach

Edinburgh, Oct. 17 (CP)—A house painter today described how a fellow-worker, Joseph McCulloch, was wounded by a bullet yesterday during the German air raid on the Firth of Forth.

Francis Flynn, who was working on the Admiralty pier, Rosyth Dockyard street, was at the top of some stairs and McCluskey was at the bottom when the bullet struck. Flynn heard the aircraft and a big German plane went up the Firth, machine-gunning the church steeple opposite.

"I thought the noise was old 'something has hit me,' and the next minute he crumpled up," Flynn said.

"I went down to see him and saw blood coming from his stomach. I shouted to the owner of the house and she went for a doctor living near. McCluskey died within a few minutes."

Colonel Lindbergh Comments

Colonel Lindbergh, on announcement of Saracoglu's leaving was the appearance of an article in the Istanbul newspaper Vakit by Ahmet Emin which asserted Great Britain and France would be ready to start effective sea blockade against Germany next week and attacks on what the Reich would receive from Russia and Italy.

The article, signed by I. Vanoff, Soviet scientist, reflected support of Soviet-German peace efforts and hinted Russia was prepared to give Germany economic assistance in the war.

There was no indication of what part Russia played in the Turkish negotiations with Turkey, Saracoglu conferring with Soviet officials with Rumanian leaders.

It was considered significant that the announcement coincided with the Baltic States, the Russians always considered within the sphere of importance of visiting envoys.

Jews Leave Western Poland

Reports from Berlin of the interchanging flood of Jewish refugees from German-occupied Poland, pouring into Russian territory, have been held by the Russians. The reports have been denied by Moscow and the Polish Army are still fighting a guerrilla campaign in Eastern Poland, it was said, with marauders and wearing uniforms of Soviet soldiers they had killed in ambush.

Vanoff's article in Izvestia said that Italy, as a neutral, could import commodities Germany needs and transport them to the Reich. It is also recalled that Russia is pledged to supply Germany with raw materials under recent agreements. Great Britain and France, Vanoff argued, could make the blockade more effective only by interrupting upon the trade rights of neutral states, which inevitably would lead to new international complications."

OBITUARY

HENRY SUMMARSELL

After an illness of one month's duration, Henry Summarsell, a resident of the Belleville Home for the Aged for nearly three years, passed away at the Belleville General Hospital on Monday evening, October 16th.

The deceased, who was in his 80th year, was born in England, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. John Summarsell. During the past 26 years he resided in this district, and was a member of the United Church. He was unmarried.

Surviving him are two sisters, Mrs. M. J. Gordon, Belleville, and Mrs. S. H. Mosbley, England.

The funeral will take place from Bailey Funeral Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, Thursday afternoon.

British Organize New Patrol System Across the Atlantic

War Vessels Lie in Clusters, Which Form a Broken Dotted Line Across the Ocean Says British Skipper

NO CONVOY

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—A new patrol system for the protection of allied merchant shipping—apparently much faster than the old convoy idea—was described by a British skipper as "like going from lamp post to lamp post" when put in operation by the Royal navy.

British war vessels lie in watchful little clusters, serving like pickets in a relatively circumscribed "beat," and the direction for mid-ocean rendezvous of the navy come from the admiralty's wireless centers in London.

This new service was cautiously explained today by a British skipper when he brought his ship safely into port here.

There was no convoy, he said, but the Admiralty kept him constantly advised by radio of the position of the patrol boats—destroyers and light cruisers which patrol the western Atlantic.

In a two-way conversation, he added, he kept the Admiralty informed on his own whereabouts. There was no danger that he, reported—only already, uneventful course plotted wholly by London which took him from one patrol to another.

"There was a patrol watching us off the north coast," the skipper explained, "and when we let that the radio told us when we would contact another, and another and still another until we arrived off the coast of Canada.

"I prefer not to tell you the exact spot where our course changed and where we were contacted off the Canadian coast. This might give valuable information to Hitler. However, we had plenty of company all the way across."

The convoy system, as perfected in the last war, has been greatly restricted the use and movements of individual ships, since it was necessary to keep all a number of them were prepared to sail simultaneously. They started out under the protection usually of a cruiser until reaching a rendezvous with a convoy of destroyers, which took them on the rest of the way.

Churchill's Statement to House on Sinking of the Royal Oak

London, Oct. 17 (CP)—Text of a statement in the House of Commons today by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, on the sinking of the battleship Royal Oak and the progress of the U-boat warfare follows:

"The Battleship Royal Oak was sunk at anchor by a U-Boat at Scapa Flow at approximately 1:00 a.m. on the 14th instant. It is still a matter for conjecture how the U-boat penetrated the defences of the harbor.

When we consider that during the whole course of the last war only one battleship was sunk by and immune from such attacks on account of the elaborate system of currents and barrages, this entry by a U-boat must be regarded as a remarkable exploit of professional skill and daring.

"The board of inquiry is now sitting at Scapa Flow to report on all these matters, and anything I say must be subject to revision in the light of their conclusions.

Sale of Torpedoes

It appears probable that the U-boat fired a salvo of torpedoes at the Royal Oak whereof only one hit. The second explosion was at the time attributed to internal causes, but it may have been the inflammable store, where kerosene for the anti-aircraft guns is kept, was flooded.

Twenty minutes later the U-boat fired another four torpedoes and these, striking in quick succession, caused the battleship to capsize and sink. She was lying at the extreme end of the inner naval anchorage for many officers and men were drowned before they could be examined from the other vessels.

Survivors Named

Lists of survivors have already been made public and I do not suggest to inform the House that upwards of 800 officers and men lost their lives.

The Admiralty immediately announced the fact of this loss as soon as serious as this loss it. It does not affect the main issue of securing a heavy vessels which remains ample.

Meanwhile an intensive search of the anchorage has not yielded any results. It is clear, however, that after a certain time the harbor can be pronounced safe for the enemy would have to rise to the surface for air or periscope, and by being taken to increase the precautions which in the late war proved effectual.

Toward the end of last week U-boat warfare which had for a fortnight been severe, began upon neutrals became again intensified. Four ships, including a Greek steamer were sunk in the western approaches during the week-end. Four others were attacked but made their escape. British ships sunk aggregated 13,000 tons.

Not All On One Side

On the other hand it should not be supposed all cases are upon one side. The Admiralty has published from time to time giving figures of the slaughter of U-boats which has been proceeding and is still proceeding with increasing severity.

On Friday last, for instance, four U-boats were sunk in the Atlantic, including two of the largest ocean-going U-boats in the German navy. Nothing like this rate of destruction was attained at any moment in the last war.

During the last week for which we have been given figures up to the end of the sixth week of the war seven U-boats were sunk. If we look back over the whole period of six weeks since the war began 13 U-boats have been sunk, that is to say, we have averaged just possibly sunk and several others damaged. These figures are probably an understatement.

French Navy Active

Besides the anti-U-boats of the U-boats which have been out raiding and suffered similar fate. Other vessels of the French navy, which is powerful and in a high state of efficiency, has also been active, and has certainly taken its toll, but it is not for us to give figures on the subject.

We believe, therefore, that out of about 60 U-boats ready for action at the beginning of the war about one-third have already been sunk or seriously damaged; and of the remainder, the ocean-going U-boats the proportion is at least one-fifth.

We already hold survivors from the crew of three vessels of the first class. We may thus take stock of the general position reached in the first six weeks of the U-boat war against British commerce.

Losses By U-Boat Mines

Something from a third to a quarter of the total U-boat fleet of Germany has been destroyed and the gaps made in skilled officers and crews cannot be filled in a year.

On the other hand the British mercantile marine of 21,000,000 tons has experienced the gross loss of 154,000 tons by U-boat action to which may be added 18,000 tons through mines or accidents—a total of 174,000 tons. During the same period we have captured from the enemy 29,000 tons and have been refreshed by the arrival of new ships amounting to 104,000 tons.

Foe Cannot Endure Continued Loss.

It will be seen therefore that while our mercantile marine has been practically unaffected by the U-boat warfare, losses have been inflicted upon the enemy which, if continued, could certainly not be endured.

I cannot conclude without reference to the first phase of this severe sea struggle without paying a tribute to the intensity of effort and devotion which has been required from those who are engaged in handling of craft and from those engaged in the minesweeping in narrow waters but amid the storms of the oceans; and the constancy of the merchant officers and seamen who face all hazards with buoyant and confident determination.

Speaks With Confidence.

It is not too much to say that after only six weeks of war the British navy reached the pitch of successful organization which was not attained until the end of the year 1917 boats until the early months of 1918. We have confidence that throughout our war business with some confidence to the House.

Women Interested In Motor Mechanics, First Aid Courses

Interest in proposed training courses for women seems to centre in first aid and motor mechanics according to information recorded at the booths for the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women. Nineteen women have designated first aid as a course desired and a large number with instruction in motor mechanics, quite a few days have specified that they would be willing to take British children into their homes, in time of emergency.

Workers are at hand promptly at nine o'clock at the five booths throughout the city each morning and registration continues until after five o'clock to give everyone a chance to visit the centre. Those in charge have a busy time, when they are not answering questions are busy with knitting and the work of the Red Cross progresses.

Incidentally many are regretfully find that their lack of training in specialized fields does not deter them from assisting their country in emergency. Skill in knitting however is always welcome. Those about in the list of questions on the Registration form.

the way across."

Complete mystery surrounds the theory as to the method by which the authorities and police as well are at a loss as to how quickly and efficient of the large amount of loot taken, much of which is only now coming to light. Three of the articles stolen include two swords and a medal, which are valuable, two gavels, a wooden level, a 24-inch rule and a white cotton Masonic apron. Also stolen was the equipment in the Frank Lodge kitchen including cups, saucers and silverware was also reported stolen.

Believes Goering Favored Solution by Peaceful Means

Sir Nevile Henderson Expresses Belief in White Paper 'Hitler's Decision Alone Counted'

London, Oct. 17 (CP)—Sir Nevile Henderson's first report—on his ambassadorship in Berlin, made public tonight in a White Paper—declared he believed Field Marshal Hermann Goering "would have preferred a peaceful solution" and that "it was Hitler's decision which alone counted."

Sir Nevile added he believed Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister was regarded by Hitler as "a broad Bismarck, a conviction which his acknowledge probably shared with the full."

Supplementing the extensive blue book issued June 21, tonight's white paper gave Sir Nevile's impressions and differences which he said led Hitler to war.

6 NAVAL VESSELS DAMAGED OR SUNK SINCE WAR BEGAN

In Same Period in Last War Fleet Lost Five Cruisers

London, Oct. 17—(CP)—Damaging of the Iron Duke by German planes which attacked the fleet at anchor in the Firth of Forth, was related to six the number of British naval vessels lost or damaged since the war started.

German submarines have sunk the Aircraft Carrier Courageous and Battleship Royal Oak, with a loss of about 1,500 lives. The Cruisers Southampton, and Edinburgh and Destroyer Mohawk suffered slight damage by a glancing bomb hit and explosion of air raid on the Firth of Forth.

In the comperative period of the first Great War, the British fleet lost five cruisers. The submarine toll in the first six weeks of that conflict were the Cruisers Amphion, Hawke, Pathfinder, Aboukir and the Hogue. A single U-boat accounted for the last three in the first day, September 22, 1914.

The air raids Nazi bombers carried out this week on the Firth of Forth and the naval base at Scapa Flow were the first attempts of Hitler for the daring raid British bombers aimed at the German naval base at Wilhelmshaven in the opening days of the war. The Royal Air Force bombers which were scored on one of Germany's three pocket battleships—the Admiral Scheer—but two of them—and seven damage inflicted.

Also on the German credit side was the statement Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, made in the House of Commons, third to a quarter of the total U-boat fleet, of Germany has been destroyed. Nothing comparing to this rate of destruction was attained at any moment in the first Great War, he said. Too, the losses submarines inflicted on the merchant fleet in the opening phase of the last war's submarine campaign were much greater than the present toll.

JUDGE DENIES DEFENCE MOTION

Crown Does Not Have to Produce Deleted Parts of Shea's Confession

Toronto, Oct. 17 (CP)—Mr. Justice J. C. Mackinnon today denied a defence motion at the retrial of Mickey MacDonald, charged with murdering James Mahoney, which would have ordered the Crown to produce the full statement to police of Mrs. John R. Shea which were previously deleted.

The motion was made yesterday by Frank Regan, counsel for MacDonald, Shea, was a chief Crown witness at the first trial of MacDonald when he was convicted and sentenced to hang. The conviction was later quashed on appeal.

Mr. Justice Mackinnon today he was of the opinion production of the deleted parts of Shea's statement would not affect the case one way or the other.

U. of M. Hockey Team Withdrawn From Loop

MONTREAL, Oct. 17—(CP)—Withdrawal of University of Montreal from the International Intercollegiate Hockey League was announced today when a tentative schedule for the 1939-40 season was drawn up by McGill University.

The schedule, still to be approved by the Intercollegiate group, calls for a seven-team league with all of last year's colleges competing with the exception of Montreal. The U. of M. team finished last this season. Toronto, University of Toronto and Princeton will open the season's intercollegiate weekend schedule, with a game at Princeton Jan. 6. The Canadian and British championships since the league was formed four years ago are Queen's Harvard, Dartmouth and Yale.

Holland Protests Against the Firing on Netherlands Planes

The Hague, Oct. 17 (AP)— The government of the Netherlands planes were fired upon today by German anti-aircraft batteries. Although a port of Emden shortly after reports came from the Netherlands that a Dutch plane had been fired upon.

The government announced it was protesting to Berlin.

The announcement which said the planes were not hit followed upon reports from villages in northern Netherlands that nearly forty flying had been heard around Emden. Among the planes was Air Commodore Adrian Dollart Bilay from Holland's provincial Groningen.

Villagers along the bay said they saw a plane shot apparently to be damaged and lowered Emden.

Informed sources said the Netherlands planes were fired upon when they flew in the vicinity of Emden at 11:13 a.m. (5:13 a.m. E.S.T.). Artillery fire from the direction of Emden was heard first about 7 a.m. and again at 11. It became so heavy at 11:13 that villages rattled.

The government communique said —"This morning at 11:15 a.m. (5:15 a.m. E.S.T.) reports from the direction of Emden by anti-aircraft guns on Netherlands planes which were flying near the border. The planes were not hit. The Netherlands government is making a protest to Berlin."

TOO MANY DUTCH SOLDIERS IN AMSTERDAM

Amsterdam, Oct. 17 (AP)—Netherlands authorities disclosed today they were considering a proposal to stop an increase in marriages attributed to the fact married soldiers get higher rations as much pay as single men.

It was understood an order would provide that soldiers marrying after a certain date will not get the benefit of the pay difference. Unmarried soldiers at present receive 1.50 florins (about $1.50) a week and married soldiers 15 Guilders (about $7.50).

BRITISH AIR MISSION, LED BY LORD RIVERDALE, ARRIVES IN CANADA

Potentially Canada is now the air capital of the Empire, as the above picture testifies. Grouped around Lord Riverdale are members of the British Air Mission, shown on the way arrive in Canada to aid in organizing a "finishing school" in Canada for Empire pilots. It is expected that thousands of pilots will be trained and millions of dollars will be spent in the Dominion, as Great Britain and the Empire work swiftly to create an air force superior to all others. Left to RIGHT in the group taken at Ottawa, are: Group Captain L. N. Hollingshurst, D.F.C., P. R. Howard, Group Captain Harold Hobb, D.S.O., D.F.C., Air Marshal C. L. Courtney, K.C.B., C.B.E., D.S.O., Lord Riverdale, Air Commodore A. T. Godfrey of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Group Captain L. O. Brown, O.B.E., with the mission, Miss Wright and Miss V. M. Bennett, shorthand secretaries, J. R. Smyth, A. D. Hayward and Group Captain A. D. Gray, M.C. Other members of the mission who have not yet arrived in Canada are Air Commodore Arthur Sanderson Rowley-Conwy, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., A.F.C., F.T. Searle and Captain Paul Balfour.

BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCE TAKES OVER SECTOR ON WEST FRONT SAYS CHAMBERLAIN

Intense Movement Troops, Materials Noted by French

General Staff Reports 5,000 Nazi Casualties Since Monday as Germans Attempt to Regain Lost Ground

Semi-Official Reports State French Troops Were Still Fighting on German Soil in Saar Area

By JOHN MARTIN

Associated Press Staff Writer

Paris, Oct. 18 (AP)—Sharp fighting accompanying a German offensive along the northern part of the western front since Monday already has cost the Nazis more than 5,000 casualties, French sources estimated today.

The French said their own losses were slight as their troops fell back to previously prepared positions and met the advancing Germans with heavy blasts of artillery fire.

Raiding parties from both sides fought a series of local infight engagements during the night, the general staff reported in its morning communique. These actions were described as "ambushes and trench raids."

The general staff also noted "intense movement" of troops and materials by both highway and railway behind the German lines.

Centred Near Moselle

The fighting has been centred in the region just across the Moselle River from Luxembourg, and in the sector between Saarbrucken and Pirmasens further east.

JOINT DEFENCE TO MEET ATTACKS NOW DRAWN UP

Outline of the Work Made Known by Spokesman of Defence Dept. Over Radio

Ottawa, Oct. 18 (CP)—A joint defence plan to meet the attacks to which Canada is exposed has been drawn up by the three fighting services — army, navy and air force. Since start of the war the services have operated in accordance with the plan.

Outline of the work of the navy, army and air forces and explanation of the joint plan was made in an address last night by a spokesman for the Department of National Defence over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Name of the spokesman, an officer in the department, was not given.

Despite Canada's favorable geographic position there was a definite problem of local defence, said the spokesman. Aircraft had already flown twice the width of the Atlantic non-stop and Canada could not overlook the report than an enemy warship equipped with aircraft was on the high seas.

Prepared For Action.

Ships of the Canadian navy were prepared for immediate action at the outbreak of war, he said. Ammunition was made ready and war heads fitted to torpedoes. Crews were straightened out.

Blomberg's Marriage to Typist Precipitated War Says Henderson

London, Oct. 18 (CP)—A government white paper published today that the marriage of Germany's former war minister, Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg, to his stenographer on Jan. 12, 1938, started a chain of events which plunged Europe into present war.

Sir Nevile Henderson, in another account of his negotiations as Ambassador in Berlin, told Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax:

"In my report on the events of 1938, I drew particular attention to the far-reaching and unforeseen consequences of Blomberg marriage.

"I am more than ever convinced of the major disaster which resulted in itself—minor incident involved, owing to the consternation created, from Herr Hitler's entourage of the more moderate of his colleagues such as Field Marshal von Blomberg himself, Baron von Neurath, General-Colonel von Fritsch, and others."

(Von Blomberg's marriage to Erika Grubin, a carpenter's daughter, was witnessed by both Hitler and Colonel-General Hermann Goering.

(Colonel-General Werner von Fritsch, then commander-in-chief of the German army, had also been accused as the spokesman for the Officer Corps, Sir Nevile pointing to Hitler that the marriage was socially "impossible".

The result was that Hitler assumed personal command of the armed forces, dismissing Field Marshal Blomberg, von Fritsch and thirteen other high-ranking officers in a general shake-up of the army.

(Von Fritsch, who remained in the army when given an honorary post, was killed Sept. 23 in the siege of Warsaw. General Ludwig Beck resigned last September and has refused to see eye to eye with Hitler, it was reported. Dr. Robert Ley succeeded Czecho-Slovak occupation.

(Baron Konstantin von Neurath lost control of the German foreign policy at the time of the general shake-up and Joachim von Ribbentrop was relegated to the position of Ambassador to Britain, succeeding in former Czecho-Slovakia.)

Berlin's report to Lord Halifax added that after the von Blomberg denouement of February, last year, Herr Hitler became more and more shut off from external influences and a law unto himself."

Hitler decided upon war without consulting any advisers, Sir Nevile said, observing: "The tragedy of any dictator is that as he goes on, his entourage steadily and inexorably deteriorates. For lack of freedom of criticism, he loses the services of the best men.

GYROSCOPE AND ORICHALQUE WIN

Purse in Cambridgeshire is Split, Race Run in Sections Because of Large Field

Newmarket, England, Oct. 18—(CP Cable) — Mrs. H. Leader's Gyroscope and the marquess of Dufferin's Orichalque today won the first and second sections, respectively of the Cambridgeshire Handicap which was run in two parts, with the purse split, because of the large field.

Gyroscope finished the mile course with a nose to beat out his highness by a neck with Hot Bun II third a length away. The three horses were held at 100 to 8 in a field of 29.

In the second section Orichalque won by one length from Quartet Mohican with Never Surprised third two lengths further back. Quartette, owned by Lord Derby, H. Mendl, was quoted at 100 to 8 and Never at 20 to 1 while the winner returned 22 to 1. Twenty seven ran.

THAMESFORD BANK SCENE OF HOLDUP

Gunman Forces Taximan to Drive Him to Scene and Then Steals Car

London, Ont., Oct. 18—(CP)—A bandit held up the Royal Bank branch at Thamesford, Village, a few miles east of here, today and escaped with between $150 and $200. He left the car in which police said was hired at Ingersoll by one of the men in the hold-up.

A gun point the robber ordered the Ingersoll taximan, named Patterson, to drive him to London where he commanded him to get out. The gunman then drove off with the car, bearing license number 136-X1.

Police throughout the Western Front seethed with activity today in the wake of German thrusts which Swiss observers believed were intended to divert attention from preparations for a bigger push.

These observers said the offensive, when it comes, probably will be directed against the Wissembourg-Lauterbourg-Rhine triangle near the Middle of the German-French frontier.

GERMANY LOSES EIGHT PLANES IN RAIDS ON BASES

Observers Satisfied Bombing Plane No Match for Warships With Anti-Aircraft Protection

PRESS COMMENT

British Papers Generally State Sinking of Royal Oak in Scapa Flow "Inexcusable"

London, Oct. 18 (CP) — British military observers, surveying the effects of sharp German air attacks on Great Britain's naval units, today were satisfied the bombing plane is no effective match for warships with anti-aircraft protection.

The loss of at least eight German planes in raids on two British naval bases in the last two days was declared to be out of all proportion to the small amount of damage which was inflicted on British ships.

But there was no attempt to minimize the menace of the submarine torpedo, used by a Nazi U-boat to sink the battleship Royal Oak in the famous Scapa Flow naval base last Saturday.

GERMAN THRUSTS DIVERT ATTENTION FOR BIGGER PUSH

Observers Believe Big Offensive to Come Near Middle of Franco-German Frontier

REAR AREAS ACTIVE

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ, JR.
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Basel, Switzerland, Oct. 18 (AP)—Heavy artillery duels and raids on the Western Front seethed with activity today in the wake of German thrusts which Swiss observers believed were intended to divert attention from preparations for a bigger push.

These observers said the offensive, when it comes, probably will be directed against the Wissembourg-Lauterbourg-Rhine triangle near the Middle of the German-French frontier.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

The first German air raids on the British Isles were confined strictly to legitimate military objectives, an indication the Nazis are still trying to get on the good side of world opinion.

If continued in the present spurt of German air activity may prove a definite test of strength between the German and Allied air forces, something many authorities expected to come early in the war.

The present chief of the General Staff, Sir Edmund Ironside, in a lecture nearly 15 years ago predicted a war between Great Britain and a European power would not subjugate her before Great Britain established a definite superiority in the air. Sir Edmund went so far as to predict that Britain would not send an expeditionary force to the continent until air supremacy was established.

While the latter prediction has not been borne out in the present conflict, Sir Edmund's views at that time are interesting in the light of the importance attached to warfare in the air. The heavy aerials Britain had not reached the efficiency in speed, range and load-carrying power that they have today.

The importance attaching to air supremacy is based on the theory that the nation in the field away from home can not ensure victory so long as the key points of industry and life of the nation upon which the armies live are in danger from air attack.

German raids in the past two days are part of an offensive against the British navy in which the other weapon is the submarine. The navy's main role is the protection of lines of communication by sea, the lumbering machines of a quarter century ago. Available for the heavy machines that the British launched against the Germans at Zeebrugge in 1918, these tanks are tiny, but their speed and effectiveness have been doubled or tripled. Each tank mounts machine-guns and a rifle and is equipped to throw smoke bombs out of trigger mortars to screen an advance. The tank commander and the tank gunner can spray bullets over enemy positions.

Speed of 50 miles an hour can be made on open roads and 25 miles an hour across a ploughed field. The power engine does three miles on a gallon of gasoline.

Terrifying Experience

The driver turned the machine and we moved over a field churned by the heavy artillery of the last war. It is a terrifying experience to ride in a tank at full speed across broken country, over ditches and through brush, across roads and furrows.

We suddenly came upon a ditch about four feet deep. The four and a quarter tons of steel, machinery, guns, men and ammunition groaned, heaved and was across. "Not bad," said the driver, who grinned and looked back, perhaps to feel her bit a wall."

Built to stop rifle and machine-gun fire, the tank looks staunch and secure. A recalled what Lieutenant-Colonel Geoffrey Malins, commander-in-chief, told newspaper correspondents in a recent visit to the British army in France.

"Men in tanks," he said, "are in a very much safer position than men in the trenches. Tanks are proof against machine-gun bullets and shrapnel. Only a direct hit from a heavy gun or bomb can put them out of action."

CRITICISM, REGRET OVER SINKING OF ROYAL OAK VOICED

Express Says Disaster Inexcusable, Claims Churchill Right Man on Job

FAILURE OF RAIDS

London, Oct. 18 (CP)—The British press today mingled sharp criticism with keen regret over sinking of the battleship Royal Oak at Scapa Flow in a U-boat.

The Daily Express said editorially: "We do not think the extraordinary story of the sinking of the Royal Oak in Scapa Flow reveals a state of affairs with which the British public will or should be satisfied. The Flow is our main naval base. It is for us the most important stretch of water in all the oceans. Yet a U-boat enters the base with dire deliberation sinks a British battleship, and then apparently goes home. The Scapa affair is a disgrace. This disaster is inexcusable. Churchill cannot be blamed for it. The naval defence plans must have been laid years ago. Those plans should now be revised with energy and dispatch, and thank God Churchill is the man to make a good job of it."

The Herald said: "The skill and courage of the U-boat crew certainly commands admiration. They are worthy of a much nobler cause. Its ourselves it is reassuring that the whole series of torpedoes had to be fired before the Royal Oak was sunk. The submarines are very unlikely to penetrate a second time.

"Remember It Again".

"Meanwhile the bombers have failed again. When there is efficient defence from anti-aircraft guns and fighters it seems that bombers are not so terrible as they look. At the moment the torpedo is Britain's most dangerous foe. Our anti-submarine commander who penetrated into an anchorage hitherto considered safe from enterprising attack has every perplexity into which the experts have been thrown in their efforts to guess how this deed was done testifies to its difficulty. The lack of security which allowed it to happen will not recur."

'LOOK' IS BANNED

Ottawa, Oct. 18—(CP)— The semi-monthly picture magazine "Look," published in the Montgomows, has been banned from Canada under the provisions of the customs act, the Finance Department said today.

The Department made the explanation of the order listing the magazine as a prohibited publication.

Tanks Will Lead Way When British Attempt to "Break Through" Line

(By Drew Middleton, Associated Press Staff Writer

With the British Army in France Oct. 18 — (AP) — When British troops attempt to "break through" on the western front, the vast numbers of tanks have been scattered their way to the lines will lead the attack today.

Built by Britain's best engineers and manned by soldiers of a famous cavalry regiment, the armored machines of the squadron I am privileged to command for the front, ready to lead the infantry in the first battle in which they are engaged. The squadron was on the alert, forbidden to go more than a half-mile from their billets.

I rode in a tank along the frontline, a tank vastly different from the lumbering machines of a quarter century ago. Available for the heavy machines that the British launched against the Germans at Zeebrugge in 1918, these tanks are tiny, but their speed and effectiveness have been doubled or tripled. Each tank mounts machine-guns and a rifle and is equipped to throw smoke bombs out of trigger mortars to screen an advance. France and Britain Not Repeating Mistake of Last War in Having Armies Under Separate Commands

Bulk of Comment in Neutral Countries Shows Full Appreciation of Attitude of Allied Governments

(By J. F. Sanderson Canadian Press Staff Writer).

London, Oct. 18 (CP Cable) — The British Expeditionary Force has taken over a sector of the Western Front and operates under the command of General Maurice Gamelin, the French Commander-in-Chief, Premier Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons today.

He said all British divisions "are in position, standing to arms by the side of the soldiers of France for whose patriotism . . . determination . . . and magnificent fighting qualities we have so deep an admiration."

"The understanding between the French and British, higher command is complete," the Prime Minister declared.

There was no unity of command in the early days of the first Great War, which army operated under its own government. This led to confusion and eventually resulted in the appointment of a Supreme Allied Commander. Britain and France are not repeating that mistake.

Germans Lose 8 Warplanes

In his weekly report on war developments, the Prime Minister declared Germany had lost eight warplanes in the last two days while Britain in the alst two days while Britain had suffered no air losses. Several of the German planes, he said, had reach home aidcraftsoe, it is believed.

The number of German aircraft taking part in the raids did not exceed 24.

"We may indeed be encouraged by the knowledge our defences have proved at least equal to the tests of their strength and that our fighter aircraft have been shown to possess the excellent quality for which we hoped," he said.

Chamberlain Denies 'False News' by Germany

The Prime Minister accused Germany of disseminating "false news and fantastic stories" which they have felt obliged to invent." He added that Germany secured a special damage to the Ark Royal, British aircraft carrier, at Scapa Flow, or any other capital ship.

BALKANS TURN DOWN GERMANY'S BID FOR TRADE

Maintain Independent Spirit by Refusing to Favor Any Belligerent Country

MISSION FAILS

By ROBERT ST. JOHN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Budapest, Oct. 18 (AP) — The little nations of southeastern Europe are maintaining their independent spirit by refusing to favor any belligerent country economically, a survey indicated today.

Striking instance of this independence was seen in failure of a German trade mission to obtain any great increase in war materials from this section which she considers one of her natural trade areas.

Experts from Berlin spent more than a month in the capitals of Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia. They sought oil for the Nazi war machines and food for their soldiers, and it was no secret that they also hoped to close this area as much as possible to Great Britain and France by purchasing the bulk of all the supplies the little nations could export.

'Enemies of God' Cast Shadow More Threateningly

Castle Gandolfo, Oct. 18.—(AP)— Pope Pius declared today that "the enemies of God" were casting their "sinister glow" over Europe in a more threatening way every day.

The pope expressed his concern in a public address to the new Lithuanian Minister to the Holy See, Stanislaus Girdvinis, whose country recently came under the influence of Soviet Russia.

The Pontiff said the Lithuanians showed their intention of remaining the "northern vanguard of Catholicism" even if "sacrifice becomes the necessary price for affirmation of the realization of such an ideal."

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Weather and naval operations!

Weather at sea is a very important factor in naval warfare, as has been repeatedly demonstrated in history. In the last war, the weather was watched by both sides and advantages was taken when it was thought that conditions were propitious.

Stormy weather, with extreme wind, makes it difficult to maintain a blockade, because of danger of collision and shipwreck. Weather with low visibility is suitable for naval raids on enemy coasts or to advance to an attack, but it prevents ships from shelling naval fortified positions on land, although they can shell large targets as cities or large forts.

LARGE POTATOES PUT ON DISPLAY

Eight potatoes, the size of which forty would fill an ordinary potato bag, are today on display in the window of McAuliffe's meat market, Bridge street. The potatoes which are of the Irish Cobbler variety, were grown on the farm of Clifford Reid, first concession of Thurlow. The largest potato on display weighs 3¼ pounds while the weight of eight of the tubers was given as nearly twelve pounds.

Disturbing world conditions have not affected the enrolment at Queen's University, seriously, according to figures released recently. Eighteen hundred and three students registered for tuition this year, a decrease of only thirty-seven from enrolment of 1938.

ERECTION OF NEW S. A. CITADEL WILL BE FINISHED ON SCHEDULE

Erection of the new Salvation Army Citadel on Pinnacle street will be completed within the contracted time, barring unforeseen circumstances, Major Thomas Adams, stated this morning.

With the finishing of the actual construction of the building proper taking place a few days ago, workmen and carpenters are now concentrating their efforts on the completion of interior work. Lining of ceilings and partitions will be concluded today, and actual plastering of the interior will start tomorrow morning, Mr. Adams said.

Heating engineers conferred with Mr. Adams and Salvation Army officials with regard to proposed changes in installation of the heating system, but it was all probability work on this part of the structure will begin within the near future.

P. E. Deanery Branches Meet at St. Thomas'

The annual meeting of the Prince Edward Deanery Junior Branch of the Women's Auxiliary to the Church of England in Canada was held in St. Thomas' Parish Church on Tuesday. Prior to the opening of the service there was a celebration of the Holy Communion in St. Thomas' church at 10:30 o'clock. The celebrant was the Rev. Rural Dean. A. Beauchamp Payne, Vicar of the parish, assisted by the Rev. A. J. Anderson, Rector of Marysburg, Prince Edward County. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. G. G. Wright, Rector of Christ Church.

Luncheon was served by the Parish Group at noon and then the election of the Women's Guild of Christ Church.

At the afternoon session the business of the meeting was transacted and a very interesting address was given by Mrs. George Simmons of Hamilton, a returned missionary from China.

The clergy of the Prince Edward Deanery also met this morning and yesterday afternoon at St. Thomas' Rectory.

Three Couples Celebrate Their Twenty-Fifth Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Spry, Bonarlaw; Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Anderson, Picton; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bleecker, Chatterton, Are Honored by Friends With Gifts and Addresses

MR. AND MRS. ELIAS SPRY

On Saturday evening Oct. 14, over forty of the friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Spry to congratulate them on their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

The evening was very enjoyably spent in cards and music. Adding to the merriment of the occasion a number of the boys arrived with Mr. and Mrs. Spry. The gathering was called to order and the following address was read by Mr. Percy Brownson.

Bonarlaw, Ont. Oct. 14, 1939.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Spry:

We, your friends and neighbours of the community, have gathered here this evening to extend to you our best wishes on this happy occasion.

You both have been one of us all your life. You have won our love and affection by your many unselfish acts and sunny disposition. The establishment of a home is a grand and sacred task where the light of love always shines brightly—a home where each one finds rest and cheer.

We wish you both joy and happiness in the coming years. Whatever supreme joy we get from life we get from being neighborly and thoughtful of others. After all it is these things that are really worth while, as we cannot bring back life and live it again.

Please accept these gifts as a slight remembrance of your many friends and neighbours here

Catholic Women's League For the Kingston Diocese Opens Convention in City

Mrs. W. H. Raney, Prescott, Diocesan President, Occupies Chair at Opening

REPORTS GIVEN

Mayor Jamieson Bone on Behalf of City Welcomes the Delegates

With delegates assembling in the council rooms of the Knights of Columbus in the twentieth annual meeting of the Catholic Women's League of the archdiocese of Kingston opened yesterday with a splendid representation from the various sub-divisions.

Mrs. W. H. Raney, Prescott, diocesan president, was in the chair for the opening session. The delegates were welcomed on arrival by members of the registration committee Miss K. Dolan, Mrs. J. M. Trudeau, Mrs. F. Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Reggoyle. Belleville members assisting with arrangements for the banquet were Mrs. E. J. Butler, Mrs. M. Donoghue, Mrs. J. Legault and for the luncheon Mrs. Leo Callaghan and Mrs. Allen Meagher.

Mrs. M. J. Mooney, Westport, was appointed chairman of the resolutions committee and the following members: Miss Gertrude Maloney, Marmora; Mrs. J. J. Hendrick, Perth, Mrs. M. P. McDade, Smith's Falls, Mrs. R. Marigold, Deseronto, Miss K. Dolan, Belleville, Mrs. Ryan named chairman of the scrutineers and others appointed to be appointed later.

The reports of the recording secretary, Mrs. T. J. McAlpine, Marysville, the corresponding secretary, Mrs. John Pennell, Perth, and the treasurer, Miss Agnes Doolan, Kingston, were received by the convention.

Formal Opening.

Formal opening of the convention took place at eight o'clock. The Council Chamber adorned with vases of deep-toned autumn flowers presented a gala appearance on the occasion. Mrs. A. B. Collins, president of Belleville sub-division, was in the chair for the opening part of the meeting.

On behalf of the Belleville members, Mrs. Collins extended a gracious welcome to the visitors expressing the hope that their meeting would be both profitable and pleasurable. After their deliberations for democracy, Christianity and civilization would be renewed with zest. She called upon Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, V.G., who spoke of the sheer feeling of gratitude and the sense of privilege with which the parish extended a most cordial invitation and welcome to the delegates of the convention here assembled.

Great Achievements.

It was not given to all, he said, to translate into deeds the principles which society had been fortunate in realizing all its magnificent proportions. In inspiring motto "For God and Country" had the organization on: its members had achieved cherished aspirations and the success that had attended their efforts was widely known and universally acclaimed. It was with pride that Monsignor Nicholson pointed out that the work of the organization was regarded as highly necessary and more deeply appreciated than in this parish. The Catholic Women's League had woven its warp and woof, he said, from the rich, generous spirit of co-operation and sacrifice displayed had accomplished great things in our midst and had proven a constant inspiration and source of comfort to the clergy and people. It was his sincere wish that the delegates stay on Quinte shores would be both fruitful and pleasant.

In Shadow of Conflict.

Their deliberations would take place against the shadow of a titanic conflict, said Monsignor Nicholson in discussing the war into which the world has been plunged overnight. Continuing, quoting the words of His Grace the Archbishop, the speaker said, "None of us wanted war but since Canada has taken up the laudable championship of smaller nations, under the leadership of Great Britain, out duty is clear; to help our native land with every means in our power."

The present plight of Poland which had in 1683 stemmed the hordes of Islam, and in 1920 had prevented Bolshevism from spreading across Europe after the world war from saving civilization and Christianity was described by the speaker.

Torn by the talons of the German beasts and gouged by the beak of the Soviet vulture, Poland is temporarily destroyed, but equally grave in this temporary eclipse it may pave the way once again to decisive victory.

Mayor Jamieson Bone brought civic greetings to the convention, referring to the splendid work of the League and also speaking of the high regard with which the previous speaker, Monsignor Nicholson, is held in the community. Greetings from the Knights of Columbus were expressed by Grand Knight George A. Lee, and Mr. Allan Meagher welcomed the convention on behalf of the Holy Name Society.

President's Address

A summary of the work of the League in the archdiocese was presented by Mrs. W. H. Raney, diocesan president, in her report which touched briefly on various of the organizations. Mrs. Raney spoke of assimilating all that is best in community life and working for the betterment of conditions. The diocese was one hundred per cent organized in League work and was now striving for one hundred per cent membership.

Chaplain's Address

The address of the diocesan chaplain, Rev. Dr. L. J. Flynn, was a source of encouragement and inspiration to the members. The speaker congratulated the League on their achievements as outlined by Mrs. Raney's excellent report. He reminded his hearers that they were not only citizens of this beloved land but wayfarers bound for an eternal home; their activities in their present abode would determine their place in the Kingdom of their adoption.

The speaker asked the delegates to go back in spirit to their home parish and ask themselves how good members of the C.W.L. are they, how spiritual is their family life, their community interest and their work in the sub-division. Personal sanctification was of first importance, for peace and happiness must come from within and not depend on things outside, but what then one must diffuse, that sanctity and spread it throughout the community.

At present a great work of the individual in the parish is unfolding steadfastly through prayer and Holy Communion, to help the valiant soldiers who are fighting the crusade for Christianity, to save the world from paganism. The League should join enthusiastically in the work of the Holy Name.

The appreciation of the convention for the address of the evening was expressed in a vote of thanks moved by Mrs. J. J. Hendrick and seconded by Mrs. Leo Callaghan.

Reports Presented

A number of reports of the standing committee were then received, with Mrs. Allen Meagher presiding.

Mrs. M. P. McDade of Smith's Falls gave the report of religious instruction Clubs in the arch-diocese which showed that this method of teaching had been received with enthusiasm by the majority of subscribers. The work was also shouldered, she said, for more discussion club leaders and the object of the groups might well be a wider knowledge and use of the Missal.

The success of the diocesan Lay Retreats was reported by Mrs. A. V. Pinkham, Portland, who stressed the interest taken in the closed retreat held in Kingston describing the proceedings as inspiring. Mrs. Pinkham's words were most interesting, inspiring the members to take part in this wonderful spiritual movement. The report expressed appreciation to Dr. Byrne and to all who assisted in making the retreat the fine success it was.

The C.W.L. program of social service was outlined by Mrs. J. J. Brennan, Deseronto, and included material relief in the community, shipments to Western Canada, aid to needy school children. Christmas cheer, hospital visiting, medical and nursing assistance, undertaken in all the diocesan communities by League members.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Normal poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get rid of this bile. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make this flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in it. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 26

ALLIED FORCES FIGHTING BATTLE FOR WHOLE WORLD

Sholto Watt Assistant Night Editor of London Telegraph Address Women's Canadian Club

MUST CRUSH NAZIISM

The Allied forces are fighting a battle for the whole world. Had the challenge of Hitlerism not been met, there is no doubt but Nazi would have embarked on a campaign for the domination of the world, which no doubt would have led to the destruction of the British and French empires. This would have left the whole world in the hands of militant dictatorships with the exception of the Americas. To say the least, the position of the American continents would have been less comfortable than they are now.

So stated Sholto Watt, assistant night editor of the London Daily Telegraph now touring Canada, to members of the Women's Canadian Club at their inaugural meeting last night held in the B. C. I. Library.

To crush Naziism is a prerequisite of peace. There can be no peace with Hitler. But the end of Hitlerism will be the beginning of peace. The experience of the past, twenty-five years has shown us that present anarchy among states must be replaced with some authority which will compel, under their conflicts, the speaker declared, in an address in which he brought out the "Background of the War."

U. S. A. Pact

"Whatever part the U.S.A. may play in present conditions there is one hope we can express—a hope relating to the state of affairs after the war," he said. "The world must be policed. Who will do it? The re-establishment of the stable and peaceful world seems a distant vision, but when that work comes, the great and idealist nation of the U.S. will take a part worthy of its tremendous moral authority and material power."

The Treaty of Versailles was blamed for the war by the Germans. This is false, Watt declared. "If freed oppressed peoples but unhappily concluded the war guilt clause, Germany was ready for the 1914-18 war. Look at the Kiel Canal; her budget for tremendous size. Her army was at its greatest strength at the time the French was at its minimum. In this year Germany made the Treaty of Versailles her rallying ground for objection."

"International lawlessness preceded the present war," he said. "Manchuria, China, Spain and Abyssinia. There was a virulent Nazi aggression. Germany had secretly armed, how, no one knew, or else we would not have surrendered. Hitler, Mussolini, Germany in a position to inflict appalling damage on the world."

"That situation was met with appeasement, which failed. Then after March into Czecho-Slovakia."

At this point the speaker drew a strong comparison between the Chamberlain policy of appeasement and those of the Anglo-Saxon race. "The former was that of a weak dictator, they have an inferiority complex and are always concerned with what other people think about them."

Hitler Not Crazy

Referring to Hitler, Watt stated that "he was not crazy, not quite as eccentric. He is, as a psychopath would say, characteristically dangerous. His characteristics are ingratitude and broken promises."

The Allies are to be blamed for condoning the pre-war lawlessness. He stated, that at the same time they were afraid the Hitler regime would crash and therefore were not. It was imperative for Great Britain to survive for there would have been radical political changes in the political system of England, France and the United States, had Bolshevism succeeded.

"It was the fear of Bolshevism with which Hitler blackmailed the British statesmen during the crises previous to the war," he declared. "However the Red doctrine of Communism is not going to come."

He concluded with the assurance that Canada will play her part in the restoration of world re-establishment and peace.

"Peace within our own borders as well as the attainment of world peace, shining like a beacon in a dark world," he said.

The speaker was introduced, and thanked by Mrs. Cecil Argue, president of the club.

Flesh For Women"

Get in the mood for fun, folks! Elsa Maxwell, the life of a million parties, is coming to town!

The world-famous personality makes her movie bow in Elsa Maxwell's Hotel for Women," a Cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox, which sells the gay, exciting story of a world of girls on their own, opening next at the Bella theatre.

Elsa, who has been everywhere, everything and seen everything, ante to society debs and chorus girls, gives these smart, beautiful young things a new slant on life. She believes in taking the light things lightly—and she teaches them to do the same.

Put a beautiful girl in every room—and a man on every mind. Some of them are looking for life in a penthouse—and some are longing for love in a cottage—but they depend on Elsa for something—some for excitement, some for fame and some even for love.

Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck selected lovely Linda Darnell, the sensational new Hollywood Cinderella girl, to make her screen debut in a leading feminine role with a cast which also features Ann Sothern, Jane Bryan, Jean Rogers, Lynn Bari, June Gale, Joyce Compton, Elsa Ercsil, John Shelton, Katherine Aldridge, Alan Dinehart and Sidney Blackmer.

"Hotel For Women" was directed by Gregory Ratoff from a screen play by Katherine Albert and Gertrude Ware, based on a story by Elsa Maxwell and Rian James. Raymond Griffith acted as associate producer.

Elsa appears in the opening party in the picture, at which she sings and plays a gay little ditty called "Hollywood Is Everything."

"Whistle a Little Old Melody."

Jane Withers Now Hit

Jane Withers and Leo Carrillo are together again!

This time they're in the 20th Century-Fox screen version of "Chicken Wagon Family" from Lorna Hansen's story by Barry Benefield that stirs the imagination in all it touches and as the second feature attraction.

The merry tale concerns a carefree family who have the call of the open road, toss their cares into the wind-chance, travel from town to the country, with Jane and Leo in the driver's seat, selling chicken feed for chickens which they sell when they hit the big city.

En route they meet adventure, excitement and romance—as well as plenty of laughs.

Marjorie Weaver, spring flying from the famous Jones Family mother, who plays Jane's Ma this time) and Kane Richmond are prominently featured with Carrillo in the supporting cast, with Marjorie and Kane supplying the romantic interest.

Lights Fleets of England

A special extra attraction on the Bella screen is the Battle Fleets of England. See England's fighting navy in action, positively the surprise story of the year, coming to you, complete and uncensored. Don't fail to see this timely and inspiring film.

"The World's Fair Vanities" featuring the personal appearance of Sunshine Sammy, master of tap dancing Canucks is closing at the McCarthy Theatre. Among the many first class acts in this New York stage show is Dick Lee and her all girl band, direct from the world famous spot of New York. Every unit of this stage presentation will long be remembered as one talented artists. Do not miss the opportunity now of seeing on the McCarthy stage "The World's Fair Vanities". On the screen the feature "The Married a Cop" and a splendid twenty-minute comedy is presented.

U-Boat 29".

If ever the screen brought to flaming life the headlines of the moment it is in Columbia's "U-Boat 29" which opens next at the McCarthy Theatre. With Conrad Veidt, Valentina Kolmen and Sebastian Shaw featured, the new film has been hailed as a thrilling drama of England's finest hour, a story of courage and submarines.

Veidt is seen as an enemy submarine commander who puts to use under sealed orders, only to learn that he has to proceed to a lonely island in the Orkneys, to the north of Scotland, where he is to collect a young schoolmistress and from her obtain information of British naval movements. His meeting with the girl and his subsequent adventures provide the dramatic and vivid drama of "U-Boat 29", which has its genesis in fact, are told in and around the remarkably beautiful Orkneys. The renowned beauty of these islands is said to be faithfully reflected in the screen in compelling fashion. In fact hardly in the doubtful since of the word, and the entire effect kept moving up and down on his head

For Thursday, October 19

By GENEVIEVE KERBLE

SWIFT and surprising developments mark this day, judging by the lunar aspect of unpredictable nature. A favorable conjunction, indicating sudden change and upheaval, with travel, new associations and interests seeming to arise from previous plans, to be rather than old are stimulated, with radical, novel and even spectacular developments. These may take place in business, intellectual pursuits or in social, domestic or romantic affairs, with strange events and pictures, are imminent.

A child born on this day may cular talent, a creative or inspirational ability or scientific gift. This may take it to conspicuous place in the public eye. A life of outstanding romance and adventure seems inevitable.

My sister Gladdis and Harvey came over to play bridge with pop and ma and me, and when Gladdis got on to it, I had tea on the Stits Roof this afternoon, and who should come over but Mrs. Gladdis Queen of Sheeba but Mrs. Thrseton Willows in person.

O my, I suppose the head waiter was a real crease or sumpin, and bows, ma said. I want you to tell me every single thing she had on. I dont want you to leave out a thing, she said, and Gladdis said, I'll do my best.

Then start at the top, what kind of a hat was she wearing? ma said, and Gladdis said, It was worth diss-cribing, I assure you, it was a round velvet crown surrounded by a regular marching army of silver fox tails to carry out the note of her silver fox jacket, and that same fox was trimming up the silver fox tips on her shoes, and under the fur jacket was a jet black velvet gown with a high collar set

CO-OPERATIVE AIR TRAINING

Canada is to have full control of the co-operative air training scheme, according to Col. Cuthbert, chief of the British air training mission, now in Ottawa.

Canada is to figure in "the greatest thing the Empire has ever attempted"—in military aviation.

The scheme will be under way within a month and at the earliest possible moment more men will be trained.

Under the scheme as high as 30,000 trained pilots, observers, air gunners and wireless operators may be turned out each year. There will be intermediate and advanced schools for Canadian, Australian and New Zealand airmen. When the schools are once established for airmen from these Dominions, Britain will keep the schools full by sending over British airmen.

That there has been a powerful psychological effect already upon the enemy by the announcement of the plan is declared by Lord Riverdale, who says that the Germans see their strength diminishing while the British forces are continuously rising in strength.

Canadians, Australians and New Zealanders are called the best fighters in the world by Lord Riverdale. Canada has the advantage of ideal weather conditions and open spaces which will permit flying throughout the year, he said. The head of the mission has made clear that "we are desperately anxious to get some pilots from the Dominions, as we have so many in the Royal Air Force now but we would like to get them in their own wings and squadrons. We like to have them mixing up among our fellows."

That the Germans will fight desperately when they know they cannot obtain peace on their own terms was stated by Lord Riverdale, who explained that Hitler had not let the war reach the stage of frightfulness yet which was first expected because he does not wish to antagonize world opinion, particularly that of the United States by unloosing bomb raids on British cities.

CAREFULNESS IN DRIVING

These days of autumn when the daylight is growing shorter and the evenings are darker call for attention by the motorist particularly in the cities and towns. Leaves if at all moist prove a very poor grip on the roadways for tires should it be necessary to apply brakes suddenly for a skid is a very likely consequence and if the roads or leaves are wet the danger is magnified.

To many this is one of the worst seasons of the year, before the snow comes. Driving after dark is not a pleasant experience owing to the lurking dangers. Later in the season the question of moist and frosty pavements will keep the attention of the driver.

Even in daylight in driving about the streets there is danger, at this time, for children like to play in leaves and in their sportiveness they may forget all about looking for cars and danger and dash right in the path of danger. Sometimes children bury one another under leaves in play, sometimes children hide in leaves even at the edge of pavements to which the leaves are naturally blown by the wind. So he is a safe driver who drives with very great caution in city streets, especially in passing parked cars or piles of leaves, late in the afternoon or in the evening.

The longer hours of darkness of course increase the possibilities of danger from glaring headlights. The black space or blind spot which every driver knows who has faced piercing headlights something a wheel. The strong headlight driver causes this condition and should be ready to redress by correcting the lights of his car while the driver who meets him is morally bound to slacken his speed greatly if possible in traffic, or even stop so as to protect anyone who may be in that spot. Some drivers of course take the chance of driving into that black area, but it is very risky. It may mean striking a pedestrian or a rider if he should have neglected to carry a reflector on the bicycle which the law demands.

OCTOBER IS PASSING

October wears away apace and has brought frost later than usual. The first severe frost was on Sunday morning when the mercury was as low as 24 degrees. First frosts often come much earlier but are usually not as severe.

But with almost two weeks yet to come, it is expected that there will be much fine weather, now that the first frost of consequence has come.

Already flakes of snow have been witnessed several times, but that does not mean that the end of autumn is near. There is the probability of fine weather even into November.

Most of the trees yet bear their foliage though some have shed theirs. Leaves on some trees have turned in color to yellow, red and scarlet and on others the leaves still remain green, even on maple trees. Bare boughs are really bare.

It is weeks yet before the November days of which William Cullen Bryant wrote:

"The melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year,
Of wailing winds, and naked woods, and meadows brown and sere."

The people look for much fine weather before those days arrive.

TURKEY STANDS BY DEMOCRACIES

Stalin whose international activities have been so much to the front in the movement of nations and the war during the past month, has according to advices received a setback from Turkey. Last night the Prime Minister of Turkey issued an official communique stating that negotiations with Soviet Russia had failed because the Soviet made demands which were contrary to Turkish security.

It has been realized that for weeks a very important question was being dealt with at Moscow between the Turkish and Russian representatives on the question of Turkish and Russian mutual assistance.

It is expected by many that Turkey will sign definite agreements with Britain and France perhaps on Thursday of this week.

The Dardanelles have occupied a very prominent place in the negotiations with Russia but the Soviet ideas were not compatible with the Turkish attitude on the Dardanelles. Besides Turkey had her agreements with France and Britain.

The importance of Turkey in the European situation is indicated in an editorial yesterday in the Montreal Gazette which said in part:

"Last May Turkey entered into an agreement with Great Britain to support the British should hostilities develop which threatened the Turkish present international control in the eastern Mediterranean. At the same time she affirmed that she would remain neutral in the event of war between Britain and Russia. Under the terms of an international treaty passed in 1936, Turkey was empowered to fortify the Dardanelles and her control there now would enable her, without violation of her neutrality pledge to Great Britain, to keep the British and French out of the Black Sea and so practically bar any direct form of aid to the allied attack from those waters on either Russia or Germany, unless the Allies themselves wished to violate Turkish neutrality. But should Italy enter the war, Shukru Saracoglu's present attitude leaves no doubt that the situation would immediately take a different turn. As head of the Turkish delegation in the negotiations going on in Moscow, he has been insistent that Turkey's existing agreements with Great Britain on the one hand, and Russia on the other, are in no sense contradictory.

"The serious risk of conflict lies in the possibility that, through German sponsorship in a partition of Rumania on the Russian model, Hitler may have been proposed by Russia, the Reich would be provided with a springboard from which to launch her plans to obtain control and operate in the eastern Mediterranean. The Turkish pledge to Britain, however, to this idea is expressed by the treaty his country signed with Great Britain five months ago, a treaty which, while permitting Turkey to remain neutral though Russia might fight Britain and France, does not bind Turkey to stand aloof if Italy should unite with Germany or Russia, or both, in an aggressive move designed to prejudice the national interests of Turkey and menace the rights of the Allies in the eastern Mediterranean."

London has not lost its sense of comedy and the wartime revue is on again.

In time of war with its sombre aspects there must be this lighter element, this spirit of gaiety and humor which lessens the tension and makes possible for men and women a respite from the anxieties of the time and so adds to the ability of the people to carry on. Soldiers are always the most light-hearted and gayest of the gay. That is their sense of balance.

In Scotland as in other parts of the Empire there is no false sense of realities. A byelection has just been fought there between a Laborite and a Pacifist, who ran as a "stop the war candidate." The Pacifist was defeated almost fifteen to one, the vote standing, Laborite, 15,645, Pacifist, 1060. The Nazi menace to the world is real as the electors in the Scottish constituency pronounced.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

OCT. 18th, 1919

The members of the local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association held their first "Khaiship Night" in the Armouries last night. The door was open to all returned men, their dependents and friends, and a large number of young and old took advantage of the invitation. Progressive euchre was played and dancing enjoyed. Delicious refreshments were served. The ladies' committee in charge were the gentlemen's prize.

Messrs. Andrew and Manley White of Fort Stewart when returning home recently from shooting ducks were confronted in the path they were following by a large black bear. Both fired at once and despatched the animal, which weighed 400 pounds.

Mr. Thomas Gardiner has resigned as manager of the city gas department.

At a meeting of the civic committee the tender of Mr. William Donne was unanimously accepted for acceptance for the construction of sanitary sewers on West Moira, North Front and Grove Streets at a cost of $15,363.6.

Things Moved Fast at Start in Last Conflict But 'Twas Different War

(By The Canadian Press)

Six weeks of war on the Western Front finds the armies of Great Britain and France and the military might of Germany locked along the Maginot and Siegfried Lines from Luxemburg to Switzerland in a front approximately 200 miles long the opposing forces, in well-night static position, feint and hunt for strategic advantage.

How different was the situation 25 years ago when after nearly three months of breath-taking hostilities the great German drive through Belgium and Northern France had been frustrated on the Marne and a hard-reading modern world finds itself puzzled by the lack of sensational battles on land and sea as in those hectic days.

The military experts have called it a war of movement—movement it is, in fact it was difficult to keep pace with events. In their shattering drive through Belgium, the German captured Brussels, Antwerp, Ghent and scores of cities, towns and villages before the movement culminated in the long-drawn-out and bloody struggle now known as the First Battle of Ypres.

Saved Channel Ports

In these opening months Britain's "contemptible little army" so dubbed by Kaiser Wilhelm, won for itself undying fame as it fought side by side with brave Belgian and French defenders against overwhelming odds. Of Belgium's coasts, The Canadian Press recalls, British monitors, shallow-draught gunboats, shelled German troops and played a big role in frustrating their drive to the North Sea.

The seeds of the improvisation showed constantly in those months by Allied generals, but never more dramatically than in the sailing of Admiral Keyes' flotilla on Gallieni's "last-ch amp" that rushed out to aid the Belgians in the defence of Paris at a critical juncture.

Checked in their aim to encircle the armies of Britain and France, the Germans turned their attention to the Channel ports, first on the Belgian coast, then on the Ribbon stand to the Aisne.

How many French leaders are known to the reading public today, and for that matter, how many Germans? The men of movement leaders of the opposing forces were unknown in the news in the war of kaleidoscope.

Haig and Smith-Dorrien were the idols of the British public in those early war days and almost overnight Joffre became the idol of Foch of France. There were also Generals Gallieni, d'Esperey, Maunoury and others.

Von Falkenhayn soon succeeded the ailing Count von Moltke as Chief of the German General Staff, but Crown Prince was acclaimed as the "Clown Prince" and youngsters took the names of Von Kluck, Bulow and Von Bulow the butts of many puns.

Newspaper headlines in 1914 were filled with different from those of 1939. They told of grim battles in the hundreds of corpses lay on the field —the Germans sacrificed thousands of lives in their efforts to break through to Calais. A correspondent recorded that 1,500 bodies were found in a small area after several days fighting at La Bassee.

There were also stories of atrocities, spies — men and women — shot before the dawn of thousands drowned when the Belgians cut the dikes after the fall of Antwerp and the drive to the coast. Prisoners were taken by the hundred and the early air attacks by zeppelins and aeroplanes were front page news.

They were the days when the Germans fought a losing battle against Britain's naval might, During the first three months of war there were naval raids on the English coast. The Allies were shocked when the Cressy, Aboukir and Hogue, all armored cruisers, were sunk in one day by a German submarine.

Raiders of The South Seas

Capt. von Muller of the Emden led the British a merry dance in the Indian Ocean, sinking 16 ships, mostly of the merchant marine until the Australian cruiser Sydney put an end to her remarkable career in the Atlantic were the Karlsruhe and the Leipzig with nearly a dozen victors on the ocean.

In the present war Britain's mastery of the seas was established at the outset—25 years ago with Germany's navy bottled up in the high seas it took months of relentless effort on the part of Allied aircraft to sweep the seas clean of surface ships and years to control the submarine menace.

With the spectacular manoeuvres of fast, powerful armies and the great naval encounters to review, newspapers in the latter months of 1914 presented a bewildering spectacle but the events recorded represented heavy sacrifice of human lives.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Some Symptoms of Early Goitre

When we were examining recruits for overseas service we found that heart rapid, the recruit was instructed to sit down for a few minutes and then examined. If after this the rate remained rapid and early fatigue developed on exercise he was shunted to hold his hands well in front in line with shoulders with fingers outstretched. In this way if there were much trembling of the hands, tremor was present in the rate-fatigue symptoms of goitre.

Another test was to have him follow and the finger up and down to see if eyelids followed the eyeballs—the eyeballs, especially the thalmia—protruding eyeballs —another symptom of goitre. Normally the eyelids closely follow the eyeball. He was also asked about his weight, appetite and bowels as unusually sleeplessness and indigestion present in goitre.

Sometimes we are finding that there are other nervous symptoms besides the sleeplessness, indigestion and indigestion; in fact, the nervous symptoms may be almost menial symptoms.

"Among these symptoms there is realization that the individual is prone to hurry and with nervous haste in all activities. Another symptom of goitre is the so-called tension of expectancy regarding every-thing that is done with an unusual haste.

The emotions are accompanied by physical sensations, that is, the patient wears all his emotions in his face and body.

I believe we have all seen these tense, thin, nervous, highly strung excitable individuals who seem to be "wound up" like a tight spring. They take one step where two will do. Increased metabolism—rate at which the body burns up its fuel—is a very characteristic symptom of goitre. The overactive thyroid gland pouring too much thyroid juice into the blood.

If you suspect goitre, therefore, consult your physician about a metabolism test. The cure of your family is getting more nervous, more tensed, more irritable, leading to insomnia and broken sleep. These symptoms may be due to early goitre which is often corrected by frequent rest periods.

Bernstorff, The Goat!

Many harsh things were said about Count Bernstorff, German Ambassador at Washington, before the United States entered the war when he was free to write some years later that he was glad that he had to accept the blame for many things that were not done by him but with his knowledge. As Ambassador he was subjected to the machinations of his diplomatic underlings, says the Sir Thomas Beecham Magazine, and not definitely and openly opposed all the submarine policy of Admiral von Tirpitz. He found himself almost at variance with his superiors in Berlin. Von Bernstorff admitted that they did not trust him, and things were done in Berlin of which he knew nothing. The public did not know that, and probably American officials did not, but the man in the street was party to the plot to involve the United States in the World War—and that was the last straw.

As a proof of German duplicity in America, Bernstorff was loyal to his country. He could not be otherwise. He was recalled from Berlin to the two assistants at Washington who were left behind, Count Von Brincken—Frank von Papen, who later became Chancellor of Germany, and Boy-Ed, the notorious Captain Boy-ed. These men would not talk to Count Von Bernstorff, sabotage and boasted of submarine sinkings. Count Bernstorff realized that Boy-ed left the United States suddenly before American entry into the war, and Von Papen was practically handed his papers and told to go. These men were the evil spirits who got their immediate chief in wrong with the American people. They tried to stop them but he couldn't. The judgment about Bernstorff was that he was not as bad as he was painted and that he was destined to be in his book of reminiscences.

An Angry Government

There is indignation in Berlin because Mr. Chamberlain has "rejected the hand of peace stretched out to him by the Fuehrer." No mention is made of the hand dripping with blood on it. Because the British Government would not accept the terms of a conquered peace it is now accused of desiring a war of annihilation against the German people." This is a deliberate perversion of what the head of the British Government said. Mr. Chamberlain explicitly asserted that England has no quarrel with the German people; that it does not want a dictated peace; that it would welcome a negotiable peace, to be concluded on terms of mutual self-respect with a decent and trustworthy German Government. This is treason, of course, from Hitler's point of view. The furious outburst of anger in Berlin is only in part the result of disappointment over the rejected peace; while heat is generated by Mr. Chamberlain's daring to assert that the self-interest of the German people may be a very different direction from that taken by their Government.

So far as the international post-

Hendrick Van Loon Went Out on a Limb'

Just a year ago Hendrik Willem Van Loon, an American writer of Dutch ancestry, turned out a little book of the same title as the above Munich indignation. He called it "Our Battle", meaning the battle of the United States against the insidious forces of Hitler and, to a lesser degree, Mussolini. It was Van Loon's theory that Mussolini saw in Hitler a chance to overall betrayal of the cause of democracy" by Britain and France, so the United States must be awakened in rough seas to carry on the battle for freedom.

Possibly Mr. Van Loon will not be called upon to "carry on the battle", but he should read it again and consider it in the rate of the events of the day — for the good of his soul. Especially we should like to see extracts of the three brief passages from his work: "The English, when at the most critical moment in the history of the world, refused to fight for democracy before Adolf Hitler's throats

"The sooner we recognize that we can no longer depend upon the British to stand by our side in the fight for democracy the better it will be for all of us. We are on the continent. From now on we will have to formulate our own foreign policies and we must see to it that the American ideals of democracy or see that the cause of democracy stands together from the face of the earth.

"I am looking at a map of the world and this is what I see: a huge, rich, practically unarmed continent by internal strife that it is unable to solve.

"A British Empire which seems to have run out of energy and to be content to live on the history of all empires at which it has grown too old and too tired to do more than assume any further responsibilities for the maintenance of law and decency in the world at large.

"And finally, what would Mr. Van Loon say to this:

"Only one nation left worthy one person—free and free and independent and able to act as the champion of human rights.

"That nation is the much-hated and much-feared of the West.

"That nation is the United States of America."

Comment on these extracts would be easy, too easy. Mr. Van Loon can stand by and say, "I told you so." At least, as a historian, he should be interested in the signs and fulfilment of prophecy.—(Ottawa Journal).

Country Life Has Many Problems for Young Evacuees

London, Oct. 18—(CP)—Britain uprooted 1,500,000 mothers, youngsters and invalids and folks from her city homes and moved them to the countryside in the first week of war. It is only natural that a lot of homely headaches have cropped up to emphasize the central fact that a great act of preparedness was carried through with success.

Sidelights of the life of city folk moved to the land are many and mostly human — there's no fish-and-chip shops; the children don't understand; or it's too far to the pub.

Reconciliation with the ways of the city-dwellers has been volcanic in some instances. "Our children's cost too much; or they aren't taught enough," Wantings.

Almost all the children from the East End of London, the warmest, most crowded section of the mill districts of Manchester are having a wonderful time and are in the most tremendous physical benefits; that is the picture, in general.

On another side are sociological and physical problems arising from breaking up families and moving women and children who had lived all their lives among the noise of factories and the rumble of trucks to the peaceful hush of villages.

Some are being cared for in stately houses. Others are living in hostels. The government pays $2 a week for food and lodging for the mother and 50 cents for each child. Some are in Cities.

One major problem arose two weeks after the dispersal. The government, tackling powers to compel people to stay where they had been put, broadcast appeals against the "phoney evacuees" and folks from sick mothers and children came flocking back to the working areas and towns.

In the villages, pathetic knots of children gathered at street corners, straining for a glimpse of sound of their mothers. Children in their sleep because it was "too quiet". Others moaned in bed in the dark — for village, like city, is plunged into a nightly inky blackness.

Some have overcome else's house, or a straw mattress on the floor, but the problem arose when your Cockney tongue can't speak the strange language of the north. Cooking, absent of your hardworking hostess, or you don't like her kind of food, or you don't like cooking.

Many authorities feel conditions of the underprivileged ways of living can be provided. The government has empowered local authorities to provide old recreating of country schools, even if the children have to be sent in shifts, and has suggested activities be organized to relieve householders of responsibility for children. "Even breakfast is teatime."

Some have had a lot of father is depressing. He must cook his own meals, find his clothes and sleep alone in darkened, silent rooms at night.

Some have suggested communal feeding for fathers. Did you think they will have to take their turn—there are more urgent things just now.

Rich Cargo

The Royal Navy is, of course, the first service to get a share of the net which captured the 13,615-ton German liner Cap Norte, which was bringing coffee to Germany, may have indulged in a quiet chuckle over Hitler's attempt to "starve Britain." It's a lot of tobacco to be exported and then not get it to Germany to "carry," too.

It's a good thing the Navy cap-tured the coffee instead of drinking her, after the German fashion, for it's said to be very bad to drop 18 tons of honey into the Atlantic. Not to mention 175 tons of cocoa and 1,000 bags of coffee. The Germans seem to have consumed a lot of coffee and cocoa.

The three boxes of caviar could only be for customers of wealth or high position, and were bound to deprive them of the delicacy, but not for long.

Very likely soap there can be purchased in Germany at last, but what to do with 440 barrels of soap? Not to do 500 cases of lemons,—one solitary specimen certainly ought to be forwarded to Herr Hitler as a token of the Navy's regard.

The Cap Norte had been re-named Nordwind by the Germans and displayed the Swedish flag. Maybe the skipper spoke Scandinavian when he was boarded. But ship or those guns are not easily camouflaged. It is regrettable that we cannot be told at present the full contents of the cargo of this floating warehouse, but the story will be told in due time.

Just good clean fun.—Woodstock Sentinel Review.

PERMIT DIMMED TORCHES

London—(CP)—The government now permits pedestrians to carry dimmed torches in the streets of darkened London at night in place of the complete ban which for two weeks were the sidewalk traffic wearings.

MILITARY HONORS GIVEN OFFICERS KILLED IN CRASH

Funeral Service Held in Auditorium of Administration Building

SOUND LAST POST

Full military honors were accorded the late Pilot-Officers, H. E. Corbett, Fredericton, N.B. and L. J. Gleland, Neepawa, Man., killed when their plane crashed at Crotch Lake, north of Kingston on Saturday, at the Trenton base of the Royal Canadian Air Force yesterday afternoon.

Victims of the first air fatality at the Trenton base since the beginning of hostilities, the young officers were given the last rites in the Auditorium of the Administration Building in the presence of Group Captain G. R. McEwen, officer commanding the base, his staff officers, fellow officers of the class in which the late flyers were receiving special training, and commissioned officers of army regiments.

Immediately following the service, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Coulter, Presbyterian minister of St. Catherines, the personal friend of the family of the late Pilot Officer Gleland, and the Rev. F. A. Smith, Anglican chaplain of Trenton, the flag-draped caskets were taken to the Oddfellows' Cemetery at Trenton. Last night the bodies of the late officers were entrained for their homes in the widely separated parts of the Dominion.

Impressive Service

The proud insignia of the Royal Canadian Air Force looked down on the Union Jack that draped the caskets of two gallant officers. Also the brilliant folds of the flag lay their sword on the coffin of the unifiers of the force packed the spacious auditorium to near-capacity as fellow officers of the crafty victims gathered to pay a last tribute to two of their company. The soft, strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Nearer My God to Thee" were played by a select ensemble voices over the muted accompaniment of the R.C.A.F. Band.

Sorrow-stricken, the parents of the late Flying Officer Gleland and his brother Stanley, who motored here last week from their home in Neepawa, Manitoba to visit their son and brother, sat nearby as the simple but impressive service started.

Rev. Mr. Coulter

"We were taught that we should manfully strive to bear one another's burdens," the Rev. Mr. Coulter said, in a brief but eloquent address. "Life, however, demands more than that. It teaches us that we should strive to carry each others burdens. My presence and your presence here today is eloquently symbolical of that".

"My mind goes back to my first charge at Neepawa, Manitoba. George Gleland was one of my first boys. Many times he came to chat with me in fellowship. Like the woman in the Bible, we must make a choice. We stand in the same place today. It is the issue of life that we make the choice between the hard right and the easy wrong."

"Like her, George Gleland made his choice. He like she was willing to give all to those he loved and served. He like she, had loyalty, and today when we have so many ideals of country and Empire, that loyalty is sorely needed," Mr. Coulter said.

"The fragrance of his life is not gone," he continued. "It remains in our hearts. For me and for you, George Gleland is not dead, for we shall carry his memory in our hearts. I shall always carry his smile. You too will carry memories of a life well and truly lived."

"What is there left to do. To triumph and to carry on, and hold high the noble traditions of God, the King and our country," he concluded.

The Rev. Mr. Smith made no address. Following the service, airmen and non-commissioned officers of the base, preceded by the officiating clergy, carried the caskets to waiting motors. A guard of honor with arms at the "present" stood at rigid attention.

Final Tributes

The mournful melody of the "Dead March in Saul" rang out in the cool afternoon air as the funeral cortege moved slowly towards the station gates. Officers of the supporting parties massed in their allotted positions bears the pace. Wing-Captain G. R. McEwen and his staff fell in immediately in rear of the procession, followed by contingents of the personnel of the station. Near the gates the guard of honor with arms reversed, stood with heads bowed as the cortege passed through its two ranks to a halt.

A minute later, three volleys crashed into the air, a bugler sounded "Last Post". Then "Reveille" and the cortege moved slowly forward Trenton. A second's silence, and the haunting notes of a stirring march sounded on the parade ground. Officers of the supporting parties, classmates of the dead flyers, included: For the late Pilot-Officer H. E. Corbett—Pilot Officers, J. R. MacDonald, H. A. Heer, W. M. Gray, W. W. Cameron and H. J. Ledoux. For the late Pilot Officer G. L. Gleland—Pilot-Officers, G. S. Austin, W. B. Miller, N. J. Gray, J. A. Reynolds, J. G. Richards and R. A. Ashman.

Thurlow Community Holds Entertainment For Red Cross

2nd Thurlow — Much sympathy is extended to Mrs. Mitchell and family in the loss of husband and father.

Mrs. Porter and Mrs. Miller have returned to their homes in Thurlow after spending the past week with their parents Mr. and Mrs. I. Nightingale.

A number of the young people from this line attended the Quarter-Sheet Party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy theatre on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Clinton Grills had dinner on Sunday with his sister Mrs. G. Grills.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble Brown and Helen spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grills.

Among those attending the ploughing match at Brookville last week were, Messrs Harry Grills, J. Donaldson, Eric Keenleyside, Gray, Gordon Atkins, C. Fawl, A. Greisinger, Ralph Greisinger, R. Vrian and Merle Robinson.

Mrs. Clinton Grills spent a couple days with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Will Gray, Massanaga.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Woods who were married on Wednesday.

Misses Lorena Haight and Audrey Bradshaw attended the Institute classes on Friday and Saturday in Stirling and stayed with the former's aunt, Mrs. R. Chambers.

Society of Friends Discusses Homes For Child Refugees

Picton, Oct. 18. — The Canadian Friends' Service Committee, which is composed of representatives from the yearly meetings of Friends in Canada, held their annual meeting in Wellington over the week-end and timely topics were discussed.

It was the first time in the nine years' life of the committee that it had held its annual meeting east of Toronto.

Raymond Booth, secretary of the Committee for Political Refugees, introduced the subject of bringing refugee children to Canada. The speaker of Friends now in England for their disposal meeting houses which are now in use to be used as temporary hostels. It was also suggested that farms might be secured and utilized as training schools for such children.

In addition to undertaking the work of extending help and succour to refugee children, the Society of Friends pledged itself to work along lines of peace and conciliation and to build a new international order of goodwill and peace among nations.

Officers elected were: Chairman, Arthur Doriand, London; vice-chairmen, Mrs. Percy Corbett, Lyleigh, and Howard Brown, Welland; treasurer, Elizabeth MacCallum, Picton; secretary, Fred Haslam, Toronto; executive committee, Lorens of the base, preceded by the officiating clergy, carried the casets to waiting motors. FARM SYSTEM SHOWS RETURNS

Patrick Will Have No Trouble Getting Replacements for the Rangers

Winnipeg, Oct. 18—(CP) — New York Rangers' farm system, controlled entirely by Lester Patrick, ruination of the first amateur hockey school, showed a real return when Manager Lester Patrick lined up his clubs here yesterday for the season's opening game. The scramble for replacements is practically over this year, Manager Patrick declares requiring serious deliberation. They were formed by the sale of right winger Cecil Dillon and relegation of Larry Molyneux to the Philadelphia Ramblers. The latter was a defenceman but Patrick has decided to carry an additional forward this year in his place.

Amongst the Philadelphia Ramblers, International-American League proteges are holding down Ranger positions, three York Rovers of the Eastern United States American League report to the Rangers, are holding down the defence berths, Kansas City Greyhounds of the American Association. Ten of the 25 attending the Hamilton armory came from the school or the Rovers.

Two Philadelphia mainstays, Joe Krol and Kilby Macdonald are perhaps replacements for the gaps in the Rangers. Other possibilities include Alfie Pike, Rover graduate, Herb Foster, last year with Atlantic City and leading scorer in the Eastern U. S. league for the last three seasons and John Polich, junior hockey recruit from Los Angeles, Calif.

Delicious Cakes Are Featured at Cooking School

Classes Are Held in Bridge Street S.S. Rooms by Miss Leta Small

Under the auspices of the Women's Association of Bridge Street Church and through the co-operation of the Belleville Public Utilities, a two day electric cooking school conducted by Miss Leta Small opened yesterday afternoon in the Sunday School rooms. A splendid attendance greeted Miss Small and the pretty lady audience welcomed her as a familiar friend, introduced by them at various cooking schools. Her charming personality made her presence visits recommended with pleasure and the women of the city were delighted to meet her on her return.

Mr. Everett Smith, representing the Belleville Public Utilities, opened yesterday afternoon's session of the Cooking School.

Miss Small expressed her pleasure in coming to Belleville and the splendid attendance. A program urged her audience to bring to her attention any cooking problem on which she could give them advice.

The making of cakes was the kindle engrossed the attention of the Cooking School yesterday, when sponge cake, Canada sponge cakes, maple cookies, and salmon bacon pinwheels were the three dishes demonstrated.

As her skilful fingers prepared the various delicacies, Miss Small described carefully each step in their preparation. It was important that ingredients be of room temperature and should be taken from the refrigerator ahead of time to avoid being too cold. One of the essentials in successful cake making is accurate measurements and Miss Small urged the use of standard level measurements. The average cake required a baking temperature of 350 degrees, layer cake taking an added 25 degrees while for chocolate cakes the usual temperature is 325 degrees.

Miss Small described the features of the Moffat ranges used in the smartly designed stage kitchen. Distributing Miss Small during the afternoon was Miss Margaret Griffin, Hydro Demonstrator.

An interesting part of the program was the group of readings by Miss Alma Latchford, which were keenly enjoyed by the audience.

Mr. Ingham gave an interesting talk on Hydro services, pointing out the advantages Belleville consumers enjoy with a citizen-owned public utility and tracing the benefits received in the last ten years, all profits finally going back to the people of the city.

During the afternoon, at the close of the cake demonstrations, attendance prizes were presented. These were drawn by Miss Muriel Hibbard and were won as follows:

Kettle—Mrs. N. H. McConnell, 36 Sacred Avenue.

Shopping Bag—Mrs. Emily Grigg, 30 Ont. Street, West.

Set of Measuring Cups—Mrs. E. E. Pairman, 18 Isabel Street.

Table Cloth—Mrs. Violet Smith, Toronto.

Man's Work Shirt—Mrs. Allan Boyle.

Case of Coca Cola—Mrs. J. A. Barclay, 37 Dundas St. East.

Dusting Powder—Miss G. Handley.

Milk Tickets—Mrs. Wm. Kenwood, 221 Albert Avenue.

Ice Cream—Mrs. Mitchell, 14 Bellevue Apts.

Butter Dish—W. Hart, 67 Burton St.

Finger Wave—Mrs. Wood Thomas 194 Albert Street.

Bags of groceries—Mrs. Clara Bleecker, 1 Catherine St.; Mrs. J. Ellis, 217 Station St.; Mrs. Gill, 373 Dufferin St.; Mrs. J. Clare, 128 E. Bridge St.; Mrs. E. Moran, R.R. 4, Trenton; Mrs. J. A. Fisher, Stirling.

Novelty Prizes

The appetizing bacon pinwheels were a special prize to the mother with five children won by Mrs. Campbell, 32 Church Street, while the orange cake was presented to the most recent bride, Mrs. John Coleman, 39 Dundas Street, who was married on September 30. The oldest lady present, Mrs. Eliza Hutchins, 224 John Street, who is 86 was the recipient of the orange toast and the lady married the longest, Mrs. Hunter, 65 years married, was presented with the Canada sponge cake. Having a birthday Tuesday Mrs. S. G. Kerr, 70 Turnbull Street was the orange cake as a birthday present.

IVANHOE W. I.

The regular meeting of the Ivanhoe Local Institute was held at the home of Mrs. J. B. Ferguson on Tuesday Oct. 10th. with the president, Mrs. T. E. Fleming in charge. There was a very large attendance of members and visitors. The meeting was opened by singing the Institute Ode and repeating the Lord's prayer in unison. Every member present responded to the roll call by giving a first aid remedy. During the business period bills were paid and correspondence was dealt with. Letters of thanks were read from Mrs. Geo. Mayo, Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. S. Donnan for fruit and cards received during illness.

The menu was planned for the dinner which is to be served the officers who attend the rally to be held in the Trenton town hall. Definite plans were made for the annual Hallowe'en party and committees appointed to look after prizes, programme, etc.

It was decided to begin Red Cross work at once. Mrs. T. E. Fleming was appointed delegate to attend the Area Convention to be held in Belleville Oct. 19th and 20th.

The main feature of the program was an address on bathing a baby by Mrs. C. C. Gill, Mrs. Gill also gave a demonstration on bandaging and Miss Elva Donnan read humorous poem. Special music was provided by Mrs. V. Haggerman. A vote of thanks was moved to Mrs. Gill by Mrs. L. Tanner for her very instructive talk and demonstration and the president thanked Mrs. Haggerman for acting as pianist in the absence of Mrs. M. Shaw.

Attendance was taken and the meeting was closed by singing the National Anthem. Lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants, Mrs. Ferguson, assisted were Mrs. S. Reid, Mrs. E. Earles, Mrs. J. Wallace and Mrs. A. Hagerman.

Prettying Up Your Windows for Fall

By ELEANOR ROSS

TREATING the house to new curtains every autumn is among the luxuries that are not possible, alas, to many. As a matter of fact, the curtains created by our American mills have become so beautiful or so inexpensive as now. The new lace net curtains achieve prettiness and distinction with the dainty fragility of the finer weave plus a mask for a lot of inferiority.

Many of the new lace net curtains achieve picture windows. There are patterns for bedroom windows, for the living room, dining room, play room, in modern and traditional designs. Some of the new weaves echo Victorian design but without a trace of the heaviness or over-elaborateness which was the fashion then. The classic styles, liked so well in homes throughout the land, are changed enough to give homes new-looking curtains, but they retain the basic patterns and textures that have made them popular.

Leaves and Stripes

Leaves flutter over fine, meshed grounds. Stripes — wide, narrow, combinations of both; stripes that are plain or patterned —give opportunity for smart window treatments and a chance to assemble them with plain or patterned draperies. One design was inspired by the embroidered pattern of an old bed canopy. Some take their patterns from snow crystals. Sprays of flowers and, too, Motifs from the 18th century decorating are woven into lace borders, and there are many geometric designs, some on decidedly modern lines. The trend in softness is apparent, so that when hung in very full folds at the windows, curtains are not stiff and froths of lace.

The vogue for lighter neutral tones has created creamy beiges with ecrus that have been popular through the years. Women will find that they ensemble beautifully with any color scheme.

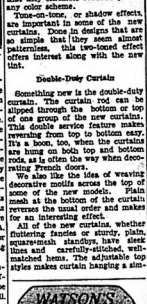
Tone-on-tone, or shadow effects, are important in some of the new patterned lace making a monochromatic scheme.

Double-Duty Curtain

Something new is the double-duty curtain. The curtain can be slipped through the bottom or top of the casing of the new curtain. This double service feature makes reversing from top to bottom easy. It's a boon, too, when the curtains are hung on both top and bottom rods, as is often the way when decorating French doors.

We also like the idea of weaving decorative lace across the top of some of the new models. Plain sheers with the bottom of the curtain reserve the usual order and makes for an interesting effect.

Of the new curtains, whether fluttering fancies or sturdy, plain, square-ended, they are definitely lines and carefully-stitched, well-hemmed hems. The adjustable hat styles makes curtain hanging a simple matter.



Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Nowadays, when so many girls wear slacks and ski and play a hard game of tennis, and when sports outfits play such a part in every woman's wardrobe, you may have the idea that the athletic girl is on top.

You may think that not only do men greatly admire the girl with muscles, but that they are completely sold to commonsense clothes and that they fairly swarm after a sturdy, two-fisted young woman whom nobody ever thinks of as "pretty" across the street or in and out of a car.

Well, if you have thought so, you are mistaken.

Girls who know what they are talking about, bright girls from the very heart of college life, tell us that femininity is the thing and that if a girl has the faintest inkling of success in marriage, she'd better cut out all sports tops that aren't above all, alluring.

Right now in the American college girl, who has at times allowed the outside world to think her a bit mannish in for being rather sloppy and rough-shod. She is now wearing feminine clothes.

At the college she came from, she is dressing, when occasion beckoned, the girls earnestly devote themselves to study and then to beauty. Not that they put their don't believe in getting themselves up and going for somethings or as girlish roughnecks. Socks for campus wear are definitely taboo, and now the very athletic girls ever allow themselves to be seen in flat-heeled shoes.

But this isn't just a fad There's a definite thought behind it. The students of life, as well as of books believe they know the type of girl men like, and of clothes most attractive to men. They believe it's worth while to try to meet this unspoken demand.

"We dress to please the men and admit it," said this girl who knows. "High heels? Perhaps they're not sensible and perhaps they're not much use for hiking. But didn't somebody say that beauty is to suffer to be beautiful? We wear our high heels, even if we suffer, and if you want any proof that we know what we're about, I'll give it to you. It's this:

"By Commencement every year practically the entire senior class is engaged."

The proof does seem to be overwhelming. Shouldn't a college with such a romantic record issue a special bulletin to boost itself itself?

After all, there's nothing really surprising about this revelation. Men and women don't change as much as we suppose. Let's say that the boy of today wants a girl not only to be pretty but to wear clothes that have a certain dash. This much can almost be taken for granted. What he also wants is that she look frail without being frail in the least sickly. Small waists produce this effect. And he likes her to suggest the idea of helplessness without really being a burden or a nuisance when he takes her out. High heels are an important detail in this connection.

The boy with any preferences is pretty much like his grandfather or his great — grandfather. He always liked girls to look feminine. If flatters their masculine pride should a real or fancied man who are forced to depend on them because of their greater strength—and who are willing to pretend in their charming way to be all the more foolish and foolisher than they really are.

Men are pretty fatuous, of course. But its natural that they shouldn't like girls who resemble them, and they somehow feel that the girl who wears flat heels with dresses which bring to mind pumpkins, makes them uncomfortable.

So a girl who follows the present fashions is playing pretty safe.

Children as Guests at a Party

Could anything be prettier than children flocking into so attractive a room, with little hats on their heads greeting them with radiant smiles?

Little people who are invited to a party should, on entering, shake hands with their friend's mother, then with their friend, and with the child-host or hostess who will be either standing beside the mother or up stairs to receive them from the door. When shaking hands with the grown-ups, the little guest, a little girl should curtsy and say, "How do you do"; a little boy should bow and say, "How do you do" and make his very best bow.

Children should be taught to make these salutations happily and without self-consciousness. Parents can do much to educate this important bit of social training is to let them sit in on dinner parties as much as they can without interrupting their lessons. For if children are constantly taught to use "company" deliberately, when very-young to mingle with people socially, they will be under the agonies of shyness that afflict many a grown-up.

At a party to which they are invited is a birthday celebration, children should take a little gift. IT SHOULD NOT BE AN EXPENSIVE GIFT. It should be simple and in good taste. It is often wise, for the child's sake, and simultaneously for the hostess, to let the child select the gift without guidance. Although such a choice lets down you and seem "to be anything but appropriate, you will discover that in some odd way the child has hit upon the very thing that will please the friend to most pleasure.

At real parties, there are always favors and prizes. It will be easy to teach children to go in for the prizes with modesty. Win or lose is one of the experiences which fit children for success in life. But teach them to play fair, to scorn to cheat for the sake of winning. And teach them that first prizes are for those who excel. It is not enough to be interested. Approval Seal of the American Institute of Laundering, for being harmless to fabric.

Cause Mental Retardation

One well-known cause of mental retardation in babies is lack of thyroid. Fortunately this is one type that we definitely know we can do something for, and it is especially fortunate that the baby with this deficiency presents a picture easily recognized by a medical man shortly after birth.

In the first place, the baby is very dull and lethargic. He sleeps most of the time, his appetite poor, and his expression is dull and heavy. I have often seen parents questioned in connection with mental retardation from other causes, when there are none of the characteristics which mark the lack of thyroid. A child may seem to have a body out of all proportion to his legs, for the legs are short and stubby. A child will at the same time the skin is dry and rough and the hair is coarse and wiry. In this type of child also the tongue habitually seems to be protruding from his mouth. Such a pretty complete picture of a child with thyroid deficiency.

This condition can be treated by giving thyroid extract regularly. The result of this treatment is begun early enough the child will overtake and keep pace with and develop into a normal person with average intelligence. However, the earlier this condition isn't too bad survives, and when they do arrange to say, they are often exceedingly bright.

Please remember that a baby of this type is no reflection upon the parents. They are born to all kinds of people, although at times I have thought they were born most often to the brighter and more healthy couples.

7-HOUR RAIN STARTS FLOODS

London, Oct. 18 (CP)—Floods following a seven-hour rain today disrupted train and wire communications in Buckinghamshire.

All trains on the London Midland and Scottish main line to the north and west through Bletchley, Bletchley, Buckinghamshire and no bookings were accepted over the main line to the floods.

The Grand Union Canal was said to have overflowed its banks at Simpson, a village near Bletchley, and the low-lying agricultural area were out of order.

The tie-up at Bletchley was further complicated by high water near Castle Thorpe, in Northern Buckinghamshire, and by the derailment of a car attached to a freight train on the main line at Castlethorpe, midway between Wolverton.

Both north and south bound lines were blocked by the derailment. Both districts and 2,000 men employed in Wolverton were unable to get to work. The floods and derailment made Wolverton unapproachable by road or rail.

The Kilnhby railway tunnel between Northampton and Daventry also was flooded.

BABY FRETFUL?

FRETFULNESS is not natural. It is a sign of trouble. A warning alarm to which you must not be deaf.

Read how Mrs. George Mitchell responded to the warning of her baby's fretfulness. "I had a baby girl," she writes, "who was fretful like one or two babies and in a short time he was a good baby."

And Mrs. Stewart McEachern says, "When my baby shows signs of fever or fretfulness I give her Baby's Own Tablets which change it to a good baby."

Baby's Own Tablets also bring quick relief from diarrhoea, colic, upset stomach, constipation and simple colds. They are guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. Sold by druggists or sent postpaid at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHAPTER XXI

The reporters left at last. Carol simply said "Let's eat."

Dusty obeyed her half heartedly, and she had to force Mike to sit down at the table.

"It's going to be worse before it's better," Carol philosophized, "Mike-ten, you two. You know what will happen. The boys will think Handsome was waiting up long."

"Monsense." Dusty turned to Mike. "Where'd you get that slang? It's a dandy."

"You did that last night."

Dusty groaned again. "I should never talk a drink!"

Carol rolled her eyes to the ceiling. Dusty managed to eat, but the two girls gave it up as a bad job.

"Will Ace let us know when they come from the hospital?" Mike was pacing up and down the sitting room.

"We'll be lucky if he doesn't come in here and clean up on all of us, you girls included." Dusty was nervous, lighting up one cigarette after another.

"I'm dying for another drink, but I won't take it." His announcement stirred no comment from his wife or Mike, who went to her room. Carol sat there in the darkness for a long time. What could she say to Ace? Probably nothing. She would be better.

It was after 10 p. m. when Ace came to the door of the suite. He did not knock, but wrenched open the door and walked in. None of them needed to ask whether Handsome's hand was serious. Ace slumped in a chair. His face was grey and tired.

"Well, that's that." He picked a glass of water from the supper table which had not been removed. He took a piece of dry toast. He began to eat it, absently. Finally he reared back in the chair and turned his attention to the three who waited.

"I don't know what happened up here. I don't suppose any of you will tell me the truth. That does not matter now. Handsome will be out of a career. There's a broken bone. He may never play again."

The silence in the room was so heavy it seemed to suffocate them.

"Where is he?" Mike asked pleadingly.

"You've done enough. Stay away from him."

"He needs me tonight, if what you say is true."

Ace turned to Mike: "You silly little fool! If I hadn't been a softie and brought you back, Wish had kept his mealy mouth shut. I'd have a helper today. I'd have had a great a chance at the Series. Now, you're through. If we do win the pennant we can't do anything."

Ace stared at Mike: "What is the matter with you women?"

It was plain to see he was almost at the breaking point. It seemed a relief to Mike just what he thought of her:

"All I want from you, young woman, is for you to get out of here as fast as you can, tomorrow. Just get out of my sight. I don't care where you go, just so I never see you have to look at you again." He dropped his head in his hands.

Dusty got up and left them without saying anything more to Dusty. He left the room, slamming with the feeling that he was no longer of any importance in the life of Caldwell Royce Barnes.

Things were pretty bad after Ace left. Mike's phone kept ringing and she ignored Dusty's admonitions to keep away from it. It was Ray Travis;

"Hey, Mike, What-happened to everybody? Ace has put Handsome in the room next to mine. Think you'd better come down."

Mike hung up the receiver and, without speaking to the two, grabbed up her coat and went down to Handsome's new room. Ray opened the door when she knocked. "He's in bed. What's the matter with his hand? How did he do it? I can't get a word out of him."

Mike brushed Ray aside and rushed in to kneel beside the bed. She put both arms around Handsome and did not try to talk to him. He was heartbroken, of course. He put his head on her shoulder and whispered: "They say I may never play again."

"Monsense!" Mike's voice carried conviction. "It can't be hurt like that. I won't believe it." She kissed the top of his head, murmured to him. "And you didn't have any dinner, did you?"

Handsome had forgotten about that. Mike motioned to Ray. He leaned over her as she knelt there beside Handsome.

"Go to your room and order him some supper. Soup, and something light. You know what he likes best."

When the two were alone Mike began to talk to Handsome. Ace, of course, is terribly worried. Don't think about your self now. You'll be as well again in a few days. It's only a long time to heal before the Series."

But Handsome just clung to her, would not speak. When the food came, she fed him, forced him to eat. After that, he fell asleep.

"You were staying."

His grinned wanly: "I've ruined everything, Mike!"

"No, you haven't. If you can never play baseball again, you can do something else. That's first. But it is silly to think your hand can't be cured and cured quickly. I won't believe it. I don't care what the doctor says."

It was past midnight when Mike finally got Handsome to sleep.

"You're going to go away and leave me," Handsome accused her. "No, I promise. I'll stay right here."

She drew a large chair close to the bed, threw a blanket over her shoulders, turned off all lights, and sat down beside him.

"Now, I'll stay right here until you're sound asleep."

He held out his well hand and she took it in both hers. Then she leaned over and kissed him: "Good-night, darling. Go to sleep."

WHAT GIVES SCHOOL CHILDREN NEEDED VITALITY?

"Gee! I've mum. Gotta go now before I'm late for school."

And off he races. As fast as his short legs will carry him. In school he squirms and wriggles through an arithmetic test between pulls at the inviting long braids that hang over the front of his desk.

And then recess. A wild quarter of an hour into which he crams as much physical activity as he possibly can. Running, jumping, playing ball. By then he starts to feel the call of hunger.

After recess. More studying and recitation and pulling of fascinating braids. He's not content to do one thing at a time. He's always busy.

And lunch. An electric thrill runs through the whole class as the bell sounds. He races out. Whooping and hollering. He's practically starved. Up the stairs and into the house. But his pace isn't quite as fast as when he left earlier this morning. When you hear him, you hope there's nothing wrong.

But you can take care of all that. A quick forced wash and he's at the table. You give him a drink.

"Gosh, mom. But this is swell. This milk—mmmmmmm!"

He's finished. A quick kiss and he's off. All his vitality back, his short legs do him yeoman service.

and he stirred, so she drew the blanket about her, settling down for the night.

About two, Ace Barnes, too nervous to rest, came down the hall to Handsome's room. He would not awaken the boy if he were asleep. Carefully he opened the door. The glare of light from the hall painted a bright path across the still room. Handsome lay there sleeping peacefully, his bandaged left hand on a pillow. His other, Mike had put on both sea she huddled under a blanket asleep in the chair pulled close to the bed side

Ace shut the door carefully. "I'd like to wring her neck!" But as he tramped back down the hall he grinned a little sheepishly. Guess he'd loved the big palooka, all right!

He groaned as he climbed back into bed: "Why did I ever think I wanted to manage a ball club?"

x x x

Newspaper headlines! They blazed wherever Mike looked. There were wires from Handsome's mother, and from her own family. Wires from Wish and Mr. Jenkins. There were endless explanations that to read. Nothing. For Mike remained with the club, in spite of Ace's ultimatum to her. It had happened this way.

The day after Handsome hurt his hand, Ace had come up to see her Handsome had gone to the hospital in the morning, and Mike was packing when Ace knocked on the door of the suite Mike was alone, as Carol had fled the hotel to avoid questioners.

"May I come In?"

Mike was somewhat surprised to see Ace She brushed aside some clothes, so that he could have a chair. The room was in confusion.

"I'm leaving tonight, after Handsome comes from the hospital."

Ace did not answer for a moment. Then he said, "Have you seen the newspapers?"

"No."

"It's pretty bad." Ace shook his head. "Just what did happen? Was he beating you up when Dusty interfered as some of them say?"

"Of course, not." Mike eyes flashed. "It is all such a mess! I would never have come on this trip at all. You were quite right."

"But we've won some mighty important ball games, since Handsome has."

There began to run down Mike's cheeks, she couldn't help it.

"I'm not moaning over it. It's done. I was going to suggest you'd better not leave today. It will make more gossip and there's gossip enough already. But if you're going to act like this—" Mike straightened her shoulders.

"Mr. Barnes, Handsome tried so hard,—and to have it all ruined by such a....." Mike covered her face with her hands. Ace watched her with some sympathy.

"What happened?" he asked suddenly.

Mike dropped her hands: "I've said enough. I've said enough enough I won't do any more. It wouldn't help any to know, Mr. Barnes."

"Now don't tell me Handsome just came up here and started a fight!"

"Of course, not Dusty was angry with me He started in at me and he didn't know that Handsome was with me. That's all."

"I thought maybe Carol got on her high horse, was jealous and lit into you."

"Ridiculous! The truth is so trivial, nobody would believe us. You don't!" She turned to Ace pleadingly.

"Certainly we don't. That's why I wish you'd tell me the whole story. I might feel better."

Mike shook her head.

"You told the newspaper boys Dusty hurt your arm."

"I shouldn't have said that. I know it now."

"Well, did he?"

"Yes, but he didn't mean to."

"I suppose all this was just in the spirit of pure fun!" Ace got up over and stood by the window, his hands thrust deep into his pockets. Suddenly, he threw up his hands and left the room, slamming the door.

So now you know just what happened to Handsome Regan's hand just before the 1935 Series. Probably you won't believe the truth. Nobody ever did. There were all kinds of stories, and speculating sports writers had a field day. Nobody knew just how badly Handsome was hurt, but one thing was sure. He was out of the Series.

There was a lot of talk about a ring of gamblers who had arranged that fight but it began and died out of the classic. Some said Handsome was not hurt at all, and others said Dusty Lee was in the conspiracy. Others swore that Carol got in a row with Dusty over Mike.

Then there was the famous one about Handsome getting drunk and caught in a revolving door. That was Handsome's favorite alibi when he told the New York reporters when the team got back into town.

That explanation became a traditional jest over night. If anybody wanted an alibi, they "got beat in a revolving door." It grew and grew, and it had its elements of humor, although nobody on the New York team could see the joke.

Being a wise manager, Ace did not discipline either Dusty or Handsome. He let the rest of the team do that. Nobody would speak to either if they could help it.

Ace kept silent except to Mr. Crisp. "I wish for the thousandth time, I'd never laid eyes on that shrik (from Charlotte!"

Crisp's reply brought a twinkle to Ace's eyes in spite of himself. "I'd rather your had him than anybody else in baseball."

It all made great copy, with the World's Series only a week away.

CHAPTER XXII

Mike was back at her old hotel job At the familiar cigar counter, she got the brunt of the whole fight business and Handsome's busted hand. She had to keep on smiling, noncommittal, when the sports and other conventional things all day long.

Beside her worry over Handsome, Mike had her own troubles. Jimmie had come home expecting to find Jimmie improved. But he was not. He was worse.

Handsome's father and mother had planned to come on for the Series. But Mrs. Regan was not feeling well enough. Handsome was not going to play, they decided against the trip. That was another disappointment for Mike. But Handsome was not in the depths, he said he was glad the had decided to stay away.

Mike's worry over the house physician at the Eureka, used to talk to her during those days. It was his opinion that everybody was wrong about Handsome's hand. Handsome was always expected to see the woods for the trees," he said one night as Mike waited for Handsome to meet her when she was through. "I'd like to talk to him about it if he wouldn't mind."

"I'm sure, he wouldn't," Mike said quickly.

"Come up to my suite. Handsome can meet you there," Dr. Christian suggested.

It was half an hour before Handsome telephoned from the lobby. Mike had been an hour. She had told the doctor something of her difficulties.

"I'm just to a point where I had to talk to somebody," she said.

Handsome protested vehemently about coming up to meet the doctor. It seemed mean more consideration. Besides, he wanted to talk to Mike alone. The crowd in the lobby rushed him so that he was glad to escape into the elevator, for he knew a gang would be waiting at his room.

Dr. Christian met him at the door: "Glad you' came up. It's quiet here and Mike is tired. He gets pushed around down there in that lobby. Everybody insists on talking about it."

Handsome looked at Mike: "I didn't know. You do look tired."

Mike sat turning her engagement ring on her finger. "I'm all right, Larry, what about you?"

"Fine."

Handsome walked over and stood by Mike. In his pocket, looking into the street far below—

Handsome came over and sat down beside Mike. His face was pale and drawn.

"I'm jumpy, Doc. They've got me licked. I wouldn't mind missing this Series if I was sure I'd pitch again some day."

"If I were you, I wouldn't keep that bandage on at night. Exercise your hand a little. Try it and don't tell them. Just see how it feels in the morning after you've had a good night's rest."

When they were walking to the subway, Handsome said suddenly, turning his face over to Mike with you."

"It's too late, I won't let you."

"I want to talk to you." They were standing in Times Square, Handsome bundled her into a cab, remarking, "Well, this seems to be the only place we can get any privacy. It won't always be like that."

Handsome opened up what was on his mind by announcing:

"Mike, the boys had a meeting today. Marrio called it. He's the Pres." They decided the way the Series money is to by cut up."

"Yes."

"Well, the boys voted me only a half-share; several wanted to cut me out altogether."

Mike could not trust herself to answer for a moment. "How could they!" she managed.

"Martin's pretty sore at me. I don't blame him. Of course, they won't cut me, they figure there isn't so much to divide and, if I hadn't been such a fool, we'd have big dough." He paused for a moment.

"It's rotten of them. If it weren't for you, they wouldn't be where they are!" Mike burst out.

"I don't know about that myself."

"It is true! They wouldn't dare cut you that way!"

"But they have." He patted her head. "And you're going to say we can't be married this fall."

Mike did not answer for a moment. "I don't like to worry you Larry, but....Jimmie isn't any better."

"I saw that when we came back."

"You noticed it, too?" The text bounced along. "Larry, I've been meaning to ask this for days. I want you to feel free."

He put his arm around her, kissed the tip of her nose, knocked her hat askew: "I do, but you have me hooked, Skipper. I couldn't get away if I wanted to! I wouldn't dare trust those lucky pennies, not less you backed them up!"

x x x

Handsome was frantic the week before the World Series opened between the Yanks and the Giants. His hands was much improved, He'd worked out some. Even Ace Barnes said it was better:

"Maybe I can use you as a relief pitcher, Larry, I don't dare start you."

"Relief!" Handsome fairly hated that word!

"You shouldn't do more than two or three innings at the most, not with that hand the way it is." Ace was firm about that.

Mike's counter was three deep two days before the Series opened. Everybody was trying to get her to talk about Handsome, Dusty Barnes or with Ace, to get tickets.

"I haven't even a seat myself!" She didn't have to be asked much of Handsome for he had been spending most of his waking hours under Dr. Christian's sun lamp. All telephone call's to his room had been shut off.

Handsome had not even suggested that Mike be with him games. Realizing how difficult it was too painful. She did not see Handsome the night before the opening game.

So Mike went home to spend a worried evening with Jimmie. She had been early next morning for she did not want to miss Handsome before he left for the Stadium. When he came to say good morning as usual he tossed a ticket across the counter.

"Wish gave me that last night. Said he thought you ought to be in at the kills!" Handsome's eyes were somber. Mike looked up at him searchingly: "Does it mean anything?"

"Not unless Dusty drops dead and some of the relief pitchers run away from the park!" Handsome was in a rebellious mood.

The big pitcher left without further words. He did not tell Mike he was all for him after the game as usual.

Downey gave his permission, to Mike with surprising ease, it did not occur to Mike to wonder about that. But the event. Jone, The crowds on the subway were terrific.

Everywhere in the train you'd hear the fans putting the blast on Handsome Regan. Mike squeezed into a corner, ducked her head to hide her hot cheeks.

"He's a lazy, good-for-nothing faker!" shouted one noisy fan. "I've had plenty just because he's always foolin' around with women. I hope they kick him off the team."

Mike had to listen. She couldn't get away. The train roared on and the man raised his voice higher to impress his pals.

"I understand Ace is through with him. A friend of mine told me."

"They better take all those rabbits' feet charms outa the park!" chirped a curbstone humorist. There were laughs at the wheeze.

The crowd was as bad, Mike despaired of ever getting to her seat. How the fans had changed! It was her first experience with the fickleness of sports enthusiasts. They'd already forgotten what Handsome had done in mid-season. How he'd helped snag the pennant. They just did not count now. She heard it on all sides. They were against him. She found her seat high up, in the second section from the home.

SHORE TO PLAY AGAINST MATES

Will Guide Indians Against Boston Bruins in Series of Exhibition Games

Hershey, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—The spectacle of Eddie Shore playing against his former Bruins' teammates was assured today when the National Hockey League All-Star came here to complete arrangements with Manager Art Ross for a two-game exhibition series between his Springfield Indians of the American national Hockey League and the Stanley Cup defenders in Boston on Oct. 30 and 31.

Shore, who purchased the Indians last spring, has been supervising their pre-season training in Quebec. Under the terms on the All-Star Bruins' contract, he must confine his active regular season hockey to playing in all of the Boston home games after Dec. 15 and all of their road games thereafter.

Shore's conference with Ross, the only Major League manager he has served under, was unique. Most of Eddie's pre-season confabs with Ross concerned the former's salary disputes, for he seldom started a season except as a holdout.

Ross also said the Bruins would play exhibitions with their International-American League farmhands, Hershey bears, here on Oct. 21 and 26. After opening their National Hockey League season against the Maple Leafs in Toronto Nov. 4, Ross said the Bruins would make a swing through Ontario, playing Ontario Hockey Association teams at Hamilton on Nov. 9, and at Owen Sound on Nov. 10.

Two nights later the Bruins will play their second regular game in Detroit and then return to Boston to open their home season against Chicago Blackhawks on Nov. 14.

Sir:

It may surprise the critics of Canadian (Rugby) Football as played in Eastern Canada, the critics that desire a game more on American college football lines to find Pop Warner, the Dean of American coaches advocating certain changes in their present game to open up their game, particularly as certain of these changes are a regular part of Canadian football.

Among these changes are placing the goal posts back on the goal line to bring back place and drop kicking, a feature of many of our games, allow the receiver of a kick 5 yards, which is known to all fans at our games, (listen to the cry, "he wasn't given yards")—the abolition of our rouges to their All American Rules Association—restoring the outside kick, often used in our game.

He further advocates two changes that are also being favoured in the Canadian game, namely the elimination of the kick off to open the 3rd quarter, with play being resumed at where the play was at the end of the 2nd. quar'er, as there is only one game being played and not two as under the present rules, the other being the throwing of a forward pass from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage in place of the present rule, which requires the passer to be at least 5 yards behind the line of scrimmage.

To quote Pop Warner further re the 5 yard rule on a kick receiver, "it would make the kicking game a more thrilling one to watch, carrying on return returns are one of the most exciting things in football." So I believe those who think Western Canada with their emphasis on forward passing and interference are going to find that the so-called "safety first" style of play are not at all stubborn in their refusal to concede the west their leadership.

For when an American coach as outstanding as Pop Warner sees the need of changes in the American game, changes which are basic and been fundamentals of the Canadian game, this is handing our own "sayers" on our best and keenest critics a jolt that is tough to take.

So to the boys who can kick a football, concentrate on kicking at every chance, for when other players on great teams have long been forgotten the Leadley's, Conacher's, "Shunner" Sterling's and Hubert's are always remembered and in demand. Art Lee Harman of the 1929 Argos.

Walters Gives Credit To Jimmy Wilson For Transformation

Philadelphia, Oct. 18 (AP)—William "Rocky" Walters, the National League's valuable player—an honor "which surpassed my fondest expectations"—handed another gem from the man who transformed him from an infielder to one of baseball's outstanding pitchers

The Cincinnati hurler learned of his selection as the Baseball Writers' Association as he helped Jimmy Wilson and coach and manager, repair Wilson's boat in preparation for the duck-hunting season.

"Jimmy was responsible for my success on the mound and now he's going to show me how to shoot ducks," said the 29-year-old Pennhander who won 27 games for the Reds last season.

Laying aside his paint brush at a hunting club at nearby Morrisville on the Delaware River, Wilson said:

"I'm mighty proud about Rocky winning that award. He takes the credit for giving him the pitching idea but Rocky had the ability and the heart to work and that's what makes a successful hurler."

Walters, Lonnie Frey, Walters and Wilson both believe the Reds will win the pennant again.

ROWE LEADING WESTERN SCORERS

Plunging Backfielder of Calgary Stamps Has 13-Point Margin

Winnipeg, Oct. 18 (CP)— Paul Rowe, great plunging backfielder who won the Dominion title from Victoria by way of University of Oregon, leads in the scoring field with 53 points in the Western Interprovincial Football Union individual standings.

Rowe plunged for a touchdown and kicked a field goal at Regina Saturday as Bronks lost to Roughriders 12-11 to bring his season's total to 10 touchdowns, eight touchdowns, one field goal and 10 converts for 53 points.

Andy Bieber of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, last year's scoring champion, was next best retained second place with eight touchdowns for 40 points. Three other Bombers, Greg Rabet, Wayne Shelley and Jeff Nicklin, hold the next three positions with 31 points each while Howard Cleveland's two touchdowns for Regina Saturday gave him the sixth spot with 26.

New York, Oct. 18—(CP)—The game known as golf has begun to hit the skids—too many sour deals. Bobby Jones, one of Atlanta, Michigan City, Ind., featherweight (30 wins in 31 fights) who is all set to crash big time in the Gomez of the Yanks leaves this week for a training expedition in New Brunswick.

One minute interview: — Leo Durocher: "I had the best infield team in the country in my outfield last season. Rosen went good to start, then I put in Parks and he burned up the league for a few weeks. Dixie Walker carried him for a month and look what a job Jimmy Ripply did as anchor man."

Your star, Clark Griffith for signing Stan Harris again and four more to Frank Brisch for rebirthing old Ossie Vitt.

Clark Griffith broadcasting: "I don't know if Greenberg is the fellow we signed for. But he wouldn't hurt us any."

LOUIS IS LIKELY TO RETIRE AFTER SUMMER FIGHT

Will Become Only Undefeated Negro Champion in World's History

MAY OPEN CAFE

Julian Black and John Roxborough Has Plans Mapped Out .

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—When Joe Louis has made the final defence of his heavyweight title — probably next summer — and retired as the only undefeated negro champion in ring history, he will settle down as proprietor of his own swank riding club and eating establishment near Detroit.

It's all mapped out for the fight con-managers, Julian Black and John Roxborough, just as they have arranged every other item of his existence since he came into the orbit of these two remarkably determined men.

For the last six months, our informant says, Roxborough and Black have been giving more thought to the champion's future than to making his matches and supervising his training. They have plans so that Louis can retire undefeated next year, but they are interested in seeing that Joe remains a credit to the negro race after he has hung up the gloves.

"If Joe thinks he's going to retire to a life of leisure and just plain pleasuring himself he's badly mistaken," says a friend. "He'll work and behave himself and not get fat or Julian and John will break his neck for him."

His riding academy and estate for members of Detroit's colored upper crust is the idea that they finally have decided upon. So far Joe already owns several blooded saddle horses and, furthermore, knows how to ride 'em.

Black and Roxborough, after an ordinate pride in Louis, not alone for his accomplishments inside the ring, but for his conduct outside the ropes as well. They have "handtrained" him, they say, from scratch and never letting him play with matches.

Doubtlessly, some of their zeal has been attributable to the unpleasant memories attached to the career of the last negro heavyweight champion before Louis, Jack Johnson. They are determined there shall be no blemish on Joe's record.

For some time after they took over Joe's contract, Black and Roxborough allowed him almost his full spending money each week, and there were some weeks when he got a good part of it. Since he got up into the big money and took himself a wife, he has come across what more liberal with Joe's money, but they still keep a steadying hand on his change pocket.

They have put a better part of $1,000,000, clear, when John and Julian decide it's time for him to quit fighting.

Leafs Counting on Taylor To Make Good as a Pro In First Year With Team

Will Likely Lineup With Schriner and Marker for the Season

LINES ASSIGNED

Defencemen Hitting in Mid-Season Form at St. Catharines

St. Catharines, Ont., Oct. 18 (CP)—Coach Dick Irvin is half-counting on a Toronto forward line of Billy (the Kid) Taylor, Sweeney Schriner and Gus Marker for the National Hockey League season and there is every reason to believe this trio will work together for the Maple Leafs.

When the Leafs came to training here last week, Irvin said he had no idea what his forward-line combinations would be. The only thing he would say was that Defencemen Hitting Schriner, acquired by Toronto this year in a trade with New York Americans, would not play on a line with Syl Apps and Gordie Drillon.

But it got noised around that Irvin was hoping he could make a great unit of the veterans Schriner and Marker and the 21-year-old Taylor who played with Oshawa Generals junior champions last season. When the grey-haired coach first drew up attacking lines for practice yesterday, the three were together.

In a swift, two-hour drill, Taylor made plays for the sharp-shooting Schriner and the hustling Marker.

Count on Taylor

"Sure we didn't score a lot of goals out there and sometimes our passes looked bad," Marker said. "But I like the feel of young Taylor's passes and I'm pretty sure all we need is a lot of practice together. They don't come any smarter than Schriner and it's nice to be picked for a line with a fellow with his scoring record."

The Leafs are counting on Taylor to make good as a professional in his first season.

Toronto has been in the habit of raising its own players or buying them young and the off-season trade that brought Schriner to the Leafs caused wonderment about the circuit. Manager Conny Smythe likes to develop youngsters along lines of strict training and dead-serious playing, whereas the Americans are a pretty free-and-easy bunch.

Physical training was something new for Schriner. The Leafs get an hour of it every day.

Never Get Serious

"We had physical training one year the Americans trained in Oshawa," Sweeney recalled. "That did us a lot of good and there was nothing Red Dutton could do to make them serious about it."

Another old combination was reunited yesterday in practice with Nick Metz at centre between Pop Kelly and Joseph Chamberlain. Centred Normie Mann and Hank Goldsworthy.

The units toss at one another for the first time Thursday when Normen Red Horner, Bingo Kampman, Bob Davidson, Hugh McDonald, Bill Church and Walter Stanowski were bodychecking as if it were mid-season.

Between the Lines

with Ken J. Colling

Today's mail brought a better, published elsewhere in today's issue, from Convener Bill Fry of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, who apparently is making reply to the recent blasts the sport scribes have directed at the system of Canadian rugby tack-ON, following a score.

Mr. Fry's references are not made in this direction, and there are few who will contradict the sincerity of his contentions and holdings regarding the retaining of the fundamentals of Canadian football. Our main objection to the kick-off following a score is the fact that the team to be scored upon again loses possession of the ball. If, however, the kick-off following a score was optional, then the under-dog might occasionally gain possession and even go so far as to halt a "steamroller" spell. As the situation now stands in the Canadian Rugby Union rules after a team scores a touchdown, the squad scored upon must turn around and kick the ball back to the opponents' possession which is the only play with which we are concerned, as the kick-off should be optional. However Mr. Fry's letter speaks for itself.

Six-man rugby proved it can be as dangerous as any team game that comes to mind or more. Coach Coach Pete Beach took his Albert College squad to the road to Trenton where the Alberts not only absorbed a 31-6 shellacking, but had three players carried off on injuries sustained. The injury-riddled Alberts returned home last year and weary after being given the business by the sizzling Trenton students. Most noteworthy was the dislocation of quarterback Ken Walden's shoulder, a injury that will keep Reddy out of football for the remainder of the season. Coach Pete Beach says he is satisfied his three injuries were battle scarred, but his six-man international interscholastic squad will be there as the result as the Alberts will be short-handed when they meet Coach Eddie Schlobohm's Belleville Collegiate squad today. The "Collegians" hold to 8-4 win over the Alberts earlier in their initial meeting, but Dame Rumour tells us the Red Devils are busily resting on their laurels since and might have been in for a grand surprise if they had not been. Bend or twist your body there's always perfect freedom. Truly a miracle of fit and serviceability, of comfort and warmth.

810 LOSE LIVES ON ROYAL OAK

London, Oct. 18 (CP)—The Admiralty today revised figures today on the sinking of the battleship Royal Oak Saturday, reporting 810 saved instead of 424 survivors.

The figures were based on "latest information at the Admiralty" and showed 24 officers and 786 men went down with the battleship. Survivors included 57 officers and, 367 men.

These totals exceeded slightly the previous estimates. They showed a total of 1,224 were on the ship instead of the outside figure of 1,200 to four months when the sinkin was announced.

Minister to Holy See Presents Credentials

Castel Gandolfo, Oct. 18 (AP)—Jugoslavia's new minister to the Holy See, Stanislav Girdvainis, presented his credentials to Pope Pius, restoring normal relations with the Vatican discontinued five years ago.

The Pope, in a brief speech, said Lithuania now is the outpost of Christianity in eastern Europe and expressed a hope for the preservation of Christian life there. Later he received the minister in private audience.

Relations between Lithuania and the Holy See have been in the hands of a Charge d'Affaires for the past five years.

BALKANS TURN

The net result of the mission's victorious negotiations is that Germany is to get no more goods, regardless of her needs, than she did in peace time.

This is the way things turned out in the nations:

YUGOSLAVIA—A new agreement has been signed but German imchanged but provides that Germany must greatly increase her shipments to settle large clearing-house deficits or run the risk of losing trade advantages. Jugoslavia has insisted that what Yugoslav exports to Germany are dropped below $10,000,000 the first eight months of 1938 to $18,000,000 in a similar period this year.

BULGARIA—The prices Germany must pay for goods are raised by a new agreement which provides for payment in all of gold the rest in gold.

RUMANIA—The export of oil—greatest need of Germany's mechanized army—is left unchanged by the new trade pact, but regardless of the agreement, statistics from the oil-producing areas indicate there is a decline in shipments to Germany because of difficulties of transportation.

HUNGARY—Because of her new commercial treaty with Germany Hungary was counted on to ship the Reich a million tons of grain. But when the German experts came to Budapest, the question of payment was raised, for Germany already owes Hungary $16,000,000. The German position found the Hungarian attitude to be that trade increases were no good if the profit was in debts.

TURKEY — Several weeks ago Turkey's German trade agreement expired, Turkey served notice she would not negotiate a new one.

GERMAN THRUSTS

For the third successive day and night, it was reported, the Germans continued to concentrate their destructive power on Scarlaube and other points in the strategic Lauter-Saarbrucken area.

The concentration movement was said to have been in the way affected by assaults which the Germans have been making on the north-eastern end of the Front, near the Moselle river and east of the Saar.

The French, dispatches indicated, have been matching the German concentration with their own reinforcements.

French Shell Highways.

Early last evening French long range artillery shelled highways in the German rear for an hour in an apparent attempt to disrupt the concentration. German guns were silent during the bombardment.

A few French patrols which tried to cross the Lauter river were repulsed by machine-gun fire from German machine-gun emplacements, which had been strengthened all along the Wissembourg-Lauterbourg line.

The Germans were reported to have assembled large numbers of troops in the first line of the fortified fortifications near the Lauter river. These would be of no use for offensive purposes, however, the dispatches said, until infantry and engineers succeeded in crossing the Lauter and spanning the rain-swollen stream with pontoon bridges.

In this connection the French noted that concrete pontoons from Austrian factories which recently passed through Baden were reported to have been sent further north.

Dispatches received here said the French had withdrawn from positions along the banks of the Lauter at a point 12 miles south of the frontier, where a railroad links Wissembourg and Lauterbourg. Many artillery pieces were reported in position along this line.

Southern End Quiet.

The southern end of the Front along the Rhine remained quiet, meanwhile, and there was nothing to indicate that either the French or Germans planned any immediate offensive activity in this sector.

Troops on both sides of the Rhine north of Basel, however, were reported far more wary than at the beginning of the war, when they frequently swam in the stream and visited across from one another.

The strength of both French and German forces in the Alsace and Baden areas remained unchanged.

Frontier restrictions between Switzerland and Germany were relaxed to permit Swiss farmers to cross the border and gather grapes in the vineyards of southern Baden. The grapes are not yet quite ripe, but the Germans advised the Swiss to "take them while you can."

Switzerland's frontiers are under government control, have agreed to permit all frontier stations between France and Switzerland except the station at Basel itself to freight traffic. This would facilitate rail attack on the Upper Rhine, it was believed here. Basel, lying within Switzerland would be too busy for ordinary traffic.

GERMANY LOSES

Despite that success, which Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, attributed to the "professional skill and daring" of a Nazi U-boat commander, it was pointed out that the allies had achieved significant successes against submarines.

One-Third Out of Commission.

"We believe that out of about 60 U-boats ready for action at the beginning of the war, about one-third have already been sunk or seriously damaged," Mr. Churchill told the House of Commons yesterday. About a ten in which three naval vessels were superficially damaged and several others sunk or damaged were listed.

Disturbing Incident.

The Times called the sinking of the Royal Oak at anchorage "a disturbing incident, providing grave matter for investigation of the naval court of inquiry which is now sitting."

The Daily Express said "the Scapa Flow affair is a disgrace. This disaster is lamentable."

The Express added that Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, "cannot be blamed for it," explaining that "the naval defence plans must have been laid down years ago."

It said, "These plans should now be revised with energy and despatch. And thank God Churchill is the man to make a good job of it."

The Air Ministry announced that two more than half of the German German planes which raided the Firth of Forth Sunday were believed to have returned to their bases.

A previous communique said at least four enemy planes were brought down.

Sound Six Times.

During the raids in the Orkneys yesterday, sirens were sounded six times at Kirkwall and two bombs fell on civilian property, but no casualties were reported.

One bomb fell behind an air raid warden's house at Castlewall on the Island of Flotta, and another on the Island of Hoy, about 200 yards from a residence.

Ignoring the danger, many civilians stood outside their homes to watch the raiding planes. Wardens had a difficult time chasing children indoors.

Naval observers, studying the results of the raids so far this week, concluded that the defence still held the edge in the battle of planes versus warships.

In yesterday's raids, it was noted that the planes were forced to keep at high altitudes by heavy fire from the Scottish bases, thus making accurate bombing virtually impossible.

Suicide Bridge

By THAYER WALDO

Long uneven shadows were reaching fingerlike across the arroyo as Blair approached. The bridge stretched sinuously from bank to bank; far beneath, already half lost in gloom, lay the cragged floor. A brooding majesty shrouded the scene.

Little awareness of this, however, possessed the man who now drew near along the broad highway. Yet there did come a certain thrill, partly of fear, in contemplating this grim grandeur and thinking of its macabre fame.

In less than a decade some three-score souls had plunged from that bridge to mangling death upon the rocks below. A shudder gripped Blair as he considered it. Suicide in any form was distasteful enough, but this means seemed positively ghastly. Then a bleak smile singed his lips. Amusing, after all, that he should have such reflections just now. Yet he could afford them; no one here for whom he must pretend ... thank God! Later on there'd have to be a little acting, of course, but attended by perfect safety.

Blair consulted his watch and made brief calculations. Six-twenty; in another quarter hour, at most, Rita would arrive home, to find his note placed prominently there upon the newel post. Sardonic satisfaction came as though of its content. A masterpiece of tragic prose, and one which would most certainly command belief.

She deserved a jolt, a real fright; nothing short of that could bring her to her senses. Somehow Rita wasn't the sort to be effectively handled by violence. No, this was the only suitable way. Reading his message, she would see the conspicuous time notation and think he had been gone but a few moments. Her reaction he could predict with certainty. Ever cool and practical, she would turn at once to the surest means of stopping him; a call to police, sending officers swiftly to the bridge.

Near the span's east end, Blair seated himself upon a small granite bench. From this direction, would come the cavlcad of saviors in uniform. Watching for their arrival in spotlight, it would be a simple matter to plot his movements expertly. An accent to the rail just as they arrived; strong hands grasping him in the apparent nick of time. It would be realism of a thoroughly fool-proof sort.

Dusk was deepening rapidly. The squat pillars opposite loomed now in stark silhouette against a fading sky. A reflective mood, not unmingled with regret, settled over Blair. Strictly reminiscences drifted to him—scraps concerning his life with Rita. It had been a soft couple of years for him, until these past few months; her dissatisfaction with his idleness was a wholly recent growth. At the time of their marriage, she'd been glad to have him give up studio extra work. Now they had agreed, should he continue at such profitless drudgery when her salary as a star apply met their needs? Yet, now, sternly because he occasionally strayed away from home and spent a few hundred a week playing poker, she complained, urged job-hunting contacts upon him.

Well, there'd be an end to all that now; Perhaps she had lost sight of his importance to her, but this would restore the perspective. Something vaguely like pity for her stirred in him. Grief and remorse and a terrible sadness fear—for a little while she would know them with an intensity which could not soon be forgotten.

Night had come. A breeze with a nip in it was singing out of the north. Blair turned up the meager collar of his coat, consulted his watch and held it to his watch face. A shock of surprise came. Time had slipped by with astonishing speed; it was nearly fifteen past seven. Odd, he mused, that the police should not have appeared by now. He knew quite exactly when Rita would have left the studio. Could it be that—

A sudden uncomfortable sensation seized him. Might she, in the clutch of despair, have committed some rash act instead of doing as he'd anticipated? A swift succession of harrying pictures plunged through his brain: The lotion bottle labeled in scarlet; that gas jet just beside her bed; his long razor's gleaming blade ...

He cursed once, sharply, and crowded the conjectures aside. It was the 4—6 block solitude which fostered such fancies.

He straightened at a faint sound. Straining eyes through the darkness, he sat forward, tense. Nothing further reached him; but all at once hallway down the bridge, he made out a deeper shadow against the railing. It seemed to be a figure standing there. Yes! He perceived now a dim shape above the parapet, leaning far out into space.

Then Blair was on his feet, a suffocation crushing upon throat and chest. One lower corner of that shadow had fluttered, and now the entire figure was swaying ever more perilously outward. He started to run; his legs felt numb and flabby. He tried to shout, but would not form the name his mind repeated with deadly insistence.

He stumbled forward arms outstretched. Suddenly, on feet ahead the form shivered once and slipped over the side. Blair lunged out wildly at it. A lovely cry burst from him as he pitched downward, taut fingers clenched on nothingness. An open newspaper fluttered lazily over the canyon, borne on a wind from the north.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)— War stocks took today under early selling signs of profit-taking and prices became mixed throughout the market.

The forward thrust launched in the previous session, centring on steel, aircraft and others tagged as war shares, carried into today's opening dealings, then met resistance. Losses were mostly fractional near the fourth hour.

Reports a peace mediation effort might come out of the conference of Scandinavian countries, brokers said, caused many marketers to hesitate in forming the advance of the "war babies."

Early gains were reversed into net losses for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, General Northern Pfd and Chrysler.

Holding advances of fractions to more than a point were Cerro de Pasco, Eastern Air Lines, Electric Boat, U. S. Gypsum, Eastman and Caterpillar Tractor.

In a ragged Canadian division fractional gains were posted for C. P. R. and McIntyre Porcupine. Dome, Lake Shore, Hiram Walker retreated. Dominion 46 moved narrowly.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 18.—(CP) — Western Oils pushed to the front on the Toronto Stock Exchange today as oil groups lost their early gains under the influence of profit-taking in New York.

A few of the Golds moved in volume at narrow gains. Better prices ruled for Preston, Lake Shore, Malartic, Noranda, Reid Rock and others. The shares of Bobjo Mines in Moose Lake came on the board, today, opening at $1.60 and selling off to $1.55. Anglo-Canadian Calgary - Edmonton, Home Oil, Okalta and Foothills were all higher by 5 and 10 cents. Papers, Senior Oils and Utilities were the strongest of the Industrials.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP)—Cattle prices were firm on medium to good quality under active demand at mid-session on the Toronto Livestock Market today. Hogs and lamb sections were firm while a steady tone prevailed in the sheep. No hog price was set. Cattle holdover from Tuesday was 1,100 head.

Heading reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle 1,000, calves 600, hogs 1,200, sheep and lambs 830.

Weights and prices sold at 67-67.85 with one lot selling 10 cents higher. Butcher steers and heifers traded mostly at 65-67.50 with good butcher cows brought $4.75-$5.50 with canners and cutters at $3.50-$4.50. Choice good bulls made $5-$5.50. Stocker trade was slow with sales at $3.50-$4.50.

Choice veal calves brought $10-$11. Common vealers sold downward to $6 and grass calves were $5-$5.50.

Previous close on off-truck hogs was $8.75.

Majority of sales on good ewe and wether lambs were recorded at $9.25. Some sold at a round $9.25 and other grades were $7-$8.25.

Sheep ranged from $2.50-$5 cwt.

HOG QUOTATIONS

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP)—Reporting bacon-hog markets showed no price changes today. No quotes were available from Montreal and Hamilton dressedweights and Hull liveweights.

TWEED OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED

D.D.G.M. Wm. J. Barlow and Degree Staff of Bonarlaw Officiate

Bonarlaw, Oct. 18.—Oct. 14 was the evening of this week District Deputy Grand Master Wm. J. Barlow, D.D.G.M. Moira District No. 46 I.O.O.F. and his installing team journeyed to the Bonarlaw Lodge Rooms for the ensuing year of Tweed Lodge No. 290. The other members of the team were Bros. Thos. H. Prest, Gr. S. Eastwood, Roy Rowan, J. F. Baker, Geo. E. Anderson, Sidney Mason and Clayton Burkitt.

Previous to the installation ceremony the third degree of fellowship was splendidly exemplified by the degree team of Marlbo lodge assisting Brothers Carpenment. The singing parts were taken by Bros. Colin Ross and W. Lambe.

After the completion of all work and a fraternal lunch had been eaten the newly installed Noble Grand, Brother Ernest Ross, Jr., Mr. Nicholson called the meeting to order and announced the first toast, "The Queen Majesty the King."

D.D.G.M. William Barlow in his address stressed the importance of keeping interest alive in every lodge "Yes when no degree work is to be done. He asked all lodges in the district to work for the "Re. Benefit Fund" which is awarded to Campbellford lodge.

Visiting members spoke briefly and all expressed their pleasure in with the evening's entertainment.

VON PAPEN CALLED HOME

Instanbul, Oct. 18—(P)—Franz von Papen, former German Chancellor and now German Ambassador to Turkey, arrived today on his way to Berlin where he was said to have been summoned by his government. He planned to leave tonight by train.

JOINT DEFENCE

The ships carry out reconnaissance and anti-submarine patrols and mine-sweeping operations.

Examination services were set up at defence ports, to see that no vessel seeking to enter port is examined and passed by a medical officer. The examination vessel is usually an unarmed craft. However, it is backed by the naturally strong coast-defence battery manned by the army ashore.

Anti-submarine nets and defences against motor torpedo boats have been or are being installed at harbor entrances. To allow passage of the friendly ships through the nets at such booms the services of a special gate-vessel are required.

The air force performs similar tasks to the navy in coastal defence, but carries its reconnaissance far to sea, obtaining information about the presence or absence of enemy forces. An air striking force is also maintained for offensive should reports be received of a striking target at sea.

Army As "Goal-Keeper"

The spokesman described the army as the "goal-keeper" on the team, performing its task by means of coast defence artillery.

"In coast defence the object is to place guns in such a position as to be able to capture any vessel fast enough to seaward as to that will be unable to bring fire to bear on the defended port," the spokesman said.

He added that a reserve force has been organized for the protection of vulnerable points inland.

Defence Minister Rogers preceded the spokesman in opening a series of weekly talks. He said the Canadian people entered the war against Nazi Germany because they wished to save for themselves, their children and for other countries the benefit of self-government.

"As one means of bringing into effect this purpose we have undertaken in wartime it is essential that the people be informed of the national plans and of the way by which it is intended these aims shall be achieved," Mr. Rogers said.

Whether the war lasts months or years, he was sure the fate in the final outcome would sustain the Canadian people through whatever trials might be in store.

Details of the military force of two divisions are to be given in next week's address.

INTENSE

French reports said their troops had voluntarily abandoned positions German soil near the Saar Forest and Perl, leaving only advanced lookouts at Schoenecken Heights close to the border.

The German offensive along a 30-mile front east of the Saar River appeared to have been designed to break the French grip on the Saarland industrial region, vital to Nazi war industries.

Semi-official reports said the French still were fighting on German soil in the Saar area, indicated they had not greatly relaxed their grip.

Exact Line Not Disclosed

The exact line of the new French positions, which were established some time ago in expectation that Germany would launch a major offensive after mopping up in Poland, was not disclosed.

Reports of French advances in the first few weeks of the war stressed they had penetrated as far as seven miles into German territory, clearing out scattered Nazi pillboxes and mine fields. Before retiring, it was said, they blew up mines of their own to impede German operations.

Behind their new line of defence, the French have strong reserve banks in large numbers. French military men believe these motorized, designed for use in counter-attacks and liason work, are the most powerful weapon of their kind in the world.

Equipped with Radio

They carry crews of at least four men each, and their armament includes machine guns and small caliber cannons. Heavily armored and equipped with radio, the tanks have a maximum speed of about 25 miles per hour.

Observers expected that the French, having withdrawn to certain strong positions, would contest themselves with keeping a defensive organization while the naval blockade is relied upon to undermine the German economy during the winter months of enforced inactivity ahead.

The French meanwhile closely watched Russian negotiations with Finland and Turkey to determine how much of a role Adolf Hitler is playing behind the scenes. The French felt the Fuehrer was far from satisfied with his "peace" offensive.

CUTTER ANSWERS

En route to the liner's position 300 miles south of St. John's, the coast guard cutter Hamilton reported intercepting an SOS call for immediate assistance from the 3,509 ton Blairbeg, 160 miles south of St. John's. No details were given and the cutter did not say which vessel it would reach first.

The message from the President Harding asked for medicines, "splints and fracture supplies," and for a cutter to "remove injured one seriously burned."

The 13,969 ton liner apparently was in no serious distress himself but He master gave no details of the nature of the injuries to those aboard caused by icy winds and battering seas.

Storm Warnings Hoisted

Storm warnings were hoisted along the northeast coast. The President Harding, 535 feet long, once centred 600 miles off Nantucket, Mass.

The President Harding, which has returned thousands of Americans from Europe since the war started, sailed from Le Verdon, France, on October 11. Two days later it rescued 36 surviving crew members of the British 5,000 ton Heronspool 300 miles off the Irish coast.

At the time of the rescue the President Harding was proceeding to the aid of the French tanker Emile Miguet, another war victim. The latter, bound from Boston, Mass., based at Boston, was on neutrality patrol duty last night when it intercepted the distress signals.

The Hamilton, brought here from the Atlantic for patrol service, is one of the largest coast guard cutters. She is 250 feet long and carries a crew of 100, coast guard officials said.

POWER CHARGES

Hon. C. G. Power, Postmaster-General, continuing the campaign tour of Cabinet Ministers on behalf of Provincial Liberals, delivered an address over the Provincial network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation from Quebec.

Quebec Safeguarded Under B.N.A.

Mr. Power spoke in both English and French, charging that Premier Duplessis asked Canadians to believe that the attacks made by Dominion ministers from the province of Quebec were directed against the province's support to Canada's war effort. Mr. Power asserted that if anything aroused the province against our attitude in the circumstances, it was again the sombre days of 1917 with all that implies by way of hightension and anguish."

Declaring Quebec safeguarded Canada's provinces—first by occupation, first by original Confederation, by its support of Confederation," and added that under the British North America Act "the rights and privileges, the language, the religion, the traditions of this province, have been safeguarded and maintained."

He asked: "Are the rights and privileges of this province in jeopardy because the Dominion Government has declared that it will not be intimidated by the attempts of certain politicians to create disunity among Canadians?"

Power Asks Questions

Mr. Power said: "We want to know, we will insist on knowing what happened to the vast hundreds of millions of dollars given by the Province of Quebec to Canada for the benefit of the blind; millions given him for the old age pensioners and for the sick poor.

The Federal minister then added: "We want to know why it became of the millions of dollars loaned every year by Canada to Quebec by the Federal Government to remedy the unemployment crisis during the depression years.

Goahs Urge Provincial Break

Mr. Gondin, speaking at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, advocated creation of a provincial bank as the solution to what he termed Quebec's "financial difficulties."

Mr. Gondin, who said Mr. Duplessis, in raising the question of provincial autonomy in the Quebec election campaign, had "touched the only source open and closed to the province because of Dominion war expenditures but which could solve the present situation."

Mr. Gondin charged that Premier Duplessis "only two months ago declared that he was against the idea of a provincial bank" although it was the only solution to the problem which he himself had got. In an address earlier in the day at Quebec City, Mr. Gondin called both the Union Nationale and Liberal parties "tools of financial dictatorship." He said: "It is not believe Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe and Public Works Minister P. J. A. Cardin would resign if the Liberals are not returned."

Godbout says Industry Unsettled

Mr. Godbout charged yesterday that the premier "has alienated industrial interests" and "unsettled industry by threatening it at every turn with legislative control measures."

Premier Duplessis has declared industrial leaders "do not know what they want" and complained that "conscription, participation and assimilation are not issues in the province." He has also been speaking sections he tells French Canadians "are dead issues."

Charging that the Union National administration of the past years had raised taxes for provincial debt from $130,000,000 to "more than $400,000,000 in 1939," Godbout said that there is "nothing to show for it now." He admitted some money had been spent on roads "but what about highways built by the Liberals which have never been neglected and are falling into a dangerous state of disrepair in the last ten years.

WINTRY WEATHER MARS ATTENDANCE AT MARMORA FAIR

Fifteen Hundred Enjoy Fine Exhibits, Entertainment and Racing

DANCE AT NIGHT

Marmora, Ont., (Special)—For being the last rural fair of Central Ontario, Marmora Fair suffered somewhat though climatic conditions on Tuesday, yet a crowd of fifteen hundred persons or more gathered for the annual event which has become the great getogether of the district for so many years and saw a fine array of agricultural exhibits. The slight fall of snow and hail at intervals in the forenoon caused some patrons to call it "The Winter Fair" but a bright sun, together with the cool wind in the afternoon to improve conditions and with no mishaps to report, the directors feel that the enterprise could have been more than if than it was.

The officers and directors of the Marmora Agricultural Society this year are: President, W. A. Sanderson; 1st. Vice President, H. O. Neal; 2nd. Vice President, T. F. Bateman; Secretary-Treasurer, H. GERMAN TROOPS LAUNCH OFFENSIVE

French positions in the vicinity of the Luxembourg border (1), 16,000 German troops launched a long-awaited attack in force against the recently won French positions. This attack may be the beginning of a great German offensive on the Western front starting a four-army drive at Saarburg toward the Moselle line and the river ports and Moselle from Saarbrueken (2) southward across the Saar from Pirmasens (3) southward, toward Bitche salient, and from Landau (4) southward to the area between Wissenbourg and Lauterbourg. As a first check move the French have

BRITISH TROOPS

"Those imaginary losses which Germany broadcasts have described with such unblushing impudence that they were for a while the delight of the world," he said.

Chamberlain said that since his last rejection of German peace proposals as too vague, there has been no indication from Berlin of the views of the German Government upon the issues," and continued:—

Says Foreign Comment Twisted

"German propaganda organs have used all possible ingenuity so as to twist foreign comment as it suits their purpose, or misrepresent to their own points of view."

"I should doubt whether this effort has had any success outside Germany itself for it is difficult to conceal the fact that the vast bulk of comment of nearly all shades of opinion in neutral countries has shown a full appreciation of the attitude of the allied governments."

Prime Minister spoke of "fantastic" claims by Germany of successful attacks on British warships and declared:—

"It is not true that the Hood or the Repulse or any other capital ship has suffered the least damage. The same is true of the Royal Oak. The Hood and Repulse are battle cruisers and the Ark Royal is an aircraft carrier.

Heavy Toll Taken of U-Boats

He said a heavy toll of German submarines had been taken since the war began and pointed out that losses by British ships entering and leaving port during the week ending yesterday represented only about one-half of one per cent of the total sailing.

On the Western front he said the British expeditionary force "has now finally taken over their allotted section of the French line and all civilians are in position."

He spoke of "complete" understanding between French and British high commands and gave as evidence "the fact that your expedition force is under the command of the French Commander-in-Chief" (Viscount Gort).

Military Cooperation Complete

"The understanding between the French and British high commands is complete," Mr. Chamberlain said. "The fact that our expeditionary force is under the command of the French Commander-in-Chief and that unity of command has been achieved at so early a stage of the war is one proof of this statement.

"Another is to be found in an agreement by which the French and British troops under the orders of the British Commander-in-Chief in France" (Viscount Gort).

Mr. Chamberlain declared the government had "not hesitated to publish the full extent of any losses sustained" and expressed confidence that Hansard, British houses broadcast by Germany would prove false.

Truth of Our Communiques'

It was far more important, he said, that the world should "believe implicitly in the truth of our communiques than that we should reap the short-lived advantages which a deliberate lie can bring."

"In these early days we must be ready to make sacrifices, to take as far made upon our coats have been few and on a small scale and it would be unwise to assume that we shall always be as successful as we have been in these first exchanges."

Clement Attlee, leader of the Opposition, said the House "ought to have an explanation" of why Neville Chamberlain said Sunday apparently was unknown until the planes were over Rosyth, Scotland. He said this impression tended to a lack of confidence in air raid warnings.

Mr. Attlee also expressed dissatisfaction with the country's preparation for war and said there should be a full-time Economic Minister in the War Cabinet.

FRAUD CHARGED AFTER PHONE CALL

Alleged Fraud Was Started in Making Call to Montreal

A telephone operator at the Belleville Exchange was primarily responsible for the apprehension of a man who gave his name as Arthur Cameron, 46, Boston, Mass., and who was arrested at the emergency ward of the bay telephone booth at a local restaurant last evening after having allegedly deposited ten washers into the pay telephone money box in payment of a long distance telephone call. Cameron was held in custody on a charge of fraudulently committing theft from the Bell Telephone Company by using the washers, instead of money, for the purpose of defrauding the company.

Late last evening a long distance operator at the Belleville Exchange observed a request for a long distance phone call to Montreal, but not being alert and possessing a keen sense of the registration of coins deposited in pay telephone boxes, observed, it is said, the connection was not perfect, thus indicating faulty or bogus coins were being used. Mr. G. W. Proctor, manager of the Belleville branch of the Bell Telephone, was in the building and immediately notified the resident instructed the operator to "hold the call" and inform the party she was making the request to return to the telephone booth later. During the 30-minute interval, Mr. Proctor had moved all of the cash, and numerous slugs and washers, from the pay telephone deposit box in question. When, it is said, the party returned to complete his call to Montreal and allegedly deposited ten more into the washers in payment, Mr. Proctor and P.C. H. Wright who were stationed nearby placed the man who has since been known as Arthur Camer, under arrest.

Through the police station police said Camer tried to dispose of several coins which he apparently had hidden in his clothes. P.C. Wright observed the man's efforts and recovered the coin from Camer sought, as police claim, to throw them on the floor. The accused man was held in custody pending appearing for bail. The charge will be heard in Friday's court.

TURKEY REFUSES SOVIET DEMANDS

Saracoglu Leaves for Home Without Signing Pact—Russia Wanted Black Sea Closed

By WITT HANCOCK

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, Oct. 18 (AP)—Soviet Russia turned today from her snagged negotiations with Turkey to propose actions for a resumption of talks with Finland within the next few days.

After three weeks here the Turkish Foreign Minister, Sukru Saracoglu, left his room shortly after midnight today. Bands blared and Soviet officials expressed formal wishes for Turkey but they still were without a Russian-Turkish pact.

One report, which could not be confirmed, was that the Turkish envoy refused to sign a Soviet demand that Russian warships be the only ones permitted to enter the Black Sea through the Turkish-controlled Dardanelles.

Thus, the Russian News Agency, commented that Saracoglu's visit had "provided an opportunity for a comprehensive exchange of views" and said the exchange took place in "cordial atmosphere".

The Soviet government added that the conferees had decided it was desirable "to maintain contact also in the future for the solution of questions of interest to the Soviet Union and the Turkish Republic."

Allies Appear Satisfied.

French and British quarters, which had remained in close contact with the Turkish delegation at a hotel here, appeared satisfied at the turn of events.

It was reported that the British and French desired no rupture between the Russians and Turks. The allies were said to fear that an open break might drive Turkey into closer cooperation with Germany.

They would be desirous, it was said, if Russia, the Balkans, Turkey and Italy remained neutral in the European war. British and French sources expressed confidence they could deal with Italy.

A more optimistic attitude toward the Finnish-Russian relations was apparent in foreign quarters. There was growing hope for peaceful settlement of any issues between Russia and Finland, once a Russian Grand Duke.

Dr. Juho Paasivirri, the principal Finnish negotiator, may return to Moscow at the end of the week to get fresh instructions from his government.

ITALIAN AMBASSADOR PRESENTS CREDENTIALS

London, Oct. 18.—(CP)—Giuseppe Bastianini, the new Italian Ambassador, today presented his credentials to King George VI at Buckingham Palace.

The Ambassador was personally presented to the King by Viscount Halifax with whom he had discussed the international situation in a long meeting at the Foreign Office yesterday.

Instead of wearing levee dress, the Ambassador wore a black morning dress. His Majesty wore a khaki service uniform.

W. H. AUXILIARY HEARS REPORTS

Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson Stresses Importance of Social Service Group

Recommendation of a full discussion of various methods of raising funds, and the formation of a social service group within the organization, was made by Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, convenor of the Finance Committee in her report of the Toronto convention of the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries, to the Belleville branch yesterday afternoon.

Delegates from all parts of the province and the United States had heard the convention president, Mrs. Rhymas, stress the need for all hospital auxiliaries to carry on during the present world turmoil, and to have all hospitals ready to meet the demands a long war will make upon them, Mrs. Ketcheson said.

Reports from auxiliaries of both large and small hospitals brought out many interesting ways and means of raising funds for the benefactor interest, Mrs. Ketcheson said, was the report of Miss Lewis from the Montreal General Hospital auxiliary who stressed the importance and value of a social service group of that auxiliary.

Various groups were in charge of special teas, such as furnished rooms, rummage, under-nourished children, blood-transfusion donors and diabetic cases, and many auxiliaries make it a point to present a tea to nurses upon graduation, the speaker pointed out.

Mrs. W. C. Mikel was presented with a life-membership in the H. H. Dewart Auxiliary in recognizing the convention, Mrs. Ketcheson said.

Mrs. G. H. Stokie also addressed the meeting with a detailed account of her journey to Toronto.

American's Affidavit Called "Tommyrot"

Glasgow, Oct. 18.—(CP)—Norman Donaldson, of the Donaldson Line, owners of the torpedoed Iarnier Athenia, today characterized as "tommyrot and absolute nonsense" an American's affidavit charging the British fostered the war that was to have been outfitted as a raider.

"We have details of the cargo after the sinking," said Donaldson, after the Athenia, of course, set out when the world was still at peace."

Captain Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., III, a passenger on the Athenia when she was torpedoed Sept. 2, said in the affidavit, furnished yesterday to the United States State Department, that Chief Officer Chapman told him there was "plenty" of guns and ammunition aboard, but that the ship was to be outfitted as a raider on her return trip.)

RUSSIAN GOLD SENT TO GERMANY

17½ Tons of Gold Reported Being Shipped in Consignment

London, Oct. 18 (CP)—A British government spokesman today gave official support to reports that Russia has been sending gold to Germany.

Sir Alfred Knox, Conservative, asked in the House of Commons whether the Government's attention had been drawn "to the fact that a consignment, said to be a quantity amounting to 17½ tons of gold, had been transferred by the Soviet government to Germany."

Richard Austin Butler, parliamentary for foreign affairs, replied:

"Yes, the foreign secretary has reason to believe that this report is not without foundation."

The press has printed repeated reports that Germany was using as a result of an understanding between the British central authority and the Russian government to settle between the two governments.

Since the German demand has been a recent factor, too, on the Winnipeg grain market, where prices leaped sensationally, the October future at Winnipeg closed today with a gain and a bushel on August 29, to a high of 70 cents yesterday.

Thereafter prices sagged and in recent trading have hovered around the 70-cent mark.

Latest indication of the storage situation in Canada was today's announcement by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways of the temporary cessation of wheat shipments to the Lakehead and Georgian Bay ports from points in Eastern Canada.

Routine orders went to country elevators in 850theastern Saskatchewan and to terminal elevators on the Lakehead to cease receiving grain as temporary relief but available space for Lakehead and market is in heavy volume.

LARGE GWL STARTLES CUSTOMERS IN TAVERN

Kingston, Oct. 18 (CP)—Nine patrons were lined up at a tavern bar when a 100-pound lion, a large "wi" which perched itself on the counter, looked around and, as owls do, said "who? who?" But nobody was buying, since all the customers had fled when one was recalled the police. They took the wise one to the station.

Nobody Saw U-Boat Enter or Leave Scapa Flow, Sub Commander Tells Reporters

By LOUIS LOCHNER

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Berlin, Oct. 18 (AP)—A 31-year-old submarine commander, Günther Prien, today declared that "except for a low misty cloud" nobody saw our U-boat enter or leave Scapa Flow in the raid which sank the British battleship Royal Oak Saturday and cost 810 lives.

Commander Prien talked with foreign newspapermen after he had been received by Adolf Hitler and received the plaudits of Berlin crowds on the way to the chancellery with his entire crew.

With him were thirty-seven other officers and men from the submarine, which landed yesterday. Each of the young men, all around thirty years old, were simple ovations prepared to their sailor blouses.

Prien declared he entered Scapa Flow, Britain's naval base in the Orkney Islands off Northern Scotland, on a night when the Northern Lights were the strongest he had seen in many years at sea.

"The British ships could not be seen because of the northern aurora. mine the location by dimmed lanterns at the anchoring buoys," he said.

Prien declared the German claim of sinking of battleships and the 27,000-ton battle cruiser Repulse as the same time as the Royal Oak was an Absurd Invention

("The British Admiralty declared the claim was an "absurd invention.")

"The Repulse was easy to make out because it and the Renown, their sister ship) alone have two funnels" Prien said.

"The Repulse was partly covered by the Royal Oak. Nevertheless her ships steadily were torpedoed.

"So I first aimed in their direction. Then I changed course 180 degrees to the very heart of the Royal Oak. I saw distinctly how water first poured in before the Renown, which lay close by, and then was followed by high red flames.

"On the Royal Oak water and fire rose even higher, both being followed by detonations and by parts of the costly ships hurtling into the air.

"The whole thing was over in 30 seconds. After that only a dark cloud of smoke was visible. The Royal Oak had disappeared, while the Renown still lay behind forward.

(The official British accounts said 30 torpedoes were fired, three first and second torpedoed).

Immediately thereafter the British got busy with searchlights and their destroyers loosed water which "Only one ship was apparently had seen us. He turned abruptly and dashed at me with open guns, but I promptly reported us. We could see him well because he navigated quite close to the shore."

A Swashbuckling Story Of Daring Plane Theft Dissolves in Thin Air

Sudbury, Ont., Oct. 18 (CP)—A swashbuckling story of a daring airplane theft went up in smoke today when Judge Bartlet fined Nos. 27, of Timmins, and Fred Seguin, 20, of Sudbury, appeared in court here.

Seguin faced a charge of causing false information to be published, the Crown indicating that his accomplice had been jailed and gagged by Farrendon was false.

Farrendon was charged with stealing a silver-winged Aeronca plane from the Austin Airways base at Timmins and was commanded to October 24 for sentence.

Seguin ordered to pay costs and was remanded to the same day.

Late Monday night, Farrendon was arrested near Parry Sound as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Provincial Police began to close in on the plane.

Accepted in R.C.A.F.

Farrendon, a skilled mechanic, had applied to join the Royal Canadian Air Force at Ottawa and when his application was under consideration he left Ottawa, however, on a medical test.

Police said today they were investigating the case and until their work was completed they could offer no explanation for Farrendon's object in taking the plane.

Seguin in court here made a statement to police in which he claimed that Farrendon came to him saying he had no place to sleep. Seguin permitted him to stay in the hangar. Later a watchman produced a bottle of rum and the two began drinking it through the night and Farrendon taking took off in the Aeronca plane.

The plane was recovered in the Picken River about 30 miles south of Sudbury, late the same afternoon. It was helped found to be damaged as if by a bad landing on the water.

Grain Men Hope for Resumption Of Exports to Ease Congestion

Nations Storage Facilities Are Taxed to Near-Capacity

Winnipeg, Oct. 18.—(CP)— With Canada's bushels of Canadian Wheat in store or in transit congested to the extent of 170,000,000 bushels at the same time last year, the nation's storage facilities are taxed to near-capacity.

Grain men look for relief to the resumption of exports through the ports to the United Kingdom, Canada's chief market. Unofficial circles here believe that Canada's British buying, negligible since the outbreak of war, may be resumed as a result of an understanding between the British central authority and the Russian government to settle between the two governments.

Since the German demand has been a recent factor, too, on the Winnipeg grain Exchange, as have prices leaped sensationally, the October future at Winnipeg closed today with a gain and a bushel on August 29, to a high of 70 cents yesterday.

Thereafter prices sagged and in recent trading have hovered around the 70-cent mark.

Latest indication of the storage situation in Canada was today's announcement by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways of the temporary cessation of wheat shipments to the Lakehead and Georgian Bay ports from points in Eastern Canada.

Routine orders went to country elevators in 850theastern Saskatchewan and to terminal elevators on the Lakehead to cease receiving grain as temporary relief but available space for Lakehead and market is in heavy volume.

Britain's Traffic Deaths Up 676 In First Month Of Blackouts

London, Oct. 18 — (CP)—Britain's traffic deaths for the first month of the nightly wartime blackout were 676 more than normal. The official figures showed that in September, 1938, 564 were killed in the month, while in September, 1939, 1,130 were killed. There were 24 fatalities in September from air raids—the menace which the night blackout of illumination is designed to reduce.

Convicts of San Quentin Make Charge Which is Studied by Criminologist

San Quentin, Oct. 18. (AP)—Statements of San Quentin convicts that light bullets and lead-sipped straps for four minutes at a time and were required to stand for two hours in cells only 18 inches in diameter were studied today by the State Director of Penology.

The director, John Clark, questioned six convicts last night and planned to interrogate at least 40 today.

The questioning was on the basis of statements made a week ago by nine prison guards that two of their guards, working in relays, thrashed 41 young prisoners with a section of hose and strapped them because they refused to stand on a "spot" as punishment for alleged participation in hunger strikes.

4 NEUTRAL LANDS STUDY MEANS TO SAVE NEUTRALITY

Aged King Gustaf, Who Called Scandinavians to Parley in 1914, is Again Host

TRADE MAINTENANCE

Peace Appeal Foreseen as Possibility as Result of Conference

By WADE WERNER

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Stockholm, Sweden, Oct. 18 (AP)—The kings of the three Scandinavian states and the president of Finland opened their conference today on problems facing the northern neutral countries as a result of the war.

The visiting heads of state, King Haakon of Norway, King Christian of Denmark and President Kyosti Kallio of Finland were welcomed in brief ceremonies devoid of military display in harmony with the strictly neutral policy maintained by the Scandinavian nations.

King Gustaf, at whose instance the conference was called, presided at the meeting, which was attended by the foreign ministers of the four states. The 81-year-old Swedish King himself and members of his cabinet were at Bromma Airport to meet Foreign Minister Eric Sandler and the royal party when the train carrying King Haakon and King Christian arrived at a short time later.

Normalcy of Trade Aim.

The formal opening session of the conference was held in a reception room of parliament house. At the conference's discussion, the foreign ministers discussed the problem of how to continue deliberations.

How to preserve the neutrality of the Scandinavian countries and maintain normal trade relations was the question facing the leaders of Sweden, Norway and Denmark—just as it was during the last war—when the Germans railroad station when the train carrying King Haakon and King Christian arrived at a short time later.

Several Peace Moves.

It appears in the northern states and their ministers to widen the scope of the conference and make it a meeting which may foster peace moves was published in Stockholm newspapers today.

It was in the form of a full page advertisement signed by "Representatives of Swedish Industry and Trade".

The appeal to the heads of the four states and their ministers to "initiate the construction of peace in northern countries' desire for peace and to discuss all possibilities of a peaceful solution" and questions which might result in averting world disaster, the appeal said.

It followed a petition couched in similar terms presented to King Gustaf yesterday by the Swedish National League of Youth.

Sweden said that with their own country was not endangered, and expressed belief that Finland's negotiations with Russia would reach a peaceful conclusion.

Some Foresee Peace Appeal

Some sections of the public foresaw the possibility the conference would issue some sort of appeal for peace. The Swedish National League of Youth already had appealed to King Gustaf to make some move in that direction.

CONFIDENCE VITAL SAYS COL. DREW

Use of Unidentified Spokes-man in Broadcast for Defence Dep't. Called 'Strange'

Toronto, Oct. 18 — (CP)—Public confidence is vital to the successful prosecution of the war, Col. George A. Drew, Leader of Conservative party in Ontario, said in a statement today. "The only way to obtain confidence is to tell the stored in Canada is for the Department of National Defence to admit frankly that we were unready for war and ought to have been in this state a utmost candour what steps are being taken to arm and equip our troops," Mr. Drew said.

The statement was issued in connection with the series of radio broadcasts inaugurated last night by the Department of National Defence.

Col. Drew described as "a strange conception of responsible government" the use of an unidentified spokesman for the broadcasts. He said Defence Minister Norman Rogers is the only person who "has any right to speak for the Department of National Defence." He said the spokesman, who "cannot be criticized as he is not identified," gave the impression that when the war began defence preparations immediately proceeded on a plan which had been drawn up in readiness, which is not so. Mr. Rogers knows better than anyone else it is not so."

HITLER RECEIVES COMMANDER PRIEN AND HIS SUB CREW

ADMIRAL PRESENT

German Press Jubilant Over Success of Sub Fleet Against British Navy and Shipping

(By Louis P. Lochner Associated Press Staff Writer).

Berlin, Oct. 18 (AP)—Adolf Hitler today received Commander Prien and his submarine crew, credited with sinking the British battleship Royal Oak in Scapa Flow, naval base northeast of Scotland, in a wanton Prien Germany's highest war decoration, the Grand cross of the Iron Cross.

Meeting the men in his private study, the Führer shook hands with each and thanked them in the name of the German nation. Present at the ceremony was Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, who yesterday presented Prien and his crew personally for their successful raid on Saturday.

Hitler said the crew's achievement "strengthened the navy's confidence in itself and is importantly trust in victory." He described their feat as "unprecedented," which submarine could accomplish.

Prien responded briefly, declaring that he owed his success to the fine Scapa Flow experience, Hitler and his crew had had on previous occasions.

The crew's arrival by plane from an unnamed port where they reached yesterday afternoon after the announcement the German press were continuing to retreat from Poland. Over 1,000 enemy planes had been shot down in the last two days.

Hitler placed his personal plane "Grenzmarck" at the disposal of the crew to bring them from their port to the Capital.

The German commander's communique said "numerous prisoners were taken in the seven fortresses occupied positions which the French gave up yesterday between the Saar and the Palatinate Forest.

The Nazi press, meanwhile, was forecasting that German planes and submarines would attempt new attacks on British ships.

Boasting of accomplishments by the navy and the air force in inflicting losses upon British naval and merchant forces, the Nationale Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, Nazi publication, declared: "The submarine had gone straight into the nation's den." Another Berlin publication, Berliner Boerse declared that the spirit of Otto Weddigen, a submarine hero of the World War, animated present-day crews of the undersea fleet.

Prese Quite Boastful

"And in this spirit of attack," the British battleship Royal Oak was sunk and other ships will be given no rest. . . . Exactly as in the last war, the German leadership knows how to strike upon military hour."

Two German submarines penetrated Scapa Flow in the last war, it was recalled.

The British battleship Royal Oak was sunk and other ships will be given Saturday at Scapa Flow, where the German U-boat commander Prien rendered at the end of the first Great War.

Yesterday German bombing planes attempted to bomb other British warships there. Today the Nazi News Agency, claimed that one was damaged by a direct hit, and medium weight bombs, that a British warships have been damaged slightly.)

Warships Attacked By Twelve Planes States Report

Amsterdam, Oct. 18—(AP)—Residents of Schiermonnikoog Island off the north coast of the Netherlands today reported a fight between unidentified planes and warships some distance outside Netherlands territorial waters.

Witnesses said six warships were attacked by 12 planes about 11 a.m. (5 a.m. EST).

The nationality of the participating warships was not immediately known because of the distance from shore. It also was impossible to learn the nationality of the planes.

Schiermonnikoog is 10 miles from the German-Netherlands boundary.

MONARCHS VISIT CANADA HOUSE

London, Oct. 18 (C.P. Cable) The King and Queen called on Canada House today to pay respects to how the Canadian headquarters in Britain is grappling with wartime problems. It was an informal visit.

The High Commissioner and Mrs. Massey showed their Majesties through the building and were on hand to greet the Queen when she arrived. Her Majesty drew the attention of the King to the unfinished picture of Canada in the gigantic piles of baby clothes and blankets which Mrs. Massey's team of women volunteers have collected for needy evacuated mothers. Her Majesty asked the amazing thousands of blankets, clothing and shoes which are being sent here to the Canadian Red Cross donations. The articles will be used for the Canadian expeditionary forces.

SENATOR SAYS VISIT AIMED TO DRAW U. S. IN

Holt Charges President Pledged U.S. to Aid British and France to Stop Dictators by Force

(By C. R. Blackburn Canadian Press Staff Writer).

Washington, Oct. 18 (CP)—Senator Rush Holt, anti-new deal Democrat from West Virginia, declared in the United States Senate today that Lord Haverstock Wood, Canadian banking man for the purpose of propaganda aimed at drawing the United States into the war.

Opening what he promised would be a three-hour attack on the Roosevelt administration's policies, Holt urged an embargo on arms shipments to belligerents. Holt said the war propaganda now at work in America today. Of course Beaverbrook's coming over here and he came here just to gossip about his home Canadian retreat.

Lord Beaverbrook lunched with President Roosevelt last Friday and Secretary Hull today, Holt said, and about the President's summer home at Campobello, New Brunswick and the fact the English publishers released in that Canadian province.

The senate's youngest member, charged the President had pledged the United States to aid Britain and France in an "attempt to stop the dictators by force."

Holt Pounds Desk.

"The only reason we are in session—and there is no use trying to fool the people—is to help England and France," Holt shouted and he pounded his desk for emphasis.

Earlier a group of Democrats on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee agreed in principle on a plan to relax controversial shipping provisions of neutrality laws.

The proposal, offered by Senator Connally, would permit United States vessels to carry all goods except arms to belligerent ports in the Baltic Sea, Pacific Ocean, the China Sea, the Indian Ocean, the Red Sea and the Persian Arabian Sea.

Senator Holt opened debate with a charge that the Roosevelt administration "never has been neutral and never will be, and never intended to be." He said the State Department policy for several years had been patterned to fit British demands.

Saying he had spoken with Senator Borah, Republican, Holt added:

"The system is to mix oysters with propaganda."

Fear Effect of Repeal.

Repeal of the arms embargo, as provided in the bill, would be "going down the path to the place where it will be easy to declare war," Holt said.

Discussing "propaganda" in the country, he said that "there is Canadian propaganda, to under the name of the Bund, where everybody knows what it is.

"The danger of British propaganda is that it masquerades as Americanism. There are many Rhodes scholars who now are the leaders of thought in the country rather have an enemy like the Bund, where you know what it is.

"But the British propaganda is smooth—it is over the country today all over the east table. It's slick."

The propaganda will be increased from 30 grams (3.25 cents) per person to 112 grams (3.95 ounces).

Meanwhile, on the diplomatic front a railway conference was being set up among Germany, Soviet Russia and the Baltic States to reorganize transportation facilities in eastern Europe, the semi-official commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland reported.

Economic negotiations with Moscow for increases in German-Russian trade and credit agreements, signed Aug. 20.

A new delegation to Moscow was dispatched yesterday to open negotiations for repatriation of German nationals from the Baltic states and former Polish territory.

300 RESCUED AS BRITISH LINER FREIGHTER SUNK

American Liner Will Land Survivors at Bordeaux, France, Thursday

ONE 10,183-TON LINER

U. S. Coast Guard Cutters Go to Aid of Other Ships "Storm-Tossed"

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The United States Maritime Commission said today 300 survivors had been rescued by the American Export Independence Hall from two steamships, the 10,183-ton passenger liner City of Mandalay and the 1,869-ton freighter City of Mandalay, sunk about 1,000 miles west of France.

In London, operators of the City of Mandalay said they had received information that the ship had been attacked and sunk.

The Yorkshire, which travelled between India and Liverpool, should have left Bangkok on September 9 for Liverpool by its latest available schedule.

The master of the rescue vessel, Captain C. J. McKenzie radioed that he was taking the survivors back to Bordeaux, France, arriving there tomorrow morning.

Meanwhile the United States coast guard cutters sped to the aid of two other ships in distress on the storm-tossed North Atlantic—the 19,980-ton American Importer and the 5,000-ton Black Osprey, British steamer Kirkbyr.

Rear Admiral E. Roberts of the President Harding notified his Lisbon offices here that he was hove to about 200 miles off Boston, in current need of medical aid for "many serious injuries" from the weather.

A later message from the President Harding stated:

During heavy storms many survivalined in,ries, crew and passengers. Two firemen, one A.B.Reboat and davit and starboard side rail swept away. May have to make Halifax, New Boston or New York.

The message was received at 19 p.m. E.S.T.

Another message from the ship said Henry Hvinsoth, engine room storekeeper, died of peritonitis on for appendicitis at 1.45 p.m. yesterday at the height of a heavy gale. The operation, performed by the ship's surgeon, Dr. Thomas Slater, assisted by Mrs. Schoor of Vienna", was successful.

The President Harding, which last week played a memory role itself in the rescue of survivors of the British freighter Marconipool 29 miles off the Irish Coast, was entered to the aid of the storm-tossed liners.

The plight of the S.S. Blairhoy was disclosed in an SOS picked up by the United States Sister Hamilton as it was going to the aid of the President Harding, 300 miles south of Cape Race.

Mackay Radio's station at Cape Race picked up the message relayed from the Blairhoy saying that the ship had lost her rudder chains.

The Coast Guard Cutter, the Duana, was dispatched to the Blairhoy's aid.

Gilbraltar, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The United States steamship Exchange Independence arrived that she had picked up 223 survivors of the 10,183 ton British liner City of Mandalay.

The message said the ship was believed to have been attacked.

McNair Supplies Given

Boston, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A Coast Guard cutter today raced unswerving needed medical supplies aboard the storm-battered President Harding, with approximately 20 of whose refugee passengers were reported suffering serious injuries. Two Coast Guard cutters also rushed to the aid of the Coast Guard here reported.

Battling the second stormy seas the Coast Guard craft found conditions too rough to permit a boat to be lowered to the President Harding's deck and it was assumed the supplies were transferred on a line shot aboard.

After receiving the supplies, at 8 o'clock last night 200 miles northeast of the Harding proceeded and the Coast Guard craft advised the United States vessels to carry all goods except arms to belligerent ports in the Baltic Sea, Pacific Ocean, the China Sea, the Indian Ocean, the Red Sea and the Persian Arabian Sea.

Senator Holt opened debate with a charge that the Roosevelt administration "never has been neutral and never will be, and never intended to be." He said the State Department policy for several years had been patterned to fit British demands.

Saying he had spoken with Senator Borah, Republican, Holt added:

DUTCH MINISTER PRESENTS CREDENTIALS

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—(CP)—H. E. H. Gineman, first Dutch Minister to Canada, today presented his Governor General Lord Tweedsmuir the letter of credence by which Her Majesty the Queen of Netherlands accredits him as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Canada.

FRAUD CHARGED AFTER PHONE CALL

Alleged Iron Washer Used in Making Call to Montreal

A telephone operator at the Belleville exchange was primarily responsible for the apprehension of a man who gave his name as Arthur Fraser, 45, Boston, Mass., and who was arrested as he emerged from the pay telephone booth at a local restaurant last evening after having allegedly deposited iron washers into the pay telephone money box in payment of a long distance telephone call. Caesar was held in custody on a charge of fraudulently committing theft from the Bell Telephone Company by using iron washers, instead of money, for the purpose of defrauding the company.

Late last evening a long distance operator at the Belleville Exchange answered a request for a long distance phone call to Montreal, but being alert and possessing a keen sense of the registration of coins deposited into pay telephone cash boxes, observed it is said, that the connection was not perfect, thus indicating faulty or bogus coins were being used. Mr. G. W. Proctor, manager of the Belleville branch of the Bell Telephone was in the building and when informed of the incident, instructed the operator to "stall the call" and inform the party after making his call to be interviewed by telephone booth later. During the 20-minute interval, Mr. Proctor received all of the coin, and washers, one slug and iron washers, from the pay telephone depoit box in question. When, it is said, the party returned to complete his call to Montreal and allegedly deposited three iron washers in payment, Mr. G. W. Proctor and Mr. H. Wright were stationed nearby placed the man who gave his name as Arthur Caesar, under arrest.

Enroute to the police station police say he said tried to dispose of several other iron washers which he had thrown in the gutter. Mr. Wright observed the man's efforts and recovered the iron coin and Caesar was taken to police claim, to throw them into the curb. The accused man had left for Toronto pending application for bail. The charge will be heard in Friday's court.

TURKEY REFUSES SOVIET DEMANDS

Saracoglu Leaves for Home Without Signing Pact— Russia Wanted Black Sea Closed

By WITT HANCOCK

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, Oct. 18 (AP)—Soviet Russia turned down Turkey's proposals in negotiations with Turkey to prepare a basis for a commercial treaty and with Finland in the next few days.

After three weeks here the Turkish Foreign Minister, Sukru Saracoglu, left quietly on a train shortly after midnight today. Bands blared and Soviet officials expressed formal good wishes for his brief visit which was not without a Turkish-Russian pact.

One which could not be confirmed, was that the Turks had refused publication of a Soviet demand that Russian warships be the only ones permitted to enter the Black Sea through the Dardanelles straits.

Then, the Russian News Agency, commented that Saracoglu's visit had "provided an occasion for comprehensive exchange of views" and said the exchange took place in a "cordial atmosphere."

The Tass announcement added that the conference had decided it was desirable "to maintain contact also in the future for the discussion of questions of interest to the Soviet Union and the Turkish Republic.

Allies Appear Satisfied.

Reports from British quarters, which had remained in close contact with the Turks during the long parley here, appeared satisfied at the turn of events.

It was reported that the British and French desired no rupture between the Russians and the Turks. The latter also said to fear that an open break might drive Russia into closer cooperation with Germany.

They would be fortunate, it was said, if Russia, the Balkan States and Italy remained neutral in the European war. British and French sources expressed confidence Turkey could deal with the Reich.

A more optimistic attitude toward the Finnish-Russian relations was apparent in Soviet circles. There was growing hope for peaceful settlement of any issues between Russia and Finland, Tass reported.

Grand Duchy.

Dr. Juho Paasikivi, the principal Finnish negotiator, may return to Moscow at the end of the week to get fresh instructions from his government.

ITALIAN AMBASSADOR PRESENTS CREDENTIALS

London, Oct. 18.—(CP)—Giuseppe Raimondi, the new Italian Ambassador, today presented his credentials to the King at Buckingham Palace.

The Ambassador was personally presented to the King by Viscount Halifax with whom he had discussed the international situation in a long meeting at the Foreign Office yesterday.

Instead of wearing levee dress, the Ambassador was in plain morning dress. His Majesty wore a khaki service uniform.

W. H. AUXILIARY HEARS REPORTS

Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson Stresses Importance of Social Service Group

Reconsideration of a full circularization of various methods of raising funds, and the formation of a social service group within the W.A. were urged by Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, Chairman of the Finance Committee in her report of the Toronto convention of the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries, to the Belleville branch yesterday.

Delegates from all parts of the Dominion and the United States attended the convention, Mrs. Rhymas, stress the need for all hospital auxiliaries to carry out during the present world turmoil, and to have all hospitals ready to meet the demands that war will make upon them, Mrs. Ketcheson said.

Reports from auxiliaries of both large and small hospitals brought out many interesting ways and means of raising funds. Of particular interest, Mrs. Ketcheson said, was the report of the delegate from the Montreal General Hospital auxiliary who stressed the importance and work done by the social service group of that auxiliary.

Various groups were in charge of special duties, such as furnishing the rooms, running the nursery for children, blood-transfusion donors and obstetrical cases. A greater many auxiliaries make it a point to present gifts to nurses upon graduation, Mrs. Ketcheson pointed out.

Mrs. W. G. Mikel was presented with a life-membership in the H. A. by President Mrs. Rhymas, during the business session. Mrs. Mikel's son told members.

Mrs. Fred Biddle also addressed the meeting with a detailed account of her journey to Toronto.

American's Affidavit Called "Tommyrot"

Glasgow, Oct. 18.—(CP)—Norman Donaldson of the Donaldson Line, owners of the Athenia, arrived at Athenia, today described as "tommyrot and absolute nonsense" an American's affidavit charging that the liner carried arms and was outfitted as an armed merchant raider.

"We'd have details of the cargo after the sinking," said Donaldson. "The Athenia, of course, was not then the vessel she was still at peace."

(Oyster Anderson of Evanston, Ill., master of the Athenia in the American who was sunk Sept. 3, said in an affidavit, forwarded yesterday to the United States State Department, that the chief officer told him there was "plenty of guns aboard, destined for Canada, and that the ship was to be reported as a raider on her return trip.)

RUSSIAN GOLD SENT TO GERMANY

17½ Tons of Gold Reported Being Shipped in Consignment

London, Oct. 18 (CP)—A British government spokesman today gave Russia-Germany trade figures. Russia has been sending gold to Germany.

Sir Alfred Knox, Conservative, asked in the House of Commons what arrangements the British Government had been drawn up to meet the first consignment of 17½ tons of gold "which has been transferred by the Soviet government to Germany."

Sir Harold Macmillan, undersecretary for foreign affairs, replied:

"Yes, sir. The foreign secretary has been asked to answer this question but is not without foundation."

Russia and Germany announced reports that Germany was receiving Russian gold in exchange for goods which she ordered withdrawal of Germans from the Baltic area.

The 17½ tons of gold mentioned in the House of Commons would be valued at $17,024,000 at the United States treasury price of $35 an ounce, or £15,250,000 at the Bank of England price of 168 shillings ($33.86) an ounce.)

GIRL BURNS SELF IN STRAW STACK

Body Found When Police Dog Leads Searchers to Burning Pile

Ottawa, Sask., Oct. (CP)

Twenty-year-old Hilda Hudson, who Sunday threatened "no one will find me," returned home today to have met a flaming death in a straw pile which she set afire herself.

Her body was found yesterday by the anti-burning crew at work on the farm of a neighbor after a police dog, Chief, followed her trail from her home to the edge of the stack.

The girl had been missing from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Hudson, since Monday morning when Royal Canadian Mounted Police were notified. The search party took the view of despondency.

Nobody Saw U-Boat Enter or Leave Scapa Flow, But Commander Tells Reporters

By LOUIS LOCHNER

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Berlin, Oct. 18 (AP)—A 21-year-old submarine commander, Guenther Prien, today told reporters (except for a lone sub driver, nobody saw his U-Boat enter Scapa Flow" in the raid which sank the British battleship Royal Oak Saturday and cost 800 lives.

Commander Prien talked with foreign correspondents after he had been decorated by Adolf Hitler and received the plaudits of Berlin crowds on the way to the chancellery with his submarine crew.

With him were numerous other officers and men from the submarine, which, landed yesterday. Much of the young men, all around thirty years old, were simple iron crosses pinned to their shirt fronts.

Prien claimed he had entered Scapa Flow, Britain's naval base in the Orkney Islands off Northern Scotland, on a night when the Northern Lights were the strongest he had seen in fifteen years at sea.

"The Northern Lights could be seen distinctly but we could determine the width by dimmed lanterns at the anchoring buoys," he said.

Prien reiterated the German claim that his submarine damaged the 32,000-ton battleship Royal Oak and in the same time as it sank the Royal Oak.

Aboard Invention

Prien declared that the submarine he had sailed to join the British Canadian Air Force at Sudbury and his application for transfer to the civil aviation. He had not, however, taken a medical test.

Police said today they were investigating the case and that a search warrant was expected they could offer no explanation of Parrendon's conduct in failing to report.

Seguin is said to have made a statement to police in which he claimed that Parrendon came to him saying he had no place to sleep. Seguin permitted him to stay in the airport office. The following morning a bottle of rum and the two passed the night with a cup provided over Seguin's forehead.

Seguin said the man tied his wrists and ankles with ignition wire, gagged him with a handkerchief, and on a couch all night. Meanwhile, the gunman helped himself to a bottle of rum. "plenty of guns aboard, destined for Canada, and that the ship was to be reported as a raider on her return trip.)

A Swashbuckling Story Of Daring Plane Theft Dissolves in Thin Air

Sudbury, Oct. 18 (CP)—A swashbuckling story of a daring airplane theft went up in smoke today when Joseph S. Parrendon, 21, of Quebec City, was arrested in Sudbury, appeared in court here.

Seguin faced a charge of causing false information to be published, the charge against his alleged account of being held-up, tied and gagged in the airport office.

Parrendon pleaded guilty to stealing the training plane from the Austin Airways base at Ramsay Lake and was remanded for sentence to Monday morning.

Seguin entered no plea and was remanded to the same date.

Told Police a Story

Seguin told Provincial police a story about going on duty as watchman at the airways base about midnight and being held up at the point of a gun by a large man with a cap pulled low over his forehead.

He said the man tied his wrists and ankles with ignition wire, gagged him with a handkerchief and left him on a couch all night. Meanwhile, the gunman helped himself to a bottle of rum, "plenty of guns aboard, destined for Canada, and that the ship was to be reported as a raider on her return trip.)

The plane was recovered in the packed bush 50 miles south of Sudbury, late the same afternoon. Its pontoons were badly damaged as if by a bad landing on the water.

Grain Men Hope for Resumption Of Exports to Ease Congestion

Nations Storage Facilities Are Taxed to Near-Capacity

Winnipeg, Oct. 18.—(CP)— With 220,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat in store or in transit and prepared to only 170,000,000 bushels at the beginning of August, the Dominion's storage facilities are taxed to near-capacity.

Little can be done to relieve the situation's storage facilities are taxed to near-capacity.

Little can be done to relieve the anticipated resumption of wheat exports as the British Ministry of Agriculture's chief market. Unofficial Ottawa reports said yesterday that the British Government, during the war started, will be resumed as a matter of course, through the channels of the British cereal authority and the Canadian Wheat Board and between the two governments.

Lack of overseas demand has been responsible for the 170,000,000 bushels Grain Exchange. As war loomed and Britain began to stock up nationally, the October future at Winnipeg climbing from 55 1-2 cents per bushel on August 1 to high of 84 on September 7.

Thereafter prices sagged and in recent trading have hovered around the 70-cent mark.

Latest indications of the storage situation's gravity was Monday's announcement that the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways of Western Canada would restrict shipments to the Lakehead because of heavy stocks there and in Eastern elevators.

Routing of some wheat to country elevators in Southern Manitoba, Saskatchewan and to terminal elevators on the Pacific Coast is expected to provide temporary relief, but storage space is limited and market is in heavy supply.

4 NEUTRAL LANDS STUDY MEANS TO SAVE NEUTRALITY

Aged King Gustaf, Who Led Scandinavians To Parley in 1914, Is Again Host

TRADE MAINTENANCE

Peace Appeal Foreseen as Possibility as Result of Conference

By WADE WERNER

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Stockholm, Sweden, Oct. 18 (AP) —The kings of the three Scandinavian states and the President of Finland open their conference today on ways to preserve neutrality in the neutral countries as a result of the war.

The visiting heads of state, King Haakon of Norway, King Christian of Denmark and President Kyosti Kallio of Finland, were welcomed in the ceremonial interval of military display in harmony with the peace policy long associated with the Scandinavian countries.

King Gustaf, at whose instance the conference was called, presided at the meeting, which was attended by the foreign ministers of the four states. Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, King Himself and members of his cabinet were also present. Finland's premier President Kallio and at the railroad station when the kings carrying King Haakon and King Christian arrived a short time later.

Normalcy of Trade Aim.

The formal opening session of the conference was held in a reception room of parliament. After a half hour session the foreign ministers adjourned to the foreign office to continue their discussions.

Aim is to preserve the neutrality of their nations while maintaining normal relations with the warring nations facing the monarchs of Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland for during the last war. To that problem was added the question of trade and, while it stated during the first great was only as a grand duchy of the Russian Empire and while each is engaged in negotiations with Soviet Russia which the Finns fear may threaten their independence.

Several Peace Moves.

An appeal to the northern states and their ministers to which of peace of the world and make it a starting point for a general peace move was expected in Stockholm afternoon papers.

It took the form of a full page advertisement signed by "Representatives of Swedish Industry and Trade."

"We appeal to the heads of the Scandinavian States assembled to broaden the demonstration of the northern countries for peace in the world and to discuss all possibilities of bringing about negotiations which will bring peace to the world and to the water," the appeal stated.

It followed similar ideas couched in similar language addressed to King Gustaf yesterday by the Swedish National League of Youth.

Swedes insisted that their own country was not threatened, several expressed belief that Finland's negotiations with Russia would result in a peaceful conclusion.

Some Forsee Peace Appeal

Some sections of the public foreseen the possibility that the conference would issue a general appeal for peace. The Swedish Nationalist League of Youth already has appealed to King Gustaf to make such moves in that direction.

Britain's Traffic Deaths Up 676 In First Month Of Blackouts

London, Oct. 18 — (CP)—British traffic deaths for the first month of the nightly wartime blackout were 676 more than non-black-out September, 1938, when 1,130 were killed.

There were no fatalities in September from the 1,806 injuries which the rigid blackout of illumination is designed to reduce.

CLAIM LASHES TIED WITH LEAD

Convicts of San Quentin Make Charge Which is Studied by Criminologist

San Quentin, Oct. 18. (AP)— Prison officials here studied convicts that they were lashed with lead pipes strips four feet long when at a time and were required to stand for eight hours on a spot marked by a painted circle on the floor.

The charges were made public today by the State Director of Penology.

The director, John Clark, questioned six convicts last night and planned to interrogate at least 40 others.

The questioning was on the basis of statements made a week ago by nine prison guards that four of the guards, working in relays, brutalized 41 young prisoners with a section of hose and lead-tipped strap and that they refused to obey an "spot" as punishment for alleged participation in hunger strikes.

HITLER RECEIVES COMMANDER PRIEN AND HIS SUB CREW

ADMIRAL PRESENT

German Press Jubilant Over Success of Sub Fleet Against British Navy and Shipping

(By Louis P. Lochner Associated Press Staff Writer).

Berlin, Oct. 18 (AP)—Adolf Hitler today received Commander Prien and his submarine crew credited with sinking the British battleship Royal Oak in Scapa Flow harbor, Scotland, north of Scotland. He awarded Prien Germany's highest war decoration, the Grand Cross of the Iron Cross.

Hitler received him in his private study, Hitler shook hands with each man and thanked them in the name of the German nation. Present at the meeting was Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, who yesterday presented the men with Iron Crosses for their successful exploit of Saturday.

Hitler said the crew's achievement strengthened the entire German nation in the imperturbable trust in victory. He described their deed as the "proudest" which submarine warfare accomplished.

Entertained at Dinner

After Prien related Hitler his story of the conference, Hitler entertained the crew at a private dinner.

The crew's arrival by plane from Wilhelmshaven, where they had reached yesterday followed the high command's announcement that Prien had succeeded in retreat from German soil and that 10 British warships had been sunk in the last two days.

Hitler gave his personal plane "Grenamark" at the disposal of the crew to bring them from their base to the capital.

The high command's communique said: "Commander Prien has safely taken" as advancing German troops occupied positions with the French. Crew up yesterday between the Moselle River and the Palatinate Forest.

The Nazi press, meanwhile, was forecasting that German warships and submarines would attempt new attacks on British navy.

Boasting of accomplishments by submarines and the air force of Germany, the Nazi British naval units dominated the newspapers.

Typical headline was Berliner Boerse, commenting on the fact that a submarine had gone into Scapa Flow "lion's den"—the British naval base at Scapa Flow declared that Hitler had lost 800 officers, a sub-marine hero of the last war, announced that Germany's navy "undersea boats."

Quite Beautiful

"And in this spirit of attack," the newspaper said, "Prien's deed is quite beautiful — Exactly as in Poland, the German war leadership has attacked the military objects."

Two German submarines penetrated Scapa Flow in the last war but were sunk.

The British battleship Royal Oak was torpedoed and sunk last Saturday at Scapa Flow, naval base. German fleet was scuttled in surrender at the end of the first German war.

Yesterday German bombing planes attempted to bomb other British warships there. Dab, the warship was damaged, but the warship had been struck by heavy bombs. Indomitable, Wales, and British warplane had been shot down and that one German plane failed to return from the raid.

Awarded Iron Crosses.

On Saturday it was announced four German planes were brought down in the North Sea, three over the eastern coasts of Scotland and England. The old battleship Iron Duke, which was flagship in the training vessel, was said to have been torpedoed and sunk.

For their exploit, Commander Prien of the crew of Royal Oak's attacker were awarded Iron Crosses yesterday upon their arrival at the German submarine base.

A statement by Prien said his first attempt after penetrating the German naval base was to "do something in honor of Admiral Reuter"—Admiral Ludwig Reuter, commander of the high season fleet, by the German navy, who ordered scuttled to sink the surrendered fleet in July, 1919.

Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischel Beobachter, said "the crew of the submarine is ready to go out to strike England at its most vulnerable point."

"In the outside world justified doubts already had been expressed as to whether it was permissible to attack British warships in their harbors by Britain.

"The fact that Germany has taken the initiative and that the British fleet again and again is suffering heavy losses is creating a great impression," the newspaper told the world.

Incentive Butler Relates.

The British statement regarding the surrender of the German fleet in 1919 with what it called a German attempt of 1939, said Germany had compensated Germany for one of the cruelest injustices inflicted upon a nation."

The German population was told it had not more reason for rejoicing. Beginning next Monday, the press announced, weekly butter rations will be increased from 80 grams (2.82 ounces) per person to 112 grams (3.95 ounces).

Meanwhile, on the diplomatic front a railway conference was being held up between Germany, Soviet Russia and the Baltic States to reorganize transportation facilities in eastern Europe, the semi-official commentary Deutsch Aus Deutschland reported.

Economic negotiations with Moscow for increases in German-Russian trade and credit agreement was signed Aug. 19.

A new delegation to Moscow was dispatched yesterday to open negotiations for settlement of German minorities in the Baltic states and former Polish territory.

Warships Attacked By Twelve Planes States Report

Amsterdam, Oct. 18—(AP)—Residents of Schiermonnikoog Island off the north coast of the Netherlands, today reported a fight between unidentified planes and warships in waters outside Netherlands territorial waters.

Witnesses said six warships were attacked by twelve planes at 11 a.m. (5 a.m. EST.)

The nationality of the participating craft could not be determined because of the distance from shore. It also was impossible to learn the outcome of the fight.

Schiermonnikoog is 70 miles from the German-Netherlands boundary.

MONARCHS VISIT CANADA HOUSE

Her Majesty Draws Uniformed King's Attention to Pictures of Canada.

London, Oct. 18 (C.P. Cable) — Their Majesties visited Canada House this afternoon to see how the Canadian headquarters in London is grappling with wartime problems. It was an informal visit.

The High Commissioner and Mrs. Massey received the King and Queen around, but the territory was already familiar to them. Returning to-turn to the uniformed monarch several times, remarking on certain aspects of the exhibition. "Do you remember . . . that brings back memories, doesn't it, dear?"

The Queen took a mother's interest in the display of baby clothes and blankets which Mrs. Massey's team of women volunteers have received for Canadian service families. These women are now filling hundreds of blankets and pairs of socks and other articles of clothing which are being sent to them by Dominion women's organizations across the country for issue to the Canadian expeditionary forces.

SENATOR SAYS VISIT AIMED TO DRAW U. S. IN

Holt Charges President Pledged U. S. to Aid Britain and France to Stop Dictators by Force

(By C. R. Blackburn Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Oct. 18 (CP)—Senator Rush Holt, Democrat-Senator from West Virginia, charged the United States National Guard that Lord Beaverbrook visited Washington last week for the purpose of "drawing the United States into the war."

Opening what he promised would be a "thorough" attack on the Roosevelt administration's attempt to repeal the embargo on arms sales to belligerents, Holt said:

"The war propagandist is at work in Washington. Lord Beaverbrook left London in war time and has been assigned to the home Canadian retreat.

Lord Beaverbrook launched with Winston Churchill last Friday and it was stated afterward they talked about the President's inaugural address at Campobello, New Brunswick and that Mr. Roosevelt's address was revised in that Canadian province.

Holt, the Senate's youngest member, Sept. 21 (CP)— A Coast Guard vessel today placed currently reported unconfirmed aboard the American Liner President Harding, approximately 30 of whose refugees passengers reported seriously injured during a gale, the Coast Guard announced.

After a dash through storms seas the Coast Guard cutter Tampa conditions too rough to contact the Harding in small boats and it was arranged that the Harding be transferred on a line shot aboard.

Before receiving the supplies, at a point about 800 miles from Boston, the Harding proceeded at half speed the Coast Guard cutter advised she would go to the assistance of the British steamship Fanad Head which reported she was in distress.

CONFIDENCE VITAL SAYS COL DREW

Toronto, Oct. 18 — (CP)—Public confidence is vital to successful prosecution of the war, Col. George A. Drew, Leader of Conservative party in Ontario, said in a statement today. "The only way that public confidence can be secured in the war is by the Department of National Defence to keep the people fully informed from day to day and to explain to the public with the utmost candour what steps are being taken to train and equip our troops," Col. Drew said.

His statement was issued in connection with the series of talks broadcasts inaugurated last night by the Department of National Defence.

Col. Drew described as "extraordinary conception of responsible government" the use of an unidentified spokesman for the broadcasts. He said Defence Minister Norman Rogers is the only person other than "any right to speak for the Department of National Defence. He said the spokesman who cannot be criticized as he is not identified," was the impression that when the war began defence preparations would proceed on a plan which had been drawn up in advance. "That is not so. Mr. Rogers is better than anyone else it is not so."

Fears Effect of Repeal.

Repeal of the arms embargo, as provided in the bill, would be "going down the path to the place where it will be easy to declare war," Holt said.

Discussing propaganda" in the country, he said that "there is German propaganda but it is under the same of the United, where everybody knows what it is.

"Secretary of British propaganda is that it 'masquerades as Americanism. There are many British scholars living here as the editors of papers. I would rather have a German than a British, where you can strike at it.

"But the British propaganda is smoother, over the dinner table and over the card table. It's slick."

300 RESCUED AS BRITISH LINER, FREIGHTER SUNK

American Liner Will Land Survivors at Bordeaux, France, Thursday

ONE 10,183-TON LINER

U. S. Coast Guard Cutters Go to Aid of Other Ships "Storm-Tossed"

New York, Oct. 18.— (AP)—The United States Maritime Commission said today the rescue had been rescued by the American Liner Independence from the British freighter, ship, the 10,183-ton passenger liner Yorkshire and the 2,500-ton Freighter City of Mandalay, sunk about 500 miles off the Coast of France.

Its freighter, operated by the City of Mandalay said they had information the ship had been attacked and sunk.

The Yorkshire, which travelled between Rangoon and Liverpool would have left Rangoon on September 7, according to its latest available schedule.

The Master of the rescue vessel, Captain James E. Roberts of Washington, said he was taking the survivors back to Bordeaux, France, arriving there Thursday morning.

Meanwhile, two United States coast guard cutters sped to the aid of two other ships in distress on the storm-tossed North Atlantic—the President Harding and the 3,500-ton British freighter.

Captain James E. Roberts of the President Harding notified his Line, in New York that he was there to about 800 mile from Boston, in urgent need of supplies for the "many serious injured in heavy weather".

A later message from the President Harding stated:

During heavy storms, many sustained broken bones and passengers. Ten serious. Also No 9 Lifeboat and davit and starboard side well gone away. Have to make for Halifax. Heavy seas at present."

The message was received at 19 a.m. E.S.T.

Another message from the ship said Henry Heimsoth, engine room storekeeper, had been operated on for appendicitis at 6:45 p.m. yesterday at the height of a heavy gale. The operation performed by the surgeons aboard. Dr. Thomas Slater, assisted by Dr. and Mrs. Schur of Germany, Pennsylvania.

The President Harding, which last left New York on pole itself in the rescue of 36 survivors, from the British Freighter Peronspool 200 miles off the Nova Coast, was enroute to New York with many United States citizens from the war zones when she encountered the heavy storm near the New England coast.

The plight of the S.S. Bideford which was sunk by a U-boat was disclosed by the Coast Guard Cutter Hamilton as it was enroute to the aid of the President Harding with 300 miles south of St. John's.

Meanwhile, radio's station at Cape Race said it had received a message from the Bideford reporting that the ship had been under chains.

A second U.S. Coast Guard Cutter, the Tampa, was dispatched to aid the British vessel.

Gibraltar, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The United States steamship Independence Hall wireissued that she had picked up 223 survivors of the 10,183 ton British ship Yorkshire today.

The Yorkshire and the ship was believed to have been sunk.

Medical Supplies Given

London, Oct. 18.—(CP)— A Coast Guard vessel today placed currently reported unconfirmed aboard the American Liner President Harding, approximately 30 of whose refugees passengers reported seriously injured during a gale, the Coast Guard announced.

(By The Canadian Press)

A major earthquake, possibly centred somewhere off the Atlantic coast of North America created earth tremors which were felt in Ontario, Quebec and the New England states Eastern United States today, starting about five minutes before 7 a.m. EST.

First reports from scores of centres told of no damage, casualties or panic.

The Dominion Observatory at Ottawa reported that it had seismograph recorded an earthquake of "relatively great intensity" which lasted for about thirty minutes.

Dr. L. Don Leet, seismologist at Harvard University, described the tremors as a "major earthquake" and declared it was his guess that the centre of the disturbance was about 300 miles from Boston at Harvard, Mass., probably somewhere off the coast.

Second On Coast Since 1925.

Dr. Leet said today's quake was the second severe on the Atlantic seaboard since Nov. 18, 1929, when tremors of the Grand Banks caused 28 cable breaks.

100,000 Cartoons Seized at Montreal

Montreal, Oct. 19 (CP) — Provincial Police today seized 100,000 printed copies of a cartoon bearing the likeness of Adolf Hitler, Josef Stalin and, when folded, Premier Maurice Duplessis.

Col. P. A. Pinsonneault, provincial police chief, said the seizure was made in the printing establishment of the Canadian Printing and Lithographing Company, Limited, located in the building where Premier Duplessis is scheduled to deliver a political address tonight.

The raid was made under the provincial padlock law which forbids dissemination of Communistic propaganda. The cartoon, the Colonel declared, came within the scope of the law because of the picture of Stalin, Col. Pinsonneault said.

No arrests were made.

TROOPS MAY AGAIN CHEER DUMBELLS

Rumored War Minstrels May Remobilize to Bring Cheer to Troops

Toronto, Oct. 19 — (CP)—Almost half a million Canadian soldiers of the first Great War still cherish as their warmest memories the wistful antics of the Dumbell and there are rumors in Toronto the internationally-famous war minstrels may remobilize.

According to reports which could not be confirmed, the company may be reorganized under their original leadership, Capt. Jack Allen, now an insurance man in Toronto, Bernard Hilmer said he had received no word on the subject.

Of the original 18 in the troupe, Al Plunkett is doing radio work in Montreal; Jack Ayre, orchestra work in Toronto and Capt. Ben Allen is assistant general manager of entertainment of the Canadian National Services. Allen was added to the postwar touring company.

Bertram Langley, "Bones" of the Dumbells, is in the brokerage business in Toronto, while E. Jerry Barford is farming somewhere in Western Canada; Bill Tennent is in the shipping office of the Canadian National Railways; Ted Charters is in the United States.

Bertram Langley has retired; Jack McCormick is in Scotland; Al Murray sells insurance in Montreal. Other postwar Dumbells are also scattered. Reg Norman is running a summer resort at Wasaga Beach, while Leonard Young is director of recreation for a New York Church.

COMMAND CLAIMS FRENCH TROOPS OFF GERMAN SOIL

Nazis Say Withdrawal Marks End of First Phase of West Front War

NAZI VERSION

Berlin, Oct. 19 (AP)—The German High Command claimed today that "complete withdrawal" of French troops from German soil followed short but bitter fighting.

The Nazi Command said the withdrawal marked the end of the first phase of the war on the west front.

(Dispatches from Paris said attacks by German troops at several points along the front har been repelled. French military sources declared their advance line still was on German soil along most of the 100-mile northeast flank of the line.

(The French said German troops had momentarily advanced into the French village of Apach Monday.)

The German High Command's communique today claimed German attacks had pushed the French northeast of the Saarlautern bridge over the Saar river and the Hornbach-Bitche road.

SURVEY PLANTS FOR MUNITIONS

Comprehensive Study is Made of National Industry by Defence Department

Ottawa, Oct. 19—(CP)—A survey of manufacturing plants in Eastern Canada capable of making munitions has been completed by the British Purchasing Mission, in co-operation with the War Supply Board, as a preliminary to the awarding of British contracts here.

A comprehensive survey of naval requirements by the defence department in recent years is providing one authoritative background for the placing of contracts, it was learned today. A similar examination of the materials also being made now before orders are given by the Supply Board, as agent for the British mission.

A sample of the work necessary for the granting of contracts is cited in connection with shell orders. A dozen or more major parts go into the manufacture of a shell, most of which have different methods of production, it is explained. The procedure then is to inspect all the plants capable of making each part before distributing the orders.

Once this preliminary work is completed, it is expected orders will be placed with considerable rapidity.

Finland Determined to Maintain Neutrality Says General Oehquist

(By Lynn Heinzerling Associated, Press Staff Writer).

Viipuri, Finland, Oct. 19 (AP)—The slender, graying man who commands the eastern land defence forces sat at a desk in his peacetime headquarters high in medieval Viipuri castle today and told of his nation's determination to maintain her neutrality "even at the point of the sword."

Calmly, Lieut. General Harald Oehquist explained that Finns were taking advantage of every minute to strengthen their defences, but at the same time he hoped peace would come out of the current troubled times.

"The morale is very high among Finnish troops, which have been augmented to defend our neutrality in the Karelian Isthmus," he said.

The isthmus, between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga, is half Finnish and half Soviet Russian, and would be the natural route for one southeast attacking force.

Border Well Defended

"The nearer one gets to border the more thoroughly one sees the Finnish soldier for the test," said the General, "if there were fewer persons on the Isthmus they've all left now in voluntary exodus."

General Oehquist recalled that Finland began last summer to fortify the Isthmus, observing that "everyone knows defences can never be strong enough."

At certain border points, General Oehquist said, grain and cows have been removed. He emphasized that there have been no border incidents and no shooting.

In Viipuri, residents said about 50 percent of the city's 72,000 population had left.

The General is of Swedish descent. He received his training at the Swedish military academy and served with the army against Russia in the first Great War.

The diplomatic poker game between Russia and Turkey has ended for the time being at least. Both players left the table smiling, according to all accounts, but the fact that Turkey is taking further steps to strengthen her defences indicates the last may not have been heard of Russia's desire to extend Communist influence in the Balkan region.

Failure of the Soviet Government to obtain Turkey's assent to proposals which might interfere with Turkish undertakings to Great Britain and France is the first diplomatic defeat suffered by the Russians since conclusion of their alliance with Nazi Germany. It is an indirect defeat for Germany also.

It means Turkey, which

Turkey Holds Key to Eastern Mediterranean and the Dardanelles and Will be of Great Assistance to Both France and Britain

London, Oct. 19 (CP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain announced to parliament tonight that a three-power mutual assistance pact had been signed in Ankara by representatives of Great Britain, France and Turkey.

British observers of the European diplomatic chessboard had expressed profound satisfaction when news of the signing was made public earlier.

The agreement, which has a life of fifteen years, binds Britain and France and Turkey to come to each other's assistance in certain circumstances. A protocol to the treaty stipulates that Turkey can not be compelled by Britain and France to fight against Russia.

Britain and France will go to Turkey's assistance in the event:

1. Of an act of aggression against Turkey by a European power;

2. An act of aggression by a European power leading to war in the Mediterranean area in which Turkey is involved.

Works Both Ways.

Turkey will come to the assistance of Britain and France in the event:

1. Of aggression by a European power leading to war in which European state in the maintenance of whose neutrality or sovereignty one of the three has undertaken to assist;

2. Of aggression by a European power which while directed against another European power constitutes in the opinion of one of the three signatories a menace to itself.

RUSSIAN TROOPS ENTER ESTONIA

Precautions Taken Against Disorders — Civic Guards Line Highways

Helsinfors, Finland, Oct. 19—(A. P.)—Extraordinary precautions against disorders as Soviet Russian troops began marching into Estonian ports were reported today when first accounts of the movement penetrated a wall of official silence. Civic guards, Civic Guards and police, these accounts said, lined highways and byways as Russians travelled en route to Estonian capitals. Martial law was granted recently under a mutual assistance pact with her Baltic neighbor.

The troops were said to have been welcomed by communists with the inhabitants and every effort was made to prevent accidental contacts.

The Estonian press and the National Socialist established alarm on the details of the troop movement. The Estonian Communist party was prohibited in the areas occupied by the Russians. Soviet troops were reported moving along two routes, one column from Leningrad and another over the military road from Pskow. Both the routes, it was said, were chosen to avoid thickly populated centres in Estonia.

The Soviet troops were said to be picked men, selected for their discipline and for the fact the force was reported to consist of armoured units and motorized infantry.

Boston, Oct. 19 (AP)—Rusted parts of a small airplane which have been carried for months to death in the ocean 180 miles southeast of Boston were recovered by a fishing trawler today by the trawler Plymouth.

First conjecture among the waterfront was that the plane had been flown by Chester L. Fahelman, 22, of Canton, Mass., who disappeared from the sea several months ago after what he called a prophetic "flight to Mars." It was found, however, that the fragments of the rented plane was red, while the parts brought up by the crew of the Plymouth were green silver.

Other single-motor planes that have been lost in the North Atlantic within the past year were those of Charles H. Smith of Los Angeles and Charles Backman, Swedish flier.

Smith took off from Old Orchard Beach, Me., May 20 on an unauthorized flight which he declared would take him to Ireland. The plane was powered by a four cylinder, 65 horsepower engine.

Backman flew from Botwood Airport, Newfoundland, May 16, in a 90-horsepower monoplane for Stockholm, Sweden. The direction of his flight, however, should have carried him to the north of Ireland to the banks where the wreckage was found.

KING AND QUEEN CHEERED

London, Oct. 19.— (CP) — The king and Queen were cheered by crowds today when they visited the High Commissioners of New Zealand, India and South Africa.

The King wore a Royal Air Force blue uniform and the Queen was in dove grey. Yesterday Their Majesties visited the High Commissioners of Canada, and Australia.

'JUST LIKE THIS'

New Rochelle, N.Y. Oct. 19—(AP)—"Pennies, if you are brave, leave me, I'll kill myself—like this ..."

With those words, according to his wife, Anton Peterson, 36, took a revolver from a drawer, put it to his temple, pulled the trigger—and sent a bullet through his brain today.

His wife said they quarrelled when he criticized her housekeeping.

338,000 Tons Contraband Goods Seized by Britain

Huge Tonnage of Food and Materials Diverted to British Use

23,000 TONS LAST WEEK

London, Oct. 19 (CP)—The Contraband Control announced today it had detained 338,000 tons of contraband goods destined for Germany in the first six weeks of the war. For the week ended Oct. 14, it said 23,000 tons had been seized.

SAYS HEPBURN WILL NOT OPPOSE WATERWAY PLAN

Financial Post Publishes Copyright Despatch from Ottawa

NATIONAL EFFORT

Toronto, Oct. 19—(CP) The Financial Post today published a copyright despatch from Ottawa stating Premier Mitchell Hepburn, of Ontario, stout opponent of the St. Lawrence waterway development plan, has withdrawn his objection.

"When Premier Hepburn visited Prime Minister King recently to offer Ontario's co-operation in the nation's war effort, it is understood he told the Prime Minister plainly that he was now prepared to co-operate in completing the seaway project," the Financial Post story said.

The despatch said completion of the $500,000,000 seaway and power project as an immediate undertaking had become a definite possibility with Premier Hepburn's decision. The Ontario Premier repeated many times in the last four years his assertion that the Ontario Government would strenuously oppose the development. He said Ontario did not require power from the St. Lawrence.

Slayer of Chinese Cafe Proprietor To Hang on January 11

Vancouver, Oct. 19 (CP)—Arthur Rennie, convicted killer of Woo Deck, Chinese cafe proprietor, was sentenced last night by Mr. Justice A. M. Manson to hang January 11, for the bludgeon slaying which authorities testified he confessed to them a day after his arrest.

Rennie, 24, was found guilty by a jury which deliberated only eight minutes. The youth's mental age was given by witnesses called by the defence as slightly over 12 years.

Rennie made a bid for freedom yesterday morning as he was escorted by provincial police into the courthouse. The handcuffed youth led to Harry McMillan, convicted but not yet sentenced on a manslaughter charge, and to Frank Dack's death, April 11, he flung his left arm around the police constable. The pair then dashed away, but were overtaken.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science for Meteorologist)

Climate of the ancient world! This would included a rather narrow strip extending from Gibraltar to India and included the Mediterranean countries. Countries to the north and south of this strip were considered not habitable, being either too hot or too cold. At present summer temperatures range from 80 degrees at Gibraltar to 117 at Babylon and winter temperatures from 28 at Rome to 46 degrees at Benghazi on the Tripoli coast. Rainfall was light, and varied from 11 inches at Benghazi to 36 inches at Gibraltar. How far these conditions supplied to ancient world is conjectural. Probably the region was somewhat more moist than at present; at least there seems to be unmistakable evidence of large populations in where now only deserts exist.

MONTREAL TRANSIENT HELD BY POLICE

As he applied at the city police station for a night's lodging last night, Paul Martin, Montreal transient, found himself under the apprehension of the law. When Martin informed Sergeant Arthur Booth of his name and address, the alert Night Sergeant recalled having been confronted with a warrant for Martin's arrest having been issued from Kapuskasing last August. Martin is wanted on a charge of fraud, Chief Kidd revealed today after informing the Kapuskasing authorities of the arrest. The accused man is being held for Northern Ontario police.

QUEENS ARRANGES FINE PROGRAM FOR ALUMNI ASSOC.

Anticipating one of the biggest reunions in history, local members of the Queens General Alumni Association will leave for Kingston this weekend where a variable program has been arranged for the incoming old boys.

The highlight of the full two-day program of sight-seeing, rugby, meetings and dinners is autumn convocation on Monday morning, at which Sir Gerald Campbell, British High Commissioner to Canada will receive an honorary degree and deliver the convocation address.

James Bryce, former Canadian U.S. Ambassador to Germany, will speak on behalf of the honorary graduates.

FAIR WILL LIKELY BE HELD NEXT YEAR

Unless world conditions insofar as Canada and the British Empire are concerned, undergo a great turn for the worse, the Belleville Fair will be operated as usual next year, Secretary H. H. McKeown asserted today.

Commenting on this year's exhibition, Mr. Ketcheson was of the opinion that it was one of the most successful held here in over a decade. This was due in a large measure, he believed to the new three-day exhibition that took the place of the ordinary four-day fair.

MILITIA OFFICER BOUGHT MILITARY CLOTHES TOO SOON

"For sale, a Sam Browne belt, dress uniform, one pair of cavalry breeks, and undress blues." The above typewritten sign hig on the desk of a prominent militia officer of the city, who was bemoaning the fates that caused him to purchase new military equipment just prior to the new regulation that the belt and breeches would be discarded.

"Twas ever thus," he sighed, "but I suppose it is the army. Horse-pistols are now discontinued will provide a greater degree of comfort to officers albeit many of them will part with the Sam Browne belts with a feeling of regret."

NAMES, ADDRESSES OF BOYS WANTED

The names and addresses of all Canadian boys in this district who are fit for flying to join the Royal Air Force and other British units, when war was declared, are wanted by the National convener of the I.O.D.E. according to Mrs. Emily Neate, Regent of St. Julien Chapter of the I.O.D.E. in this city. Mrs. Neate has kindly undertaken this duty and if any of these boys or their parents are asked to communicate with Mrs. Neate, the telephone number being 1475-M.

C. W. L. BANQUET IS HIGHLIGHT OF CONVENTION HERE

Eloquent Address Delivered by His Grace, Archbishop O'Brien, Kingston

LARGE ATTENDANCE

Excellent Musical Program is Feature of Interesting Affair

Climaxing the interesting sessions of the Catholic Women's League in convention in the city, the banquet held at the Hotel Quinte last evening was a brilliant success. One hundred and fifty members from all parts of the archdiocese attended and were privileged to have as honored guests His Grace, Archbishop O'Brien, of Kingston, Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, V.G., who addressed the gathering and the following priests of the archdiocese:—Very Rev. J. J. O'Reilly, Trenton; Very Rev. D. A. Cullinane, Tweed; Very Rev. E. J. M. Leacy, Napanee; Rev. H. J. Farrell, Marmora; Rev. Dr. L. J. Byrne, Kingston; Rev. W. Kehoe, Kingston; Rev. Dr. Lesage, Marmora; Rev. O. T. Martin, Deseronto; Rev. S. B. Plunkett, Kingston; Rev. E. Way, Brockville; Rev. R. Rowan, Smiths Falls; Rev. C. E. Eaton and Rev. F. J. Collins, Belleville.

Brome and yellow chrysanthemums were used most effectively in the decorations of the banquet tables which filled the main dining room of the hotel.

Welcome Guests

Mrs. J. J. Collins, President of Belleville C.W.L., who presided at the banquet, welcomed in behalf of the local branch, the visiting delegates. Belleville was happy, she said, to entertain the convention. Local members having spent many enjoyable hours as guests of conventions in which case they much pleasure to be able to reciprocate.

At this point Mrs. J. M. Trumbach, representing the Belleville sub-division, presented Mrs. Collins with a lovely bouquet in tribute to her outstanding work as president for three different terms, and twice acting as hostess to the archdiocesan convention in a manner that was a credit ato herself and to her sub-division.

Musical Program

Adding to the enjoyment of the evening was the excellent program rendered by artists. Miss Katherine Bawden and Miss Dorothy Grant contributed vocal solos, accompanied by Mrs. James Grant; Miss Anna Lafferty gave a reading and a vocal solo and Mr. Harold Barrett, with Mrs. Barrett as accompanist, was heard in two splendid vocal numbers. A special feature was the number by Miss E. M. G. Miller, of Kingston, formerly a C.B.C. artist in Windsor.

Mrs. W. H. Raney, Prescott, diocesan president, brought to the members the message of the Holy Father as conveyed to the national president by Winnipeg by His Grace Archbishop Sinnott. His Holiness imparted special blessing to the work of the league and to its members and officers. Mrs. James Irish, Smith's Falls, moved an eloquent vote of thanks to Mrs. Raney for the address. Miss Margaret Hayes, Belleville, graciously seconding the motion. Rev. E. J. Butler then presented Mrs. Raney with rose, a gift of the Belleville sub-division.

Monsignor Nicholson

Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, V.G., addressed the convention. The talented and truthful address of the diocesan convention had merged imperceptibly into the charming personality of the priest, by the gracious and paternal presence of the Archbishop. It was a delightful blessing on the deliberations and a benediction on the members when Monsignor Nicholson referred to the devotion to the Rosary character of month of October, in the year 1571 on first Sunday in October the Christians attributed to the intercession of Our Blessed Lady through the sweet prayer of the Rosary, the decisive victory over the Turks, similar tik gives confidence that other victories are in store through this prayer. Parents can contribute to the family recitation of the Rosary so that by this means they made of the home a little church, a house of prayer. The crying need today is for just such homes, because the citizens who fear God and honor the King.

Mrs. John Pennett of Perth moved a vote of thanks to Monsignor Nicholson, Miss Gertrude Maloney of Marmora seconding the motion.

Archbishop O'Brien

Most Rev. M. J. O'Brien, Archbishop of Kingston in his eloquent and inspiring address referred to the fact that the Catholic Women's League was founded twenty-five years ago to coordinate the work being done by the women of this country during the last great European conflict.

The Society has grown apace until today it has 30,000 members. The Archbishop besought the women to rise to the call of duty once more and do all they possibly can to help our soldiers who are going overseas to fight for God and country.

Without going into the old Testament happenings he referred to the influence for good women had exercised in every phase of the world's history. He spoke of the place the Blessed Virgin Mary had in the incarnation of Our Lord and of her fortitude on the first Good Friday. Until He began His public life, the gospel tells, Christ was subject to His Blessed Mother.

The Archbishop referred to the zeal of the pious women who worked with Christ and His apostle during the public ministry of Our Divine Lord. Later on in the days of the persecutions, the women showed as much endurance, courage and fortitude as the most thinkt men. Today we have a great army of women under the Catholic Women's League, devoted to every good cause which makes for the honor and glory of God, for the good of one's neighbors and the welfare of our magnificent country.

Pays Tribute

Miss Yf. Driscoll, Trenton, expressed League appreciation to His Grace, not only for his splendid address, but for his valuable assistance, his encouragement and continued interest. Miss Driscoll assured the progress made in League work, under his direction and his growth of those particular projects he had fostered. Miss K. Doan, Belleville, seconded the vote of thanks.

Mrs. A. V. Egan, Portland, paid grateful tribute to Belleville hostesses whose hospitality will ever be a pleasant memory. Mrs. F. Fitzpatrick presented Mrs. Egan a past diocesan president, with a corsage, and Mrs. J. E. Lean thanked her for her words of appreciation.

Miss Anna Hurley spoke in a charming manner to the visiting guests. She referred to the growth of the League in Canada and to the patriotic work it had promised to undertake, and Mrs. R. J. Mooney, Westport, in responding said that Belleville's convention set a precedent that other cities would find hard to follow.

Appreciation of the artists who had given so generously of their time and talent was voiced byMrs. A. Fenwick.

The charming affair closedwith the singing of the National Anthem.

The 1940 convention will be held in Brockville.

Invitations were made for group meetings of sub divisions at Belleville, Napanee, Brockville, Westport when branches within a twenty-five mile radius will come together two or three times a year. Reports on the success of the Summer School of Leadership were given by Mrs. W. H. Raney, Prescott; Mrs. C. Collins, Belleville, Mrs. C. J. Brennan, Deseronto, Miss Irish, Smith's Falls, and Mrs. A. V. Egan, Westport.

A total membership of 2,700 was recorded. A sum of $10,344.75 was raised during the year, $9,901.53 being expended locally.

Courtesy resolutions were passed thanking all those who had assisted in the success of the convention. The convention went on record as opposing salacious literature adopted by the national body which concerned the circulation, sale and distribution of salacious literature. It protested against radio programs which offend against decency and modesty; urged wider circulation of the League magazine and greater knowledge of the League among Catholic girls working in Chinese places of business. The convention re-affirmed devotion and loyalty to Archbishop O'Brien, gratitude for his continuous and watchful interest in all League endeavors, and expressed appreciation to the diocesan chaplain, Rev. Dr. L. J. Byrne, Kingston.

OPEN BOOTHS FOR REGISTRATION

Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women to be Facilitated

To facilitate the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women, booths will be available at Belleville Public Library, Bridge St. entrance, Woolworth's, and the McCarthy Theatre.

Classes and training will be started if enough applicants have registered in any particular locality immediately, so those interested in specialized training should register now.

Registration is principally for home service except where applicants desire to go overseas. It is stressed by the committee that salaries are not paid for full time work or part time work in named positions.

Training will be started in all positions as soon as registration is completed throughout the country so that women will be ready to do their bit when the time comes to release men to go overseas.

The bearers were Messrs. Charles Cleveland, William Cleveland, Joseph Dunning, George Mathews, Robert Grant and Millard Clarke. The first two named are cousins and the last four mentioned are brothers-in-law of the deceased.

PRISON SENTENCE GIVEN TRIO WHO ASSAULT POLICE

Elmer Woodcock Given 3 Years and Brother Six Months and His Father One Year in Reformatory

MANY CHARGES

Elmer Woodcock, 23, of Bancroft, was sentenced to serve three years in the Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in Belleville police court today after being convicted of assaulting a police officer and also of escaping from his trial custody. A 26-year-old brother, Samuel Woodcock, was sentenced to serve six months in the Ontario Reformatory after being convicted of assaulting a police officer in the execution of his duties and also of resisting and obstructing officers, contrary to the Canadian Criminal Code. Luke Woodcock, 61-year-old father of the previous convicted men, was sentenced to serve not less than one year nor more than 18 months in the Ontario Reformatory after being convicted of resisting and escaping custody, Crown Attorney R. S. Donnan, K.C., presided at subsequent offences against the three Woodcocks, which, in turn, resulted in the more lengthy terms of imprisonment.

The Woodcocks were charged with the various offences following alleged attacks on Provincial Constable Stan Palamiter, Bancroft, and Constable Donaldson while after the two officers had attempted to search the Woodcock farm on Sept. 30th, last at which time the officers recovered an outboard motor, some silverware and other articles said by the police to have been stolen from adjacent summer cottages.

Before passing sentence Magistrate Butler spoke upon the protection of police officers while in the pursuit of their duties. Police officers of this province are employed to protect homes and property and in turn must be protected from assaults of this type. These are serious matters and will be dealt with accordingly," warned His Worship as he sentenced Elmer Woodcock to three years in the penitentiary.

Robert McCulloch, local barrister, appeared on behalf of the Woodcocks and advised pleas of guilty. The trio had appeared in a previous court and were convicted of the various charges upon which they appeared for sentence today.

GRAIN BOATS HELD UP FOR LACK OF ELEVATOR SPACE

With boat loads of grain shipped from the head of the lakes standing at Montreal awaiting shipment overseas, a temporary halt has been called according to the Kingston Whig-Standard.

Yesterday the "Westmount" arrived from the head of the lakes with grain at Kingston, and is still waiting to unload. The Kingston elevator is said to be "plugged". River boats have not been able to return from Montreal where they are standing by to transfer their cargos for overseas shipment.

It was reported yesterday that about 30 boats are anchored at Montreal and other down-river ports with grain from the head of the lakes. Until elevators have been cleaned out and grain shipped overseas, movements will be held up.

SERIES OF SURPRISE AIR FORCES

German forces were reported unofficially to have made contact with the French main line of resistance for 100 miles as a result of their thrusts in the past two days.

French observers reported German troops in the "Westwall were working with pumps to combat flood waters from the Rhine. They said the flood also was approaching the lower sections of the Maginot Line but that the main French fortifications were on higher ground.

Military dispatches said the French took 30 German prisoners Monday when the Germans attacked Apach, a French village near the Luxembourg border.

Premier Meets Ministers

Premier Edouard Daladier, meanwhile, met with his Ministers to review the achievements of French armies, the Soviet Russo-Finnish tension, the Stockholm solidarity conference of Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland, and the suspended Russo-Turkish negotiations.

French forces had withdrawn from certain advanced positions on the Rhine-to-Moselle sector of the front but French observers said this strategy had made their main positions more tenable. The Germans had advanced over the border at one place near Luxembourg.

Still on German Soil

Thousands of Germain reinforcements were reported moving up in support of units which won the land on French soil. The French declared they still were on German soil along part of the 100-mile northern flank of the line.

To observers it appeared that the Allies intended to fight a defensive war at least through the winter while awaiting clarification on the diplomatic front, especially that with regard to Russia's intentions.

The French originally said that their advance into German territory was designed to gain extended cover for the Maginot Line. They said now that their main lines had been withdrawn to points more easily supported by winter lines in the main fortifications.

Paul Perdonnet, a writer identified by French authorities as one of two Frenchmen broadcasting German propaganda from a Stuttgart Station, has been formally charged with conduct "harmful to the security of the State".

Premier Daladier referred to the broadcasters in his radio speech to the nation Oct. 10 when he called them the "traitors of Stuttgart."

strength.".

Chinese newspapers meanwhile reported that Japanese communications between Nanchang and Pengshan, thirty miles westward, had been cut by a Chinese force that reached the outskirts of Pengshan.

Another column was threatening Wuning, 40 miles northwest of Nanchang, they said. Sharp fighting also was reported in Hunan and Shansi Provinces.

The Chinese reported last week [illegible] a great Japanese offensive to [illegible] Changsha, capital of Hunan [illegible]ce, had been hurled back and [illegible] Japanese preparing to [illegible]don bases they had held for nearly a year.

May Exact Eighi.

Tokyo, Oct. 19 (CP-Havas) — Domei, semi-official Japanese news agency, today charged Russia will exact the right to station Red troops in Sinkiang and to dominate northwestern China in exchange for continued military aid to General Chiang Kai-Shek's government.

Soviet mechanized forces have already penetrated Sinkiang province, pen-handle projecting westward between Mongolia to the north and Tibet to the south—the Japanese agency said in dispatches from Nanking and Hong Kong.

Domei asserted a secret pact between Russian and Chinese Communist parties might well result instead of an open treaty between the Moscow and Chungking governments.

The Chinese Communist party has recently been making steady gains in influence, according to Domei.

Complimentary Banquet Given Graduating Class of K. G. S.

Certificates Presented and Prize Winners Honored Before Large Assembly

INSPECTOR PRESENT

Youthful eyes gleamed with pride of achievement, and appreciation last night in the auditorium of King George School when forty-three graduates of the institution were tendered a complimentary banquet by members of the King George Home and School Club in the presence of proud parents, equally proud teachers, and guests.

Certificates were presented to the young graduates during the evening by Mr. J. F. Pickering, newly appointed public school inspector for the inspectorate of South Hastings, who congratulated each graduate individually, besides delivering a brief address to them as a whole.

Mrs. Russell Ashbury, president of the Home and School Club, who acted as chairman in very capable manner, formally welcomed the graduates, parents and guests prior to sitting down to the splendid repast provided by the members of her club.

Proposed Toasts

Two girl graduates of the class took part in the various toasts, that were drunk. Attractive Misses Betty Johns and Betty Holst proposed the toast to the teachers, and responded to the toast to the graduates respectively. Mr. Charles Brown, who with Miss Helen Cassidy and Miss Jane Smith of the school staff, was mainly responsible for the success of the class, responded to the toast to the teachers, while Mrs. G. Coulter proposed the toast to the graduates. Miss Thompson offered the toast to the King.

A feature of the banquet was the presentation to youthful Miss Margaret Stebbings, of a handsome book prize, awarded to the pupil, who had made the best progress during the year. The presentation was made by Mrs. Harrison. A clever young graduate elocutionist of the school, Miss Norma Smith, delighted the assemblage with a humorous reading.

Offers Timely Advice

Introduced by Miss Smyth, E. A. Archibald of the Belleville Collegiate Institute staff offered timely advice to the graduating class in an address that sparkled with humor and sincerity alternately. He pointed out to the class that they were entering the third milestone of their lives, the collegiate institute, Home and public school were the first two. Remarking on the fact that everyone entering school, university or business, always looked up to those who were senior, he advised the graduates to "keep on plodding, and everything will be alright."

He felt deeply the fact, he said, that the young people of today are having school with no employment in sight. "As we look at this class, the wonder said, what is in store for them."

"It seems a pity,"-he declared, "that the statesmen of the country could not have called a special session of the government to marshall the resources of the country in an effort to defeat the enemy unemployment, the same as it did when war was declared. However, we have learned a lesson, and when the war is over, we will get the opportunity to give our boys and girls the chance to live." He paid tribute to the present generation for its ability to withstand the temptations of the day.

In concluding his several suggestions to the graduates in their journey of educational activity, "Make your teacher like you," he said. "Use them to help you solve your school problems; give them all the co-operation you can; take pride in your work, and act acquainted with the old-fashioned honesty."

He hoped they would enjoy their future work, "and when you graduate from the Collegiate Institute I hope this old world will be a much better place in which to live."

Principal Keils

Principal L. A. Keils, formally welcomed the parents present, and Inspector and Mrs. Pickering. He extended an invitation to the former to remain and get acquainted with the staff and himself—and expressed regret at the inability of ex-Inspector H. J. Clarke and Mrs. Clarke to attend the function.

"I hope every success comes your way," he said, in extending congratulations to the graduating class. "As far as the staff and I are concerned, you will always be King George boys and girls, and we will expect your good name to persist."

The principal also expressed his appreciation of the fine co-operation afforded him by members of his staff, and of the efforts of the ladies of the club, and others who so generously contributed to the success of the evening.

HARRY RIDLEY MEN'S CHAMPION FOR SIXTH TIME

Excellent Golfer Given Permanent Possession of Club Trophy at Belleville Golf Club Banquet

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

W. O. Waldorf Will Again Direct Energies of Popular Golf Club for 1940

Culminating a most successful season on the links, the Belleville Golf Club officers and members held their annual election of officers, club banquet and presentation of prizes in their club-house last evening, a large number of ardent golfers being present to bid adieu to the current golfing season, that has proven so highly successful for the Belleville Golf Club.

Harry Ridley, the perennial club champion, was again named the men's club champion for the sixth consecutive year. In recognition of his sterling golf qualities the Belleville Golf Club presented Mr. Ridley with the club silver trophy, a miniature of the club championship, to become his permanent possession. Mr. Ridley replied in his usual modest manner, which is his characteristic person while off the golf course only. A new club trophy will be purchased before the 1940 season opens. President W. O. Waldorf announced after being re-elected to office for the coming year. Mrs. W. H. Patterson was declared the women's club champion.

The officers elected last evening are:

TRUTH COUNTS

German propaganda was given a blow yesterday by Prime Minister Chamberlain who reiterated the British statement that the Hood, and the Repulse or any other capital ship had not suffered the least damage. The same is true, he said, of the Ark Royal.

"The people of this country are resolute enough to bear bad news and the government have not hesitated to publish the full extent of any losses they have sustained. Those imaginary losses which the German broadcasts have described with such unblushing impudence may serve for a time to raise their spirits, but in the end their falsity will be demonstrated and the consequent disappointment will be all the more depressing," Mr. Chamberlain commented.

Britain will not claim successes of which she is not convinced. "It is far more important that the world should be able to believe implicity in the truth of the communiques we issue than that we should reap the short-lived advantages which distortions of the truth may bring."

Britain has told the story of the Royal Oak sunk last weekend at Scapa Flow, so that the world did not have to wait for the German account and neutral nations will have confidence in Britain's word, rather than in exaggerated or false statements of the German propaganda ministry.

R.A.F. DEFENCE SUCCESSFUL

The Royal Air Force has done yeoman work in the first enemy raids over the British Isles. The raids on Scapa Flow in the Orkneys netted the German bombers nothing but losses, which run higher than twenty-five per cent and probably much higher according to Mr. Chamberlain, who noted that eight bombers out of thirty in the raids were shot down and there is good ground for belief that more failed to reach their base. The attack on Rosyth meant a loss of three out of four of the foe bombers.

In encouraging the people with these facts of what has occurred on these raids, Mr. Chamberlain said: "We may, indeed, be encouraged by the knowledge that our defences have proved so successful in their first tests of trength and that our fighter aircraft have been shown to possess the excellence of quality for which we had hoped.

"In these early days we must not, of course, indulge in foolish boasts. The attacks so far made upon our coasts have been few and on a small scale, and it would be unwise to assume that we shall always be successful as we have been in these first exchanges. There are many surprises in war and they cannot all be pleasant. But we have at least the satisfaction that we have made a good beginning.

HITLER REVEALED IN WHITE PAPER

Further light on Adolf Hitler and his relationship to the war now raging is given in the final report of Sir Nevile Henderson, British Ambassador to Germany until the outbreak of war. It tells of the last days of peace, the "tragedy" of Hitler and provides sidelights on the satellites about the Chancellor.

Hitler stands out as the same figure as he was revealed in the British Blue Book published some weeks ago. The new White Paper indicates very clearly that Hitler it was who made the decision to go to war. This is the opinion of Sir Nevile, which will perhaps live for all time as the best intimate view the world will have of this man as he prepared for the final plunge into Poland with his armies. Of Hitler he said, "Though he spoke of his artistic tastes and his longing to satisfy them, I derived the impression that the corporal of the last war was even more anxious to know what he could do as a conquering generalissimo in the next."

Sir Nevile says "geniuses are strange creatures and Herr Hitler, among other paradoxes, is a mixture of long-headed calculation and violent and arrogant impulse provoked by resentment." That is the viewpoint many have gathered of the German dictator.

How far thoughts of the horrors of war were from the mind of Hitler is indicated in the statement of the former ambassador, or, "I have some reason to believe—though I cannot confirm it—that the order for the German army to advance into Poland was actually given for the night of August 25-26." Sir Nevile remarked that it might have been his flying trip to Hitler's chalet which may after all have postponed the disaster for a week and that Hitler's "one last hesitation" may have been due to Mr. Chamberlain's letter so that Hitler countermanded the order to tie army.

"But it was not the horrors of war which determined him. His hesitation was due rather to one final effort to detach Britain from Poland."

According to Sir Nevile there were only two solutions for Hitler, the use of force or the achievement of his aims by the display of force. Hitler had said to a foreign statesman who visited him this year, "If you wish to obtain your objectives by force, you must be strong; if you wish to obtain them by negotiations you must be stronger still." Sir Nevile says this is Hitler technique.

The British ambassador to Berlin before the war settles a question which has been the subject of dispute for more than a year. Was Hitler bluffing at Munich? Sir Nevile says that he was not bluffing before Munich in September last year or in August of this year, though the fear of a war up to the middle of August on two fronts might have deterred him from attacking Poland.

A bloodless victory would have brought additional prestige, "but it would only have been to start over again once the world had recovered from the shock and even his own people were beginning to be tired of these repeated crises. Millions of Germans had begun to long for a more peaceful existence. Guns instead of butter were becoming more and more unpopular and with the younger generation and Hitler may well have wondered what would happen to his Nazi revolution if its momentum were allowed to stop. Moreover the financial and economic position of Germany could scarcely continue as they were without some form of explosion, internal or external."

Sir Nevile then comes to the supreme issue in these words: "Of the two alternatives the most attractive from the point of view of his growing personal ambitions and those of the cllque nearest to him was war."

Then Sir Nevile comments, "It is scarcely credible that he would have acted as he did if bloodless victory had not seemed a fairer prospect for him."

Hitler's lack of knowledge of the world and of various lands by travel is referred to.

Sir Nevile refers to the report, "if report be true," that von Ribbentrop consistely gave Hitler false impressions of the British mentality.

Hitler and Hitler alone was responsible is his view. "Given the most absolute dictatorship, susceptible to the influence of his surroundings. Nevertheless, Hitler's decisions, his calculations and his opportunisms were his own."

Goering had once said that "When a decision is to be taken, none of us counts more than the stones on which we are standing; it is the Fuehrer alone who decides."

Sir Nevile says that while if anything did count it was the opinion of his military colleagues, "yet even the advice of his soldiers was merely cover for the prosecution of Hitler's own plans. His impatience and precipitate action on that last day of August can scarcely have been other than premeditated. The Russian pact seemed to give him the advantage he was seeking."

Sir Nevile says it appears "Herr Hitler and national socialism are the products of the defeat of a great nation and its reaction against the confusion and distress which followed . . . It would be idle to deny the great achievements of the man who restored to the German nation its self-respect and its disciplined confidence. The tyrannical methods which were employed to obtain this result were detestable but were Germany's own concern . . .

He praises many of Hitler's social reforms, which he finds, in spite of their complete regard of personal liberty, were on highly advanced democratic lines. He adds that it was not the incorporation of Austria and the Sudeten Germans in the Reich which so shocked opinion as the unscrupulous and hateful methods which used to effect such an incorporation which would probably have come peacefully in due course of its own volition, according to the established principle of self-determination. But even these methods might have been endured, he says, in this time if Hitler had been willing to accord to others the rights which he claimed for Germany.

Finally the British ambassador philosophizes as follows: "Revolutions are like avalanches . . . History alone will determine whether Hitler could have diverted Nazism into normal channels, whether he was the victim of the movement which he had initiated or whether it was his own megalomania which drove it beyond the limits which civilization was prepared to tolerate."

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 19th, 1919.

The Ontario Cereal Company, Limited, has secured a franchise from the City of Belleville in return for an agreement to erect and equip a plant to convert Belleville's garbage and waste material into a highly efficient fuel, made under sanitary and scientific principles that insure the city being cleaner and more wholesome daily, eliminating the dangers of infection and contagious diseases and creating employment for a number of citizens. It is understood that the company is not waiting to sell stock to the citizens, as it has the necessary capital to build and equip the plant. The Managing Director of the Company will address a public meeting here shortly in which the proposition will be fully explained.

30 YEARS AGO

Oct. 19th, 1909.

Belleville's population has increased by 1625 during the past five years. This is a good showing added to the city in half a decade. And still they come. Tell this to people who show signs of being pessimistic.

Capt. and Mrs. Osborne, who have been in command of the Salvation Army Corps here for the past six months, have been transferred to the command at the Lisgar Street Barracks in Toronto, and will leave here shortly. Their departure from the city is much regretted.

Messrs. F. Forney, J. Gay, J. Vandervoort and R. Zufelt have returned home after spending two months in Western Canada.

Mr. James Coulson will return home shortly from Battle Creek.

40 YEARS AGO

Oct. 19th, 1899.

The Thanksgiving turkey will be absent from many festive boards. Nobody but a bloated capitalist can afford to look at turkey at 20 cents per pound.

The Belleville High School Athletic Association reorganized last night and the following officers were elected: Hon. President, Mr. E. F. Wilkins, M.A.; President, Mr. H. J. Clarke, B.A.; First Vice President, A. McGillis; Second Vice President, A. Smith; Secretary, W. A. Mathison; Secretary, W. Wallbridge; Committee:—A. J. Lingham, Bogart, Hayes, Henshaw and the members of the staff.

Mr. George H. Fax of this city will grace a concert at Napanee last night, and Mr. Frank W. Bredin will sing at a concert in Camellton.

Rev. Mr. Coleman, an old Belleville boy, now of Tacoma, Wash., is visiting friends here.

50 YEARS AGO

Oct. 19th, 1889.

Partridges are coming in freely and are selling at 70 cents per pair.

Mr. C. R. Minns and family will remove shortly from Wellington to reside in Belleville.

The Rev. H. Daw, Rector of Christ Church, will preach at the Harvest Festival Service in St. Paul's Church, Kingston, on Sunday next.

Mr. Fred Richardson of this city has been awarded the contract for fencing the interior of Chalmers' Church, Kingston.

Mr. Frank Peard and Mr. Arthur Grange travelled from Toronto to Belleville on their bicycles. They arrived at noon and arrived here the following evening. Several stops were made enroute.

Mr. J. C. Hanley of Read, exWardsn of the County, was in town today.

A large crowd witnessed the 15th Battalion drill at the hospital lot last evening. The band furnished enjoyable music.

Rain on the Western Front

Rain has been falling along the Western Front for the last fortnight. The regular French winter weather has set in and the rains will continue until the spring.

Those who remember Paschendale and the sea of mud through which the Canadians advanced will appreciate how difficult an offensive can be, now the winter rains have changed the terrain into a bog. Progress is hard enough even in getting rations and other supplies to the front lines. When troops attempt a major offensive, the mud impedes their advance so seriously they are often, brought to a standstill by General Rain, instead of by the fire of the enemy.

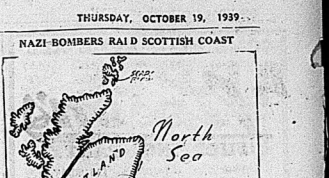
There is talk of Germany planning a major attack along the Maginot Line, or into France through the Netherlands. If such an assault is launched, the heavy transports and guns will soon find the mud a handicap. Troops will have to plunge through morass after morass and the ground will be changed until it has become almost a marsh.

The mud at Paschendale became so bad in October of 1917, the push there had to be postponed. And nothing has happened since that time to alter the fact that in France rain and earth still make mud.

WHERE TWO R.C.A.F. PILOTS MET DEATH

Two R.C.A.F. pilots officers, A. J. H.C.A.F. monoplane which crashed Olstead and H. E. Corbett, met in this area while on training death in this wreckage of their aircraft. The machine crashed in the desolate wooded country surrounding Crotch Lake, Ont.

NAZI BOMBERS RAID SCOTTISH COAST



Striking at the Scottish coast for the second time within two days, German bombers damaged the training ship Iron Duke at Scapa Flow naval base. Air raid alerts screamed warnings at Edinburgh and other centres on the Scottish coast, but no raids resulted.

H.M.S. IRON DUKE REPORTED DAMAGED

Staging an air raid on the British naval base at Scapa Flow, German bombers succeeded in damaging the battleship Iron Duke, former flagship of Lord Jellicoe at the battle of Jutland. The extent of the damage to the Iron Duke, which is now used as a training ship, was not immediately made known.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Early Loss of Mother May Affect Child's Behavior and Personality

Some years ago I examined the boys of a reform school and learned that in about half the cases the parents of the boys were not living together. That these boys should suffer physically, mentally and morally by living in such a household can only be expected. The growing child needs the love of parents and the regular meals, sleep and discipline of family life. The boys of this reform school had not committed serious crimes but because of the condition of their homes they were on the streets too much and attended school little or not at all.

One of the sad things in life is the loss of the mother while the children are still young and so badly need her guiding hand. That the loss of the mother affects the mind and behavior of the child is reported by Dr. H. Barry, Jr., Boston, in American Journal of Orthopsychiatry (study of behaviour and personality) who studied the proportion of the deaths of mothers to fathers in relation to mental disease. Records were obtained from Greystone Park of 566 white mental patients, 284 male and 282 female. All the patients studied were admitted to the hospital for the first time between the ages of 16 and 25. The number of patients who had lost their mother was nearly 16 per cent. among the 566 patients, which is about three times as large as among groups of the same ages who had not lost their mother (5.3 per cent). The number of patients who had lost their father was about 11 per cent. which is about the same as normal young people that is, between 10 per cent. and 11 per cent. Thus the proportion of deaths of mothers to deaths of fathers was much higher in the mental patients, studied than in groups of the same age who were normal individuals.

Dr. Barry believes that "the methods of combining mother and father bereavements has sufficient importance (theoretically) to warrant rationale application".

As we think of growing children and how they must be taught and bound to affect their everyday habits and behavior—not enough discipline but much discipline, loss of the understanding loving heart of the mother—loss of the father in a day—ly is not hard to understand why many of these children look and grow inward and so become untitled to mix in play and work with others.

A Fine Gesture

Owners of the Athenia, sunk on September 3 by a German submarine, have contributed $21,153 towards the cost of repatriating their homes those survivors who were going to the United States. The contribution was made by the United States Ambassador Kennedy.

Because of the manner in which the Athenia was sunk, the owners were under no legal obligation to make the payment of the money is entirely voluntary, and is creditable to the spirit displayed in the United States.

Needless to say, the master of the submarine which torpedoed the Athenia has made no offer to share the expense.

Canada's Poles Volunteering

Ottawa, Oct. 18 (CP) — A Canadian contingent of Polish citizen volunteers to fight Germany under British and similar efforts in the United States, to fight against Nazi Germany, is being formed here Wednesday.

Originally it was hoped that the volunteers would be trained in Canada but it is now reported the force will be sent to Britain.

Victor Podzalski, new Polish Consul General here, said he understood that the volunteer force so far has not been very large, but he believed that only those who retained their Polish citizenship are being registered. There are about 70,000 Canadian Poles in Canada, with their families in about 2,000.

Body of Albert Carman Interred at Toronto

Toronto, Oct. 18— (CP) — Body of Albert A. Carman, editor-in chief of the Montreal Star, who died at Montreal Monday night was interred Wednesday at Forest Lawn Mausoleum. Funeral service was held at the Mausoleum chapel and was conducted by Rev. Vere Harmon, pastor, who is a reader at the First Church of Christ Scientist. The service was conducted with the modesty and antipathy towards display that marked Mr. Carman's career. Included in the small group of relatives and friends present here was Mr. Carman's widow who accompanied the body from Montreal last night.

FAMILY IN CHARGE

London—(CP)—A Polish estate that suffered little harm in the First Great War is now in the hands of the Germans. The immense domains of Lancut, owned by the Potocki family, were safe from 1914 to 1919 because the Potockis fought in both the Russian and Austrian armies, and the house was always in family hands.

TOURIST INFLUX FROM U.S. SEEN

Organizations Urge $500,000 Grant to Canada Travel Bureau

Ottawa, Oct. 18. (CP)—Increased effort to attract American tourists to Canada next year became a probability as a result of a conference between Transport Minister Howe and a delegation representing various tourist, hotel and transportation organizations.

The delegation urged the government to increase its vote to the Canadian Travel Bureau to $500,000 next year, compared to $315,000 this year and $250,000 last year.

While the United States itself was entering a new period of prosperity, there would be much competition for the United States travel dollar within the United States itself and Canada, C. C. Bonter, spokesman for the delegation, told the ministry.

Mr. Howe assured the delegation he was thoroughly sympathetic with what they proposed to do and said the department would need any increase in effort by the tourist bureaux. If they did put on a special drive for business, the government would do likewise.

An immediate result of the tourist situation, the uncertainty existing in the United States over currency, passports and travel restrictions resulting from Canada's participation in the war, required immediate action, it was suggested. Many ridiculous reports, such as the likelihood of American visitors being conscripted for military service in Canada, food rationing and so on, were in circulation.

The delegation asked an immediate appropriation of $50,000 or $80,000 for advertising and publicity in the United States to allay such fears.

Women's Institute

The Eldorado and Bannockburn Women's Institute held their October meeting at the home of Mrs. Ken Bateman on Tuesday evening with an attendance of twenty. The meeting opened by all singing the Institute Ode followed with the Lord's Prayer, with the president, Mrs. Hugh Empey, presiding. After the minutes had been read and the usual business had been discussed a very fine programme, the topic being "Education," was given under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Parnell. She opened the programme by singing "When You and I Were Young Maggie." The Roll Call was responded to by "How to Amuse Children on a Rainy Day," and many good suggestions were given. Mrs. Walter Moran gave a splendid talk on the problems of the adolescent boy and girl, bringing many helpful thoughts. A very interesting discussion followed with Mrs. F. J. Nickle as leader.

A reading on Education was given by Mrs. B. Carman. Mrs. Ken Bateman brought current events of the day's news. A contest was then enjoyed and the meeting closed by all singing the National Anthem. Lunch was served at the close and a social half hour enjoyed.

Frankford W. A. Meeting

The regular meeting of the W. A met in the Rose-Lowery hall on Thursday afternoon October 12th., with the president, Mrs. L. Hanna, presiding.

The meeting was opened by singing a hymn, after which Mrs. Lace led in prayer. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Madill.

The secretary, Mrs. Dafoe, then read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved. Another hymn was sung and the last minute arrangements for the Fowl Supper were then completed.

The secretary then read a letter from Mrs. Ross Hubble inviting the local W. A. to join with them at Tabernacle Church on the afternoon of October 25th.

Roll Call then followed with an attendance of 18 members and several visitors.

A brief programme followed which consisted of a contest, vocal selections by Mrs. Kennedy one of the Czech friends and accompanied by Miss Colenbrook.

A hymn was sung and the meeting brought to a close with the Mizpah Benediction.

Grace was sung and lunch served by Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Coutts and Mrs. P. Bell.

Rev. J. F. Lane took the services in Brighton United Church on Sunday.

Rev. J. E. Anderson of Brighton United Church led in the anniversary services in Frankford United Church on Sunday. He remarked that it was his first service in Frankford church and after the inspiring message which he brought to us it was to say it will not be his last.

He was aided in his services by the choir. In the morning, besides two lovely anthems by a full choir, a mixed quartette, consisting of Mr. F. Ketchum, Mr. H. Slingerland, Mrs. W. Morrow and Mrs. G. Johnson sang.

The services morning and evening were well attended.

In the evening Rev. Anderson was assisted by a full choir of well trained voices. Miss Cooper sang a delightful solo and a quartette consisting of Mrs. Warren, Miss Cooper, Mr. Gerald Snider and Mr. A. Southworth also gave a rendition.

After the evening service Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Novotny had their infant son christened (Anthony George.) Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Spencer accompanied them to the altar.

This is Frankford's first Czech baby and all are proud to have it christened in the United Church.

After the services pictures were taken.

On Tuesday evening Frankford United Church held their annual Fowl Supper. It is not enough to say that it was well attended. Several at the last had to be turned away, which is something new for Frankford United Church. There were over six hundred people fed. The programme was enjoyed by all those who could get in the church to hear it.

The Church orchestra and the Czech people put things over in a big way. Their entire orchestra, their cello solos, and accordian solos were wonderful. The singing also was well enjoyed. They had vocal solos and mention must be made of the chorus by the entire company.

The Atkinson family also assisted in the programme in no small way.

On Sunday last, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Prust entertained Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bateman and family and Mr. Gerald Broadworth of Bonarlaw; Mr. and Mrs. Mc Herrington and family of Hilton, and Mr. and Mrs. Jo Prust.

On Friday last Mrs. Gerald Johnson entertained a few of her friends to afternoon tea.

The Emmanuel Church Bible Class held an afternoon tea and sale of work and home-cooking at the home of Miss Wilder, 62 Geier Street, yesterday. The tea table, with its handsome lace cloth, was beautifully decorated with a silver basket filled with marigolds and snapdragons, and silver candlesticks with red tapers. The living room was adorned with snapdragons and fern. Miss Wilder, who made an excellent hostess, received the guests' with Mrs. (Rev.) Forman. Mrs. Jackson presided over the fancy work table and Mrs. Ellis, the home cooking. Mrs. Bell, Sr., was treasurer for the dining room. Mrs. S. Pomeroy invited the guests to the tea room. Mrs. (Rev.) Marshall poured tea. Mrs. Pomeroy, Sr., and Mrs. Hallam served while Mrs. Cook replenished the table. Mrs. Holland, Mrs. McBrien and Miss Kilfedder assisted in the kitchen. Mrs. Powers capably rendered solos during the afternoon accompanied by Mrs. McBrien. Mrs. Jackson held the winning ticket for the result of meal donated by Mrs. Naylor. A very pleasant and successful afternoon was brought to a close with a vote of thanks to Miss Wilder.

Miss Audrey Garlepy was hostess at a dainty kitchen shower held at her home, Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. Chas. Wilkins (nee Eunice Smith), a recent bride. The evening was spent in playing euchre. The bride received many useful gifts for which she graciously thanked her friends. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Weddings

CARR—NELSON

Wooler, (Special)— At high noon on Tuesday, October 17th., a quiet wedding was solemnized at Wooler United Church parsonage, when Luella Callets, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nelson was united in marriage to Delbert Thyro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carr of Codrington. Rev. Mr. W. T. R. Dobbs officiated.

The bride wore a gray wool suit with green accessories she was attended by Miss Lulu Hazlewood of Orland, who was attired in a blue tailored suit with blue accessories. Mr. Everett Bryant supported the groom.

Amid the shower of rice and confetti the wedding party left for dinner at the Hotel Gilbert, after which they left by motor for Toronto and western points.

On their return they will reside in Brighton Township.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Married Men Live Longer

You'd know by his handwriting that he was no stranger to good times. His letter was witty, half humorous, half sad, as he inquired "is it true that married men live longer than bachelors?"

Handwriting, as you know, is very revealing. My correspondent's had such a headlong dash that you felt when he let himself in with a none-too-steady latch-key, the milkman was probably making his rounds. This young man—he indulged in a six-page typewritten confession to me—would probably have candles on his gladdome way taking up girls and dropping them like discarded toys, drinking more than human nature could stand, and not counting the cost where fun was concerned. But then his doctor threw a scare into him, told him his throat was in bad shape. The trouble hadn't reached his lungs yet, but he'd best to watch his step, and it might not be a bad idea if he settled down, stopped raising Cain and got married. The doctor told him that married men live longer than single ones. Apparently this life insurance dictum was a new one to my friend of the dashing hand writing.

Did married men really live longer?

I quoted some life insurance statistics that I happened to have at hand, and then said that it was a question in my mind whether a man who had "taken his fun where he found it" from the time he left high school had the makings of a desirable husband for a nice girl of 22. You see there was a nice girl in the—there seem to be millions of them willing to marry all sorts of undesirables.

This young man didn't seem to care particularly about this 32-year old. His matrimonial urge was prompted by the doctor telling him married men live longer than single ones. What the doctor intended to convey was that a home might prove to be some sort of anchor against his general roving.

To add to the doctor's suggestion, it seems to me that it would be a sensible thing for this young man to go to a dry climate—the Adirondacks, Arizona, or some such place—and concentrate on getting his health restored. And while he is breathing in the ozone, to go a little good hard thinking. He should make up his mind whether his idea of life is being a success or settling down, and he should, in all decency, give up the idea of marrying the 22-year-old or anyone else until his health is restored and he is positive that he intends to go domestic.

Married men live longer than single men because their wives take care of them. Even if their wives are not finished chefs, they prepare a meal every day, and there is that fruitful source of argument "please put on your rubbers," when it happens to be raining. Then a husband may regard his wifely request as a violation of his rights, but probably he does put them on, and thus avoids a cold, grippe, pneumonia.

Wives have a way of looking after their husbands the way they look after their children. A husband is probably the most troublesome child" of the whole bunch, but somehow or other he can manage to survive longer than the bachelors. On the whole, a normal man is healthier than single ones. Unless his wife is an utter slouch and cook—she is probably proud of her, and it goes without saying that there are no kids like his kids. Yes, it's better to marry——

Dr. Dafoe's Column on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Abnormal Weight, Loss Traced to Digestive Disease

A woman wrote me recently about her four-year-old boy who was "all of the fact that he ate well—had lost four pounds in a single day and more than that in a week. In my answer to her, advising her to call her doctor without delay, I suggested that her son might be suffering from coeliac disease.

This disease, more commonly called chronic intestinal indigestion, was an obscure affliction for many years; I feel sure that many cases passed through the hands of doctors without being properly diagnosed.

I suppose that this disease has been afflicting the human race for a good many hundreds of years but it wasn't until 1888 that it was discovered and tabulated. But although it was recognized half a century ago, medical science has made very little progress towards understanding the underlying causes of its development.

I haven't seen a great many cases of it, but I must confess that I haven't recognized a great many cases for, looking back with the greater knowledge I have today I feel that there may have been many children, more or less mildly affected, whose condition I never really understood.

Patients with the disease have healthy appetites, eat large quantities of food, but still remain underweight. For a long time this condition was a complete puzzle and then science discovered that it resulted because the system didn't digest fats. In fact, in many cases it won't digest carbohydrates either. So we have the anomaly of a child who eat plenty and still loses weight.

It naturally occurs that when fats and carbohydrates are not digested by the system they are excreted from the body with the waste material. Consequently the movements in these cases are large. Often this is the first symptom.

The stools vary. Often there is a severe diarrhoea present. At other times they will be almost normal in appearance. During these attacks of diarrhoea come abnormal changes in weight. The youngster may lose a tenth of his weight in a single day; as much as a third of his weight in a week.

Cases of coeliac disease are almost always underweight. They may be of normal height, but the majority of advanced cases are shorter than normal. Severe cases present an unusual picture. They will exhibit an abnormally distended abdomen. At the same time the buttocks will be greatly atrophied and shrunken. This combination presents a picture readily recognizable to one who has an acquaintance with the disease.

Anemia is often a companion to coeliac disease and so the afflicted children will be pale and unhealthy looking.

Demonstrator Displays Fine Arts Of Cooking Before Large Audiences

Miss Lata Small Prepares Many Fine, Appetising Dishes Which Are Cooked on Electric Ranges

MANY PRIZES

Concluding a two-day electric cooking school, sponsored by the Belleville Utilities Commission and under the auspices of the Women's Association of Bridge Street United Church, the third annual Utilities Commission cooking and baking school terminated in the church Sunday school rooms last evening before a capacity audience of Belleville housewives, who eagerly sought better cooking and baking conditions and recipes as introduced by Miss Lata Small, dietitian.

Both afternoon and evening sessions of the school were held on the final day featuring demonstrators in the afternoon and delicious and appetizing desserts and salads during the evening school. Mr. Everett Smith, chairman, representing Belleville Utilities, welcomed the ladies and assured them the school had been the largest in the history of the Utilities Commission efforts in bringing before the housewives of Belleville these schools in cooking by electricity since their inception three years ago.

Preparation Described in Detail

As Miss Small conducted her final sessions of the school in the cooking of oven dinners, meats and vegetables, she pointed out the exact ness needed in this type of cooked meals and continued to demonstrate her lessons as she explained each minute detail in the careful preparation of the ingredients, of numerous recipes introduced. During the evening, however, Miss Small demonstrated the making of desserts and salads more tempting and appealing, her skilful fingers mixed the ingredients used in pies, puddings and salads, and lastly the additional accessories of dressings and meringues, all of which were prepared upon the stage before the student-housewives. Advice was given the audience by Miss Small upon any question or problem that confronted the individual housewife in the matter of electric cooking or in the preparation of goodstuffs for cooking or baking purposes. In all instances Miss Small carefully explained and described each step in the preparation of all dishes prepartous to their being placed in the oven and while baking referred to the features of the Moffat electric ranges, which she used throughout.

Adding to the program last evening were two well-received solos by Mrs. Fred Houston with Mr. Hunt as accompanist, and also the determination of the school, Miss Tyy Dickens was presented with a gift, as a token of appreciation from the Bridge Street Church Women's Association committee for untiring efforts in making the school so interesting and successful. All dishes made and cooked by Miss Small, who was assisted throughout by Mrs. Margaret Griffin of this city, were on display to the audience and later drawn for by the members by members of the audience after the demonstration of the various cooking of new and appetizing home-cooked dishes.

Fashion Flashes

EVERYTHING NEW seems to be the good word concerning coats. A typical new model is by Mainbocher. It is a three-quarter coat with large black buttons on the front and on the gauntlet cuffs of the tight sleeves black astrakan makes the collar which becomes a gilet and tight sweater when a hostess takes off her coat.

Very important are the new dinner ensembles. A heavy satin brocade crepe skirt with gold thread is worn with a pink georgette blouse also shot with gold thread.

It seems that the evening glove is going to be an integral part of the formal costume this winter. A lovely glove, almost shoulder length, is pink suede trimmed with rows of fagotting that extend the full length of the glove.

Reports are happy that shoppers like the new stole coat. A lovely model is black cloth has a six-skin stone marten stole looped on the chest with one skin encroaching almost to the hem of the coat.

Get under a smart little position hat. A lovely model is in rich bebe velvet made with a moderately wide crown and a very thick curving brim. Grosgrain ribbon in cinnamon brown makes crown band and streamers.

Do This If You're NERVOUS

Don't take chances or products you know nothing about or rely on temporary relief when you suffer from nervousness. Remember this thousands of women have found Vegetable Compound, herbs especially for women, helps relieve nervousness.

Let Pinkham's Compound help build up your system. Pinkham's Compound is one of Pinkham's—Tweenies of women have used to relieve such nonexistent headaches. It MUST BE GOOD!

THESE delicious, crunchy All-Bran muffins will make a hit with everybody at the breakfast table. But they are more than just good food fast. . . they are a delightful way of getting added "bulk" most people need to keep "regular." Remember, the best way to treat constipation is never to let it happen! Usually it only takes about a cereal with milk, cream or fruit, or in muffins—and either as a cereal with milk, cream or fruit, or in muffins—and to drink plenty of water.

So get your family in the All-Bran muffin habit. There are so many varieties you can serve them every day in the week and not have the same kind twice.

Start with basic recipe. Do any of these right things for variety: 1. For BACON MUFFINS add ¼ cup chopped cooked, diced bacon to dry ingredients.

2. For NUT MUFFINS add ½ cup chopped nuts to dry ingredients.

3. For RAISIN MUFFINS add 2 tablespoons grated orange rind to dry ingredients.

4. For PRUNE MUFFINS add ½ cup chopped prunes to dry ingredients. (Soak dried prunes in water 1 hour or longer, drain, remove pits, cut small.)

5. For DATE MUFFINS use ½ cup sliced dates.

6. For FIG MUFFINS use ½ cup chopped figs.

7. For FRUIT MUFFINS use ½ cup fruit juice for moistness to creamed mixture, and ½ teaspoon ginger or 1 teaspoon cinnamon to dry ingredients.

8. For PEANUT BUTTER MUFFINS add 1 tablespoon peanut butter to creamed mixture.

THIS IS THE BASIC BRAN MUFFIN RECIPE:

1 tablespoon shortening	¾ cup milk
¼ cup sugar	1 egg, beaten
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran	1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 cup flour	½ teaspoon salt

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let stand 5 minutes. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add to first mixture; stir just enough to moisten. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake 25 minutes in moderately hot oven (400° F.) About twelve muffins (2½ inches in diameter).

Yield: 3 large muffins (3 inches in diameter) or 12 small muffins (2½ inches in diameter).

ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in London, Canada

B. C. I. Gridders Score 3-0 Victory Over Albert College In Close, Well Played Game

All Scoring in Game Confined to Last Half of the Contest

GOOD TACKLING

Fumbles When in Scoring Position Hurt Chances of Albert Squad

Belleville Collegiate Institute gridders made it two in succession over their Albert College rivals in the race for the senior Interscholastic C.O.S.S.A. Bay of Quinte group football honors when the "Collegiates" triumphed over the Alberts 3-0 before a stand of 600 gleeful students and graduates in the Pak Grounds yesterday. In a five-game schedule arranged, Coach Eddie Scherbert's B.C.I. have 3-5 and 3-0 decisions over Pete Beach's Albert College squad and need but one more group victory to clinch the Quinte senior Interscholastic crown.

Standing up to invincible defence again, major scoring threats, both squads turned in sterling efforts at blocking and tackling and player scorelines until late in the third quarter when the "Collegiates" gained a point through a rouge. A kick to the deadline and a last-second rouge gave the B.C.I. additional two points in the final quarter and a 3-0 victory. Each squad's work afforded hearty encouragement from the cheering sections of a packed grandstand.

Albert Minus Coach

The plucky Albert College squad minus the guidance of their coach, Pete Beach, who was suddenly called to his London home yesterday through the illness of his mother, repeatedly hurled the steamroller Collegiate attack back for losses, but on exchange of punts the Alberts lost consistently ground, as the C.I. Cats out-boot-ed Woolley, the courageous Albert punter, on several occasions. The initial quarter saw play nip-ver around the centre field with neither playing fine defensive ball. "Yank" McBride gladdened the Collegiate hearts when he cracked the Albert line to advance the ball to their 35-yard line, but Woolley successfully ran Clare's kick out of bounds. Hamilton carried the ball to Belleville's twenty, but an Albert fumble failed any possible scoring threat. Woolley and quarter "Fuzz" Thorne, who subsequently starred offensively for B. C. I. after the latter sustained an injury to his right knee and was forced to retire, muffled a perfect forward pass when in the clear but later made up for the matters as he and Clare ran the ball to the Albert 40-yard marker and end run, but Albert pushed the Collegians back and held. Woolley booted out to the danger and Bill McBride pivoted through for 7 yards to have Zufelt and Clare complete a "fles-flicker" for another 10-yard gain, but Albert broke through to smother an attempted B. C. I. placement at the half time gong and still there was no score.

Aerial Attacks Used

Belleville opened the second half with an aerial attack that failed to function as the Alberts were marking their checks tenaciously. Thorne and McBride advanced yards for B.C.I. and Clare kicked Woolley over the ball out, paving to Moulden, who fumbled, giving B.C.I. possession on Albert's own 25. Two plunges failed and Clare kicked to have Bill Pigden run through and nail Woolley for a rouge and the first point of the game. Early in the third quarter Albert intercepted a B.C.I. forward pass, but was set back in position to advance further. Clare raced through to pick up his own punt and seemed headed for a touchdown when Loughead, the Albert safety man, hailed him down. Crush deep in Albert's zone. On the last play Woolley, Thorne and Stewart crashed through to rouge Woolley at the final gong.

Both squads showed improved line play yesterday over their last meeting. Eddie Schrieder's line demonstrated its power with steadily tackling along the line. Loughead carried the brunt of Albert's, secondary defence being assisted by Moulden. Woolley's running back, B.C.I. punts were spectacular. Ross Clare carried much of the Collegiate attack, with Bill "Phantom" McBride showing some sensational broken field running. The B.C.I. held splendidly, headed by Zufelt, Stewart, Cavanaugh and Watson.

16 Forwards Tried

During the game Belleville attempted eleven forward passes and completed only one, while Albert College tried five through the air, but failed to click on a single toss. The line-ups:

Belleville Collegiate — Fullbacks B. McBride, Farquharson; halfbacks, S. McBride, Clare; quarter, Pigden; snap, Zufelt; flying wing, Stewart, sharpe; middles, Cavanaugh, Mulholland; outsides, Warren, Watson; inside wings, Sword, Runnett, Hunter, Tripp, Crook, Hart, O'Connor, Goodrich, Gardner, McCormick, Cearly and Pickering.

Albert College—Fullbacks, Latimer, Couch; halfbacks, Woolley, Loughead; quarter, Moulden; snap, Partridge; inside, Hagyard, Downing; middles, Sumner, Chamberlain; outsides, Brown, Hughes; alternates, Instance, Mahaffy, Brewer, Manning Orr, Hawkinson, Shields and Kipp.

Referee—Arthur Gale, Belleville. Umpire—H. Weaver, Albert College.

Young May Quit Rather Than Take Trip to Minors

Detroit, Oct. 18—(CP)—Whether the playing days of Doug Young are ended or not is uncertain today as the long-time defence star of the Detroit Red Wings pondered a demotion to Pittsburgh Hornets.

Young said he has not decided whether to play another season in the International American Hockey League circuit or retire and keep his job with a Detroit automobile manufacturer. Both Eddie Jeremiah, Hornets' hockey League and now manager of the Detroit club, and Jack Adams have reached on whether he would play with the Hornets.

"I don't like to be decided shock to me, for I was sure I had another good season in the N. H. L. in me," Young said. "I reported this season in the best condition of my career."

No Deals Anticipated

Manager Jack Adams of the Wings said today he does not expect Young will be sold before or at least. Hockey circles here have heard Adams is trying to sell Marty Downie.

Possibly more of the stars may be brought National Hockey League championships to Detroit in 1934-35 and 1935-36 will be sold before the season is very old. Modern Brunetean, who broke up big-time hockey in this game on March 24, 1936, is no longer a speed merchant. Bruneteau, Kilrea and Wilson was the only one scored when Detroit and the Montreal Maroons battled for nearly six hours. He was out last year with injuries and may be sold. The Wings have three other players, Carr, Jim Juan days of champion ship teams.

Sports Editors Have Important Role

Detroit, Oct. 19—(CP)—Sports editors are chief cogs and cogs in United States newspapers in cities with National Hockey League clubs will have an important role in determining wage scales earned this season by members of the Detroit Red Wings.

Contract signing is under way today at the Wings headquarters on Cass Avenue and the first contracts is a provision for a bonus if the players land a prominent position in the All-Star Team as polled conducted by The Canadian Press.

Manager Jack Adams said signing of players is proceeding smoothly with nearly every player signed up. fix anticipated no holdouts.

In recent years only the cream of the amateur crop—like Syl Apps of the Leafs in 1936—have been signed up by the NHL. Without minor league brushing-up, Apps jumped from senior hockey to the Leafs.

Confident About Taylor

But Manager Conny Smythe of the Leafs is confident Taylor has the goods, despite the fact he weighs only slightly more than 150 pounds and hasn't been put to much of a test yet. Others bear him out and Foster Patrick of New York Rangers said last spring that Taylor was the best junior player he had seen in years.

Billy the Kid was scoring goals in large clusters at the time as his Oshawa Generals were defeating Edmonton Roamers in the Memorial Cup finals at Toronto.

"There have been good little men in the game before," Smythe said as he watched Taylor look after himself in training camp. "Taylor has a pretty shift, as pretty as you'll see, but there aren't many centres in the N.H.L. who can lay down a pass as well as he."

Has Much to Learn

Taylor was slated for delivery to the Leafs away back when he used to be mascot for the team and carry the players' sticks. Smythe watched over him while he was groomed to become the sensation of junior hockey last season. Now he's 20.

Coach Dick Irvin of the Leafs admits Taylor has much to learn. "He's got to adapt himself to a slightly different style of shifting. Defence players are not hot to pick up scores of other little angles," Irvin said.

"But Billy has experienced wingmen beside him and he'll pick up things fast. He won't make the same mistakes over and over again because he's a natural."

MUCH TO LEARN

Coach Irvin Says Experienced Wingmen Will be Used to Help Player

(By Jack Calder, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

St. Catharine, Ont., Oct. 19—(CP)—Young Billy Taylor, to all intents, is casting spectators look about to make the steep jump from junior hockey to Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, with no stops.

This hasn't happened to a Toronto player since Regis (Pepe) Kelly scaled the heights from St. Michael's College to the Leafs in 1937. Before that Charlie Conacher and Harvey Jackson made suspicious noises. Toronto Maplegroods to the pro team, to become members of the famous "kid line" with Joe Primeau.

In recent years only the cream of the amateur crop—like Syl Apps of the Leafs in 1936—have been signed up by the NHL. Without minor league brushing-up, Apps jumped from senior hockey to the Leafs.

Has Much to Learn

Taylor was slated for delivery to the Leafs away back when he used to be mascot for the team and carry the players' sticks. Smythe watched over him while he was groomed to become the sensation of junior hockey last season. Now he's 20.

Coach Dick Irvin of the Leafs admits Taylor has much to learn. "He's got to adapt himself to a slightly different style of shifting. Defence players are not hot to pick up scores of other little angles," Irvin said.

"But Billy has experienced wingmen beside him and he'll pick up things fast. He won't make the same mistakes over and over again because he's a natural."

ARMSTRONG TO RETIRE IN YEAR

Hammering Henry Will Turn His Attention to Writing Poetry

By GAIL FOWLER

Associated Press Staff Writer

Seattle, Oct. 19—(AP)—Homicide Henry Armstrong, the busy little negro welterweight champion who was Pre-War champion of the World, High School 10 years ago, hopes to hang up his gloves in one more year.

Then he'll retire to a life of beating out rhythm on the keys of a typewriter on somebody's ribs. He wants to write, both poetry and prose, and he's already a bonfire ardent. A mitt-slinger turned minstrel.

"I figure in one more year I'll have enough money to bring me security," the social security," he grinned. "Then I'm going to quit. I've been thinking a lot for writing, what with all this fighting, and I'm going to have a little time of time for it."

And Henry has had plenty of fighting. The thick-chested, spindly-legged little pugilist estimates he's fought 280 times in the last 10 years. He's 26 now, and started fighting at 16. He's here to defend his crown in a 15-rounder tomorrow night against Richie Pontello of Missoula, Mont.

Tuesday his manager, Eddie Mead, announced Henry would scrap Celerino Garcia, two-state eliminator, in the middleweight division for another one in Miami.

"Columbus?"

Chuckled Mr. Picobac

● "When Columbus discovered America he discovered tobacco", observed Mr. H. K. Charters, principal of the High School of Commerce, Essex Centre.

Mr. Charters helped himself to fragrant pipeful of tobacco from Mr. Picobac's friendly extended pouch.

"Columbus?" chuckled Mr. Picobac, proceeding to fill his own capacious straight-stemmed briar, "Columbus didn't discover it all. Columbus never got up this far. If he'd ever discovered the kind of Burley we grow up here in Sunny Southern Ontario, he'd have found something to write home about. What do you say, Professor?"

"Absolutely", replied Mr. Charters.

"It DOES taste good in a pipe!"

SENIOR TEAMS FAIL TO AGREE

Tentative Schedule Not Accepted at Meeting Held Wednesday

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 19—(CP)—Representatives of the six clubs in the Senior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association failed to agree at a meeting last night to a tentative schedule drawn up by W. A. Hewitt of Toronto, O.H.A. Secretary. It was decided to have club representatives meet Hewitt individually in an effort to reach agreement.

Delegates representing clubs in Toronto, Hamilton, Galt, Niagara Falls, Port Colborne and St. Catharines, approved a 30-game schedule, 15 at home and 15 away. It also was agreed that the first four teams in the standing at the end of the schedule would play off.

First and third-place teams and second and fourth-place clubs will meet on a total-goal basis with the survivors clashing in a best-of-three series for the league championship won by Toronto Goodyears last season.

Hewitt said a winner must be declared by March 15 in order to meet the winner of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association championship in the Canadian playdowns.

Swimming Lessons

Swimming lessons for children will be given at the Belleville Collegiate Institute pool, commencing Monday, October 23rd, at 4 p.m. Parents are requested to register their children at the pool on Monday, October 23rd, at 4 p.m.

Wrestling Last Night

Horse Racing Dead in Texas but Breeding Carry on Traditions of Track

TRAIN YOUNGSTERS

Each Day Finds Owners Out on Track Watching Babies Do Their Stuff

(By Felix R. McKnight Associated Press Staff Writer).

Arlington Downs, Tex., Oct. 19—(AP)—Dawn's first splash lights a $3,000,000 playground, straight alley with the clatter of hoofs and the clicking of stop watches.

Yearlings break past gloomy grandstands and a swank clubhouse locked in dark.

Horse racing is dead in Texas—voted out by the people—but the sport still breathes. The monument that the late Col. R. E. Wagnone erected—Arlington Downs—is still a haven for horse lovers.

Daily the long paintings, future greats of the American track, sprint around the track for an audience of colored exercise boys, trainers and owners. A small group of patrons has settled around Arlington Downs to breed thoroughbreds, to "raise babies."

The youngsters soon will make racing history. Each is nominated all over the country. Training comes one at a time, recorded by the most noble of horsefish—The Fighter, Top Row, Roman Soldier, Time Supply, Happy Limited, Heelfly, Bay Bubble.

The track is still good, although the infield, the vast parking space between grandstand and track, are the big red stands are slightly on the unkempt side.

HEADLOCKS USED TO WIN MATCHES

Strangler Korrie of England Held Title of That Country for Three Years

Making his initial wrestling appearance in Ontario, Ed "Strangler" Korrie, former British Empire heavyweight wrestling champion, meets Joe Maich, former Canadian champion, in a two-year-old championship match in the main bout of a wrestling card at the Hume Arena on Friday night. Coming to the American shores to display his wrestling wares, Korrie, who hails from Stockport, England, has been undefeated in all encounters. Korrie today finds himself matched against one of the most unbeaten grappling fans three weeks ago when he wrestled a four hour match with Ernie Sable, but the little Columbus ring adonis and Sable finally came through against the Masked Marvel.

In the semi-final of the show Pedro Valdez, conqueror of Tiger Daniels and who has been training with Ernie Sable, the 170-pound Italian lad. Both of these boys won their bouts last week and meet Friday night as undefeated contestants in a Belleville ring.

The preliminary should see some fast, scientific wrestling in a 30-minute limit bout between Young Griffins, Niagara Falls, and a new-comer to Belleville wrestling circles, Allen Buthenham, of Belleville.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia—Al Netlow, 144, Detroit, outpointed Frankie Del Genio, 143, New York (10).

New York—Frankie Bruno, 181, Brooklyn, outpointed Babe Orgaran, 181, Houston, Tex. (8).

Scranton, Pa.—Billy Soose, 160, Pittsburgh, stopped Jack Munley, 160, Scranton (3).

St. Louis—Ken Overlin, 164 3-4, New York, outpointed Lee Savold, 154 1-2, St. Louis.

Memphis, Tenn., "Wild Bill" McDowell, 159, Texas, outpointed Steve Wilkerson, 156, Memphis, (6).

Oakland, Calif.—Harold Blackshear, 160, Oakland, outpointed Al Delaney, Windsor, Ont., (6).

Providence, R. I.—Albert Mancini, 122, Providence, stopped Tony Testa, 124 1-2, Woonsocket, R. I. (6).

Sid Luckman, who arrives tomorrow with the Chicago Bears, will go up to Columbia and give his ex-playmates a pep talk for the championship game. Tony Galento, just back from a vacation in the mountains, leaves in a day or so for another one in Miami.

Frank Peat, Star McDonald and Pete Card will line-up to Buffalo Bill at the net. The local "fire-fighting" team has the habit of rising when facing fire and smoke, but to issue a challenge to the entire Dominion is a bit small. Guess they're willing to back up their convictions, whether it be fire-fighting or volleyball. Here's the challenge, taken:

Ottawa, California, to scientific Niagara Falls grappler who became quite popular with local wrestling fans at the Hume arena three weeks ago, returns Friday night when he tangles with Buthenham, a new-comer to the professional ranks. Buthenham, from Hamilton, Ont. These lads clash in the preliminary bout of a three-bout card. Leading wrestlers are classed as scientific grapplers, so there will be none of this rough and tumble acrobatic stuff which has been prevalent in being guaranteed. Belleville wrestling fans appreciate straight wrestling and have been given their continued applause when they see two clean grapplers show their trade in the squared circle. Pedro Valdez, Italian lad, Pedro Valdez, the Mexican, who beat Tiger Daniels last week versus Ernie Sable, Belleville ring favorite, in a return match. Sable, by the way, is back champ, in the mak ge.

Johnny Kilpatrick, Des Moines heavyweight boxer, who looms as a possible world's challenger, said recently; "I think it's possible for someone to beat Louis. If I were to do it, I'd probably be cautious in the early rounds, at least. There's no percentage in swapping punches with the greatest hitter in the game. I'd keep circling and drawing Louis from him, trying to make him miss. He doesn't look so fast when he misses with a lot of balance. A boxer who can make him miss and then counters with sharp punches can bother him plenty, I believe." Kilpatrick would like to meet Tony Galento and before he will be ready for Louis by next summer.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it soon the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. 019-2t

Ross Hoping This Combination Will Become Permanent One

Hershey, Pa., Oct. 19—(AP)—Captain Dit Clapper of Boston Bruins and Jack Portland were today back in uniform for a workout scrimmage and Manager Art Ross hopes that the combination would become a permanent one.

Clapper teamed with Portland with Eddie Shore last season. Crawford will play with either Flash Hollet or Jack Shewchuck until Shore returns. Ross for home-game service on Dec. 15.

In order to assure his amateur prospects a thorough tryout, Ross had ordered Crawford, Shewchuck and his famous "Kraut" line of Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart to play with the Hershey Bars for the remainder of the week's scrimmages.

How can the Cincinnati red brass hats be sitting up nights brewing deals, as reported) with Pittsburgh Pirates? Ask Canada? Syracuse must mean business—they sent three regulars to the hospital yesterday just practicing for puks.

We should hope not. When Bucky Walters, who won 27 games for the Reds, was voted the most valuable player in the league, the Cincy club had noted: No other converted third baseman ever had such a pitching season."

HENRY JANARAS U. S. FOOTBALLER JOINS TRICOLOR

Former Notre Dame Star is Slick Thrower of Forward Passes

READY FOR VARSITY

McGill Plays in London but Mustangs Favored to Win

(By The Canadian Press)

The arm of a newcomer may prove strong enough to snap the string of consecutive football losses compiled by Queen's University, now in its second winless season in the Intercollegiate Union.

Making his first appearance at a Tricolor practice last night was Henry Janaras. Nothing could be learned about his future status with the squad and he was apparently out of condition. But the eligibility form showed Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind. as his last football team.

Two, there was the evidence of his bullet-like forward passes to prove Janaras knows how to throw a football straight as a die into receivers' arms during the heavy drill in preparation for the game with University of Toronto Saturday.

If Janaras appears in a Tricolor sweater Saturday, he'll learn something of Canadian football passing and its defence. For the Varsity squad is coached by Warren Stevens, first of the United States "imports" and its passer is Jack Flanton, who is proving a worthy pupil of Stevens.

Second Redmen Workout

The other two Intercollegiate squads polished up meanwhile for their scheduled clash at London, Saturday.

With Howie Bartram, heavy lineman, and halfback Perry Foster back in action, McGill Redmen went through a heavy scrimmage session at Molson Stadium. University of Western Ontario Mustangs worked on improving their already potent attack.

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union, the league-leading Montreal Westmounts held a lengthy session of downfield tackling in preparation for their game with Sarnia Imperials. The Imps will wind up training today, leaving for Montreal tomorrow.

In the other Montreal Club, Royals of the Interprovincial Union, had only two absentees from their strong lineage. Herb Weitman and Jim Hamilton rested injuries on the sidelines. Royals play Hamilton this weekend with Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders meeting in the other tilt.

Champion Pacer Lowers Own Mark

Albany, N.Y., Oct. 19 — (AP) — Dan Dennis, world's speediest pacer, dressed around the Fair Grounds track yesterday to clip a quarter of a second from his own world's record for the mile on a half-mile track.

The pacer, owned by Dan McCarville, Adamsville, N.Y. and Pat Downey, Worcester, Mass., went the mile in 1:59 2-4 to eclipse the week-old record of 2 minutes flat, which he set on the same track Columbus Day.

Driven by William Fleming, of Dundas, Ont., the bay horse went the first quarter in 30 seconds, reached the half mile in 1 minute flat, stepped up for a 30 1-4 third quarter and came home in 29 1-2 for the record.

KALLIO EXPRESSES HOPE RUSSIA WILL SOFTEN DEMANDS

Finnish President Broadcasts Appeal at End of Scandinavian Conference

MONARCHS ALSO SPEAK

Stockholm, Sweden, Oct 19 (AP)—President Kyosti Kallio of Finland, in a broadcast marking the end of a two-day conference with the kings of Sweden, Norway and Denmark, today expressed the hope Russia would refrain from making demands which are "incompatible" to Finland.

"A powerful neighbor (Russia) has pursued for ablution questions of a very serious character, and Finland feels grateful for the diplomatic means rendered possible by its this connection," President Kallio said.

"I trust that God will hold His fighting hand over their dearly loving people," Finland and hope that our neighbor in its — will reopen our liberty and freedom and refrain from making demands which are incompatible."

Similarity of Policies.

King Gustaf of Sweden, in speaking of the results of the conference, told the radio audience of the neighboring countries:

"The meeting has confirmed the similarity of the policies of the three Nordic countries. We will cooperate to live as free nations, safeguard our rights and establish peace.

"We have again ascertained our common interests, and King Christian of Denmark in comparing the conference with the Malmoe meeting of 1914 (of the kings of Sweden and Denmark) expressed their common political policies.

King Haakon of Norway, the last to speak, declared: "We have declared our determination, both spiritual and material, and believe our cooperation to be a strong one from basis so we can look forward to the future with hope we will meet the difficulties."

A hint of new developments came late in the day when it was announced a communique on the conference and the subsequent meeting in the afternoon would be delayed until evening to make certain there was no chance that exists until we have a settled line of the enemy advancing you as a prisoner."

Some time back for a compromise settlement effected and the Prince went to France as an Aide-de-Camp to Sir John French in charge of the cavalry of War, put an absolute veto on the idea.

When the Prince argued he was one of four sons and that the succession would perfectly safe whatever might happen, Lord Kitchener replied that he was certain that should he shot, I don't know if I should be right to restrain you. But I should be wrong to run the chance that exists until we have a settled line of the enemy advancing you as a prisoner."

Duke of Windsor and Brother Visit Troops in Front Line

The Duke, the Duke of Gloucester and Viscount Gort Inspect Defences

With the British Expeditionary Force in France, Oct. 19 (CP)—(Cable)—British troops who yesterday received a surprise call from H.R.H. Duke of Windsor in the sector they have just taken over from the commonwealth the visit by naming one important communication trench "Windsor Way."

The visit of the former monarch, accompanied by his brother, the Duke of Gloucester, and the Commander- in -Chief, Viscount Gort, came as a big surprise to the Tommies. They were busy rushing up breastworks to protect trenches against rain when the party of officers arrived to inspect their work. It was some time before the spade-wielders recognized their distinguished visitor.

The Duke of Windsor smiled at their efforts to improve their quarters, put the men at ease. He moved among the mud-covered soldiers and chatted with some of them. The Royal brothers then went inside one of the pill boxes overlooking the sector of the British line. They inspected it closely, asking several questions regarding its armaments and its power of resistance to shell fire.

The Duke of Windsor was in high spirits as he emerged from the pill box and for some time engaged in animated conversation with Viscount Gort before the party left. Later the Duke, took a similar visit to the sector of Britain's crack regiments, which recently took the uniform of a new station.

Efforts to Last War Recalled

The visit recalls the Duke's determined efforts to obtain permission to go to the front in the last war when he was the Prince of Wales. His request, as Secretary of War, put an absolute veto on the idea.

When the Prince argued he was one of four sons and that the succession would perfectly safe whatever might happen, Lord Kitchener replied that he was certain that should he shot, I don't know if I should be right to restrain you. But I should be wrong to run the chance that exists until we have a settled line of the enemy advancing you as a prisoner."

PLEADS GUILTY TO THEFT CHARGE

Man Who Defrauds Bell Telephone Company is Fined $25 and Costs

"This type of crime is the lowest degree of theft known to crime. Even pickpockets take a chance of apprehension, but here is a man who steals by remote control," thundered Crown Attorney R. C. Duncan, K.C., while prosecuting charge against Norman Camer, of Boston, who appeared in Police Court this morning before Mr. W. Butler, K.C., charged with theft from the Bell Telephone Company. Camer was convicted upon his own plea and fined $25.00 and costs, amounting to $27.85 in all.

Camer was arrested in a local restaurant on Monday night after having been apprehended by police and Bell Telephone officials in the act of depositing washers into a pay telephone box in payment for the use of the telephone call. The attempt to defraud the company was discovered by the use of a test phone operate at the time, while the apprehension of Camer was witnessed by Mr. Fred Hamilton of Mr. G. W. Proctor, manager of the local exchange, Mr. Bell Telephone Company and P. C. Wright, who secluded themselves while observing Camer use the telephone booth. The accused man pleaded guilty before Magistrate Goodman.

Crown Attorney Donnan asked for a severe and lengthy prison term as he termed this type of theft the lowest in the calendar of criminals, "I know he has persons depending upon him for a livelihood, but this is not a case for sympathy," declared Mr. Donnan. "Camer has been living a dissipated life and spent the court towards the end of his trial. He certainly hasn't first offence. His worship levied the heavy fine in lieu of a prison sentence.

Convener of the campaign, Wallace, Norma Dempsey, Gracia Foster, Barbara Foster, Kenrick Couch who was assisted by Captains Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Fred McClung, Mrs. T. Burden, Mrs R. Y. Wemyss, and Mrs. C. Saylor were in charge of the tea-room.

During the week-end Herb Mitchell of Hastings, who will now drills the Hershey Bears of Hershey was seen in town visiting friends of his old days before leaving for Pennsylvania's Chocolate town, the Bears have been training this year. Coach Mitchell took fifteen new prospects with him.

Albert College Defeated

Trenton's High School six man rugby squad is the team that needs no introduction to Quinte circles this season. The foregoing statement is based on the fact that they defeated Albert College here Monday. The local won easily 24-6 and were never in difficulty beyond the first fifteen minutes of play. Bill Latimer Albert's great ball carrier was the bone of the homsters something to worry over however, when he galloped over twenty-five yards through a spray of tacklers to score a touch and knot the count at 6-all. Trenton's team performed a similar feat some minutes previous to give Trenton a 12-6 point advantage. The Collegemen's sudden surge apparently inspired the Trenton six for they were on the power and pushed the visitors far back into their own end and the whistle ended play with them for most of the remaining plays. Quarterback Ross Weller, a field general if there ever was one, played the key role of Trenton when he scored the winning point from the local five up in front for the first time. Not satisfied with their lead the Trenton huskies continued to press their faltering rivals.

f Western 19; McGill 0.

When Albert College failed to show up on Friday last two interform teams named Western and McGill performed for the spectators who had assembled to see the big match. Both teams were well matched although the boys of Western had a slight edge on the play. With the fifteen seconds to the Conn Chet Sheppard carried the ball across the McGill line for the only score of the game. The final outcome was Western 19, McGill 0.

'DANGEROUS DAN' McGREW NO MYTH

Klondike Mike Mahoney Says He Was in Saloon When Dan Was "Pumped Full of Lead"

New York, Oct. 19 (CP)—A bunch of the boys were whooping it up in a smoky hotel room here today when Klondike Mike Mahoney told of the shooting of Dan McGrew.

There are some gold-rush men of '98 who hold that "Dangerous Dan" was a myth. But Mike, who drifted into Alaska from Boston, is living out with his fortune in '14, says he knows different.

As a matter of fact, Mike told his audience he was at the bar of Dominion Saloon in Dawson City, standing shoulder to shoulder with Robert W. Service's famous night "Dangerous Dan" got pumped full of lead.

Klondike Mike said Service took considerable poetic license with the scene of death" in the poem that immortalized the scene. For instance, said the old sourdough, it was the Dominion and not the Eldorado Saloon, as Service said. And the fellow who used the alias of Dan McGrew was not "Jack of his bar in a solo game." Rather he was sitting on a platform reserved for "hostess" at a faro game.

A Blighted Romance

A chilly October wind whistling outdoors took on a dismal moan as Mike told his story of the shooting of Dan McGrew and the events leading up to it.

"There was a mining engineer named Madden who was a married man," Mike said. "He had married a beautiful girl and got her up to the Yukon from somewhere in the south. The account man pleaded with Madden to send for Mrs. Goodman.

Crown Attorney Donnan asked for a severe and lengthy prison term as he termed this type of theft the lowest in the calendar of criminals, "I know he has persons depending upon him for a livelihood, but this is not a case for sympathy," declared Mr. Donnan. "Camer has been living a dissipated life and spent the court towards the end of his trial. He certainly hasn't first offence. His worship levied the heavy fine in lieu of a prison sentence.

TURKEY CANNOT

Full Text to be Given

The full text of the treaty will be made available to members of parliament today, the British Berlain said.

The Prime Minister, as he announced the signing, looked around the House of Commons as if expecting to repress.

The House responded with cheers. Applause on the terms of the treaty was reached some three weeks ago, but publication was postponed with the approval of the French government and of the Turkish government that a visit of the Turkish minister of foreign affairs to Moscow might result in the conclusion between Turkey and Russia of a pact of mutual assistance.

Foundation of Friendship

Both the tripartite agreement signed in Moscow by Sukru Saracoglu, Turkish foreign minister, and has been temporarily suspended as the Turkish government felt certain of the proposals which were made to them could not be reconciled with the pact which had already been agreed between Turkey and Britain and France on the other.

"Nevertheless," he added, "it has been arranged between Turkey, France and Ankara that Turkey's relations with the Soviet government should continue as in the past to rest on a solid foundation of friendship."

Noting that the treaty is valid "for a minimum period of 15 years" Mr. Chamberlain said "it is therefore no temporary arrangement to meet a passing situation but rather a solid testimony of the determination of the two governments concerned to pursue a long term policy of collaboration."

General Terms Known

General terms of the pacts were known some time before the Prime Minister made his House of Commons announcement.

Action on the treaty, following the suspension of negotiations in Moscow between Turkey and Soviet Russia, collided with the pressure by Ankara of two allied generals, General Maxime Weygand and Lieut.-General Sir Archibald Wavell.

Natural Sequel

Informed British sources said the Generals were invited to Ankara to proceed to previous discussions with the three countries on military plans for the eastern Mediterranean region where Turkey occupies a strategic position.

British circles indicated the mutual assistance treaty would be regarded by Britain as good "insurance" against extension of German influence in southeastern Europe.

Prime Minister Hitler's war said, would not preclude her from resuming negotiations with Russia. At some future time, possibly on a basis other than that upon which the current Turkish-Russian talks were snagged.

In some quarters it was regarded as a Nazi failure to isolate Turkey from Britain, the Dardanelles, from the British and French front and as an event that might prove decisive in the war.

Although these sources considered it also a defeat for the Soviet Union, they contended the prospects of continued friendliness between Turkey and Russia with what they interpreted as a signs of a cooling off in relations between Germany and Turkey.

Germany's ambassador to Turkey, Franz Von Papen, was described in the press as having brought intense pressure on Turkey to win from the western provinces.

Herr Papen's departure from Ankara for Berlin yesterday, on what he said to be a report of impressions from his government, was reported prominently by the press in Russia this morning as a setback to Germany

In some circles quarters it was suggested that Russia, merely by her action in breaking off negotiations may have made last minute demands necessary to abandon Britain and France.

Reuters News Agency said, "Complete agreement has been reached that French-Turkish and British-Turkish mutual assistance pacts will be signed simultaneously."

Proposed Agreements

The signing of agreements to put into operation military and economic cooperation, Reuters reported already initialled.

They will include, and eventually a baby came along.

"Madden was often away from home on business. The girl, being alone more than a young wife should be, fell in love with one of the men who was known as Dan McGrew and a child was born of her, a bird might be fascinated by a snake. Madden, who was away a short time later the baby died.

"Well Dan and the lady that came to be known as Mrs. McGrew in Dawson. He was a killer and carried two guns in his belt. Madden began a quarrel with Dan and finally came that night in the Dominion Saloon.

Pianist Returns

"Later Lou said she became suspicious when the pianist stopped in and sat at the piano for, as Madden said, 'only God and Dan man could play.' Lou also said Dan love for Madden's wife when he whisked over the ivories. She proved it by throwing herself in front of him thinking Madden wouldn't shoot for fear of hitting her.

"But McGrew did shoot at the same time as Madden and the shot got two bullets through her neck the men riddled each other pretty."

Mike said that as late as 1926 he took Mrs. McGrew's daughter as Lou was living in Prince Rupert, B.C.

1. Automatic mutual assistance in the event of aggression by a European power.

2. Turkish assistance in the event of aggression by a European power upon to fulfil their guarantees to Rumania and Greece.

3. Diplomatic consultations on Balkan questions.

Reuters added that France are pledged to help Rumania and Greece under their guarantees.

Reports that the Turkish Foreign Minister, Sukru Saracoglu, had left Moscow and demanded that Turkey abandon the western powers brought a chorus of cheers in the House of Commons.

Given your admission to a people that staunchly keep their word and honor their signature," commented the Hon. Henry Channon, "Rejoice that We have the good will of men who can stand firm in these times."

"This is a triumph for Britain, for Turkey and for Chamberlain," The Daily Mail commented.

"It is a wide and solid basis of international obligations has become a thing of some rarity, Turkey is to be warmly felicitated on the consummation."

The newspaper added that Turkey, "while unable to comply with the Soviet wish, has maintained her friendship with the U.S.S.R. and it is in Britain's interest as well as Turkey's that friendship should continue."

Some Disappointment

Berlin, Oct. 19 (AP)—German sources today expressed belief that the Turkish government will not be influenced by international interests lies in establishing the best of relations with Soviet Russia.

These sources pointed out that the world over termination of the Russo-Turkish negotiations for a non-aggression pact would be a disappointment to Germany, considered the efforts of Foreign Minister Saracoglu to form his government he was coming to Berlin to report personally to Chancellor Hitler on this "important visit," the sources said, came from Turkey alone. He left Ankara yesterday.

brick chimney, which had been left standing after the fire, crashed to the ground and in complete ruins. Everything in the home was destroyed by the fire, except the left standing. This morning Mr. and Mrs. Simmons were busily looking at what once had been their life-time home and were awaiting the arrival of their insurance adjuster when it is believed the standing chimney collapsed without warning. In the morning's heavy winds and "spitpled over, without warning, upon the unconscious Mrs. Simmons and Mr. Simmons was standing a few feet away when the collapse occurred. Mrs. Simmons courageously made her way to neighboring farms who notified Dr. Walsh and assisted in the excavating of Mr. Simmons' body from the debris. Mrs. Simmons was found beneath a pile of brick and debris, that had once been a chimney.

Sir Kingsley Wood Pays Whirlwind Visit to 'Fighting Forces'

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

With the British Expeditionary Force, Oct. 19 (AP)—Sir Kingsley Wood paid a whirlwind visit to squadrons of his "fighting force" today and inspected pilots of planes who had flown over Germany, and told them personally how he had found their "cheerfulness, good spirits and belief in the cause for which they are fighting."

Sir Kingsley's car was halted at the entrance to the aerodrome and an air raid warning as he was driving to the mess.

The minister, who has a reputation for never being flustered, discovered a lot of ground. He received the guard of honor in full dress out of a sense of humor, and then astonished a staid farmer's wife by driving up to the farm house to inquire about billets.

The 200-pound farmer's wife said the "Minister Anglais" had told her to take good care of the boys.

He dashed about the airdrome, looked over reconnaissance planes, refused dispute and air-raid warning guns. He chuckled over a slogan he chalked up in a dugout which told the press was "naughty but pregnant."

At another airdrome which was sheltered in heavy mist, the minister looked over some big bombers and talked to men who flew them. He shook hands, laughed and chatted, and patted big awkward youngsters on the back.

Coronation Ball Special

The part of the Lindbergh speech was regretted by Walter Lippmann and Dorothy Thompson, New York Herald Tribune today on the score that it could be misunderstood elsewhere in the world as a manifestation of American imperialism.

Mr. Lippmann spread of such imperialist ideas in this country and said: "Our continent is the home of our neighbors," he said, "it is necessary now to defend it against force and sound and responsible opinion."

Dorothy Thompson, in her column in the same publication, said Lindbergh's broadcast was the fact that he spoke "as a popular American as popularize the geo-political and organic-biological ideas of Professor Karl Haushofer, president of the German Academy "and chief theoretician of the Munich and National Nazi Germany.

Eleanor Roosevelt, the President's wife, in her newspaper column called attention to Miss Thompson's comment and said Mrs. Roosevelt said: "Lindbergh's speech is sympathy with Nazi ideas and that I thought existed but could not bring myself to believe that it was true."

The Nation, magazine of comment, told Lindbergh his statements "Nazi ideas were "pernicious and insulting".

Lippmann Sees a Great Canada.

Lippmann asked his readers to recognize that whatever may result either war "Canada" is destined to become a great, interior stronghold of the English speech and the English way of life. He said that the reason for his thought was that "since the United States is not organized and able to attack by sea and by air, since Canada has grown in industrial maturity, Canada will become certainly be developed as a vital strategic base of the British power."

He added that such speeches as Lindbergh's present "a dangerously bad atmosphere for the discussion of the great problem which is now arising between Canada and the United States are becoming so much more obvious to neighbors than they have ever been before."

AT THE McCARTHY

"U-BOAT 29"

England's 1939 war movie hit, the first picture based on the present war to be shown in Belleville is "U-Boat 29", which is now playing at the McCarthy Theatre. Based on true headlines that tell of Germany's submarine warfare, with the torpedoing of neutral merchant vessels, and often too, to the submarine crews, seem more real than the viewing the picture.

Conrad Veidt plays the part of the commander of the German U-Boat. His mission is to destroy 15 British warships with the aid of a German woman spy and a British naval officer who is believed to be in the pay of the enemy. The German U-Boat is destroyed finally by a depth charge from a British destroyer and the British officer turns out to be a clever intelligence man.

Part of the price that the German spies are paying for Hitler's war is illustrated in the early reels of the picture. Both are shot at sea, on a diet of sardines, the German officers eat. The hotel at the Kiel naval base looking forward to a real meal. The waiter informs them that it is a vegetarian day that there are no potatoes and no meat.

"We have margarine tomorrow—perhaps," he adds.

Besides the German commandants on British soil and task, Veidt has to fight for Hitler's war mark: "These English are a long-winded people," he contemptionally well done.

Supporting Veidt in the film on the marine are interesting and the picture holds the attention throughout.

"U-Boat 29", was directed by Lothar Mendell who directed "Clouds Over Europe."

5 BODIES FOUND AS CAR IS RAISED

Sixth Man Believed to be Drowned as Car Plunges Off Wharf at St. Georges de Beauce, Que.

Quebec, Oct. 19 (CP)—Police search proceeded in Quebec harbor today for a sixth body, investigations announced today tentative identification of five men drowned last night when their automobile in which they were riding plunged over a wharf into the St. Lawrence River.

Officials said they believed the five victims were Joseph Lucien, 24, Adrien Vachon, Jean Jacques, Yves Jacques, Charles Antoine Jacques and Jean Marie Lessard, all of whom whose first name was not known. The car plunged into the waters of St. Georges De Beauce, Que.

Provincial police and local officers would leave today for St. Georges, about 80 miles east of Quebec, to assist in the positive identification of the five.

Police said the car had carried six passengers, was located by grappling hooks. It had been found after it plunged off the wharf late last night at a spot where two streams of water converge.

Police said the victims lost their lives in the same way.

Witnesses' comments said that a towing truck, police officers found at the scene, had stopped and they stated, however, that they were almost certain another passenger had left the car before it left the harbor proceeded today.

Witnesses saw the actual plunge of the car but a guard rail obscured their vision between the entrance to the basin rushed into the police station—also near the scene—and reported that the lake heard something drop into the water. Police rushed to the scene and the guard went to the spot. They saw the car in the water. Its driver descended into the muddy waters about an hour after the accident.

FATALLY INJURED BY TIMBER

Sudbury, Ont., Oct. 19.—(CP)—Thomas Root, 27 of Cross Lake, was fatally injured by a piece of falling timber in the Frood mine. It was announced today. Injured yesterday, he died early this morning in the Sudbury General hospital.

WALL STREET

New York, Oct. 19 (AP)—Aircrafts worked up a slight touch of war-buying fever in today's stock market but many issues were unable to shake off mild selling chills.

At a quiet opening gains ranged from fractions to two points for favorites. Offerings soon put prices in all categories and, near the fourth hour, with dealings light, trends were highly indefinite.

Conclusion of the Anglo-French-Turkish mutual - assistance pact seemingly was a minor inspiration marketwise. Domestic business news was still described enough to prevent much liquidation, brokers said.

Douglas Aircraft shares, along with North American Aviation and Glenn Martin, touched new long for the year. Resistance also was shown by U.S. Rubber, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, Caterpillar Tractor, Dupont, Allied Chemical, Loft, Philip Morris and U.S. Gypsum.

Fractions higher in the Canadian group were Dome, McIntyre Porcupine and Distillers. Good demand lifted Dominion Stores more than a point in the bond market.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 19—(CP) — The Toronto market today registered narrow gains in the Industrial and Gold departments in sizeable volume during the early session and the Base Metal and Western Oil stocks were unchanged to slightly lower volume totalled 305,000 shares in the first three hours.

McIntyre advanced about ½ points and scattered gains were posted among the cheaper Golds. Sleep Rock dipped to $1.30 and recovered and other Base Metal Shares were mainly steady. Food, Steel and Senior Oil Stocks were unchanged to narrowly higher. Brazilian advanced to 10 1-8 and held a gain of about half a point. Canada Packers advanced 2 points to a new high at 104.

Mild profit-taking trimmed the Western Oils to the extent of 3 to 9 cents for Home, Calgary-Edmonton, Okalta and Anglo-Canadian.

Prices Unchanged On Produce Market

Toronto, Oct. 19—Unchanged prices ruled in Toronto produce lines yesterday with the trading more slacker in butter and eggs.

The egg market retained a firm tone, although buyers were more cautious at the recently advanced prices on top grades and demand was not so keen. Lower grades moved a little more freely. Receipts continued liberal however, and offerings cleared fairly well.

Small arrivals of fresh Ontario make and limited offerings resulted in a quiet butter market. Buyers apparently have ample supplies on hand for present needs. At the same time, sellers are inclined to wait until such stocks are nearly depleted ash buyers are once again forced into the market. Prices remained steady at previous levels, with no weakness evident in the market.

Montreal Produce

Butter: First grade creamery prints, job price, 29c; first grade solids, job price, 28½-29.

Eggs: Graded inspected shipments in used free cases, selling price: A-large, 40c; A-medium, 36c; A-pullets, 29c; B-large, 29c to 26c; C, 18c. Receipts, 283 cases.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Oct. 19—(CP)— Cattle trade was slow with prices generally steady early-afternoon closings on the Toronto Livestock Market today. Steers and heifers sections were steady while lambs sold 10 cents higher. No hog price was set. Cattle holdover from Tuesday was 600 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch: cattle 250, calves 30, hogs 380, sheep and lambs 200.

Common to medium butcher steers and heifers sold at 6.25-6.75 and butcher cows from 4-5.50. A few stockers made 5.75-6.50.

Few calves offered ranged from 7-10.75.

Previous close on off-truck hogs was 8.75.

Good ewe and wether lambs brought 9-9.35. Sheep ranged from 3-5 cwt.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—(CP)—Hogs—Eston dressed weight hog price appeared on the Board today for the first time since Oct. 10 and showed a gain of 25 cents. Barrie and London quotes were up 25 and Peterborough 15. Other reporting markets were unchanged.

Dressed weights: Barrie $11.85, Brantford $11.50, Hamilton $11.45, Hull $11.35, Peterborough $11.40 plus transportation, Stratford $11.25 plus transportation, London $11.50 plus transportation.

MAJOR

Although seismographs recorded the duration of the quake as half an hour, the tremors felt in most places were said to have lasted from a few seconds up to three minutes. At Monkton, Quebec and Sherbrooke, Que., citizens heard dishes and windows rattled by the tremors. One woman said she heard a "deep, rumbling noise" at the same time.

In Toronto, Owen Sound, Peterborough, Brantford and other Ontario cities buildings vibrated, pictures were shaken askew on walls and crockery rattled.

Western Ontario Escapes Shock.

The tremors were not felt in London or Windsor, in the southwestern section of Ontario, but a woman living east of Cleveland said the tremors shook her home.

Timiskaming in Northern Quebec, a few miles from the epicentre of the quake on the night of Oct. 31, 1935, also was untouched by today's disturbance. The quake four years ago was centred at Kipawa Lake.

"We had a thunderstorm this morning, but no earthquake," said Mayor A. K. Grimmer of Timiskaming.

Several cities and towns in New Brunswick felt the tremors.

In North Bay, Ont., Miss Nora Mulligan described the intensity of the tremors as "a train passing near the house." Several other persons also felt the shocks and telephoned the newspaper offices for further information.

No tremors felt in Belleville or in this district were reported today.

COMMAND CLAIMS

Local Patrol Activity.

In other sectors of the western front, the communique said, there were only local artillery and patrol activity.

Contact with the enemy in several places was broken, the communique claimed, because Germans troops did not cross the border in following up the French withdrawal.

The High Command claimed the initial phase of the war, which, it said, was "provoked by French initiative", had not produced any "serious fighting" at any point in the front.

Giving the Nazi version of developments in the campaign to date, the communique added:

"The purely local fighting took place in a flat stretch near the French border in front of our west wall. With one single exception on either side, only small detachments, mostly weaker than company, participated in these encounters."

Area Occupied Listed.

The communique listed the following areas occupied by the French during September:

"First, several villages lying near the French border between the Lauterbourg border and Saarlautern; second, 'the Warndt' woods, which extend into France southwest of Saarbrucken, and third the likewise protruding region southwest of Saarbrucken between the Saar river and the Palatinate Forest.

"In the last named regions, from which Nazi troops had withdrawn, the communique said, the French advanced onto German soil a distance of only three to five kilometers (about two to three miles), but, with "heavy losses".

Never Came Close.

"At no other point did the French even come close to the westwall," the communique claimed, "with the exception of regions where the Westwall, as was the case at Saarbrucken, runs along the immediate neighborhood of the border."

Artillery fire to date was described as light, and limited to support of minor actions attempt by German infantrial advanced German fortifications."

"In one single case," the communique said, "one bomber in the neighborhood of Saarbrucken was shot at with 80 shells of medium calibre without any success."

The naval military source said that the rainy autumn season, a handicap to land action, may be favorable for continuation of submarine attacks on allied shipping.

These sources claimed that rainy weather was favorable for submarine warfare. They said also that inclement weather would not hamper aerial activity.

Guenther Prien, 31-year-old submarine commander whose daring sank the British battleship Royal Oak at Scapa Flow was rewarded with honors for his exploit himself, has become a Nazi hero.

BULGAR GOV'T RESIGNS TODAY

Sofia, Oct. 19.— (AP)— Premier George Kiosseivanoff and his cabinet, who had pursued a mildly pro-German policy, resigned today as Bulgaria swung toward closer cooperation with Soviet Russia.

It was considered probable that Stefan Mihaloff, a deputy regarded as friendly to Moscow, would be designated by King Boris to form a new cabinet.

Under his guidance Bulgaria has won the right to rearm and has signed friendship treaties with Yugoslavia and Turkey. Partition of Poland and Russia's interest in southeast Europe have changed the Balkan picture, however.

Expresses Concern for Future in East

Tokyo, Oct. 19.—(AP) —Joseph Grew, United States ambassador to Japan, today declared "American opinion, based on facts, not propaganda," believed that "the many things injurious to the United States which have been done and are being done by Japanese agencies are wholly needless."

In one of the strongest diplomatic speeches by Japan-United States relations, Mr. Grew, recently returned from a meeting with President Roosevelt, said the nation is "straight from the horse's mouth".

In addressing the members of the America-Japan Society, the Ambassador asserted: "They (the American people) regard the growing seriousness the violation and interference with the legitimate rights by Japanese armed forces in China in disregard of treaties and agreements, and the adverse effect on general trend in the Far East, if continued, will be destructive of the peace they sincerely cherish of development of an orderly world."

Mr. Grew asserted that this opinion was "unanimous" and as such had a definite effect on government policies, saying, "when such opinion tends towards unanimity it is a force which the government cannot possibly overlook and will not fail to reflect in its policies and actions".

"After thorough consideration of those facts and steps to alter those facts", the Ambassador said, "can Japanese-American relations be improved."

FISHERMEN SUFFER HEAVILY IN STORM

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 19—(CP Cable)——Reports from remote villages along the east coast of Newfoundland revealed today that fishermen suffered heavy losses in Tuesday's heavy gale. Along the Bay De Verde shore numerous wharves and fishing stages were washed away. At least three schooners were wrecked.

The vessel C. Lindberg, carrying fish and general coastal settlements, grounded on Low Point and was a total loss. Captain James Adey and members of the crew reached shore safely.

Another schooner, the Whitecoat, grounded at St. Brendan's but did not break up. Efforts will be made to refloat her. The schooner Dora F. Lane was a total loss at Catalina.

PATROLMAN FACES CRISIS OF CAREER

Studies for Two Years in Italy for Tenor Operatic Role

San Francisco, Oct. 19 (AP)— Patrolman Thomas Salmon faces the crisis of his spectacular musical career here saturday night when he makes his debut as Turiddu in the tragic opera "I Pagliacci."

The gifted young motorcycle cop —he is on leave at present—knows well what that 60 minutes on the War Memorial opera house stage means to him.

"I'm either washed out— 2 1-2 years of study are wasted—or" — and he left the sentence unfinished.

Stinson, 200 pounds, jovial and 36, went to Italy early in 1938 after Gastano Merola, managing director of the San Francisco Opera Company, prepared him with six months of intensive training.

His singing voice was "discovered" at a highway patrolman's ball in San Juan Capistrano in 1935. The late Madame Schumann-Heink predicted a brilliant future for him.

2 FOE AIRMEN DRIFT ASHORE

Shot Down Over North Sea Tuesday, Two Survivors of Bombing Crew Exhausted

London, Oct. 19 — (CP)—Two German airmen who were shot down over the North Sea Tuesday drifted ashore in a collapsible rubber boat near Whitby today, the Air Ministry announced.

Their two companions in a bomber which was shot down over the North Sea, were killed.

One of the survivors is wounded in the leg and both are in an exhausted condition."

British Children in Evacuated Areas Warmed by Blankets from Canada

Peterborough, Ont., Oct. —(CP) —School children in Wales and other evacuated areas of England are being warmed by clothing and blankets given by them by the Provincial Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, it was announced here at an executive meeting of the organization. The Provincial Chapter is holding its semi-annual meeting here today and tomorrow, under chairmanship of Mrs. William Jones.

The organization has distributed wool to women workers as well as patterns for hospital garments and knitting instructions.

The executive was cheered by the announcement that several new chapters have recently been formed in Ontario at St. Mary's, Tilbury, Leamington, Port Dover, Dundas, Niagara Falls and Uxbridge.

Mrs. Woodland Tisdall of Toronto was elected first convenor by the executive.

It was agreed that each chapter of the Association place a booklet entitled "Canada Within the Empire", in every club room in Ontario.

U. S. to Increase Land Forces by 153,000 Men

Washington, Oct. 19 — (AP)— The United States war department has made detailed military authorative sources reported today, for an increase of 153,000 men in the country's land forces. Under recommendations submitted to President Roosevelt, Congress would be asked at the January session for funds for a regular army of 280,000 and a national guard (militia) of 235,000 men. Funds also would provide weapons and supplies for still larger forces.

The proposed regulars and guardsmen would represent a combined force of 600,000.

DYNAMITE FOUND

Cornwall, Ont., Oct. 19—(CP)— A box containing thirty-one sticks of dynamite was found yesterday by a straw boss on the farm of Ova Lane, Autiville. Provincial Constable A. MacDonald said he believed the dynamite had been stolen some months ago during operations on a nearby county road.

FOUR FLIERS KILLED

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 19.—(AP) —Four fliers were killed today in the crash of a military bombing plane on Mount Laguna, fifteen miles northeast, the Sheriff's office reported. Deputies found four charred bodies near the burned wreckage. Remains of practice bombs and gasoline were nearby. The two-motored plane appeared to be a Douglas navy ship from March Field, Riverside.

Folks Attending Fall Fairs Like Taffy Says Concessionnaire

With all their faults the population of Hastings and her . sister counties are at least candy-minded, Wesley Evans, veteran fair concessionnaire, stated today. Literally hundreds of pounds of taffy were purchased by fair-goers of the district during the recent county fairs, he added.

Asked for an opinion as to the relative attendance to the county exhibitions as compared to that of a year ago, Mr. Evans was of the opinion that it was higher during the latter part of the season, with attendance falling off at the earlier fairs due to war scares.

D.S.T. in Winter Rejected in Britain

London, Oct. 19—(CP — Home Secretary Sir John Anderson today rejected a suggestion for continuation of daylight saving time during the winter months.

Several members of the House of Commons suggested the change in time be continued to permit the public to do shopping during daylight hours. Sir John said the government was opposed to the suggestion because it would require a large number of workers to travel to their places of employment before daybreak.

Because of the war, daylight saving time will end this year on Nov. 18 instead of the customary date in the middle of September.

FLOODS SUBSIDE IN BRITISH ISLES

London, Oct. 19 (CP)—After a rainless night, floods which yesterday created havoc over a wide area in Bedfordshire, Buckinghamshire and Northamptonshire subsided considerably today.

Motor traffic was able to move again although there was risk of engines becoming waterlogged on some roads.

An exhausted 17-year-old girl was rescued from rising waters near Newport-Pagnell during the night by police constable Thomas Todd. Hearing cries for help, he waded a quarter mile in shin-deep water and found the girl clinging to a tree. She had been trapped for more than an hour.

Bertie on a Bust

By CHET GRANT

Georgie Blake heard his mother's voice coming closer; in the room, now. "Georgie Bertie, it's time you to go to the city."

At the sound of the magic word Georgie became instantly awake. "Did you say you wanted me to go to the city, Ma? When? How? Who's going? What for? He plunged toward the bathroom.

"In half an hour. I want you to take Cousin Bertie to Casey's for some suits. They're having a sale."

"What!"

Georgie's shocked face appeared between the folds of the rubber curtain. "Hey, Ma, are you crazy? Imagine me taking that little hellion to New York. Good night!"

"Bertie is not a hellion," Mrs. Blake said sharply, "How often must I tell you to speak respectfully of your cousins. Besides, Bertha isn't going. Bertie will be here. Now no trouble."

"You're right," Georgie cried. "He'll be a riot."

Casey's was crowded. Georgie kept a grip on Bertie's hand and took the elevator to the children's department. A salesgirl came hurrying up the carpeted aisle. 'Some new suits for the little boy? Right this way, please."

There were thousands of suits and Georgie and the salesgirl spent a lot of time over them. Suddenly Georgie was conscious that Bertie was missing! It was a horrible feeling. Not the fact that Bertie was lost, no, not that, but the fact that any moment now he might hear a mortified screaming somewhere behind the sprinkler system operating as it should only do in case of fire.

Bertie found Georgie first. He had gotten into a drawer of masks and wigs in the toy department on the next floor. Adorned in a full flaming red beard he peeked around a counter corner and yelled: "Boo!" at Georgie, then ducked and ran.

Georgie gave chase, but it was futile. Bertie disappeared again.

In the sporting goods department, two floors down, Georgie spied Bertie again. Bertie heard his triumphant shout and leaped into the middle of a large pool of brook trout set low on the floor. Georgie in his mad haste, followed. Water geysered everywhere, Fish flip-flopped on the floor. Women screamed.

It was the blond girl from the children's department who rescued them from the detective. She showed them into a small stock room. "You can hang your clothes on those steam-pipes," she said. "Nobody'll bother you here."

Georgie stripped Bertie to his short and himself to his singlet and shorts. 'I ought to sock you," he snapped at a much chastened Bertie, who, sensing the righteousness of a belting from Georgie, expected the worst. He let out a yell of fear and dashed from the room. Georgie roared in exasperation and charged after him into a deserted bundle room just in time to see Bertie disappear down a bundle chute in the floor.

Bertie shot out of the chute onto a long smooth table. He tumbled hastily and ran for an open door that led out on the street floor. There were thousands of people packed around the counters. Bertie looked for a good safe place to hide. There was an opening in the wall. He stepped into it quickly and all at once there was peace and quiet.

Meanwhile Georgie was upstairs donning his clothes hastily, saying much under his breath. He rushed to the street floor. He sought out a floorwalker at once. "I'm looking for a little boy running around in his shorts," Georgie said. "Have you seen him?"

"It's been a very warm day," the man said, sidling away. "Just a minute please." Georgie didn't wait. He decided to get a policeman. He went outside but there wasn't one in sight.

He became conscious of a thick tittering before one of the windows. Perhaps he might be there. Georgie pushed his way through the crowd. He glanced in the window, and his stomach turned over. Bertie was in this window. It had once been a beautiful bedroom suite display, but it wasn't any more, it was upset like Bertie's mother's bedroom at home. The highboy drawers apparently had been used for a step-ladder, and Bertie had climbed on them, and had leaped down on the bed. Right now he was fast asleep in the middle of an expensive counterpane, his flushed cherubic features belying any recent guilt.

Georgie pushed his way out of the crowd. "That's him!" he heard a familiar voice crow. He wilted. A floorwalker was in the room with the detective and took him by the arm. Without a word they led Georgie to an elevator and up to an inner office.

Georgie quaked. The damage. The uproar. Probably there would be a big fine! And after all that, maybe prison.

"You have charge of that youngster in the window?" the severe-looking man asked.

"Y-Yes, sir," Georgie fought a strangling sensation.

"Listen," the man said. "I'll give you fifty dollars to let him stay there until he wakes up."

Georgie fainted dead away on the rug.

Little Benny's Note Book

This afternoon it started to rain like cats and dogs, and it was only a few blocks I could go down stairs, only ma heard me just a mane from her room on account of her being such a natural detective, always finding out everything I do.

Nowheres, I mean just out, I said, and ma said, You're going no where of the kind, the idea such an idea in weather like this, I cant imagine anybody having such a crazy notion, I thought you had some thought in your head.

Proving she really could imagine it, and I said Well O wimmins mind, wait till you see me. I'm all dressed, for it perfect, I've got on my rubber boots and my raincoat, and inside of that I've got my windbreaker, and I've got on my leather sow wester hat and I've even got my umbrella, so I've got everything you're suppose to have to go out in the rain with, so good night ma, it would be more natural to be surprised if I wanted to stay in and not because I want to go out.

Now never mind about being surprised and why, you take off those hot things in the house and read a book or something, ma said, and I said, But honey smokes, ma, if everybody was like you there gum boots and raincoats and things and all the factories would have to shut down and there would be even more unemployment than there is already.

Jimminy crickits ma, what's a use of me having all these things if I have to stay in the house when it rains? I said.

What's a use of your having your health if you want to endanger it and cast it aside for the silliest reason anybody ever heard? ma said.

Being a born answer but winning the argument, and proving no matter how much you've got it's not much use without liberty.

Catholic Women's League Continues Meeting; Reports Of All Committees Heard

Delegates Attend Mass in a Body Celebrated by Mgr. J. F. Nicholson, V.G.

PRESIDENT PRESIDES

Work of League in Highly Satisfactory State According to Reports

Delegates to the Catholic Women's League annual diocesan meeting attended convention Mass at seven-thirty Wednesday morning in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Monsignor Nicholson officiated and the members received Holy Communion in a body.

Mrs. W. H. Raney presided at the morning session which was devoted to the presentation of reports of standing committees which detailed activities carried on most efficiently and enthusiastically by the members.

Increased Membership

Mrs. T. J. Hunt, Napanee, reported a notable increase in membership and urged that the slogan for 1939-40 be every member get a member." Belleville has the largest membership with over 200 registered.

Subscriptions to the League magazine, reported by Mrs. Gilhooly, Point Anne, have decreased and the committee asked for renewed interest in this department.

The League in the Archdiocese has fostered educational projects in every way possible and this was told by Mrs. M. E. Mooney, Portland, convener. The interest of members has manifested itself in prizes, gifts to schools, programs in which school children take part and in adult education by the papers and addresses given by members themselves.

Girl Guide Movement

Mrs. J. P. Quinn, reporting the activities of the Girl Guides, spoke of the loss sustained by the death of Mrs. A. Harbeson to whom a debt of deep gratitude is owing for her splendid work in organizing and fostering Guide companies. The report showed that Kingston sub-division has one Ranger company, three Guide companies, two Brownie packs and Belleville has one Guide company sponsored by the Catholic Women's League, Guides and Rangers take part in many community activities. The Rangers in Kingston have a very busy programme this year and the workshop received entertainment plan, the making of puppets and the presentation of an original play. The convener expressed appreciation for the splendid co-operation of Archbishop O'Brien, especially for his assistance in sending Guides to the Kingston camp at Carruthers Point.

Child Welfare

Mrs. J. J. Brennan, Marysville, stressed in her report on Child Welfare, the variety of ways in which this phase of C. W. L. work had been carried out. In addition to helping the needy at Christmas time and to nourishing child in individual families, the league had supported children in St. Mary's Home, had sent supplies and literature out west, aided in camp. Air camps, and in the Girl Guide movement, all contributing to the betterment of the youth of the diocese.

While far from a port of entry, sub-divisions of the archdiocese had not been entirely free from immigration work, Mrs. T. Cain, Hamilton, of Eglin, reported. In this activity, new Canadians were welcomed, some given clothing and food. Children were prepared for First Communion and Confirmation. Strangers were visited and when members left the parish, letters of introduction were forwarded to League officials and parish priest in their new home.

Scholarship Fund

Miss Gertrude Maloney, Marmora, explained the purpose of the scholarship which is financed, in competition, to a social service worker. She urged that donations to this fund be sustained. Miss Helena Driscoll, Trenton, convener of Publicity, explained that most sub-divisions had published accounts of meetings in the local press, the Catholic Freeman and the Extension Magazine. Mrs. James Irish, Smith's Falls, reporting on Citizenship, said that the C.W.L. was affiliated with welfare and service agencies in the individual parish, thus linking its work of the league with splendid and worthwhile community enterprises.

Work accomplished last year by the Sisters of Service was reported by Mrs. A. A. Collins. These sisters, through their hospitals and schools, home nursing and religious instruction program have reached hundreds of Canadians and mothers and have carried on their activities in nearly every province. Support of the Catholic Women's League has made possible the growth of this home mission project.

Guests at Luncheon

At noon on Wednesday delegates were guests of the Belleville sub-division at luncheon parties at the Belvedere and New Queen's Hotel and served delightful features of the convention entertainment.

Upon re-assembling after luncheon the members heard a most interesting report of the Toronto convention held in Winnipeg, Mrs. W. H. Raney being the delegate from this diocese.

The election committee was complete with the names of Mrs. Chas. O'Reilly, Smith's Falls, Mrs. Leo Callaghan, Belleville, Mrs. F. Fitzpatrick, Belleville and Mrs. Mooney, Westport, being added to that of the chairman, Miss K. Dolan.

Sub-Division Reports

Touching on every branch of League activities the report of each sub-division given by a different delegate showed the broad scope of C.W.L. activities. Spiritual, mind, time, first of all, to parish and community needs, the sub-division has kept its interests far beyond the borders of its particular district. Perth reported a substantial donation to the China missions. Belleville's plan of forming a member study club in each parish every second Sunday before the Blessed Sacrament in prayer for peace was highly commended.

Many branches have already affiliated themselves with the Red Cross and have completed many articles for the Canadian soldiers. Exchanging items from the reports was Marmora with its "Lenten pennies" parish contest, Kingston Mills neighborly exchange of housekeeping in home where illness prevailed, Kingston 'a affiliated with twelve different parish conferences which raised $5,000 for league and parochial work last year.

Portsmouth branch not only provides a Christmas treat to school children but presented the teachers with a gift of ten dollars.

Reports were submitted from Stanleyville: Brewer's Mills, Mrs. Wm. Murphy; Belleville, Mrs. A. B. Collins; Brockville, Miss Fraser; Perth, Mrs. Henrietta; Deseronto, Mrs. Margigold; Smith's Falls Mrs. M. P. McGlade; Enterprise, Mrs. H. B. Dixon; Nova Island, Mrs. W. D. Prior; Kingston, Mrs. J. P. Quinn; Gananoque, Lenark, Leaside, Mrs. James Lynch; Madoc, Mrs. B. Merav; Marmora, Miss C. Maloney; Marysville, Mrs. J. J. Farrell; Kingston Mills, Miss Redmond; Belleville, Miss Dolan; Colborne, Miss Besupre; Prescott, Mrs. W. C. Donavan; Picton, Mrs. Keoun; Read, Mrs. Michael Hanley; Queensboro, Mrs. F. Barry; Spencerville, Mrs. J. H. Gallagher; Throgmorton, Mrs. Jas. Trenton, Mrs. L. LaMorre; Shirling, Mrs. C. McGee; Tweed, Mrs. M. J. Quinn; Westport, Mrs. A. T. Egan; Erinville and Stoco, Mrs. S. Genore.

Rev. Dr. L. J. Byrne, diocesan chaplain, who was present during practically afternoon's session, congratulated the delegates on the splendid reports which showed the excellent work accomplished. He was impressed, he said, by the fact that even in small centres which had not been able to accomplish very much during the past year, a hopeful note was evidenced in their reports which looked forward to greater things next year.

Archbishop Present

Members were honored by the presence at their afternoon session yesterday of His Grace Archbishop O'Brien, Kingston, who addressed the convention. He praised the league's work throughout the archdiocese as outlined in the excellent reports of the officers and conveners. In their program for the coming year, His Grace asked the members to stress patriotic work, to identify themselves with the Red Cross and similar organizations and do all in their power to help in the cause that England is championing. The Archbishop expressed sincere hope for the future success of the league.

The convention was entertained by St. Michael's Band, the group of small musicians whose performances have delighted music lovers throughout the province. Training by their talented conductor, Sr. Michael's Academy staff, the young players gave a splendid concert which was keenly appreciated by those present.

DEPARTING TROOPS PRAY FOR VICTORY

By way of London and Paris, and via Lisbon by air, this picture was sent with approval of both the British and French censors. It shows an incident at the Catholic cathedral at Westminster on the occasion of the departure of a contingent of the British forces for the French front. The departing troops attended services in the cathedral and prayed for victory for the Allied cause, and the final scene of the services was the imparting of benediction by Arthur Cardinal Hinsley, archbishop of Westminster. The benediction is pictured.

Passengers and Crew Hurled Against Furniture by Storm

U. S. Liner President Harding Makes Way Through Subsiding Sea

WAITER WASHED OVE

New York, Oct. 19—After weathering a "last" hurricane, the United States liner President Harding ploughed through subsiding seas today with 73 persons under treatment for injuries.

Twenty-three had broken bones. Paul Johnson, a cabin waiter, was lost overboard.

Henry Heinzoth, engine room storekeeper, underwent an emergency appendicitis operation the height of the storm, while a 75-mile-an-hour gale bowled passengers and crew about and knocked them against furniture.

Among those less seriously injured was Paul Van Zeeland, former Belgian premier, who suffered bruises.

The storm toll was the highest aboard a modern liner in North Atlantic waters in several years.

The sturdy 13,969-ton vessel, carrying 320 Americans among the 597 passengers it was bringing to New York from the war zones, was tossed in heavy seas by a wandering hurricane that had swept northward from Bermuda.

Unable to Chart Path

Weather officials had been unable to chart the storm's path and issue warnings because of lack of reports from vessels along its course, a result of wartime restrictions banning radio messages that might betray merchant shipping to belligerent warships.

A wireless appeal by Captain James Roberts brought the coast guard cutter Hamilton speeding to the liner's aide with medical supplies.

Although waves ripped away a starboard rail, a lifeboat and davit, Captain Roberts abandoned a plan to put in at Halifax after an innovation disclosed "no structural damage". The liner was expected to dock here Saturday.

Another vessel that felt the storm's fury, the 2,500-ton British freighter Blairbey, sent out a distress signal after its rudder chains and steering gear had been damaged on its way unassisted.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

DESPITE definite opposition from high sources and the possibility of much to be overcome, this may be a day of drastic action, with far-reaching significance peculiar situations may arise, and these may be tacit or subtle agreements with diplomatic, political or fraternal organizations, or rather radical social groups. Benefits may come from such curious alliance in spite of strife and stubborn obstacles.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of rather strenuous adventures, with matters of peculiar and unfathomable inspiration calling for much tact and finesse rather than quarrels. Those in high places must be placated, or groups compromised with. Personal popularity and prestige help achieve this, but shrewdness and subtle strategy, weapons backed up by patience and perseverance, are powerful weapons.

A child born on this day may be particularly shrewd, deep, designing and ambitious, gaining its ends by practical plans, patience and persistence. It may have a faculty for social popularity and prestige.

RUSSIA, LATVIA SIGN TRADE PACT

Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Now Virtual Soviet Protectorates

Moscow, Oct. 19—(AP)—Russia's growing influence in the Baltic was extended today by a new trade agreement with Latvia, one of three little northern states already linked with the Soviet Union by mutual assistance pacts.

Tass, Soviet News Agency, which announced signing of the agreement said it provided for a three-fold increase in trade between the two countries.

Russian waterways to the Arctic port of Murmansk and to Black Sea ports were made available to Latvian commerce, Tass said, while a large extension of Soviet shipments to Latvian ports was authorized.

Soviet Troops March In

Although Estonia, like Latvia and Lithuania, now is virtually a Russian protectorate, Soviet officials insisted the independence of these three segments of the old Russian empire would be respected.

(The Associated Press dispatches from Copenhagen said normal telephone communication with Estonia—interrupted following arrival of the first Russian army units in Estonia yesterday—still was impossible. Copenhagen telephone officials said press calls were refused by the Tallinn Exchange and apparently only government calls were being accepted.)

Finnish Negotiations at Standstill

Indications that Turkey and Russia were maintaining close relations despite their failure to negotiate an accord were seen in the arrival in Moscow of Muhlis Erkmen, Turkish Minister of Agriculture, to visit the All-Union Agricultural Exhibition.

Russian negotiations with Finland remained in a state of suspension pending the return, possibly this week-end, of a Finnish mission.

"REDHEADS ARE LUCKY"

By VERA BROWN

Today there were music and flowers, a big horseless for the Stadium boys, a huge rabbit's foot from the boys from the Polo Grounds. The players were all standing in a row with caps off as the music played "Star Spangled Banner." Handsome wasn't there.

Ace always felt that his team—the Yanks—had to win the first game of the series if it was going to take the championship. He felt, if you got that first game behind you, it was half the battle.

Mike saw the whole game through a haze of misery. Dusty Lee went fine for four innings. Then something happened. Ace kept going out to talk to him. The fans were screaming and yelling.. The Giants were leading 3 to 2.

In the fateful eighth inning, Lee one of the world's great pitchers, was sent to the showers in the opening game of the World's Series, leaving behind him 80,000 roaring fans and his team all but beaten. Nobody could believe that Dusty would crack that way. But his head, they were telling him all over the lot. The score was, Giants 7; Yanks 2.

There was a long pause while the voice of the 80,000 rose and fell, speculating on who would carry on. Over beyond the home dugout, a tall figure rounded the corner. The crowd was silent for a moment. They recognized him. It was Handsome Regan.

Suddenly, over that huge crowd swept a swelling "Boo!" It rose in a swift crescendo. For the first time in his life, Handsome Regan heard a crowd boo him....

Over in the bleachers, some of Handsome's fans started to cheer. They kept it up, the loyal few.

"Two men on, nobody out, one run in!" Poor Handsome! He didn't have a chance. Mike knew in her heart.

Regan seemed nonchalant. He waited a long time before he threw the first ball. But when he gave the first batter a beat on balls, the booing rose again.

"Put that guy back in a revolving door!" somebody shouted. Handsome faced the next man. He was a good hitter. The tall kid from Michigan went to work on this new one. What he did in the next three minutes has now become baseball history. Handsome's pride had been hurt. He'd show them! He'd mow 'em down! The man went down, swinging! The crowd rose to its feet and cheered. Mike, up in the grandstand continued to weep one moment, scream the next at the top of her voice.

"Now what?" Mike watching, prayed under her breath.

The next man hit into an easy double play. The inning was over! The roar which burst from the crowd was deafening. Nobody could ignore such a pitching duel. Mike just sat, too weak to move.

A wild cheer filled the field with Handsome, and Handsome was looking at his hand.....It was up to the boys now to get some hits. And they did to the extent of two more runs, making the score: Giants 9; Yanks 4.

Into the ninth inning they went, the boys from the Polo Grounds three runs ahead.

The big left-hander walked out on the field again. He got an ovation and he scarcely heard it at all. He was too busy watching Ace's signals.. Mike, slumped in her seat, had her hands clenched in t' lap.....Handsome struck out the Giant trio in Grimes-Grove fashion!

Then in the last of the ninth, with two on, Handsome hit the first home run of his big league career to tie up the game at 7 - all!

That sent the play into the tenth inning. Handsome held the Giants hitless the first of the tenth, and then Ace Barnes opened up in the last half of the inning with a brisk single. Ace, fast on his feet, scored all the way from first on Handsome's long double. That was the ball game, the Yanks winning 8-7.

Out of it. Handsome came, a hero! The fans went wild. Mike could not move out of the upper grandstand for half an hour. She knew it was foolish to attempt to meet Handsome, but she tried anyway.

CHAPTER XXIII

The crowd around the clubhouse exit was huge. Mike was a quarter of a mile away. Regan's name was on everybody's lips. Finally Handsome himself came. The crowd surged forward. It took a flying wedge of cops to get him into a car, whose car, Mike could not tell. She finally left, walking slowly to the subway. Handsome would probably expect her to go back to the hotel. The trains were still crowded, but she managed to squeeze into one.

In it was that Mike arrived back at the hotel before Handsome. The whole place was in an uproar. They had banners up out front, a welcome home for the conquering hero. Mouse Manager Downey was running around the lobby urging everybody to keep calm and not rush Handsome when he came in.

Mike, for safety, took refuge behind the cigar counter with the relief girl. Business was so brisk, she diffled her hat and fell to work.

Finally Handsome arrived, and with all the troupe of camermen, newspaper men, and just general admirers. Finally, Mr. Downey had to whisk Handsome up the back way to his quarters.

Mike waited patiently at the magazine counter. It was almost eight before Handsome called her from upstairs: "How'd you like it, Skipper?"

"Marvelous!. Think, if I hadn't gone!"

"You'll always be there when I pitch!"

"Was Ace pleased?"

"He didn't say, but the old sourpuss kept coming over to me and then walking away. He wanted to say something and he didn't get his courage. How long before you'll be through?

"Just a little while." Mike thought she detected something in Handsome's voice. "Is anything wrong?"

"No. Just the Doc wants to work on my hand tonight. Maybe you better go home. I'll just get a few hours' sleep. I've got to meet Dusty and Marvin uptown at nine. Be a good girl and I'll see you in the morning."

Mike covered her acute disappointment, got out of the hotel as unobtrusively as possible. All the way home she tried to persuade herself she did not mind that Handsome did not want Dusty and Martin, that he was busy.

"I want him to be free! I've told him this!" She was trying hard to be honest. She must put on a cheerful face for Handsome. He'd be so eager to hear everything.

When she came to the Shannon apartment, a crowd was gathered.

"Where's Handsome?" she should went up. Mike had to do the honors. She had to keep her chin up. Jimmie was waiting. His eyes were shining, but his disappointment showed plainly when Handsome did not come to see him, too.

"He was busy, darling. He'll see you after a day or two." Mike promised. Then she settled herself to answer questions about the game.

The next morning, Mike read that the sports writers had to say about Handsome on her way over to practice. Although she was early Handsome had left. He'd gone on to the hospital to have another X-ray of his hand. But he left a note, a note which made her feel selfish and selfish....and terribly happy:

"Skipper, everything's O.K. Marvin and Lee told me last night the boys are going to cut me in for a full share. They were swell about it....Love, and see you tonight."

Ace's Yanks dropped the next two World Series games. Then Dusty Lee came back and won. But they lost the fifth and then went into the sixth. That made it even all. The seventh game would tell the story.

"I'll have to pitch. There isn't anybody else," Handsome Regan was so distraught that Mike appealed to Ace. But no one. She'd met Wish after the game, quite by accident. Both of them knew the state Handsome was in. For his hand apparently could not stand a whole game.

Handsome came through the pass gate, fooled the crowd. For Wish said in word where his car was. Handsome dropped onto the seat beside Wish just as the fans spotted him, but they were away quickly by that time.

"Thank the Lord!" He turned around, reached for Mike's hand. "I'm glad to see you, I'm elated, I suppose. And we'll lose that game, but we've been lucky so far. I can't hold forever!"

"Don't say that, Handsome," Wish grinned. "Any guy that could get out of that spot they're in, in the last first game; well, he's just lucky, or awful smart!"

"Shall you see ? Ace is starting Arch Hartlin. He can't finish. I'll get the game when it's already lost. How'd he fixed to Wish: "Did you ev:r have a whole stadium boo you?"

Wish said: "Humph! So that's it. You can't take it!"

"I've been taking it for weeks!" "I mean you like that old pat on the back! That doesn't get you anything. They've booed Cobb and the Babe. They've booed everybody in baseball, one time or another." Handsome did not answer. "It hurts." Wish made the comment casually. "But it's good for you guys. The crowd either worships you like a pack of fools, or turns on you like a bunch of yipping devils. It's one thing or the other. And none of it makes sense. But you should take it, good and bad."

"Handsome turned around, to look at Mike. Her eyes showed he worry but she said quickly;

"You'll be all right, once you get out there."

"I suppose so." But his voice was not reassuring.

The final Series day was cool, bright and clear. Mike shivered as she sat in her high-up seat in the stand. She had come a little early. Mike was glad she was among strangers, glad she did not have to talk.

Arch Hartlin was starting pitcher for the Yanks. Mike expected that. And it was another close game, scoreless until the sixth inning. Arch let one of their heavy hitters get away with a triple. When Regan came up for air, there were two runs in, nobody out, and a Giant on every base.

"Poor Handsome!"

When the crowd saw the big southpaw beaming across the field a mighty roar sounded. They'd been calling for him all afternoon. Regan came swinging along as though he didn't have a care in the world. Ace went out to speak to him when he got on the mound. They had quite a conference with Marvin there too.

Handsome looked over at the man on first base. It was the first game of the Series that Handsome really came into his own. Mike could see it. He seemed to have grown up. He had a surefooted poise—that was marvelous to watch.

Two Giants fanned on eight pitches and the third popped a foul to Catcher Barnes, leaving their teammates stranded on the bases. A Carl Hubbell could not have done better!

Of course, the strikes he poured over that plate, one after another —so fast that Giant batters couldn't even see them, let alone hit them—gave Handsome his extra swagger. It was as he went back to the dugout that he made this crack:

"You mugs get me some runs! I'll take care of the rest."

Well, he did and they did. Handsome just walked in there and polished off the boys from the Polo Grounds like a youthful Rube Waddell, Nap Rucker, or Herb Pennock!!!

Regan seemed to be without nerves. Nothing bothered him .... Out there in the fast fading September sunshine, Handsome and Catcher Ace Barnes worked like clockwork.

When Handsome pitched the final ball, inning and the boys went down, one—two—three, pandemonium broke loose. The final score was Giants 2, Yanks 3. It took twenty cops to get Handsome back into the club house.

When Mike got to Wish's car, he was not there, but she was in time to see the crowds rush Handsome and Ace when they came out of the club house. Wish found her a few minutes later.

"Ace and Handsome are on the air at 6:30," he explained. "I'm to take you over to Dusty's. That's where the gang is going to meet."

Mike had no desire ever to see Carol Lee again, but it was one of those things.

Wish and Mike went proudly on to Dusty's apartment. They were elated with excitement and happiness. After all, Handsome was their's. Wish had discovered him, and they both.. loved him. They were justly proud.

Carol's apartment, a handsome duplex overlooking Central Park, was filled with guests when Wish and Mike arrived. Carol was decked in her best. She greeted Mike with fervor, put her quite at ease. And Mike was grateful to Carol for inviting other ball players' wives were there and, of course, talk turned to the day's game.

Balance of Power In Mediterranean Shifts to Allies

In Turkey the Democracies Have Powerful and Trusted Friend Says Daily Mail in Comment on Pact

GERMANY TWICE LOSER

Balked by Signing of Pact by Britain, France and Turkey and by Bad Weather on Western Front

London, Oct. 20 (CP)—Great Britain counted Germany twice a loser today—balked both by the signing of a Anglo-French mutual assistance pact with Turkey and by bad weather on the Western Front.

Responsible British sources argued that the treaty signed at Ankara last night blocked practically all of German influence in the Balkans, particularly Rumania.

"In a nutshell, if Germany attacks Rumania or Greece she will be in for a fine scrap," the News Chronicle said.

Military observers declared that continuing heavy rains on the Western Front, meanwhile, greatly lessened the chances of success for any attempted German offensive against the Allied armies.

In diplomatic circles, far-reaching implications were read into the Anglo-Franco-Turkish treaty for mutual military aid against "aggression" in the Mediterranean.

Operative For 15 Years

By the pact, operative for 15 years, Great Britain and France pledged help to Turkey if she is the victim of aggression by "a European power or if aggression by a European power leads "to war in the Mediterranean area in which Turkey is involved."

GOODWILL FLIGHT ENDED

Tokyo, Oct. 20 (C.P.-Havas) — The round-the-world good will flight of the Japanese airplane "Nippon" ended today when the ship landed at Tokyo airport. The flight covered just over 15,000 miles in 195 hours' flying time at an average speed of 118 miles an hour.

The plane's crew was complimented by members of the diplomatic corps, including Sir Robert Craigie, the British ambassador.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 20 (CP)—Showers have occurred from Ontario eastward to the Maritimes, while in the Prairie Provinces the weather has been fair. It has been quite mild in the western provinces and southern Ontario and comparatively cool elsewhere.

Lake Superior — Fresh winds, cloudy and mild with scattered showers; fresh winds, cloudy, mostly fair and continuing mild.

Northern Provinces and Ontario — Fresh to strong winds, partly cloudy and mild today. Saturday, fair with light showers in a few districts.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Rain and umbrellas. Some believe that it is not likely to rain if they carry an umbrella. Curiously enough, when some 700 pupils were asked, not so long ago, their opinion regarding this common saying, about 48 per cent. of those who replied said they believed in it. This shows how persistent superstitions are when drilled into the young by frequent repetitions. Some weather proverbs are good and really state a scientific fact in a popular way, but there are many proverbs in the class of the one cited above which should always be cried down, especially when repeated in the presence of children.

Cabinet Will Lean Toward Russia Rather Than Germany

Sofia, Oct. 20 (AP)—It was widely predicted in political circles today that a new Bulgarian cabinet to succeed Premier Kyoseivanoff resigned yesterday would lean toward Soviet Russia rather than Germany.

The cabinet of Premier George Kioseivanoff had followed a mildly pro-German course.

King Boris conferred today with a number of political leaders, including Botchko Mcshanov, president of the Chamber of Deputies, Professor Tsanoff, Stanchoff and Mouchanov of the Senate and former Foreign Minister Kalfov.

No announcement was made but it was learned that he intended to talk to others later in the day.

ITALIANS DOUBT PACT WILL AFFECT DUCE'S DIPLOMACY

Inclined to Regard Treaty a Natural Result of Collapse of Soviet-Turkish Negotiations

GLAD RUSSIA CHECKED

Rome, Oct. 20 (AP)—Diplomatic circles today expressed doubt that the mutual aid pact among Great Britain, France and Turkey would cause any change in Italian diplomacy.

These sources saw no reason why the development would throw Russia and Italy and Italy into each others arms on terms similar to those between Russia and Germany—a development predicted by Paris in Germany.

Italians were inclined to regard the treaty as a natural result of the collapse of Soviet negotiations with the Turks at Moscow.

Central diplomats expressed the opinion that Italy would prefer to see the Balkans divided than have the Balkans checked since Premier Mussolini considers the Balkans within his sphere of influence.

Italians Receive Assurances

Paris, Oct. 20.—(CP)—(Havas) —The Italian Government has received assurances from the Anglo-French-Turkish Mutual Assistance Pact is not directed in any manner against Italy, it was learned here today. On the contrary, the diplomatic work which Italy has entertained for Danubian and Balkan Europe, in so far as it did not those countries to remain neutral, parallels Turkish policy in that region. The hope was expressed that diplomatic talks here that the two influences will complement one another.

DUPLESSIS NAMED 'A NAZI FRIEND' BY MR. LAPOINTE

Justice Minister Says Duplessis Called Election to Embarrass Administration of Government

GODBOUT INDISPOSED

Quebec, Oct. 20 (CP)—The "battle" of pre-election speech-making produced its first "casualty" today in Liberal leader Adelard Godbout who spent heads and their followers devoted themselves for the last stages of the Quebec general election campaign.

The provincial Liberal chieftain told a rally last night at Quebec, at which Ernest Lapointe, Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe, that a physician had ordered him not to make any lengthy speech at the meeting. Mr. Godbout, who spoke briefly, said that the strain of the campaign had impaired his voice.

Mr. Godbout, Liberal leader was forced to cut short his remarks, the Liberal chieftain addressed a rally last night by Mr. Lapointe and another federal cabinet member, Public Works Minister P. J. A. Cardin. The works minister delivered addresses at Quebec and Montreal.

Premier Maurice Duplessis, leader of the Union Nationale government, opened his campaign into Montreal, where he spoke to 25,000 persons in Delorimier Stadium and 15,000 others in Maisonneuve Stadium. Paul Gouin, head of the Union Liberal Nationale addressed a gathering at Lorrietteville.

Mr. Lapointe asserted that the premier had precipitated the Oct. 25 election "in the midst of war in order to divide Canada" and insisted that campaign issues expressed by the premier were hailed in Germany as a triumph against Great Britain.

ADMITS "ROLLING" STAR

Los Angeles, Oct. 20 (AP)—Eugene Le Rue Price, 18, admitted in Municipal Court today he "rolled" Jackie Coogan for $340 while the former child star slept in a night club booth.

"Coogan was sleepy," said Price. "When the night club closed he hired me to stand guard over him. I just couldn't resist the temptation."

Price was ordered held in jail pending his appearance in Superior Court on robbery charges.

Royal Canadian Navy Guards Approaches to Canadian Ports

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 20 (CP)—Night and day—in mist, fog, rain and snow—the watchdogs of the Royal Canadian Navy guard the approaches to Canadian ports. No vessel may enter without the navy's permission and without flying the special flag it has been ordered to fly at commercial inspection. No vessel may leave without a similar permit.

All Canadian ocean ports display three red lights, one above the other at night and three red flags in same position during the day, notice to approaching ships that the port is closed except to vessels passing inspection.

They are expected to report to an inspection vessel which rides at the designated spot outside the harbor. They fail to do so a warning shot may remind them of the existence of the state of war.

GERMAN POLITICAL WORLD STUNNED BY PACT SIGNED

Believe Pact Might Lead to Repercussions in the Balkans

ITALY CONCERNED

Nazi Circles Look to Italy to React and Bring About Italo-Russian Cooperation

Berlin, Oct. 20 (AP)—The German political world appeared to be stunned today by the 15-year mutual assistance pact signed yesterday between the Allies and Turkey.

Nazi circles professed to believe that the pact might have little repercussions in the Balkan countries; but they admitted that Rumania and Greece might be affected was not clear.

The opinion was expressed that the Balkans would see in Turkey's action a renunciation of desire to safeguard neutrality.

The new attitude in the Mediterranean was viewed with grave apprehension in informed circles, inasmuch as the Italo-German Berlin-Rome axis interests were regarded as distinctly favorable.

Rain and Mud Cause Prospect of a Major Offensive to Grow Less

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer
With the British Expeditionary Force in France, Oct. 20 (AP)—(Passed by Field Censor)—Drifting rain, drumming a steady tattoo on British battle positions in France, has brought the unpleasant fact of any attacking army—major or minor—to the scene.

British officers and men, holding a line in villages and valleys through which were fought some of the bitterest battles of the last war, saw fresh hope that the highly mechanized army in the west which would cling to tanks and armored cars.

This front has been alert since British troops took over from the French Poilus. But with the rain the combatants into a dismal swamp, the likelihood of attack appeared to grow less and less every day.

There was no relaxing of vigilance against any German drive, however.

The first German attack in 1914 saw 35 divisions advance against the British lines. Then, British, French and Belgian armies went out against them. This time, entrenched in fortifications which are hard to see and harder to take these forces will receive them.

40 Million Aliens Within Germany Endanger Reich

Detroit, Oct. 20 (CP)—Hugh Gibson, veteran United States diplomat, told a lecture audience here that many fear grave internal threats because of the Reich's recent expansion. Of the 40,000,000 to 400 aliens in the greater Reich, almost one third of the population, filled with a "venomous and justifiable hatred."

Mr. Gibson, former Ambassador to Belgium and to Poland, has just returned from Europe. He said in his opinion Germany is going to a determination to see the war through.

"I think nobody wants a partial settlement nor a punative peace forced upon a conquered Germany," Mr. Gibson said. "The peace when it comes, and last, that's Britain's passionate conviction."

Hurricane and Crew Trouble Make Voyage a Nightmare

Liner Acadia Docks After Weathering 150 M.P.H. Storm — Many Crew Fights During Crossing

520 PASSENGERS

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—Stories of hardship and misadventure among the crew came today from passengers aboard the liner Acadia, which docked here last night after weathering a hurricane described by the captain as the worst he had seen in thirty years.

The Eastern Steamship liner, under charter by the United States Lines, brought 520 passengers, including 462 American citizens from Lisbon.

Sixteen crew members and six passengers received bruises and minor injuries during the storm.

Ship's officers confirmed passengers' statements of trouble with the crew, but said it arose from union disputes. They said members of the two rival Maritime Labor organizations—the C.I.O. (Committee for Congress of Industrial Organizations) and the International Seamen's Union (affiliated with American Federation of Labor)—engaged in a dozen fights during the crossing.

Miss Edna McDonough of New York, said the stewards took shelter in staterooms and ate at times refused to obey them.

The Acadia's master, Capt. Robert H. Allen, remarked dryly: "No fun in a storm like that."

A second passenger, William Channing of Lenox, Mass., a graduate student at Harvard University, said the "whole service was bad" and that two engineers had been able to get proper food from stewards for their cabins.

Other passengers complained they had been compelled to pay $100 or more extra passage money.

The hurricane that struck the 603 foot Acadia Tuesday 300 miles south east of Cape Sable, Nova Scotia, also swept one man overboard from the liner President Harding, expected to dock here tomorrow with 73 injured among its passengers and crew.

Capt. Allen of the Acadia estimated the wind velocity reached 150 miles an hour.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

A constant stream of German troops and war materials moving up to the Western Front suggests the German High Command may still have in mind a serious push against the French army before winter sets in. Indications are such an offensive would be welcomed by the Allies although their own strategy at present appears to be purely defensive.

The French have now had seven weeks in which to consolidate their advance positions out in front of the Maginot Line and the British mechanized army with its immense fire power is with them. A German offensive, if it comes directly along the Franco-German border, would have the objective of achieving a victory over the French sufficient to keep up the spirits of the German people through the winter.

AIR COMMODORE IS MENTIONED

Suggested for Office in Project to Train Air Force Pilots of Empire

By FRED BACKHOUSE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Oct. 20—(CP) Cable)—The names of Air Commodore A. C. Critchley and Hugh Dowding both in aviation circles in connection with the plan to train Royal Air Forces and Dominion pilots in Canada.

It is suggested the well-known London sports promoter, a native of Calgary, would be the right man for a key job in the scheme, having had experience in handling large numbers of pupil airmen in the first Great War.

Commodore Critchley at present is commanding a light air training camp in the south of England. When in charge of ground defence of the London area he handled 30,000 cadets and airmen.

Air Vice Marshal Dowding, Standard today said few men know more than he does conditions which will be attached to training R.A.F. pilots in Canada.

"I understand, indeed, that he has had a part in formation of the present scheme," the writer said.

Recalling Commodore Critchley's wide experience in training troops in Canada and England, the writer added it was probable he would be invited to assist in the further development of the present project.

It is reported here that although the nucleus of R.A.F. pilots will be sent from England, it is likely that Canada will provide the majority of the ground personnel and flying instructors.

AIR RAID SIRENS GIVE ALARM AT FIRTH OF FORTH

R.A.F. Fighters Rise to Intercept Unknown Planes Which Disappear

EDINBURGH CALM

Some People Linger in Streets to See if Dog-Fights Would Develop

Edinburgh, Oct. 20 (CP)— Two air-raid warnings were sounded in "precautionary measures" were taken against the threat of Nazi bombing planes over the important Firth of Forth today but the Air Ministry said no bombs were reported dropped.

The communique announcing the second bombing menace in five days said:

"Precautionary measures were taken when unidentified aircraft appeared over the Firth of Forth and at 11 a.m. the all-clear signal at about 11 a.m. over the district.

"No bombs were reported to have been dropped and the all-clear was given within an hour." A second air-raid warning was sounded shortly afterwards but further bulletin will be issued in due course."

HITLER NEVER CONQUEROR, SAYS SEN. JOHNSON

Says It is 'Idiotic Assumption' to Say That Hitler Would Conquer and 'We Will be Next'

OPPOSES REPEAL

Washington, Oct. 20 (AP)—Senator Johnson (Rep., California) labeled as "an idiotic assumption" today what he declared to be the main argument in favor of repeal of the embargo—that Hitler could conquer Europe and "we will be next."

Johnson, 73-year-old Senate veteran, took the senate floor to attack the Berlin-Rome axis and declare the Roosevelt administration's program of neutrality revision which has at its principal point the removal of the arms embargo.

Johnson called that proposed action, which it is admitted by many would operate to the great advantage over Germany in United States arms markets, the "first false step". It "will place us in the shadow of the sword of the bloody Nazi of war," he said.

The argument of repeal supporters, Johnson said, "that if we don't stop Hitler now we will be overrun and we will be next."

"It is a myth," he said.

"What an idiotic assumption," he declared. "Hitler will never conquer Europe. It has never been done and never will. Countless efforts have been made to establish dictatorship by force and none have succeeded. The closest approach to it was by Napoleon and he compare Hitler to Napoleon is absurd."

"It is a mere gamble to change our law so as to help one side defeat the other and yet escape the consequences of war. The gamble may be successful, but if it is not we will be involved and I will not gamble with American lives."

Hope for Acid-Damaged Eyes Seen in New Type of Operation

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Writer)

Philadelphia, Oct. 20 (AP)—Hope for eyes damaged by acids was seen here today in the announcement to the American College of Surgeons.

Acids, one of the most frequent of the present chemical age, often do not blind the eye but render them largely useless by searing the eyeballs so that they stick to eyelids.

Scar tissues ultimately weld lids and eyeballs together, making it fast shut, or hold an eyeball in an immovable, cross-eyed position. Sometimes part of the victims are children.

Dr. Vilray Blair of Washington University, St. Louis, described the operation. When these lids are separated from the eyeballs, the problem is to give the latter a covering to replace its lost, natural mucous membrane covering.

Mucous membranes are too scarce, Dr. Blair explained, to make it feasible to borrow them for eyes. He has established a "mucous bank." This bank is small patches from the patient's own body.

The skin patches are laid over the parts of the eyeballs denuded by the chemicals. A soft shell of wax and cotton, molded to fit over the eyeball, is then placed over the eye to hold it in place until it takes root.

In eight such grafts to date, Dr. Blair said, all but one have been successful.

The patients all made good recoveries and can move their eyeballs and roll their eyes. Dr. Blair said it is now a matter of waiting to see whether there will be complications to upset present good results.

GOV'T TAKING NO CHANCES ON POWER SHORTAGE

At Present Four Times as Much Power Available as in 1914

MAY NEED MORE

Ottawa, Oct. 20 (CP)—Four times as much electric power is available in Canada right now as there was in 1914 but the government is taking no chances of any power shortage developing as industry swings over to munitions production, it was learned here today.

Although there is a comfortable surplus of power being generated at the moment, a substantial increase in demand is anticipated. Accordingly the government is having a special survey made of potential power resources where more power could be obtained most quickly. The survey includes both the possible increase of capacity of certain existing power plants and the construction of new generating developments.

Reports of a renewal of negotiations for international development of the St. Lawrence River are rumored new co-operative attitude on the part of the Ontario government in connection with this survey.

Canada's power position at present is generally felt to equip the country well as a munitions manufacturing centre for the Allies in this war. During the first Great War Canada was able to treble power production up to actual demand. It has never been clear just about meeting current or immediate demands of Canada, authorities here said. Attention is being focused on more distant possibilities.

Balloon Barrage Sites Visited by King, Queen

London, Oct. 20—(CP) — The King and Queen made a two-hour tour of balloon barrage sites in London today.

The King and Queen gazed into the sky, tracing the balloon cable up to the balloon. The King wore the uniform of Marshal of the Royal Air Force.

At another site Their Majesties saw a defence balloon on the ground being refilled with gas. Next they visited the central cook house for the area. The male cook told the Queen the dish on the fire was braised steak. She asked to see it and pronounced it delicious.

The King and Queen also saw a balloon moored in a football ground. Here an officer discussed with Her Majesty the difficulties of lowering these balloons in bad weather.

ALLIES DIGGING IN FOR THE WINTER

British Anti-Aircraft Gunners Praised for Effective Fire on Enemy Bombers

London, Oct. 20—(CP)— High British military authorities indicated today the Allies were "digging in for the winter" on the theory that every day without widespread fighting on the western front is in their favour.

These quarters said that one of the most significant developments of the past week was the "baptism of fire" of British anti-aircraft guns in the raids at the Firth of Forth and Scapa Flow by German bombers.

They said shooting down of eight of 20 or 30 attacking warplanes by comparatively "green"gunners was indicative of the accuracy of the British aircraft defence batteries.

Other points brought out at a high defence conference were:

That the flow of British troops to France is continuing and may increase shortly.

That the standard of firing of anti-aircraft gunners is expected to improve "immeasurably" with practice.

That the British regard the fact that British troops are now under the unified command of General Gamelin as a big step forward in unity of action.

And that the Allies have not ruled out the possibility of an attack by Germany through Belgium and Holland, but that they have made strategy attuned to take care of such a contingency if it arises.

TAR-BARREL BURNS WITH MUCH SMOKE

A blazing tar-barrel, igniting in a mysterious manner, sent fire squads racing to an alleyway between the Belleville Motor Car Co. and a house on West Bridge Street this morning.

Columns of black smoke that rose from the blaze gave rise to the belief that a major fire had started, alarming pedestrians and residents of the vicinity. The blaze was reduced by fire squads before any property damage was done.

REMEMBRANCE DAY TO BE OBSERVED BY A. & N. VETERANS

Elimination of the usual social activities and other accompanying distractions on Remembrance Day, November 11th this year, was decided by members of the executive of the Belleville Branch of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada at their inaugural meeting last night.

The executive decided, however, that the usual parade and deposition of crystals on the Memorial Cenotaph by the branch and any civic organizations who find it inclined, will take place at 10.30 a.m. Sunday Nov. 12th. This function will be followed by a service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for divine service.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPT. LOWERS BOULEVARD NEAR ST. THOMAS CH.

Members of the City Works Department apparently believe that being forewarned is being forearmed. Workmen of the department are at present engaged in lowering the boulevard on East Bridge Street near St. Thomas' Church, so that greater vision can get reader access to the gutter.

Broad red lines painted on the sidewalks in various parts of the city denote the presence of catch basins. This will facilitate the location of the basins in the event of heavy rain or snow.

TWO INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Two persons sustained severe injuries and were rushed to the Belleville General Hospital late last night after the automobile they were riding in crashed into a parked motor car on Highway No. 14, three miles east of Belleville. The injured persons, Mrs. Clifford Henry, 106 Robinson St., Toronto, who sustained a fractured arm and internal injuries and Mrs. Howard Martin, East, who was bruised and cut about the face and body, were both taken to the hospital in the Belleville Burial Company's ambulance. Later Mrs. Martin was discharged after having received medical aid.

The two women were riding in a motor car, driven by Clifford Henry, Toronto, on route to Picton to attend the funeral of Mr. Henry's brother today, when their motor car crashed into the left rear end of a parked automobile, driven by Fred Ellis, 21, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Mr. Ellis had pulled off to the side of the road to repair a tire. The Henry car was completely demolished during the crash, Provincial Constables Irvine and McBrien revealed following investigations. Mr. Ellis assured police he had parked his vehicle well to the side of the road while repairing his tire. The matter is still under investigation. Dr. A. Flynn attended the injured women at the hospital.

BABY ABANDONED WARD OF C.A.S.

Children's Aid Society Inspector T.D. Huston appeared at City Police Court today seeking to have a baby, which was abandoned on the ambulance floor of the Belleville General Hospital on the night of Sept. 29th, last, made a ward of the C.A.S. Mr. A. B. Collins, K.C., City Solicitor, appeared on behalf of the municipality and assured Provincial Magistrate R. J. Butler, K.C., that the baby had been cared for as an infant at the hospital, where it was a charge ward. The child was then made a ward of the Society. Inspector Huston informed the court that efforts to ascertain the mother or parents of the child were still in progress and that a cash reward would be given persons supplying information leading to the apprehension of the baby's mother. At the time the five weeks'-old child was left abandoned on the rear steps of the hospital, it was said to have informed the institution authorities of the whereabouts of the baby by tele-

Mayor W. McKibbon Talks of Trip

Mayor W. McKibbon gave a most interesting illustrated talk to pupils of Picton Collegiate Institute on Wednesday afternoon. He told of his travels in England and Scotland and his story of the country's resources and points of interest were proved very thrilling. Principal Andrew Hall of the C.I. presided over a splendid talk.

Two hundred, including many from town, attended the chicken supper at West Lake on Thursday night. Prof. C. H. Millen, Miss Helen Shannon, Mrs. H. Lockwood, Miss Hetta Hoey of Picton addressed on the program and Donald East of Bloomfield gave an account of his trip to the World Fair in New York.

Red Cross Activities Begin at Wellington

Picton, Oct. 20—Red Cross activities got under way in Wellington on Tuesday evening, when the organization meeting was held in the Town Hall. Despite the rather small attendance, there was a representative gathering and what was lacking in numbers was made up in enthusiasm.

The procedure to be followed in forming a branch was outlined by Reeve Jas. H. Rutter, who presided. After a brief discussion it was decided that a charter should be sought and the following representative committee was appointed to make the application: Mrs. D. A. McCulloch, President; Rev. J. C. McLea, Vice-Presidents; Mr. H. W. Bowerman, Secretary-Treasurer; Rev. E. Grant, Mrs. A. Goodmurphy, Miss B. Dorland, Mrs. Ben Hubbs, Mrs. I. Burd, Mr. L. P. Keane, Mrs. Ben Green, Mrs. Rutter.

A tentative declaion was made to hold work sessions each Friday at which applications for membership will be received by the secretary and many more are expected when it is generally known that organization has been completed.

Subscription Cards Not Turned in May Make Up Deficit

Within possible reach of their objective, the Belleville Y.M.C.A. finance campaign reported a deficit of $613.00, much of which is expected to be subscribed before the campaign closes on Saturday. Dominion Chairman Fred Boyce announced at a campaign luncheon, held in the "Y" auditorium last evening, that a total of $4,014 had been subscribed and accumulated for by the campaign workers from 531 subscriptions which had been accepted. There are among what is known as the "missing" cards yet to be reported upon, and it is the hope of the campaign workers to raise the additional sum needed to meet the operating expenses of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. in this manner and before Saturday.

W. B. Deacon thanked the workers last night for their co-operation and loyalty to the Y. M. C. A. throughout the present campaign, while Chas. A. Cameron, K.C., M.P., conveyed the appreciation of the campaign to the lady workers who served the luncheons.

In the final report of the teams P. C. MacLaurin was reported as high individual, Norm Reynolds' team led in subscriptions and H. W. Ackerman's in high percentage. Leo Riggs' team showed the most new money collected.

The present financial campaign to raise funds for the Belleville Y.M.C.A. is made necessary largely to the expenses incurred and not taken care of through the guarantee of the subscribers. It is through the medium of these collections that the annual "up-up" the gratis boys' work in the "Y" is made possible.

UNARMED BANDIT FAILS IN QUEST

Jumps on Running Board of Motor Car but Becomes Scared and Runs Away

"This is a stick-up; I know you," an unarmed bandit is said to have stated to Mrs. Ackerley, 153 Bridge St., in an unsuccessful attempt to extort money from him early last night. The intended victim related to police authorities.

Jumping on the running board of Mr. Ashley's motor car which he was about to back the vehicle from his garage, a lone unarmed bandit flashed a disguised face directly into his intended victim's face and warned him it was a "stick-up." Calmly Mr. Ashley asked the man how much money he wanted.

"Five dollars," was the reply.

"Alright, come into the house, Mr. Ashley replied in order to lure his assailant into his home in hopes of effecting his capture or getting a better look at his countenance. As Mr. Ashley was jumping over, a neighbor's fence the disappointed man took flight.

Police were notified and P. C. Evans was at the scene a few seconds later, but the man had completely disappeared. A check up of the entire district failed to bring light upon the, attempted burglary. Mr. Ashley stated the man was about 20 years of age and about five feet five inches tall and was wearing grey clothes and a fedora hat.

POLICE COURT

Four teen-aged Trenton youths appeared in city police court, held before Magistrate R. J. Butler, K.C., here today, charged with disorderly conduct. All four youths pleaded guilty and were fined one dollar and $2.25 costs in each case.

"These boys were having a singsong at the top of Murney Hill early the other morning while trying to solicit a ride home. Naturally it disturbed the neighbors, who complained to the police," explained Crown Attorney R. D. Donnan K.C., in presenting the cases.

Roy C. Peters, Belleville, appeared charged on eight counts of theft from his employers, the Electrolux Company. Salary pleaded guilty to

OBITUARY

MRS. EMMA PRICE CALLEY (Madoc)

Madoc, Oct. 20 (Special)—The funeral of Mrs. Emma Price Calley of the late James Calley was held on Wednesday from her late residence to Mt. View Street to Sacred Heart Church. Rev. Father Hinchey conducted Requiem Mass with interment in Sacred Heart cemetery.

The late Mrs. Calley was highly respected by all who knew her and by the exception of a few years spent in Rungerford Township had lived in Madoc her entire life. Born in Madoc seventy-six years ago she was noted for her charitable and benign disposition. She was an ardent and active church worker until failing health left her incapable some four years ago. Her late husband predeceased her eighteen years ago. She leave to mourn their loss one daughter, Mrs. Thomas, of Windsor, three daughters, (Celina) Mrs. W. J. Mollard, Mrs. Pearson, Cora, (Mary) Mrs. T. Foretell, Campbellford and (Christina) Mrs. L. Mc-rooney, Madoc, one sister Mrs. D. L. McKinnon, and two brothers Harry and C. V. Price, of Sudbury. The pall bearers were Robert O'Horgan, W. McBain, Alex Mahaffy, Will Stewart, George Wright and George Walsh, all old and esteemed friends of the deceased.

MRS. CAROLINE SALISBURY, (Watertown, N.Y.)

Mrs. Caroline Harriet Carrie Salisbury, widow of the late James Franklin Gallbreyt, passed away at Watertown, N.Y., her home in Watertown, N.Y., after a long illness.

The funeral service was held at the family home in Watertown at Interment took place in the Watertown cemetery.

Caroline Carrie was the second daughter of the late Peter and Jane Ferguson. She was born near Moira, Huntington, township, Hastings County, Ontario. She was a resident resided in the Moira neighborhood for a considerable period after their marriage and moved to Watertown, N.Y. about fifty years ago. Her husband predeceased her in February of the present year.

She is survived by two sons and three daughters, all of whom reside in Watertown, Arthur, Malcolm, Jessie, Theda and Louisa. She is also survived by three brothers and two sisters, William and Clayton of Moira, Daniel of Thurlow, Mrs. Jane Wither and Mrs. Johns of Toronto. A son, Clayton, was accidentally killed about three years ago.

Mrs. Salisbury was a member of the Methodist church and popular among her many friends because of her kindly disposition and her unaffected sincerity of character.

MISS ALWILDA A. MILLER, Foxboro

After a brief illness Miss Alwilda A. Miller passed away at the residence of her niece, Miss Ethel Gowsell, in the village of Foxboro, early this Friday morning. Twelve days ago the deceased fell and sustained a fractured hip.

The late Miss Miller was born in Ameliasburgh in Hastings County, her parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Miller. During the past twenty-nine years she had resided in Foxboro and was held in high esteem by many friends. Previous to her passing has brought sincere sorrow to them. The religion she was a member of the United Church and at Foxboro was actively associated with the Women's Missionary Society and the Women's Auxiliary in connection with the church.

Surviving her are two nieces, Miss Ethel Gowsell, Foxboro; Mrs. Ruggles Mc. Standing; one brother, Mr. Everett Miller, Montreal; one sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Miller of Belleville.

The funeral announcement is in charge of Mr. Ponton.

WALLACE DERWIN SIMMONS (Plainfield).

Wallace Derwin Simmons, instantly killed on Thursday morning, when a standing chimney of a burned house toppled upon him while he was viewing the ruins with his wife, was a lifelong resident of Plainfield district and was well and favorably known in that locality. His untimely death will sincerely regret his sudden demise.

The late Mr. Simmons was born in Foxboro 61 years ago, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Simmons and has resided in that community all his life. He entered the farming profession as a young man. He was a member of Carmel Methodist church and, fraternally was identified with The Belleville Lodge, A. F. & A. M. No. 121, having served as his wife, formerly Victoria Freeman, one son Ira Simmons of Roxyn, Quebec and one daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) Alfred N. Winton of Kenmore, Ontario.

The funeral announcement will be found elsewhere in this issue.

LATE HENRY SUMMERSELL

The funeral of Henry Summersell took place from the Belleville Funeral Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, Thursday afternoon, October 19th. The service in the chapel and at the grave-side in Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. C. T. Ohm-hard, pastor of the Victoria Ave. Baptist church.

LATE WILLIAM BOTH Northbrook

Tweed (Special)—William Both, of Northbrook, passed away on Tuesday night at the age of seventy-nine. The deceased had been ill but a short time and death was quite unexpected. At the time of his death the deceased was employed as postmaster of Northbrook, a position he had held since 1918. In 1926 he received from the Postmaster Generals Department a bronze medal as a token of appreciation for his faithful service over such a long period of years.

The late William Both was a prominent figure in the community, as trustee of United Church, secretary-treasurer of the School Section for nearly half a century and member of the Masonic Order for two decades.

The funeral on Wednesday was largely attended. It was held under the auspices of the Masonic INDIGESTION AND GAS PAINS GONE, NOW FEELS FINE!

"I Feel Better Than in Six Years Since I Got Mosby's Tonic!" Says Mr. LaLiberte. Had Stomach Distress, Pains in Back, Worn Out Feelings and Constipation Before He Found This New Medicine.

Seldom in local history, say some of the Leading Druggists of this city, has any medicine created as much discussion in Belleville as has

MOSBY'S TONIC. This is a "New Mixture of Herbs, Roots and Herbs and Other Splendid Medicinal Agents," now being introduced to the public daily at Lattimer's Drug Store, your Rexall Dealer in Belleville, 326 Front Street. People throughout this section are praising this medicine and say they gladly endorse Mosby's Tonic. It certainly gave me relief and I want others to know it!" For instance, just a few days ago A. E. LaLiberte of 903 Manning Ave., Kingsville, Ont., made the following statement:

Six Years Suffering Made Him Weak, Worn Out

"I just feel so grateful to Mosby's Tonic after what it did for me that I want to give you my statement and you may use it in any way you see fit, if you wish," Mr. LaLiberte said. "For past six years I had been a victim of most distressing gas, bloating which would cause my food to come back up into my throat and I would suffer with gas pains for hours after eating and if I went without food I suffered the pains would be almost more than I could stand. I was also very much constipated, and I felt weak and worn out all the time.

"So you can see that I had my share of suffering before I got relief with Mosby's Tonic," Mr. LaLiberte said. And I want to say that this medicine is the finest thing I've ever taken for indigestion. It relieved my gassy indigestion in a few days, my pains left and I can eat a full meal without any distress whatever. Why, for the past 6 weeks I've eaten anything, for it has relieved those pains completely and I feel fine. It has also helped relieved the constipation trouble. I have been very glad to tell you about it and hope it helps others as it has me." (Yes, I'll say so! Mosby's Tonic is a Blessing.) Mr. LaLiberte gave us permission to publish his statement and it is given just as he wrote it.

Acts Many Ways on Your System at One Time

MOSBY'S TONIC contains 20 Ingredients (not 10 as in many) which act on your system at once and the same time. It helps to relieve you of pains from stomach, liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of liver bile, and makes sluggish kidneys more active, and helps relieve rheumatic and neuritic pain when due to contamination from the sluggish action of these organs. Mosby's Tonic is a concentrated medicine which is the result of Mosby's Tonic is Reasonable. Don't hesitate. Get Mosby's Tonic today—and GALA EVENT!

'Control of Cancer' Subject Of Address by Dr. G. H. Stobie Before the Women's Institute

Nature, Symptoms and Treatment of Disease Brilliantly Handled in Paper Given

WIDENING SCOPE

Good Wishes of Provincial President Conveyed by Mrs. McDowell

Speaking to the Women's Institute in session at St. Thomas' Parish Hall last evening on the "Control of Cancer," Dr. G. H. Stobie in a brilliant address explaining the nature, symptoms and treatment of this dread disease, made an invaluable contribution to the convention program. His clear and interesting discussion gave his hearers a better understanding of a disease which is unfortunately regarded with such reluctance that ignorance surrounds cancer when knowledge can do much to combat it.

Mrs. Annie Bailey, as chairman, was in the chair for the evening's program. The stage was beautifully arranged with ferns and chrysanthemums while examples of handiwork lent a further decorative note to the setting. Another attraction was provided a splendid musical program that was greatly appreciated by the audience.

Mrs. Tucker gave two humorous readings that delighted her hearers, "Solomon's Wife's Mother" and "Charlie" and Mrs. Dafoe of Hillier described the "Making of the Flag."

Miss Beatrice Jones

Miss Beatrice Jones gave a brief and inspiring message to the delegates reminding the great privileges it is to belong to a country where freedom of speech and thought is every citizen's right. Women of the Institute in this Christian nation could do much by living Christ-like example of well doing to others. From the convention, delegates could take home this appreciation of living in a privileged country, a sense of friendliness that has been stimulated by meeting associates and by radiating a light that would shine as an incentive to others.

Mrs. G. Manore, Belleville, gave an interesting reading: "The Touch of the Master's Hand" and "Example."

Growth of Convention

The good wishes of Miss Mary A. Clarke, Superintendent, Ontario Women's Institute and the Provincial President, Mrs. Macdowell, were conveyed by Mrs M. V. Powell, General Assistant, Ontario Women's Institute. In her address she traced the growth of the Ontario conventions from one convention in the province to fourteen convention areas where branch delegates confer each year.

Fifty-three leaders came to the first convention in 1903 while in this area alone there are 51 branches. Miss Powell dwelt on the thought "The strength of the Institute lies in the interest of the people." The rural woman with her knowledge of farm conditions, her one-ness of interest, and intimate and definite home life tends to create a complete bond of unity. With broader vision and a widening scope of women's interests she has linked her home with community life. Her contact has grown nation wide and she has become international minded, the growth of Women's Institutes having tended to bring about this growth of vision.

In the organization from the branch to the international there is a force such as the world has never known, with members ready at all earnest, capable, practical women of all walks in life working together in harmony.

To carry on such development careful thought should be given to choice of leaders, selecting those with ability, energy and tact who will be imbued with the spirit of her office.

The Women's Institute was organized for the purpose of more efficient home making and community building and its aim is educating women for the great profession of homemaking and as she gave many helpful suggestions that would help achieve the high ideal toward which the Institute is working. Her words were inspirational and full of information with community and national life.

As an organization bound together for home and country, Miss Powell reminded her hearers that they also serve who only stand and wait and it was their duty to remain calm and unafraid in the trials ahead, conserving their physical and mental energies until the call for service came. No matter how dark the times the principles on which the Empire was founded—liberty, justice and truth shall prevail.

Dr. G. H. Stobie

Introduced to his hearers by the presiding officer, Dr. Stobie said that the subject of cancer was one which should vitally interest everyone and humanitarian in its connection. Dissemination of knowledge to the public was reducing the death rate in cancer and such startling results had been obtained by instruction as to the methods that in the United States the sum of $100,000 is given each year while in Canada the King George Jubilee Cancer Fund of over $500,000 was subscribed in 1934 for the purpose of telling suffering souls that all hope was not lost.

Cancer is the second largest killing disease, causing 70,000 deaths in Canada last year. It appears to be increasing and this is the irony of human endeavour, that medical science, preventing such infectious diseases as typhoid, pox typhoid and many others, has prolonged human life to the cancerous age. However, important advances have been made in the attack on the problem of cancer.

Dr. Stobie discussed the nature of cancer, a disorder of growth damaging the body in two ways: in one the damage is local and the other distant and explained the diagnosis and treatment should be done early.

Cancer cannot be related to any single cause. It is not contagious nor infectious and anyone nursing a patient who has cancer need have no fear of contracting cancer. Chronic irritation has been known for some time to be a factor in causing cancer.

Early Symptoms

The appearance of lumps in any part of the body, especially if painless, or lumps that have been present for years that suddenly commence to grow. They should be removed and examined microscopically, onset of unexplained bleeding early part of the body should be thoroughly investigated, ulcers that refuse to heal should be regarded with suspicion and removed; the onset of stone in the bladder in middle life or any marked increase in constipation, persistent indigestion or cramps, should be thoroughly investigated. Dr. Stobie urged that when a cracked lip which won't heal; a sore tongue which continues to be sore; a hoarseness of the voice which persists past the duration of the common cold; difficulty in swallowing your food.

Be your own guard, said Dr. Stobie to learn the early signs and report them to your doctor. If you are free of these suspicious signs or symptoms, the chances are three to one against cancer, but on the other hand, the chances are one in four that early cancer is the cause. Submit to whatever examination is required ... order to arrive at a diagnosis. It is unworthy of the name with ridicule the so-called "groundless fears." With any of the signs or symptoms above enumerated there is no such thing as a "ground-less" fear" of cancer. Your doctor will be just as pleased as you if he is able to state that you have no cancer after a careful examination. This decision cannot always be reached at the first examination. It may take repeated examinations and carefully conscientious watching before a diagnosis is possible, so don't be impatient and turn to someone who is not competent without thorough investigation or one who promises to cure you. By cancer it is only meant that some secret remedy such as serum, etc. is the cure. Many men of medical men as well as the public feel that the condition is hopeless as far as a diagnosis of cancer is made.

Cancer Curable

If you know everything else which I have said this evening, I want to remember that cancer is curable in its earliest stages and many can be cured even in advanced stages. Medical men are very reluctant to use the term cure. It is a dangerous word when one can cure cancer. Beware of it and avoid him like the plague. The only prefer to refer to it as treatment. We have two main lines of attack, first we remove the growth with as wide a margin of tissue as possible which may contain cancer cells, without affecting vital structures along with the lymph glands that drain the area which the growth is removed. Then the area is radiated with powerful X-rays or combination from radium in an effort to kill any cancer cells that may remain. It is just as if you had a very troublesome weed in your garden which you wish to get rid of. You first spade it up along with the earth around the roots, but you are not quite certain that every fine little root has been removed and there may be some seeds scattered about in the soil which will commence to grow next year or in two or three years. Just as with cancer, and x-ray and radium are very effective in killing the cancer cells but we don't know that if the weed is removed early before the roots have penetrated deeply and before it has gone to seed, hopes for complete eradication are much better, so it is with cancer, remove it early before it penetrates deeply into vital structures which cannot be removed and especially before some lived 25 years, 85 out of 112 cases were alive at the end of 10 years. Those cases came early.

"I do not wish to give the impression that all cancers, regardless of the length of time they have been present, can be cured, for the sad truth is that cancer is being cured every day and this includes many cancers of internal organs.

"In closing I again wish to reiterate that cancer can be cured. Knowledge is the first line of defence against this common enemy. 70,000 people die in Canada every year from cancer. It is estimated that 25 per cent of these people could be cured by surgery, radium and x-ray if they would seek skilled advice at the first sign of trouble. 70 per cent of cancer patients today when they report to a doctor are untreatable because they come too late. This is your problem.

"To be forewarned is to be forearmed. The Canadian Society for the Control of Cancer places its services at your disposal, use it for your protection."

NORTHERN DEMOCRACIES

Through close collaboration the four democratic countries, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, the three Scandinavian kingdoms and Finland, who have been consulting at Stockholm, will pursue their course along the lines of neutrality. Every democratic country will wish them success for they would stand little chance against a powerful enemy or group of enemies.

The difference between the true Nordic Powers of the North, the Scandinavians, as against the Germans who spoke of "Nordics" as peculiarly German in the days when purification of the German race was so much emphasized and when Adolf Hitler was rattling the sword toward the Ukraine for the delectation of the Germans, stands out clearly today. These Scandinavians and the Finns are democrats, they have no dictators, they are among the most progressive states in Europe, many times more successful than Germany, they do not put their trust in military might, they want security to develop their democracies to the legitimate goal of increasing the happiness of their peoples and are not looking with envy on other lands. They are a unit, they face the Finnish-Russian issue, and they want and need security.

These northern states have been permitted to develop their democracy because the Central European Powers did not bother them in 1914-18 as they were really outside the war picture. Another reason for their development is that the Royal Navy has held the balance of power in Europe for many years, thus permitting these states in safety to develop their democratic systems. Finland of course came out of the throes of the crack-up of the Czarist regime.

As military powers they could not prove effective against the mass of Germany or Russia and while they regard their neutrality as paramount, they undoubtedly realize it is contingent only upon Anglo-French success in the war. Democracies ever closer to the picture of the new armageddon are Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and Switzerland. These latter could put up quite an effective fight in case Germany should invade their neutrality.

One cannot but feel the intensest sympathy for these northern powers which have under the law of man, every right to exist, and yet they would not doubt under the threat of the whims of Hitler, whose method is savage and barbarous.

The Scandinavian countries and Finland are so situated that they are particularly susceptible to invasion. No one doubts that a victorious Germany would crush the last vestige of liberty and progress out of Denmark, the little kingdom which rests on the north of Germany.

Norway and Sweden have been so isolated that they have escaped the hands of suppression, or there is no longer such isolation. Sweden touches Finland and Finland was a part of old Russia.

The three kingdoms of Denmark, Norway and Sweden and between Russia, Germany, the North Sea, which is one of the great centres of the war of planes and ships today.

The world hopes that the Norwegians, Danes, Finns and Swedes will be able to preserve their freedom. They have the democratic world with them.

ANGLO - FRANCO - TURKISH PACT

The mutual assistance pact signed by Turkey with Great Britain and France yesterday is hailed with enthusiasm by every branch of thought in the democracies. Highest praise has been given in the press to the proof that Turkey gave to the honoring of the pledges which she has had with the western democracies. That it is a blow to Nazi Germany's aims southward is admitted by every observer and even German opinion today looks upon it as a blow to their aspirations, though they say that ultimately they believe Turkey will see that her interest lies with Germany and Russia.

Turkey is praised throughout the British press for this demonstration of the high sense of honor of the Turkish government in the midst of a world which knows only too much of broken pledges and guarantees. The Turks have proven true friends.

Instead of Turkey seeing that her future lies with Germany, the Turks see that it lies with the free nations or democracies. Turkey as a republic has made great advances during the past two decades and the Turkish government has again and again honored its pledges. The Turkish foreign minister is given high praise for his handling of the Soviet-Turkish negotiations.

Turkey is an invaluable ally in the eastern end of the Mediterranean.

Her relations with Russia also will continue friendly and the British press notes that it is in the interest of Britain that friendship should continue.

A DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS PASSES

Albert R. Carman, editor-in-chief of the Montreal Star, who died this week was closely associated with Belleville in the early eighties. His father, the late Rev. Dr. Albert Carman, one of the great figures in Methodism, was first principal of Albert College, and the son, Albert R. Carman, was educated at this institution.

Today the college mourns Dr. Albert R. Carman as one of its outstanding graduates, who had made for himself a large place in Canadian journalism and in literature. It is worth noting that last winter Dr. Carman, who was spending the season in California, wrote to the Alumni Column of the Alibi, the college paper, a message which shows the attraction the school had for him and also his appreciation of the contribution the college had made to the individual lives of students and graduates and also to the world. The Montreal journalist then wrote: "I would be delighted to say to the students of Albert, who are now struggling with the problems and kindly hopes that kept us on our toes away back in the 1880's, that there is no better place to start than Albert College. The boys I knew have pretty nearly all made the grade. If we take into consideration the size of our classes, always small, I believe, the sons of Albert scored as many bull's eyes to the dozen as the alumni of any other college. Our professors never got into the magazines or rotogravure sections, but I know of no men of greater objects before we were loose on the world. Albert College did not run any post-graduate employment agency for lame ducks, it educated its men and turned them out able to take care of themselves."

Here in his seventies, a man, who had watched the development of Canada, who had observed and written of world problems for nearly half a century, showed his kindly thoughts for the alma mater where he was trained. His loyalty to the school is clear from the words he wrote.

In his own case, Dr. Carman achieved a place in the world, the college knows. The college honors his memory because he was a student and because of the treasured memory of his father, who was a great figure in the life of the school and of the church of which he was General Superintendent. Albert College is proud of its dead, yet they lived and her graduates mourn his loss.

MAN OR MECHANISM

The British commander, Viscount Gort, still places the main emphasis in war on man power as superior to mechanized strength. In the Spanish war mechanism was strong but man power was stronger. In that struggle people lived beneath the surface of the earth and when the war was over emerged from their hiding places. They withstood all the horrors of conflict. And the infantry held its place despite the attacks of guns and bombs.

Of course, it is difficult to say that man is behind the weapons and that without him there would be no effective war. Still man power seems the chief essential.

Mechanized war will use up the resources of the nations more quickly than a war without mechanism. It is said today that more and more men are needed behind the front for the actual combatants. The big machine of mechanized warfare shows even in Germany that the number of combatants is reduced to keep up the gigantic moloch or juggernaut the Germans used to flatten Poland and which they will try to use on the western front. But there they will find against them a great mechanism infinitely more than that, a mighty body of freemen, battling for democracy.

Viscount Gort, whose knowledge of military life is extensive, ought to know the relative value of man power and mechanism.

A GOOD BEGINNING

"We have made a good beginning," said the British Prime Minister the other day. He was referring specifically to the British defences along the coasts especially against aircraft, but his remarks may well be considered as referring to the conduct of the entire war. Two great peaceful democracies have turned their hand to war and have met the foe at every point.

Britain and France have reason to be proud of their initial undertakings in a war on the vast scale now raging and with surprises considered such as the entry of Russia into the scene oh the east side.

A Worthy Cause

The stirring appeal which has been sounded during the past few months for financial support to ensure continued maintenance of Jack Miner's Bird Sanctuary in Western Canada should strike a responsive chord in the breast of every lover of wild birds and every true sportsman of the entire country.

When it is remembered that Jack Miner, at great personal sacrifice to himself and family, has done pioneer work in bird banding for a long period of years and added to valuable information which has made conservation measures based on present day scale possible, it is not too much to suggest that his work is deserving of recognition in a practical way, at least to the extent that will enable the work to be carried on. It would not be going too far afield to state that every sportsman in the United States and Canada owes him a debt of gratitude.

The banding of ducks and geese by Jack Miner, and in later years by the Biological Survey of Washington, has revealed that there are three migratory routes which the birds follow in their annual flights to and from their breeding grounds. One route lies east of the Mississippi, another west of the Mississippi to the Rocky Mountains and the third is along the Pacific Coast, west of the mountains.

The ducks and geese banded by Jack Miner at Kingsville, part of which is centrally located along the Great Lakes, are the birds which migrated that east of the Mississippi with the exception of the odd bird which has strayed across to the western side of that big river.

It has been Jack Miner's sanctuary and his activities at Kingsville that have served to supply ducks for hunters, and especially those who enjoy their sport in Southern Illinois and the junction of the Illinois and Mississippi rivers and eastward through to Carruthers Sound, Lake Matiamuskeg and other winter quarters.

Benefited Greatly

The band records compiled by Jack Miner over a period of many years prove that the sportsmen along the Atlantic Coast and in the Eastern United States benefit very little from the activities of the Kingsville sanctuary or of Western Canada.

The actual value of the Jack Miner's bird banding activities is that it has given the people of the United States and Canada indisputable records of the number and percentage of ducks and geese killed for by the famous Canadian bird sanctuary that are shot in the United States.

Jack Miner, as well as many other Canadian sports men, conservationists and public spirited citizens, feels that the sportsmen of the United States should show a healthy support by aiding him in a tangible way by raising sufficient funds to make it possible to maintain his establishment and carry on his work.

At the present time hundreds of thousands of dollars are being spent in Western Canada by Ducks Unlimited, money which is raised in the United States to restore former breeding grounds and establish new ones in Western Canada to which ducks may be attracted by sportsmen to shoot. If it is possible to raise funds to carry on among the hunters of the United States for this same purpose, there should be a few thousand dollars available to assist Jack Miner whose activities have spelled success for nearly half a century.

It is the wish of 1938 that Jack Miner had a floating population of between 30,000 and 40,000 Canada geese for three months in the spring and three months in the fall, that could be fed by him and given a safe haven from the hunters' guns.

Last winter a flock of Canada geese numbering between 8,000 and 10,000 never entered the United States remaining at the Kingsville sanctuary all winter. The increase from this flock alone will give the sportsmen in the United States this fall an opportunity to shoot an additional 15,000 to 25,000 geese.

Miner's Fortune Spent

With these facts in mind an appeal to American sportsmen to maintain the Jack Miner sanctuary should not be made in vain.

The result of close contact with Jack Miner and his work over a period of many years, contributors can be assured that any assistance which can be given will not only be gladly accepted but will be expended to the greatest possible advantage. Jack Miner himself has spent his entire personal fortune on this work and has contributed his own time and that of his family to this great cause.

In a recent announcement it was pointed out that cheques should be made payable personally to Jack Miner, Kingsville, Ontario, and it was stated that to those who wish to secure a statement of actual financial conditions before large amounts are contributed, a detailed statement of the bank handling the account at Kingsville will be mailed.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Value of Tight Abdominal Muscles

For a number of years I lectured to high school boys (and other university graduates) on health and fitness, which lectures were largely based on to the students whom they would teach. I tried to point out that it is not good for young people to sit and stand correctly—attain proper posture—but should likely keep this in mind for themselves throughout life and would likely watch the posture of their children.

An upright carriage means more than physical appearance, more than intestine, thus providing for those vital needs of the body—a strong heart, free lungs, and proper food absorption of food, and the prevention of constipation.

It is interesting therefore to read in Hygeia, the health magazine, of the training of the West Point cadets, as recorded by William J. Reynolds, Jr.:

"The purpose of the Academy's physical training is not primarily to develop the cadet physically, it must implant within him the urge for lifetime fitness. He must be taught him through instruction and practice how to condition others to take care of themselves physically and hygienically. Through all his activities he is being constantly reminded by his superiors, the upper classmen, that he should keep his head up, marching, twice as fast as the ordinary "quick" march), or trot everywhere, sit up straight in the mess hall, eat slowly, pull in his chin, raise his chest, and "drag in his stomach".

"It is this "holding" in or "dragging in" of the stomach that most physical directors emphasize in developing good posture. The West Point cadet learns this his first day and never forgets it during his entire training, and, in most cases, never forgets it during his life time. The drawn in stomach or abdomen carries the shoulders back naturally, "lessens the curves in the spine, and draws the chin backward which keeps the head erect.

It would be worth while for all of us to stand sideways to a mirror in a perfectly natural manner. Then do just one thing: draw in the stomach and abdomen. This one simple act—drawing in the stomach or standing "tall"—will give us the correct posture.

How can you keep this "tall" posture? Developing the abdominal muscles by various breathing exercises —keeping knees straight—and lying on the floor and raising legs straight; will tighten the abdominal muscles. Tight abdominal muscles will give you correct carriage.

His Excellency's Back

When Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General, took hold of the plough handles at the match at Brockville and kept a straight furrow for 36 feet, the owner of the team stepped over, slapped him on the back, and said: "You are a good ploughman, Lord Tweedsmuir."

This is democracy. This is what Canada is fighting for at the present time, the right of a humble man, anyone else, to speak to the highest in the country in an offhand, yet respectful, way. Imagine a German farmer having the temerity to step up to and slap Reichsfuehrer Hitler on the back! Why, if Hitler attempted a ploughing match in Germany, all the ploughmen would have to goosestep their way down the furrow.

Yet we feel certain that Lord Tweedsmuir will cherish the memory of this encouraging pat on the back more than many complimentary tributes to him as Governor-General at banquets held in the big cities. Nor will he be paid to him as John Buchan for his best book. There is considerable of the homespun tweed about our Lord Tweedsmuir.—Windsor Daily Star.

A Page of History

Manchester Guardian: Nobody can say at this moment what is going to happen to Europe in the next few months in consequence of the German invasion of Poland. But one thing is certain: the exact what combinations will different states be forced? Will racial sentiment or class fear and class interest be stronger in those peoples who are drawn in one direction by the first and in the other by the second? Are we watching a chapter of history as violent, as swift, and as dramatic in its surprises as that through which Europe passed when the French Revolution threw up Napoleon? To these questions no answer can be given in this country or indeed in any other. Who could have foretold when Napoleon began the war by the murder signed the Treaty of Tilsit in 1807 that Napoleon would one day lose in the Russian snows an army resembling in its size and in its variety of races serving in its ranks the army Xerxes led to Greece? In a world in a world in a world of war must depend on diplomatic skill.—Manchester Guardian.

A Grave Conference

They call them the "aristocratic democracies" of the north. For their achievements they deserve the title. Most of the rest of the world have a better—if as good—standard of living for their people, a more efficiently ordered society, a more fervent and realistic appreciation of free government than the lands of Scandinavia.

Against the darkening background of war, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland must weigh the issues. They desperately to defend their right to live as they want to live. They fear the war. They have no ambitions for extending territory. Their armed forces are relatively small. The drivel of Nordic supremacy has been driven down the blind road to international adventure. They simply want to keep what is rightly theirs, to live as free men. That is also the object chosen in the world. What is the meaning of this grave conference in Stockholm? For two or three decades of neutrality they are threatened by political juggernauts. Their territory is threatened. Their institutions are threatened. The gains of social uplift two of the greatest powers in the world, Germany and Russia, are being destroyed in the crushing military autocracy, a system that bleeds the people white for war and conquest. These armies cannot be maintained forever while populations chafe under the ghastly oppression of their ruling cliques. They were built for war and spend their wealth for war and destruction they would fulfill that purpose.

What will be anticipated by reasonable people who stop to think how the grand "democracy" of Hitler and Stalin was taken as a surprise, not as the inevitable conclusion of the tactics of falsehood and the sword.

Very real is the challenge now to the Scandinavians, as it is to us. "Neutrality" they have declared, but "neutrality" meaning in the upsurge of the abominable principle of force. —Hamilton Spectator.

GHOSTS WALKING

York, England (CP)—The stained glass windows have been removed from York Minister for protection, and townsfolk have already seen ghosts wandering about the church aisles, mourning the departed glories'

Tweed

Tweed, Oct. 20—Mr. Howard Legvold who was instantly killed on Sunday in Kingston was a former resident of Tweed. His father was proprietor of The Huyck House about fifteen years ago. The young man who was in his thirtieth year met death together with his wife and another couple when their car crashed into the side of the bridge early on Sunday morning.

The Evening Auxiliary of the United Church held a very interesting meeting on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Myles. Miss Hazel Grindell president had charge of the worship service. During this part of the service, Mrs. S. H. Conner sang "I Came To Thee". Mrs. Robt. Woods read a poem, Mrs. T. E. Moffat introduced the Study Book "India". Her excellent and interesting address was preceded by a series of questions and answers dealing with geographical and historical facts about India. Miss Lois Richardson played as a piano solo "The Song of India" which is an interpretation of Indian music with the drums providing the monotonous undertones.

On display were a number of articles of various kinds made by the native artisans of India. All the work is hand made and included a beautiful jewel case inlaid with ivory, a display of native rugs, a screen, a tamtom table and other articles. These belong to Mrs. (Rev.) H. L. Morrow. They were sent to her some time ago by her brother who lives in India.

Another interesting display was a large panoramic view of an Indian scene painted by Mrs. Merrill Pipe of Actinolite. The work was beautifully executed by Mrs. Price who is a painter of more than ordinary ability, and who loaned the display to the Evening Auxiliary for the meeting.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Myles, assisted by Mrs. R. Woods and Miss H. Blakely.

At a meeting of the Tweed branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society held in the Council Chambers on Monday night several important matters were dealt with. Reports of committees previously appointed were given by Mrs. J. C. Hayes who said that a number of ladies were engaged in knitting and had turned in several pairs of socks.

Discussion was general regarding the affiliation of outside districts with Tweed and the consensus of opinion was that two or three members of the local group should visit any outside area which wishes to undertake Red Cross war work and assist them in getting established.

The following committees were appointed according to the set-up approved and recommended by Canadian Red Cross.

Community War Council: President, W. E. Hanna and Vice-Presidents, Mrs. M. J. Quinn, Mrs. J. C. Hayes, Mrs. F. B. Foster, Mrs. S. B. Rollins and Mrs. Elias Wright. General Campaign Committee: Messrs S. B. Rollins, W. LeSage, R. White (convener), C. H. Kerr, H. W. Crosbie, Mrs. (Dr.) Doyle, Mrs. D. W. Sills, Mrs. F. C. Arber, Mrs. W. E. Frost, Miss C. Mckilvohn. Women's War Work Committee: Mrs. Fire Vice-Presidents: Mrs. Quinn, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Rollins, Mrs. Wright to from the ranks of the committee and to be added to their number at a subsequent meeting.

It was decided to meet regularly on the second Monday of each month in the council chambers. A motion was passed instructing the secretary, S. H. Connor, to compile a list of the men from Tweed and district who have enlisted and post it in the room where the ladies hold their meetings. It was decided to ask to council for permission to use the council chambers as the regular work room where the ladies may carry on their work of serving, knitting, etc.

A car driven by James Parm in which Jack Reeves was a passenger was turned on its side when it collided with a truck at the narrow bridge south of Tweed. Parm escaped with a shaking up, but Reeves was cut about the head, although not seriously injured. Chief J. C. Hayes investigated the accident.

THIS SIGNAL MUST NOT FAIL

A DARK night—you're tired and in a hurry—and the express is coming! The unfailing service of the railroad's Exide battery-equipped signal comes to your rescue. Gongs ring, lights flash and signal you to stop. The railroad has once again done its share to protect you.

The railway's code is that signals must not fail. They demand the best and behind the vigilance of these signals stands the dependable performance of Exide storage batteries. It is significant that to help operate railway signals, railways choose Exide batteries. From long experience they know they can place their faith in Exide—the dependable battery.

Don't take chances with the starting and lighting of your car. The average motorist does not have the facilities to test accurately all the different makes of batteries before he buys. Therefore, we suggest that you take the advice of the railway engineers who know a good battery. They choose Exide. What other battery offers you such proof of its merit!

There is an Exide battery especially designed to suit your particular requirements. If you are hard on a battery—if you are starting a lot—if you use a defroster, a radio or a heater, ask to see the Exide Hycap; a battery of high capacity.

There is an Exide dealer in your community. He has been carefully chosen for his ability to give you good battery service. Look for his Exide dealer sign —symbol of honest service.

Weddings

SAGER—HOLMES

Queensboro, (Special) — A very pretty Autumn wedding was solemnized in Queensboro United Church parsonage on Wednesday, October 18th, at 4 o'clock when Isabel Ann, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Holmes, became the bride of Mr. Ellis Sager, also only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Sager, Queensboro.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. D. Snelgrove in the presence of the immediate relatives.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white satin made on princess line with floor length with tulle veil and bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried pink asters and fern.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ina Mae Sager, sister of the groom, was dressed in Rosemary Rose taffeta, also made in floor length.

Miss Sager was assisted by his cousin, Mr. Gordon Sager.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding dinner was served by girl friends of the bride.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Sager left on a motor trip to Peterborough, Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points west, the bride travelling in white dress, coat and hat, with white accessories.

On their return they will reside on the groom's farm near Queensboro.

Holloway Street Woman's Association

The regular monthly meeting and afternoon tea of the Holloway Street Association was held at the home of Mrs. H. B. Pettetyer, 17 Holloway Street, on Thursday afternoon, October 19th.

The meeting opened by all singing "Abide with Me," followed by prayer by Mrs. B. Mason. A literature lesson was read by Mrs. H. Liddle. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and reports of committee and secretaries were given, and various matters of business discussed. Roll call was taken with 25 present. Mrs. M. Denton then took charge of the meeting. A reading, "Oil on the Troubled Waters," was given by Mrs. Sweetman, and was much enjoyed. Mrs. Farnsworth then gave the 100th Psalm as it was read 100 B. C. and the modern version and followed by a very helpful and inspiring address, "Thanksgiving."

A duet, "Whispering Hope," by Mrs. J. Livesey and Mrs. C. MacDonald was then rendered, followed by "O God Our Help in Ages Past" was sung and the meeting closed by all repeating the Lords Benediction. Mrs. Denton and her group then served delicious refreshments. The tea-table looked very attractive with centre piece of candles with a deep centrepiece of colored asters and yellow tapers. Mrs. A. Hall and Mrs. D. Lloyd poured tea and those assisting were Mrs. Penlington, Mrs. Livesey, Mrs. Donnelly and Mrs. W. Johns.

AT THE BELLE

"The Rains Came" The power of one of today's great novels will be full scope on the screen in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Rains Came," the sensationally successful best seller by Louis Bromfield which opens next Saturday at the Belle Theatre, with Myrna Loy, Tyrone Power, George Brent sharing stellar honors.

These fascinating, strangely-assorted humans, cut off from the world in the seclusion of Manderpur, India, with all reminders of civilization blotted out except strife-away, as the angry forces of nature, battle in this 20th Century-Fox film. Faithful in mood and detail to the best seller "The Rains Came" preserves all of Bromfield's character.

Myrna Loy breaks with the "perfect wife" tradition to play the amorous Lady Edwina Ekaith; Tyrone Power has his most romantic role as the high-caste Hindu surgeon, Major Rama Safti, who proves the one great love of Lady Ekaith's life and George Brent is seen as the worldly Tom Rannova, a ghost out of the lady's romance-strewn past.

Brenda Joyce was discovered by Sharmaker Zanuck as the climax of a nation-wide search, heads a brilliant supporting cast as the role of Fern Simon, the fresh, young beauty whose love sets the world-weary Rannoma a new lesson on life.

Others who bring Bromfield's colorful characters to life are Nigel Bruce as Lord Esketh; Mary Astor as Mrs. Simmons-Outpenkaya as the Maharani; Joseph Schildkraut as Mr. Bannerjee; Mary Nash as Miss MacDaid; Jane Darwell as Aunt Phoebe; Henry Hardyce Rambeau as Mrs. Simon; Henry Travers as Rev. Homer Smiley and H. B. Warner as the Maharajah.

Of interest to those in search of the most ambitious production to the time of Distinguished Service" when Philip Dunne and Julien Josephson prepared the screen play, Edmund H. North served as associate producer.

"The Rains Came" which has been hailed by preview critics as one of the truly great pictures of the year, was put to hearty approval of author Bromfield.

The magnificent flood, fire and plague which highlight the novel have been brought to life on the screen has ever shown.

The latest world news events, and a funny Terrytoon color cartoon "Gulliver's Travels" will be presented on the same program. On Saturday matinee the closing chapter of "Flash Gordon's Trip to Mars" serial will be exhibited.

Two Features

"The Chaplin Family," those gay, friendly, famous folks who stir the wanderlust in us all, are now at the Belle Theatre with Jane Withers and Leo Carrillo in "Keeping Company" and Wendy Barrie, Spring Byington and Kane Richmond are also featured in this delightful story with Jane's supporting cast.

Elsa Maxwell's "Hotel for Women" is the absorbing story with Linda Darnell, Ann Sothern, Lucile Watson and Edna Best and a cast of favorites will be presented on the same program. Another interesting and uncensored timely picture "Battle Fleets of Peace" showing England's fighting navy in action.

Quintena Rebekahs Instal Officers

At the regular meeting on Tuesday evening of Quinte Rebekah Lodge, No. 132 the annual installation of officers took place.

Sister Mabel Stockdicer, District Deputy President of District No. 30 and a member of Oakdale Rebekah Lodge No. 134 of Madoc was the installing officer. She was assisted by Deputy Marshal Sister Parks and by a installing staff all from Oakdale Lodge. The work was very beautifully performed. Part of the ceremony was the presenting of a jewel to Sister Irene Aman, retiring Noble Grand, as recognition of the year's work. This was done by Sister Stockdicer.

A pleasing event of the evening was the presentation of a gift to Sister Stockdicer D.D.P. from Quinte Lodge. Sister Aman P.N.G. read the address and Sister Aman N.G. made the presentation. Sister Stockdicer in a few well chosen words thanked the members for the gift.

There were a number of short speeches from several members of both Madoc and Quinte lodges.

At the close of lodge the guests and members partook of the banquet hall where a supper was served.

The officers for the ensuing year are:

BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A DIFFICULT day, with much confusion and misunderstanding, is indicated by the aspects of ruling planets. This outward condition prevails in connection with balancing new and old ideas and objectives, in commercial and literary pursuits as well as in domestic affairs and personal relations. And there are angles of treachery and duplicity, as well as open hostility and friction. To secure harmony and profit, use restraint and skill.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which responsibilities of friction, futility and distrust must be met with moderation, prudence and self-restraint. There are threats of quarrels, misunderstandings and impetuosity in all business, social and intimate relations, which must be handled with tact and diplomacy.

A child born on this day may be quarrelsome, headstrong, passionate, impetuous and wilful. It should be given early discipline and training if its lively energies and quick resources are to bear fruit.

Women's Institute Convention Opens Annual Session in City

W. E. Milton, Kingston, Speaks on Work of Canadian Institute for the Blind

REPORTS RECEIVED

Over two hundred members of the Women's Institute of Belleville convention area assembled Thursday morning at 9.30, Thomas Park, for a two day session with Mrs. James Bailey, Eldorado, in the chair. Miss M. A. Powell, general assistant, Ontario Women's Institutes was in attendance at the convention and gave valued assistance at all discussions. Miss Powell is also provincial convener of girls' work.

Mrs. M. B. Weese, Redneersville, and Mrs. C. C. Holmes, Belleville, were in charge of registration. Mrs. D. Harrison, Latta, was in charge of the community singing with Mrs. Bailder, Smithfield, at the piano.

District Roll Call

The roll call of districts was recorded through brief talks on "Our District Objective" by Mrs. E. J. Gorsaline, Demorestville, Prince Edward; Mrs. W. A. Hoskins, Cobourg, West Northumberland; Mrs. Earl Clarke, Campbellford, East Northumberland; Mrs. F. M. Rutherford, Bonarlaw, North Hastings; Mrs. West, West Hastings; Mrs. Wm. White, Roslin, East Hastings.

Mrs. T. L. Nickle, Madoc, reviewed her visits to district annual meetings in her work as Provincial Board Director.

Canadianization

Keen study had been made of many national topics in the branches, Mrs. H. S. May, Trenton, pointed out in her report on Canadianization. Native birth, she said can make you a Canadian subject, but only the right mental attitude can make you a good Canadian. Each person is either an asset or a liability to the nation. Institute membership is therefore to help strangers to be good citizens, then Canada can be great.

There are three thousand miles between us and the war drums," Mrs. R. Bush, Consecon, said in reporting on Legislation, "but the future of the British Empire is the future of Canada. Homes are all important, in the light of present conditions, but must not be educated, prudence and self-restraint. There are threats of quarrels, misunderstandings and impetuosity in all business, social and intimate relations, which must be handled with tact and diplomacy. Homes unless rightly controlled. Be slow with tongue and pen.

A child born on this day may be quarrelsome, headstrong, passionate, impetuous and wilful. It should be given early discipline and training if its lively energies and quick resources are to bear fruit.

Laurie Lewis who said that full recognition of the service to the state has been too long delayed, the only way they can be repaid but they have been protected and jailed for their efforts to serve the state. Now they are emerging and rather than being as female species, more deadlier than the male, they are proving more lively than the male. In their psychic powers. He commended the Institute for the work they are doing in behalf of the blind. Their program is most comprehensive, combining economic, cultural, social and philosophical aspects. Their deliberations in these matters he hoped would be most fruitful.

Mrs. Fred Denyes, Brighton, made a gracious address of welcome. Mrs. Lewis of the appreciation of the delegates for his interesting address and his kindness in coming.

Standard

Mrs. F. M. Rutherford, Bonarlaw, reported on Education as a Canadian Standard. Papers on educational value were delivered by branch meetings; 1,400 books which all members took part; contacts to encourage reading; the Institute and its members; travelling libraries. She suggested that each school section send a delegate to the O. E. A. Another suggestion was that ship money be distributed in the rural schools the same as is done in the city. She asked members to consider the bilingual study of French and English in Canada.

Peace Program

Peace, as an activity of the W. I. program, took on new significance at the present time, All branches had engaged in some such work during the years, reported Mrs. Mina Sinclair, Orono. Mrs. G. MacLaren, Melrose, pointed out that Institute members should not cease their efforts for peace and understanding.

Mrs. W. Hulin, Madoc, contributed a delightful reading.

Work for Blind

The address of the afternoon was delivered by W. E. Milton, Field Secretary of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Mr. Milton pictured in a clear and interesting manner the purpose and aims of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and the conditions of the Canadian soldiers who had lost their sight during the war. He also told of the service to the blind, and the present financial crisis. For carrying its work Canada has been divided into five divisions. The divisional offices for raising money which is spent within the boundaries of each district. There are 11,000 blind persons registered with the Institute in Canada, 3,400 from Ontario while in the city of Belleville and County are 200 blind members.

The Institute, a philanthropic institution, endeavors to employ the blind and is unique in that it is the only organization whose staff is composed by the people it was organized to help. It maintains a factory for men and women and creates fields of employment such as small sales stands for blind persons. Its members are also employed in many Canadian industries.

Home Service

The home teaching service of nine specially trained girls reaches the newly blind in their homes and by teaching them to master reading and writing, Braille, knitting, sewing and home crafts removed that sense of helplessness that is often the first reaction to the loss of sight. The library service of 20,000 volumes, and occasions in entertainment and travelling are helps brought to the blind through the Institute's efforts.

The second part of the work, Prevention of Blindness, was of great importance since four or five thousand of the eleven thousand blind need not have been blind had proper preventative methods been used. For this reason an intensive program was undertaken by the Institute which included the provision of classes, transportation to specialists and free medical care and hospitalization.

Mr. Milton paid appreciation for the wonderful co-operation extended by the Women's Institutes all across Canada. Many W. I. members were represented in the blind voluntary boards and helped with canvases and tag days. Such voluntary help was very valuable to the work. In conclusion the speaker urged the Institutes to continue the best of success in all its undertakings.

Home Economics

The report on Home Economics, given by Mrs. W. A. Hoskins, Cobourg, showed that members had endeavored to practice economy, revive home industries, and restore the home to its rightful place as the centre of social activities. To accomplish these aims, cooking schools, demonstrations and short courses had been utilized.

Institutes in a rural women are vitally interested in agriculture in the home country, said Mrs. C. Holmes, reporting on Agriculture and Canadianization. Mrs. Holmes read a greeting from the Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, which was appreciated by the delegates.

Mrs. Holmes observed her subject under three headings Intellectual, financial and social. Research was emphasized and the importance of lectures by Agricultural representatives, and agricultural library, movements for co-operation, was touched on by the speaker.

At the conclusion of her report Mrs. Holmes answered most acceptably the questions in the Question Box.

Schriner Amazed How Leafs Slap Each Other Around in Practice and Then Forget Tells Irvin Amerks Hardly Skate the First Few Days of Training

LANGELLE COMING

Ousts Billy Taylor for Centre Position Between Schriner and Marker

St. Catharines, Oct. 20—(CP)—A thing that amazes Sweeney Schriner, who has just come from New York Americans to Toronto Maple Leafs, is the way the Leafs slap each other around in practice, then forget about it.

The Toronto club continued preparations for the National Hockey League schedule yesterday with a hard ice workout that left several players bruised and limping. Yet all were laughing together in the dressing rooms after swinging sticks and throwing bodies at one another all afternoon.

This new tendency to hit and laugh left Schriner bewildered.

"Why we hardly started to skate for the first few days of practice when I was with the Americans," he said. "And when anyone bodychecked or grappled with another player in practice, they didn't speak to one another for days. These kids have got something."

There was no question about the antagonism on the ice. Jack Church, rookie defenceman from Syracuse, tangled with Captain Red Horner a couple of times and they went to the ice together. Pep Kelly and Bucko McDonald nearly came to blows after a McDonald bodycheck.

Horner Praised Church

After the workout Horner praised Church, as an up-an-coming player and Kelly and McDonald discussed their practice without as much as a sign of their ice encounter.

Through all the hard session, one player stood out. That was Pete Langelle, who finished out last season with the Leafs when called up from Syracuse.

Langelle played at centre between Schriner and Gus Marker and was so impressive that Manager Conny Smythe said he would be a fixture there, in place of young Billy Taylor. Langelle turned on aggressive speed-skating displays that far outshone Taylor's pretty passing of the previous two days.

That development seemed to cloud the future of Taylor, counted on to work between Marker and Schriner in his first year as a professional. Dick Irvin also has Pedro Valdes, Mexico, clash with Bobby Noble, 170-pound Italian adonis.

TORONTO-OTTAWA FOOTBALL GAME SPORT HIGHLIGHT

Freely Predicted This is Ottawa's Year but Argos Not Beaten Yet

QUEENS MEET VARSITY

Western Entertains McGill at London and Should Beat Redmen

By ROBERT CLARKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Oshawa, Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts, two of the four undefeated, untied teams in the east, come to grips tomorrow—and about the safest prediction is that it should be a "humdinger."

On the eastern sports pages and in other quarters, it has been claimed freely that this is the Rough Rider year. The Riders have substantiated these claims by rolling up an impressive 67 points, against 17, in their first two games against Hamilton Tigers and Montreal Royals.

The Argonauts, on the other hand, have tallied only 32 points against the same opposition, while having three points scored against them. But many of the wise men like to string along with the champion, and the Scullers have won the Canadian Crown for the past two years.

Rise to the Occasion

Although they admittedly look a little frayed and tattered, and are showing the loss of burly Bob Isbister, thigh-star kicker who went to the Hamilton ranks this season, the Scullers have risen to the occasion in the past: They have always been the sort of team that played best when the chips were down, as they certainly will be against the Riders on Saturday.

While the Riders and Argonauts are battling it out for the lead in the Big Four, other senior teams in the section go into action, as follows:

Big Four—Hamilton Tigers at Montreal Royals; Ontario Union — Sarnia Imperials at Montreal Westmounts and Toronto Balmy Beach at Peterborough C.I.'ans; Intercollegiate Union—McGill Redmen at University of Western Ontario and University of Toronto at Queen's.

Western Mustangs and the Westmounts, like Argos and Riders, are in the unbeaten, untied class. Imperials, perennial O.R.F.U. champions are undefeated but the tusps were held to a draw in their first game of the season against the Beaches.

Home Grounds Favor Argos

One thing in the Argonaut favor is the fact that they are playing the crushing Riders at home. It's a cinch, too, football-minded Toronto will turn out in great numbers to see the contest.

In rolling up better than a point for every two minutes of play, the Riders have displayed a versatile ground and air attack. No better proof of this is needed than the fact Argos were unable to pierce the Royals defence for a touchdown; but Riders went out a week later and scored six against the Montrealers.

The best weapon in their attack so far has been the forward passing of Orville Burke, who has been playing a great game of "pitch and catch" with such expert receivers as Will Trembley, Stan O'Neil, Andy Tunney and Tommy Daley. The big test for Burke's passing, however, will come against the Argos as the Scullers are considered to have a better defence against it than either Royals or Tigers.

SIMMONS STRONG CANDIDATE FOR HALL OF FAME

Al Released by Cincinnati Reds but Real Ball Player in His Earlier Years

A GREAT HITTER

Led American League in Hitting Twice and in 3 World Series Hit .333

(By Gayle Talbot, Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, Oct. 20—(AP) — Release of Al Simmons by Cincinnati Reds provided another strong candidate for baseball's Hall of fame, for the Milwaukee Pole was a mighty man with the stick with Connie Mack's last great club at Philadelphia.

Unfortunately for his chances of entering the Cooperstown portals soon, Al has been going on the big leagues a few years longer than he needed to, either for financial reasons or otherwise, and he was no galloping gazelle toward the last. But when the boys have forgotten that and start spading up Simmons' record over the fat years, they will find it increasingly difficult to leave him out of the up-state temple.

The lowest that Al hit in his eight big seasons with the Athletics was .308, and that was in his first year, 1924. Thereafter he compiled successive averages of .336, .345, .392, .351, .365, .381, .390 and .322. In 1934, when well past his prime, he still was able to bat .344 for Chicago White Sox.

Twice the big outfielder led the American League in hitting; twice he led the pack in total hits and total bases, and once drove across more runs than any rival. In three world series he compiled an average of .333, his 23 hits in the play-offs going for 46 bases.

The country's leading manufacturer of bats recently said that Simmons in his prime exerted a lasting influence on the design of bats. At the time Al began to powder the ball the almost universal favorite was a rather short, "fat" weapon.

Simmons came up with a long, thin model. Then there was a concerted rush to the slender sticks. They still are the most popular.

Al's signature on the "Simmons model" brought him some fancy extra money and undoubted to his present carefree financial status.

Jim Courtright Not to Compete In Track Meet

Toronto, Oct. 20—(CP)—Jimmy Courtright, one of Canada's greatest field athletes, won't be competing in the senior intercollegiate track and field championships at Varsity stadium today, and that might spur his Queen's University team-mates on to greater effort.

Courtright is in a Port Arthur hospital with a crushed leg, suffered in a mine accident several weeks ago and his place in the javelin throw and other field events will be taken by other Queen's competitors. But his letters of encouragement to the track and field team have given its members a great will to win "for Jimmy" that may bring Queen's its first inter-collegiate track title.

University of Toronto won the crown for the second successive year last fall in Montreal in a close finish with McGill. Again this year the Toronto and Montreal teams are considered stronger than the other two competing colleges, University of Western Ontario and Queen's.

McGill has a team of 19 and Toronto and Queen's have a few more. Western's three-man team includes Johnny Loaring, hurdler and quarter-miler; Stewart Busby, a sprinter and Ross Parker, pole vaulter.

Queen's will be led by Bill Pritz, Olympic games and British Empire games' runner who is entered in the 440-yards, the 880-yard and the relay races.

Harold and Wallace Brown, twins from Meaford, Ont. are considered certain point winners for the Toronto Blues.

REDHEADS ARE LUCKY

By Vera Brown

Mrs. Barnes had dropped in, but she couldn't stay.

"There's a party at the Inferno tonight for the boys. Aren't you going?" Carol said they probably could.

Finally there was a great hubbub down the hall. Barnes was home at last. You could hear the crowd when it got off the elevator. The front door, open, and in came Barnes. Man of the flour with six young women clinging to his arms and all his coat.

"Ladies!" Handsome stopped dramatically. "I don't know who they are, they found me in the lobby. Anyway, meet the gang, fellers!" Mike rushed into his arms and he kissed her.

"Very pretty," Carol remarked to Mrs. Marvin. "But why pay out all till they begin making passes at him!"

The uninvited guests were asked to have drinks. They did. They then proceeded to monopolize Handsome, and so did some of the invited ones for that matter. Wish and Mrs. Marvin talked with Mike. When Ray Travis came in, Mike breathed a sigh of relief. That might break up things. Handsome had had a couple of drinks by now. She took that up with Travis.

"He deserves them," Travis remarked as he watched Mike's troubled face. "You can't keep him always on the water wagon. He should have a little fling tonight-time it comes more than he appeared to be having it. She tried not to mind. But she did, terribly. Mike was a fine fellow, Handsome. "See what I mean? Now take my advice and run along. And if you don't start right, you're sunk."

But there seemed no place to start right. Carol could not get near Handsome. There were too many people there, and dancing about him. When Dusty Lee came a little while later, that made matters worse for he'd started celebrating when he left the stadium and had made almost every cocktail bar in his saw on the way down.

Carol gave him up. "Just don't fight. That's all I ask."

Dusty drew a long face: "Queer how that hunk of World Series money makes the girls reasonable!" Everybody laughed.

It must have been 10 o'clock. Mike was starting: "Handsome, don't we ever eat?" she demanded between the bare shoulder of a brunette in marquisette, and a halo of blonde hair of a girl in crimson.

"Eat, when we can drink?" He smiled down at her affectionately. "Just have patience. We're going out for supper."

"Can we all go?" chorused the girls.

"Of course. This is a party."

Wish stuck because Mike begged him to, but he was getting pretty weary. He watched Mike with interest. "So the redhead can't take it!" he grinned unkindly.

"I'm trying." Mike's eyes were blazing, and she found it hard to control them.

"It will never do." Wish warned her. "You've got to be nice, honey. Jealousy is a bad trait, my dear." Mike's face flamed.

"I know. You just want to talk to Handsome yourself. Well, he's a celebrity now, you know."

CHAPTER XXIV

Carol, Mike and Wish sneaked out to the butler's pantry and made themselves some sandwiches. They laughed a good deal as Wish and Mike forgot how hurt and miserable she was. Carol was perched on a bench, eating olives and gesturing as she gave advice.

"I keep telling her, Wish, she's a fool to spoil Handsome. She won't be able to manage him. I couldn't do it. Handsome's swell if I didn't put my foot down." Carol gave a fine imitation of putting the foot down, except that her little Wish's toe. The din from the other room was terrific.

More people had come, so they had to leave their little retreat and join the rest in the noisy drawing room. Just then a pretty blonde exclaimed: "Why, we take her along, too!"

"Certainly!" Handsome retorted. He thought it was funny. Then looking straight at Mike, the pretty blonde continued: "But Handsome, if we told her we didn't want her to come along, she'd come just the same!" The blonde used baby talk very effectively, and everybody howled. Mike forced a laugh, too.

"The party continued. Mike was seething inside.

"I'm going home, Wish," she said at last.

"I wouldn't. I think it would be a mistake, Mike."

"I'm tired. I have to get to work early in the morning. I live in Brooklyn and I can't stay out all night!" Mike's temper was up.

"Take it easy. We don't win a world's championship every day."

But the whole thing got too much for Mike. Finally she went over and touched her way through the admiring women again and announced she had to leave.

Handsome came over to her when she came out of the bedroom with her coat and hat on. "If you're silly thing, you'll be sorry."

Mike looked at he tried to keep down his anger.

"Handsome, I'm tired, and bored. I'm going home. Please, let's not quarrel." She did not explain that she felt dowdy, the only woman in the room not wearing a gown.

"I'm not quarreling. I said not to go!" Handsome's temper showed through.

Wish tried to intervene. "You girls—"

"I haven't had time to congratulate you yet, Handsome. But it looked swell!"

"Thanks." He stood looking at her, begging her silently not to go.

"I can't go, Mike. You're making it hard for me, please stay."

"Good night!" And Mike was out the door with Wish following.

Mike was weeping hysterically when she got into Wish's car, she let her cry for a long time, until they reached the Brooklyn Bridge. Then he tried to soothe her.....

Wish let her out at her door and she slipped her out at the hallway. When he'd gone she wa'ked around the block many times until all the tears were dimmed in their apartment, except the one in Jimmie's room. Then she went into the room.

It wasn't until the next day that Mike first heard of the girl and Handsome.

x x x

Mike did not see Handsome the next day. Had she known it was to be three days before she would see him, she could not have endured it. She did her work, smiled and chatted, talked endlessly about Handsome's World Series triumph. And she lived from minute to minute, just waiting to hear his voice.

But Handsome, when he wrote a little note, and left it in his box at the desk. When he had not come by Thursday she attempted telephoning him. But she could not bring herself to thought of Travis being there to hear. As the newspapers came out, she went through all of them to see just what each said about yesterday's victory. In the sheet she found a photograph of Handsome ..nd a girl called Barnes. In one of the tabloids. It was taken at the Inferno. It showed crowds around his table, asking for autographs, and the girl called Iris, sitting beside him.

Mike was more miserable this morning. Speaking to herself, she thought in this wise: "I must expect that. He's a famous person. He'll be photographed with many people. I must keep my head."....

Six o'clock. Mike slowly checked up stock. It was not called, nor stopped to see her. Desperately her chair. She looked faded and, she wondered if he had received her note. She could not walk around that lobby to see whether it was still in his box. The bellboys would know, and the clerks. She couldn't!

Mike waited until seven. Then she started for home. But she could not go there. She walked over to Fifth Avenue and got on top of a bus. She rode for a long time, way up town and then back again to 42nd Street. At home they'd think she was with Handsome and they wouldn't question her. It was well after 11 when she got home. Tonight her mother was waiting.

"I wanted to talk to you, dear," Mrs. Shannon had been dozing in Mike made some kind of answer but Mrs. Shannon sensed that her son was thinking of the girl in the photograph in the paper, Mike. That's how it's right?

Mike laughed. "Mother, dear, he's famous. We must expect that. He'll have a lot of pictures in the newspaper, with a lot of people. We must get used to the idea. Don't you worry!" She dropped a kiss on her mother's head. "Go to bed now, Jimmie's awake but I'll read him to sleep."

ROAD SHELLED TO BREAK UP TROOP CONCENTRATIONS

Area Between Perl to Sehndorf Near Luxembourg Bears Brunt of French Fire

PATROLS ACTIVE

By JOHN MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Paris, Oct. 20 (AP)—French artillery has shelled the German road from Perl to Schndorf, just across the Luxembourg border, in an effort to break up troop concentrations at the point where the Germans spilled over into French soil earlier in the week.

The latest military information said troop activity was the greatest of heavy rains and German reorganization of the lines which they seized when the French went on strategic withdrawal to the edge of the defensive and soldiers' home territory in front of the Seigfried line.

The general staff reported last night had been quiet as rain continued on the western front and only patrol were active.

In announcing a "prearranged" withdrawal along a 22 mile northern section of the front for distances up to six miles, the French high command said its losses were light and that the line still was "solid in advance" of the permanent magnot fortifications.

One attack of 50 men, outflanked in a German manoeuvre that brought them behind the line, either killed or captured, military sources reported.

They said that the patrol, operating in a muddy advance area, became cut off from its own lines, but the enemy finally broke thru and escaped, or was killed.

A communique said the lost French patrol "defended itself bravely."

On the diplomatic side, the French press hailed the new Anglo-French pact with Turkey.

General Maxime Weygand, commander-in-chief of French forces in the eastern Mediterranean, and Lieutenant-General Edmund Ironside Wavell, British middle east commander, now are conferring with Turkish officials in Ankara in implementing the pact.

Leon Blum, former premier and Socialist leader, who declined to participate in the cabinet of Premier Edouard Daladier, again called for the return of the parliament as a symbol of democratic worship, which he said had been suppressed by articles on the subject of recalling parliament.

Other French leaders who have opposed any recall have pointed out that at least 200 deputies are mobilized and that a few hundred members are either under arrest or in hiding.

Blum, in an article in Le Populaire, said he had been warned not to avoid topics likely to cause a domestic political fight but that he refused to "obey."

REGINA EDITOR DIES SUDDENLY

Victim of Heart Attack Resting on His Way Home, at Sudbury

Sudbury, Ont., Oct. 20—(CP)—D.B. MacRae, editor of The Regina Leader-Post, died suddenly today.

Mr. MacRae left Manville Tuesday by motor with Mrs. MacRae for Regina and reached Sudbury that day to visit his daughter, Mrs. W. MacDougal. While he had intended making only a brief stop, the motor trip had tired him and he stayed overnight.

He died early this morning, while in the east Mr. MacRae had accompanied Premier Hepburn and started the westward trip confident he would be able to resume his editorial duties on the Leader-Post.

AIR RAID SIRENS

Anti-Aircraft Guns Fire

The phrase "precautionary measures" clearly referred to the defending British aircraft which went aloft.

The warnings were fairly general over a broad area of south-eastern Scotland. Four rapid bursts of anti-aircraft fire were heard in Edinburgh before the air raid sirens were sounded.

A third warning was given in one section, it was understood, to remedy the fact that in this particular part of the countryside a mechanical fault had led to premature sounding of an "all-clear" signal.

Edinburgh people took the alarm calmly. Defending aircraft hovered over the huge Firth of Forth bridge.

Some of the residents who had life impression that the German planes were flying at that time, because of the tactics of the defenders, lingered in the streets to see if it would be safe to say such exchange as occurred Monday when four enemy craft were shot down in various engagements.

An all-night warning also was given in the south of England this afternoon but within eight minutes an all-clear was sounded.

The press association said it was believed the people of England warning was given in error.

Only three planes were sighted and few were heard over a small area. No aircraft were seen, the press association said.

Official Statement

The following communique on the raids was issued by the Air Ministry and the Ministry of Home Security:

"A number of aircraft believed to have been German attempted to make reconnaissance in the North Sea and in the Firth of Forth during the morning and early afternoon.

"Three R.A.F. fighters took off to intercept them, but they disappeared before action.

"An air raid warning was sounded over Edinburgh shortly after 1 p.m. and about 1:30 p.m. the all-clear signal were given about midday. A second warning at this time was given in Edinburgh some minutes before the first warning was given in Scotland of the approach of other unidentified aircraft in the Firth of Forth area.

"R.A.F. fighters took off and the all-clear signal was given shortly after 1:30 p.m."

FORMER PREMIER

Newspapers generally voiced satisfaction with the outcome of the Stockholm meeting which expressed only qualified mistrust of countries and their desire to remain neutral.

Finland Pleased

The Hufvudstadsbladet said the conference had drawn the northern countries "together in a common desire for peace and security."

In the only statement on the nature of Russo-Finnish negotiations, President Kyosti said that he had received "guarantees of a very serious nature" for settlement.

"I am not a pessimist on eastern section" of Finland, meanwhile, left no doubt in this country's mind that the Finns are ready, if necessary to fight, to defend their independence.

The people of northern Finland are filled with sturdy soldiers. The Russian troops on the front are pronounced were the military preparations.

Czars Carry Crosses.

At one city, 24 railroad cars marking on a siding for days. Elsewhere, a new air base is under construction, a forest roofs of houses apparently intended for hospitals or medical supply depots.

On narrow roads winding among the forests, long columns of bright-horseback and in two-wheeled carts. Here and there, under the pine boughs, farm and school houses and many on straw beds in tents.

A war correspondent pointed out a group of these tents—each housing about fifteen men—in a forest. Although it was only a few yards from the road the men in the tents could not be passed without noticing.

Throughout these sections, which would be the first battlefields of war, the army has taken over.

HITLER

Johnson said he thought the United States had little to fear no matter who won the European war. The physical exhaustion of Europe, he argued, will not be overcome without manpower or material to launch aggressive campaigns.

Stakes Involved.

Johnson said that to repeat the same mistakes of Versailles and France was to gamble with the possibility that the United States would be involved in the European war.

"The stakes are great, but in the gamble that I decline to be a part of it," he declared.

Then he asked:

"Ah, you members who glibly talk about another Versailles, have you realize what another war will do?

"I am so old now that I have but one thought—that is to serve the United States while I can."

"I speak to you solemnly. I speak with all the emphasis I can command, because I believe that we are on the brink of a precipice and that if we don't the commands that are issued to us—if we obey the commands of dictators—the existence of friendly relations" between the two countries.

IF IT'S ABOUT YOUR EYES . . . SEE McFEE

Sheep Island Man is Given Suspended Sentence

Cornwall, Ont., Oct. 20—(CP)—For stealing a sheep from the property of Magistrate P. C. Bélgeron sold Catholic priest began visiting the fishermen and farmers while they were at their work, instilling in their minds, a new word, "Co-operation." Accustomed to working alone, it was hard work getting those discouraged people to see the advantages of working together, but eventually it was accomplished and meetings were called. Leaders for these individual meetings were elected, study groups, for the furtherance of adult education were formed, and at last there shone a ray of hope. As the movement gained momentum, sufficient courage was forthcoming to petition the Government for a new road through their village, and the request was granted. The next project started was a Co-operative store to spread gospel of co-operation. Co-operative stores sprang up as did milk pasteurization. Co-operative stores did a tangible proof of the remarkable growth of the Co-operative movement in the Maritime provinces, Mr. Maclean said that there are 1,000 stores and Co-operatives operating, while in 1938 this total had mounted to over 200 and there are 30 new branches throughout the Maritimes and Newfoundland.

Room for Improvement

"As far as exploitation goes, we in Ontario, today are much more fortunate than were those poor fishermen-folk in Nova Scotia", stated Mr. Maclean as he turned back to the subject of the Co-operative movement could be adapted to this province. There is room for much for great improvement. Possibly the greatest improvement would be in co-operative credits, which the Co-operative has to offer to rural Ontario, is the old - fashioned community life, which seems to be fast being lost to society. "In my father's time", said Mr. Maclean, the term "community" meant everyone living within a radius of three or four miles of a central point, but today that term is rather meaningless. Years ago when the farmer's trading was done practically all in a store only three miles away, he could find the necessary to drive fifteen or twenty-five miles to do one day's trade, as a result we have lost contact with our neighbours and with the most objective of the Co-operative is to get people together, to know each other and to discuss their different viewpoints. It was with this object in view that these study" groups were organized and under this system of adult education it is possible to obtain the latest and best information on any subject desired.

As an illustration of the savings that have been made possible through Co-operatively Mr. Maclean said that the cost of commercial fertilizer has been reduced over fifty dollars per ton through the use of the Co-operative distributing stations.

After a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Maclean in recognition of his very instructive address, the meeting was brought to a close with singing the National Anthem.

'Building Rural Community' Subject of Talk at Foxboro

Donald McLean of Home Training Institute Gives Lecture

Foxboro, Oct. 20—(Special)—Citing, as a glowing example, the almost unbelievable upward trend in the standard of living which is being enjoyed by the Eastern counties of Nova Scotia since the introduction of Co-operative organization into that part of Canada, Mr. Donald Maclean, well known lecturer of the Canadian Home Training Institute, visited Foxboro on Tuesday evening and delivered an interested audience with an enlightening talk on "Building the Rural Community" which has been/put over with such outstanding success in many parts of the country.

The meeting, held in the United Church Sunday School room, was opened with Rev. Cook of the United Church leading in community singing which put the crowd in fine fettle for the varied program of educational and entertaining features that was shown by Mr. Maclean as a prelude to his lecture, introducing the speaker to the audience, Mr. Cook stated, that he himself had been greatly interested in the work, which had brought Mr. Maclean to Foxboro, and the young man just entering the ministry, he said that he had made the acquaintance of one of the original leaders of the Co-operative movement in Prince Edward County. He told of how this man had built up the organization by quiet example of how it had flourished for a time, and then, of the disastrous effect that had ensued as the members began falling away one by one until, in the end, the organization had almost ceased to exist. Nothing daunted, however, the original leader had used his own money to buy produce which he sold at fair prices and gradually confidence in the organization was regained. Today, the same original leader is still the head of the Peterboro Co-operative, now one of the most successful branches of the parent body in Ontario.

Tests of Advantages

Using as his theme for the evening, the fact that "God helps those who help one another", Mr. Maclean launched right into the business of explaining what the Co-operative had done for rural dwellers in the provinces of Nova Scotia, the Maritimes and Ontario to show more understandable the various branches of work which are handled by the Co-operative, Mr. Maclean told of the discouraging conditions existent among the fishermen and farmers of Eastern Nova Scotia during the last and prior to the inauguration, by Roman Catholic interests, of the Co-operative movement. He explained that a great many of these people were, at that time, illiterate, unable to read or write, that the fishermen were at the mercy of the fish merchants to a degree almost unbelievable, often offering as their average catch for the entire day's catch of fish. Poverty was at its worst in some sections and unfortunate people, that their main diet consisted of potatoes and fish, the only thing procurable without cash.

Milk for children was entirely out of the question with the majority of the children suffering from malnutrition, presenting always a thin and sickly appearance. Even those living near the sea, but little better off as the unprofitable conditions of the soil made it impossible to grow much more than would keep them alive. Many of these folks were forced to seek work on the roads in order that they might earn enough to buy the bare necessities of life, thereby turning the heaviest of the farm work over

Moscow Press Barely Mentions Turkish Pact

Moscow, Oct. 20 (AP)—The newly-concluded British-French-Turkish treaty was barely mentioned today in the Soviet press, which limited comment to a warning against any attempt "to make a breach between Russia and Turkey" or exclude her from settlement of important European problems.

In an article on the 20th anniversary of fighting against Wrangel, White (Anti-Bolshevist) Russians, the Communist party newspaper Pravda said Russia and Baltic States on the other had greatly strengthened Russia's position in world affairs.

"Now it is impossible to decide international questions of the Baltic without the participation of the Soviet Union," the paper said. "All attempts to try to go around the Soviet Union in solving these international questions or to make a bloc against the U.S.S.R. will fail."

Pravda's report on the new treaties Turkey's pact with Britain and France, reported the courtesy exchange of telegrams between Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff and the Turkish Foreign Minister, Sukru Saracoglu, confirming the existence of friendly relations" between the two countries.

Training Schools for Officers To Be Established in Canada

Ottawa, Oct. 20—(CP)—Training missioned in the non-permanent militia and attached to the Active Service Force for training.

When the officer commanding the Active Service Force considers such an officer ready he will be examined by a board appointed by the officer commanding and if he passes the examination he may be granted a commission in the Active Service Force units.

Officers commanding units may also appoint to the ranks any man of officer calibre and detail him for a training course. This means that a man enlists in the ranks will not prevent him from obtaining a commission.

REFUSES TO HALT ON GUARD'S ORDER

It is unlikely there will be any more $20,000 salaries for the courageous right-hander with a dead right arm off for the Cards and turn with his heart and head for the Cubs.

Dizzy has confided to intimate friends that the arm is gone and he holds no hope of getting it back again, according to a radio broadcast in Chicago.

This despite the fact that Dean once again is finishing a season with a winning average.

His arm has been bad for three years, and yet he keeps on winning more than his share. Last year he was beaten but once in the regular season. His won seven.

Over the years Dean has won two games to every one he lost.

Jerome Herman Dean will be 29 years old January 16. He was born in 1911 at Lucas, Ark. He isn't old as baseball pitchers run. Charley Root is team-mate, who is getting along fairly well, is 40. Ted Lyons of the White Sox will be 40 next year.

But neither Root nor Lyons ever went through what Dean went through at St. Louis. For several years Ol' Diz' was in the clinch trying to turn and out of turn. He didn't mind. He pitched when they told him to, and that was too often.

Probably no pitcher in the game's history ever had as much publicity as Dizzy. He's colorful, sensational and good. His own combination naturally brought the reporters to his heels. But, for the most part, he seems to have been held after publicity. Aside from the last three years his salary was not in proportion to his performances.

FOREST CREAMERY ROBBED OF $300

Neighbor Sees Gang Working at Safe and Gives Alarm but Robbers Escape

Forest, Ont., Oct. 20 (CP)—A woman gang forced entry to the Forest Creamery early today, blew open the office safe and escaped with nearly $300.

Kermit Burley, who lives across the road from the creamery, was awakened by the noise from the explosion and looked out in his yard.

Changing to look out of his bedroom window he saw the safe burning on the safe. He dressed and hurried to the home of Harold Hagarth, manager of the creamery.

The two aroused Police Chief Geo. Kerr and set out back to the creamery the robbers' car, which had been parked on a side street, stopped past them on the intersection of Prince and Victoria Street No. 21, heading east toward London.

The men did not chase the car. Instead they went to the creamery to found the front of the safe had been blown off, leaving one of the wheels down of the office. So great was the force of the explosion, police said, that the safe door was embedded in the walls.

Entry was made by jimmying the wash room window at the rear of the building. The robbers broke the safe door the smaller door to the cash box was smashed with an iron bar.

The robbers also took with them a large sum of money belonging to the creamery stamp. These were found scattered on the street near the bank the town line, seven miles east of here.

Police theft is believed to have been the work of professional safe crackers, the first in the district since the 1929 era. The creamery was entered in 1929 and $1,000 stolen when a quantity of butter was taken.

Robert Whitney of the provincial police detachment at A. Ilot and the Sarnia police are investigating.

SWEEPS CHANGED INTO A LOTTERY

1939 Cesarewitch Will Not be Run Due to the War

Dublin, Oct. 20 (CP)—The Irish Hospital Sweepstakes, converted by the war into a weekly lottery instead of the usual horse-race draw, started its fourth year today with £80,000 ($2,740,000) in prizes on the 1939 Cesarewitch.

The Cesarewitch, scheduled at Newmarket, England, Oct. 25, was cancelled because of the war. A substitute race, to be run Nov. 2 over a different course at Dublin will have no connection with the sweepstakes.

Today, as in the past, the prize money was divided into two parts of £100,000 ($3,425,000) each going to ticket holders who drew horses, and £60,000 for residual awards.

Since the race will not be run again, $60,000 will be divided equally among the persons drawing horses which finished last.

This gave each ticket holder £941 ($4,500 U.S.).

The odd £15,000 of prize money was split into 600 residual awards of £10,000 shares were cut into prizes of 100 each, and a prize of £5,000 to the lone ticket holder drawing a horse.

Price money in the past has run to twice as much as it did today, but in the sweepstakes, which drew a horse was assured of some money. Only horses starting in the £50,000, depended on how the horses finished in the race.

The University crew and winners were not given out on account of the Dominion lottery law.

Copenhagen, Oct. 20 (CP-Havas)—Berlin correspondents of the National Zeitung and Borsen Zeitung yesterday reported today that Adolf Hitler soon will offer a separate peace to France and Britain, and his offer by suspending hostilities on the Western Front.
